Fire Loss $300,000

Arson Seen as Cause Of Front St. Blaze

Five Stores Gutted Sunday

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville firemen this morning returned to the scene of an estimated $300,000 fire which destroyed five downtown businesses, lawyers' offices and apartments at the corner of Front and Victoria Sunday morning.

Fire officials suspect arson was the cause of the blaze which gutted the historic building housing King Sol Stores, the law offices of Louis Maraskas and Bernard Hurley, and the adjacent building occupied by Stephen Licence, Frank's Cigar Store, Andre Mercier's Watch Repairs and Dean-Brown's Ornamental Iron Works.

Slight water damage to basement stock was discovered in Interiors Ladies Wear of the Red Shark.

Paul McKerracher, of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office here, told newsmen at 10:30 this morning: "It is my opinion that this was an intentional fire."

Reported shortly before 1 a.m., daylight saving time, the origin of the fire has been narrowed down to a breezeway at the rear of Stephen Licence Ltd. Inspector McKerracher told reporters the fire began in a pile of cardboard boxes, discarded bicycle tires and other rubbish.

He pointed to pink - tinted portions of the wall near what was identified as the source of the fire. From this area, he said, flames had crept and hold under the eaves of the bicycle shop and quickly spread to the interior of the building.

The entire roof and top floor of the King Sol store was gaved in during the fire and portions of the walls fell to the sidewalk, as firemen battled for more than eight hours to bring the flames under control.

The last truck left the scene at 8.22 a.m. yesterday — more than 15 hours after the alarm was given.

Three firefighters were injured by falling debris, short- ly after the roof cave-in. Most seriously hurt was firefighter Hugh Beaumont, who received rib cage bruises and back strain when a large chunk of TRENTON — A post - mortem is being conducted at Trenton Memorial Hospital today on the charred remains of a man found in the living room of a burned-out north end variety store here this morning.

Fire broke out at Bradshaw's Variety Store, 659 Front St., shortly after 5 a.m. When firemen arrived, the premises were engulfed in flames which took three-quarters of an hour to bring under control.

A fire department spokesman said that in fighting their way into the building, they discovered a body lying on the living room floor. It was subsequently transferred to the hospital for identification.

News Briefs

Film Actress Dead

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Film actress Gia Scala was found dead in the bedroom of her Hollywood home Sunday, police reported today. Detectives said the 38-year-old brunette may have died from an accidental overdose of drugs.

Key City of Quang Tri Falls To North Vietnamese Soldiers

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops made their biggest gains of their offensive today, forcing government forces to abandon Quang Tri in the northern sector and taking full control of the population and important rice crops along South Vietnam's central coast.

Advancing North Vietnamese units also cut Highway One at crucial points north of Da Nang, site of the big U.S. air base. Communist pressure mounted on Kontum in the central highlands.

All U.S. advisers were evacuated from Quang Tri, capital of the province of the same name just below the demilitarized zone, just before the South Vietnamese abandoned it.

At last report there were 80 U.S. advisers in Quang Tri but some were said to have left earlier.

A mauled battalion of South Vietnamese rangers moving south from Quang Tri broke and fled after a day-long battle with troops of two North Vietnamese regiments near Highway One.

But U.S. advisers said South Vietnamese marines moving north to link up with the rangers attacked a nearby regimental post and killed 100 Communist soldiers with help from U.S. bombing strikes. The marines were forced to pull back, however, when the rangers turned off the pressure from the south.

The collapse of Quang Tri's defences after five days of renewed attacks on the city gave the Communist command its biggest victory to date in the month-old offensive, the first provincial capital to fall.

Lt.-Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander in the 1st military region, has said any city captured by the North Vietnamese in the area would be destroyed by his own forces rather than let them keep it.

Almost all of Quang Tri's 25,000 residents had fled the fighting days ago, when renewed shellings and ground probes began against the city, 19 miles below the demilitarized zone.

Highway One south of Quang Tri remained closed to traffic, and enemy sappers operating 30 miles below the demilitarized zone cut the roadway about 19 miles north of Da Nang at the 3,500-foot Hai Van Pass, which connects the big port city with Hue and Quang Tri.

The road was destroyed in two places in the pass by the sappers who blew up culverts. But several hours later, light traffic started moving again after one culvert was replaced by a pontoon bridge and the second repaired with planks.

Hanoi Running 'Great Risk' Nixon Tells Texan Meeting

FLORESVILLE, Tex. (AP) — President Nixon said Sunday night no U.S. ground forces will be recommitted to the stepped-up war in South Vietnam but warned Hanoi it runs "a very great risk" with its current offensive.

Nixon, inviting questions from a crowd of Texans at the ranch of Treasury Secretary John Connally, said that American combat troops are not directly involved in the Vietnam fighting.

"And none will be," Nixon said.

The president said North Vietnam runs great risk if it continues what he has repeatedly termed a naked invasion of the South.

"I will just leave it there," he said cryptically, "and they can make their choice."

At the same time, he asserted that U.S. bombing missions in both halves of Vietnam will continue but will be limited to military targets.

140 Fires Break Out In Metro Garbage Dumps

TORONTO (CP) — More than 140 fires broke out in temporary garbage dumps in Metropolitan Toronto during the weekend as negotiations aimed at ending the strike of municipal outside workers continued to plod along.

The Toronto fire department said most of the fires were the result of "boys with matches" and "careless smoking."

One apartment building had two fires in garbage piled in the basement. Firemen rescued an elderly couple from the building Sunday after they became trapped by smoke on the third floor.

Protestant Crowds Stone, Loot and Burn in Belfast Rampage

BELFAST (CP) — Embattled police said today Northern Ireland's Protestant backlash may be starting after Protestant crowds went on a stoning, burning and looting rampage in Belfast.

Shops and pubs were set ablaze in a three-hour fight Sunday between rioters and police in eastern Belfast's Newtownards Road district, a Protestant stronghold. Bloody riots in eastern Belfast Saturday night injured 13 police and 13 civilians.

A spokesman at Belfast police headquarters said: "It's a case of the gamekeepers turned poachers. The Protestants crowds are attacking us. The Protestant backlash seems under way."

He said the violence no longer seemed solely the work of teenage gangs who wear tartan scarves as badges of Protestantism. The rioters' base appeared to be broadening from a purely hooligan element, he added.

"Things are certainly escalating," said the spokesman. "We expect more of this."

Up to now, the Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army has caused most of the violence in Northern Ireland's nearly three years of bloodshed and destruction.

The anger of the Protestant majority has been mounting since Britain a month ago suspended the Protestant-based provincial parliament and assumed direct rule in a move to placate rebellious Catholics.

Hardline Protestant leader William Craig, founder of the militant Vanguard movement which claims 100,000 supporters, issued a warning to the British government Sunday night.

His letter to Prime Minister Edward Heath said unless the IRA is completely destroyed "then the loyalist people of Ulster will have no other option but to take action which is considered appropriate in the present situation."

The letter followed a weekend report in a London newspaper that Northern Ireland Protestants were training an army of some 10,000 men.

130-year-old Building A Downtown Pioneer

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

It was a fitting end for a monument — the spectacular blaze on the corner of Victoria and Front this weekend.

For the Victoria Buildings were more than just another old Front Street store. It was a memorial to the entrepreneuring spirit that made Canada West into modern Ontario.

As the skyscrapers of America are its cathedrals, embroidering forever the Victorian work ethic, so the Victoria Buildings was early Belleville's.

It proclaimed its origin boldly. The keystone on the now-derelict facade still bears the initials, NGR, and the date, 1842.

It must have been the hottest topic of conversation in the village as it rose, carefully chiselled limestone block by limestone block, 130 years ago.

It was only five years since its owner, Nelson Gilbert Reynolds, had been imprisoned in Fort Henry at Kingston on the gravest charge loyal Belleville could envision — high treason.

MORE

Now here he was, rich in land and money, and supplying up a modern office block at the far end of Front Street, in a gamble that the village would grow that way and prosperity would follow capital.

Nelson Gilbert Reynolds was a businessman and a free-enterprizer. He scorned the Family Compact rulers of the losing side in the MacKenzie Rebellion. As a result, he was imprisoned, and his status in the Quinte district can be judged by the fact he was the last of the local contingent of Reformers to be released from Fort Henry. In common with the rest of his ilk, he was acquitted at his treason trial in 1838.

So while Imperial Governors of the Queen fretted in relative (and homely) security, Reynolds was building his monument to prosperity. Not only that: it was whispered, he had commissioned George Browne official architect for the United Canadas, to design his project.

Browne, Canada's first professional architect, was a brought to Kingston when that city was in fine for designation as Canada's capital. He introduced the severe, spartan style of the Victoria Buildings, now known as British Classicism, and went on to renown in Architectural history books.

Big all that is gossip, then as now.

One thing is certain — job superintendent at the site was George Brown's own master mason. His signature, a chamfered pyramid, is carved in a narrow square frame, is still visible in the confidences of The Victoria Building.

Reynolds drove out each day to supervise his creation from his "estate", between the dead-end of John St. and Dundas St. That's why John St. is a dead-end, instead of continuing out to Dundas like all other north-south streets in the area. Reynold's property stood in the way, and he effectively blocked a road through his land.

Reynolds, the acquitted traitor, mended his fences in best Quisse-country snake-fence tradition. At the first session of Hastings County Council in 1850 he was appointed treasurer.

But for some reason unknown, he threw it all up and moved west to Whitby. There, Reynolds became the first sheriff of Ontario County and started building again.

This time it was Trafalgar Castle of 1859 "the only Methodist castle in existence" according to architectural historian Marian Adamson.

But he was forever overextended.

When he could no longer afford the upkeep of his castle, Reynolds turned it over to a board of governors that founded Ontario Ladies' College.

But he made sure he was appointed chairman.

Unconsciously, in the early dark hours of Sunday morning, the Belleville firefighters pronounced the requiem for The Victoria Buildings and its originators.

The firewalls are containing it," they said. "A wavery window glowed orange. "They're here their toes, and knew, and if they weren't there this fire could go on to the Upper Gibbard."

"They're doing a good job."

Five Stores Downtown Gutted by Fire

old Hoestons struck him a glancing blow on the side. He was treated at Belleville General Hospital and released.

He had been on duty for only three weeks, returning after a lengthy illness. Fireman Boomhower was recovering from a foot injury suffered during a winter hockey practice.

Both Deputy Fire Chief Robert Emerson and Assistant Promoted Captain George Woodhouse were struck on the head by falling debris. However, their injuries were slight because of protection afforded them by their helmets.

"I could feel it from the top of my head to the tip of my toes, but it didn't stop me," Deputy Emerson said during a lull in his direction of the firefighting.

He took over from Chief Leo Culhane, who had to leave late in the morning, to attend an annual Ontario Firefighters Association meeting in Mississauga.

Asked how they were alerted to the fire, Mr. Bongard replied: "When the fire truck pulled up, I guess you might first hint. When the policeman came banging on our door . . . but was the second hint."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bongard married for only 2½ months, escaped with nothing but the clothes on their backs, Jane's purse, and the family cat, an eight-month-old Persian.

"There was a little bit of cash, but not much. The furniture was as old as our marriage, but it was insured. I suspect there's only smoke and water damage, though," he said.

Another possession lost, was Mr. Bongard's 450 Yamaha motorcycle, parked in the alleyway where the fire began.

Inspector McKerracher and city police Detective Lyle Davis ruled the large motorcycle as having any connection with the outbreak.

Their decision to consider the case one of arson, was arrived at after studying the nature of the source "and the circumstances surrounding the fire."

Deputy Emerson said Warren Bongard and a city police constable entered the Stephen Licence shop and proceeded to the rear, where they found the fire in the alley.

"It had begun to veit up (to the overhead eaves) above the store and along into the warehouse.

"That's what made us curious," he said.

Several officers speculated that fire in the rubbish may have been set as a prank, which went sour. This was based on a rash of minor cases of vandalism over the weekend.

"When the fire was first observed, it was well advanced," Inspector McKerracher added, "There is great turbulence in here. The whole area was shortly engulfed in fire."

However, additions to the building, and the presence of partitions, gave firemen little chance to get at flames. A similar situation existed in the L-shaped Stephen Licence building.

As the roofs caved in, flames became trapped in a maze of partitions. Firemen could only pour millions of gallons of water through windows and from aerial hoses. They couldn't get at the direct heart of the fire.

Firemen returned to the scene at 3:35 p.m. Sunday and again at 7:17 a.m. today.

Gerry Bongard, proprietor of Stephen Licence, said he and his staff had been receiving fresh stock for the spring bicycle and sporting goods trade. "This is our big time of the year," he said.

"We're covered by insurance, but I don't know how well. We use night deposits, so there's no cash lost," he said.

Viewed through several smoke-wisping doorways, fire inspectors and workmen could see large stocks of burned-out frames, while several hours earlier, had been new bicycles and bikes in for repairs.

Lawyer Bernard Hurley, also interviewed at the scene, said several of his filing cabinets were fireproof, as is his safe. However, he said, solicitors have stocks of irreplaceable documents which might have been lost.

They will be in a better position to determine their loss when investigators enter the cooled-down portions of the burned building. Their safes cannot be opened for at least 72 hours after the fire. If opened, the loss of moisture would result in combustion.

Deputy Emerson said the ruins could "smoke for days. It's impossible to get down in the caved-in area. I'm not going to send men into that."

On both occasions when firemen were recalled to the scene, they found small fires had erupted again in the rubble.

Building to Come Down

City fire officials at noon today announced the top two stories of buildings gutted by fire Sunday at the corner of Front and Victoria, will be demolished late this afternoon.

Sources disclosed the building was inspected by city police, fire inspectors and city officials and ruled the upper portions unsafe.

Although Mr. McKerracher said city engineer Wilbur Purcell would have to inspect the buildings to determine if the shells could be salvaged, he believes the buildings will have to be demolished.

The block now housing King Sol Stores was at one time the home of The Belleville Sun, a short - lived but politically powerful newspaper which printed daily, weekly and weekly rural farmers' editions for several years at the turn of the century. Belleville at that time was a three-newspaper town.

Approximately 50 firefighters, most of them waloned from off-duty sleep, responded to the general alarm.

All fire units were at the scene, including a semi-retired 1946 Seagrave pumper. One flatstruck, used by Belleville for only two years, couldn't be started after the fire. It is believed grit got mixed with gasoline added from five-gallon cans. The trouble was cleared up in short order.

As city policemen kept crowds of Sunday, onlookers away from the cooling rubble, workmen were hoarding up door entrances. At 5 p.m. Sunday, large clocks and equipment were being carried from Mercier's Watch Repairs and loaded into a waiting trailer.

Smoking Monument

Firefighters battled for hours to contain the blaze that all but levelled one of Belleville's oldest buildings. Built in 1862, the building's demise cost tenants $300,000 in property and merchandise loss. Intense heat softened the mortar, leaving the building in danger of crumbling. No official statement has been released on demolition possibilities.

Taking It Easy and Watching

No use crying over spilled milk, even when it caused an estimated $300,000 damage Sunday morning. While flames consumed five businesses, two legal offices and two apartments, the residents of one dwelling sat and passed the time.

Firemen, while fighting the blaze, cautioned the press, "some looting is possible and it makes sense that these people would guard their belongings." They were later moved to their apartment, the second occupied.

Stores Sealed

"It is a shame that we have to be so careful about sealing a building after a catastrophe such as this," said one spokesman at the Front St. fire. "You would just have to snap your fingers and people would be in there carrying out everything they could." No statement has been made on the future of the building that stood as one of the oldest in the city. After 130 years, it was gutted in eight hours.

Body Found By Firemen

The store was operated by Douglas Bradshaw, 50, a former police officer who retired from the force two or three years ago for health reasons. A widower, he lived alone in quarters above and to the rear of the store.

Although the building's frame remains intact, the bulk of the interior was gutted by the blaze. No firm damage estimate is available.

Trenton firemen received two calls concurrently today. While the north end store was ablaze, they were called to a false alarm in the downtown area but once this, was investigated, the force had two trucks, all 10 professional firefighters and all 16 volunteers on the scene.

One fireman, Archie McNeill, received a broken nose when he was struck by a falling fire hose. Another member of the force, Al DeMille, required several stitches after being pierced by flying glass.

Ontario fire marshal representative Paul McKerracher has been called to the scene to investigate.

104 Acres Burning

TWEED (Special) — Five grass and brush fires are burning over a total of 104 acres in the Tweed forest district, minister of natural resources officials announced here today.

All are attributed to human carelessness.

Location of the fires and their extent are: Hungerford, 40 acres; Hungerford, six acres; Kennebec, 50 acres; Madoc three acres and Kaladar, five acres.

More Than 6,000 Seedings Sold

More than 6,000 trees were purchased by Prince Edward residents with plans to plant for spring.

Early in April the horticultural society sponsored a similar sale at rose bushes.

Philip Dodds, president of the Ontario Horticultural Society, has suggested county residents should mark important occasions such as births, marriages and anniversaries by planting trees.

Recreational Vacuum

A group of about eight youngsters playing street hockey on Gordon Street after school the oather day was probably typical of any day in any part of Belleville. And it makes us wonder to what extent organized community or area recreation is catering to the kids.

When all is said and done there is a giant recreational vacuum in town and country here. It is partly due to climate and partly due to the fact there is no real tradition of sporting interest outside hockey and the minor sports sphere. No opportunity for example for the smaller youngsters to get out and hit a golf ball or wield a tennis racket. Where, they resort to playing on the street, it is because there is nothing else handy to do, no green spot nearby and fathers are still at work and mothers busy. In fact our whole society is so darned busy the days rush past and there is only time left to eat and sit down before the television set.

Then again the materialist emphasis of our entire social set-up is such that the consumer thing is dominant. We are constantly being pressed to buy this automobile or that sporting outfit; thus a lot of the time we are in and out of the stores spending our money or fingering those credit cards.

Recreation for many is an afternoon at the mall, but is there nothing else? What about those kids trying to make their own fun on the street? And what about the troublemakers who have nothing better to do than break into the Kinsmen pool, in broad daylight, at noon, and scatter equipment around, even make off with part of the telephone?

Table-tennis is a superb game when played the way the Chinese play it, and the Europeans, but there is no one in Canada who can play that well, yet here is a game that could absorb thousands if only there was the interest. Yes there is a vacuum to be filled for many a youngster, but there are too many strikes against them in getting things moving.

Actor's Death

We were sorry to learn of the suicide death of the man with the gravelly, cultured English voice, the chap who played the arthistocratic cad in so many films, George Sanders. He was bored, he said, in a note found in his Barcelona hotel room and had lived long enough. A strange epitaph for anyone — yet we can sense the loneliness of the man, the feeling of hopelessness perhaps with advancing years and the failure of four marriages past. And this, despite apparent wealth. He was presumed to have been en route to his home in Majorca — and freedom to travel, strike out in any direction; freedom that few of us enjoy and yet possibly just too much freedom, too much wealth. These can be burdens enough, greater sometimes than deprivation. He had just left a sister in London and evidently had some continuing contact with his second wife, Zsa Zsa Gabor. She it was who said in Hollywood that his sister reported he had been depressed in recent weeks, but that he had been "happy and gay" when she put him on the plane for Spain. Maybe there was an element in the Germans, who have been reporting an upsurge in the country's suicide rate, speak of as a "spiritual absence of people" (the Germans have a telephone service much as our Telecare or Lifeline for people seeking help) and we are reminded of the saying that the "problems of the world are the problems of the spirit."

Spring Clean

With summer on the way the village of Tweed is setting a fine example of community spirit with its preparations for its spring cleanup this month. This will be the community's second formal effort in this regard and it is being timed for the May 22 weekend influx of tourists.

If Quinte waters and shorelines look as tidy for the U.S. tourists coming here this year so much the better.

PM Reported Awaiting Public Opinion Poll Results

By FARMER TISSINGTON

OTTAWA — We have been hearing quite a bit lately about national opinion polls. All the political parties keep a close watch on the public polls, such as those conducted by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion. And the parties also hire pollsters to conduct private samplings of public opinion on party popularity from time to time.

Prime Minister Trudeau has been reported awaiting the latest results from both types of polls prior to reaching a final decision on an election date.

But there are people in Parliament who regard polls, or at least the publication of poll results, as a menace to democracy. Several members of Parliament have sponsored private bills which would make it illegal to publish the results of a poll of the electors' party preferences.

One such MP is Robert Coates from Nova Scotia who has tried several times to get parliamentary approval for his bill. He first introduced his bill because of what happened in the last provincial election in Quebec. He felt the polls were used to stampede the electors into voting for the Liberal party of Premier Bourassa, thereby defeating the then government of the Parti Quebecois whose stated purpose is to separate Quebec from the rest of Canada.

"All too often, the result of such publication is that people involve themselves in discussions about the relative strengths of political parties based on their percentages reflected by the polls, rather than the relevant strengths of political parties based on whether they have the policies that will be of greatest value to the future of a province or the nation," Mr. Coates contends.

He believes the publishing of poll results poses a real danger because the media could produce such results in a way that would provide a favorable impression on the minds of voters a few days before an election even though the poll figures might not be accurate or honestly compiled.

If Mr. Coates is correct in his belief that poll results had a considerable influence on the last Quebec election, the same argument can also be made for Ontario. Arnold Peters, the New Democrat from Northern Ontario, is another MP who opposes the publication of poll results. He claims that a rasher of polls taken prior to the last Ontario election indicated the New Democrats were either in a position to form the government or were showing a considerable gain in support.

While people would not mind voting for an NDP candidate and hoping for his election in certain ridings, they were not willing to take a chance on having an NDP government in Ontario, so their backed the only party strong enough to prevent this from happening and, in particular, the Conservatives, by their one-sided victory.

"If polls are effective at all they are effective in creating a result which has nothing to do with the underlying reasons upon which we conduct when democratically elect the leaus of a particular candidate or a particular political party," Mr. Peters claims.

A Pitch For The Parti Quebecois

Montreal Le Devoir: The working manifesto unveiled . . . by the . . . Parti Quebecois adds considerably to the crystallizing of the choice the party has been offering the Quebec people during the last five years . . . .

"When we are really masters in our own house" — its title— is surely the expression of the deepest aspirations of all French Quebecers . . . . The Parti Quebecois is the only political movement to proclaim these collective aspirations loudly. That is what gives the party its strength today; it is what will make it perhaps triumph tomorrow . . . .

How can one not see that the Parti Quebecois . . . is gradually taking on reforms . . . that no one seems capable of instilling into Quebec society—regional reform, municipal reform, reform of voting, of party finances, of administrative procedure? How can one not see that the Parti Quebecois . . . is the only one searching with conviction to define a 'new social model.' . . . .

From the document we know that in an independent Quebec governed by the Parti Quebecois, there would be both public and private enterprise: . . . the financial sector . . . would quickly pass from chiefly foreign control to control by Quebecers and . . . that producers of goods and services would operate within a tighter framework; that the government's chief economic preoccupation would be regional: that an investment code would bind foreign investors to strict rules . . . .

There are still many things we do not know concerning the exact nature of relations with the rest of Canada and above all what the government would do about the problems of transition . . . the flight of capital, blocking of investment . . . These problems . . . are essentially tactical rather than strategic, and their solution will be determined day by day, subject to events . . . .

Unless there is a superhuman effort on the part of its supporters—most of all Robert Bourassa's Liberals—the Parti Quebecois will really be the only political movement to present the people not only with a radically original constitutional choice but, more important, with a complete problematic policy, a coherent scheme of social organization and an economic management strategy that follows from one sentence to the next.

Straight Talk From Dr. Potter

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park

When a health minister talks to a group of doctors you listen. He is facing his most difficult audience.

About a year ago then health minister Bert Lawrence made a speech to a group of medical men in Toronto.

Lawrence stated some hard facts, such as that the profession would have to be more responsive. But the hardness was expressed in soft words and the general tone of the speech was conciliatory.

Within a day or so, however, the softness was forgotten and spokesmen for doctors were on the offensive against the minister.

Now the new minister Dr. Richard Potter has made a key speech to the profession—to the Scarborough branch of the Ontario Medical Association.

Dr. Potter talked in more down-to-earth terms than any spokesman for government have ever dared use to the profession.

He talked turkey. He pointed without hesitation to faults in the public attitude it has had. And he gave a warning.

Speaking of the profession, he said:

"Not exactly an impetuous group, ready to embrace every new and dramatic change that appears on the horizon.

"We know that many great advances and discoveries in the field of medicine are just waiting to be put into use; yet the medical profession, as a group, has done little to promote them.

"We have been mainly concerned with guarding our own small sphere of influence."

Essentially what the minister was saying was that the medical profession must abandon its self-interest for more involvement in and co-operation with the community and particularly with public health matters.

Then the warning:

If, for one, hope and believe that we will never see the day when government has to assume responsibility that rightfully belongs with the profession. But it could happen. By default.

Was this because he was a medical man, unlike Mr. Lawrence, speaking to colleagues?

Or was it because spokesmen for the profession have been learning a lesson and have begun to mature towards the inevitable and abandonment of the brash selfish interest which has given them such a bad public image?

Or is the outburst still to come?

Today's 'Y' in Terms of Human Values

Editor,

The Belleville Family YMCA is, unfortunately, under frequent attack by Mr. William C. Hockley. I would suggest that he satisfy his interest in their financial affairs by contacting the "Y" directly.

Mr. Hockley, if you must continue your keen interest in the YMCA, do become capable of making constructive criticisms. Help them solve their financial problems since you seem convinced that they can do so.

Since my interest is in people, it is most difficult for me to understand your obsession with the "Y's" budget. Have you watched a child or adult, terrified of water, gradually lose his unhealthy fear and learn, at the very least, drown - proofing skills? This happens at our "Y". Have you seen a child who feels clumsy and unhappy about his body gradually learn to enjoy physical activity and to appreciate his body? That also happens at the "Y". Have you seen a child spontaneously hug a "Y" instructor because he has found the kind of security and acceptance in his "Y" program that enables him to see the world with trusting eyes? This happens at our "Y".

I am unable to place monetary values on this aspect of human growth. I only know that the "Y" contributes to this healthy growth and is worthy of the financial support of the citizens of Belleville.

(Mrs.) CATHERINE M. HALL

Longevity: How It Is Done

Hamilton Spectator

Some people indulge themselves by celebrating not only their birthdays and a 100th birthday is just cause to celebrate. The remarkable restraint of Andrew Hastings of Louisville Kentucky, deserves all to be admired.

Andrew ordered nothing special for his 100th birthday breakfast—just the usual fried eggs, rolls, beer and a shot of liquor — the same plain breakfast menu to which he's always adhered.

Diet and other physical traits naturally are the subject of much speculation on "the secret of longevity" and such is the case with those who have paused to consider Andrew.

That happens every time there is a news story about a centenarian who smokes a cigar a day doesn't eat meat, who jogs, or who ogles the fairer sex: However, most of those lives are so full of promise are too demanding or too complicated for most people.

About the easiest - to - follow longevity recipe we've heard is attributed to a venerable and vigorous Scot, who was said to have subsisted through most of his century on this earth on a simple yet nourishing diet of one quart of oatmeal and one quart of whisky every day, including Sundays.

Dockers' Strike Blamed For Mail Delays From U. K.

Letter in The Globe and Mail from The Postmaster-General

The Post Office Department has been receiving many complaints in regard to delays in the delivery of mail from Great Britain and Europe. I have been a number of letters to the editor in your paper. These letters and items . . . are essentially tactical rather than strategic, and their solution will be determined day by day, subject to events . . . .

Unless there is a superhuman effort on the part of its supporters—most of all Robert Bourassa's Liberals—the Parti Quebecois will really be the only political movement to present the people not only with a radically original constitutional choice but, more important, with a complete problematic policy, a coherent scheme of social organization and an economic management strategy that follows from one sentence to the next.

As I take tried to explain on a number of occasions, we have been experiencing some difficulties with surface mail coming into our East Coast ports. These difficulties date back to the International Longshoremen's strike on United States East Coast and Gulf ports in October and November of 1971. This strike had the effect of diverting shipping to Canadian ports, which in turn has become overcrowded. Although the U.S. strike ended on Nov. 29, 1971, delays have been slow in recently recovered fully from the effects of the port congestion and the subsequent Christmas rush period.

Unfortunately, because of this abnormal congestion, some containers of mail have been held for periods of time and this has resulted in some considerable delays. The Belleville Post Office has been working closely with British postal officials and all various shipping lines involved to clear up any remaining difficulties and try to ascertain that all containers of mail have been accounted for.

Jean-Pierre Cote,
Postmaster-General.

As one of those who spent some time this spring writing to the Prime Minister, the press and my member of Parliament, to complain with some vehemence of the non-delivery of my Christmas mail from Britain, I feel it only fair to give equal coverage to their arrival.

My letter, I am sorry to say, was mildly vitriolic: their response was prompt and courteous. Ottawa immediately informed Toronto; a file was set up and the Customer Service Branch was in fairly constant communication with me. And although little hard information was forthcoming, I had at least the satisfaction in my frustration of knowing that somebody up there cared.

The parcels have now arrived (largely despite the postage, I have changed both my name and my address since their dispatch), and within a very few days after their receipt I had a follow-up letter from my member of Parliament. He had been advised by his colleagues in the Post Office that two months delayed containers of mail had now been released through Customs by the shipping companies and expressed the hope that my parcels had been among the contents. This sort of inter-departmental co-operation and personal attention is most commendable.

(Mrs.) M. Vella,
Toronto.

Pollution Of Ocean Tackled

Christian Science Monitor

The accord signed by 12 European countries to end or limit the dumping of certain wastes into the northeast Atlantic Ocean is a welcome sign of heightened environmental concern and responsibility on the international level. But it is a very limited step.

An absolute prohibition has been decreed on the dumping from ships and planes of mercury, cadmium, and similar materials which enter the food chain. Other substances, some toxic, such as arsenic, lead, pesticides, scrap metals, and with special permits.

Useful as the prohibition is, so far as it goes, 90 per cent of ocean pollution comes not from ships and planes, but is carried into the seas by rivers and estuaries reaching back into the continental hinterlands.

Along these international waterways are found cities with their sewage outfalls and their industries. In between lie the agricultural cultivated and pastoral areas whose output is sustained by heavy use of insecticides and synthetic fertilizers. Unfortunately, the information on land-based sources of ocean pollution from these countries do not yet exist.

The rapid rate of deterioration in recent years in the ocean's biological resources is a frightening proof that the problem is limited in its amount of abuse they can survive. If the 12-nation anti-pollution compact is to be meaningful, it must become only an early prototype of far more stringent international agreements, in which every country accepts anti-dumping standards that will clean up its waterways.

Milk Production Drops But Cash Value Greater

Milk production across Canada declined to 17.7 billion pounds in 1971, representing a 2.7 per cent drop from 1970 and a five percent drop over the past two years.

At the same time, Ontario milk production dropped to 4.15 billion pounds last year as compared with 6.42 billion pounds in 1970.

But based on preliminary figures, the cash value to farmers increased from $371,407,000 in 1970 to $383,174,000 last year.

The drop in milk production occurred during a time when the milk demand for human consumption was increasing with result that the Canadian surplus of milk had been eliminated and supply and demand has been brought into balance.

In Ontario last year, cheddar cheese production is given in the monthly dairy report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and food as being 74.5 million pounds — a drop of 5.1 per cent from the 78.5 million pounds in 1970.

Ontario creamery production last year was 90.19 million pounds as compared with 92.16 million pounds in 1970, representing a drop of 13 per cent.

This year, however, Ontario production of grade A milk is up 13.5 per cent over a year ago while industrial milk supplies are said up 3.5 per cent.

In February this year the Ontario Milk Marketing Board marketed 10.6 percent more milk than it did in January 1970.

An Interrupted Run

That tiny Bay of Quinte fish delicacy — smelt — have started their annual run up the Moira River, and 16-year-old Stan Burchill shows a handful he intercepted enroute Sunday. As yet, the smelt haven't appeared in any great volume. Nonetheless, many Bellevillians, who look forward each year to the event providing a tasty table treat, already are wading the river in growing numbers each night seeking a haul of the minute fish.

Body Found In Woods

TRENTON (Staff) — A walk in the woods yesterday led to the discovery of a decomposed body near here Sunday by four area people.

Brighton detachment OPP report a group of Trenton residents out for a stroll yesterday afternoon stumbled across the body of an adult male on a wooded hillside about four miles north of the town, just west of Stockdale Road.

The preliminary judgment is that the dead man was in the 25-40 age range.

Police reports do not indicate that the body had been hidden in any way. Police say they have no evidence at this time foul play was involved in the death.

However, the decision was made by coroner Dr. David Linton that the remains should be sent to the Centre of Forensic Sciences in Toronto for thorough examination. No announcement has been made as to whether an inquest will be held.

Just About Done

Barbara Knott, 16, of 170 Carnilton Road and her dance partner Ken Vos, 17, of 61 West Street, are just about all in as they come to the close of a 24-hour marathon dance at the Hillcrest Community Centre. The event, which began at 6 p.m. Friday, raised approximately $550 for the teen group at the centre. Of the 38 enrolled, nine dancers completed the session.

Beer, Truck Stolen, Left

Thieves held a short-lived party late Saturday, early Sunday morning.

After breaking into the Front Street Brewer's Retail Store, they made off with several cases of suds. A truck, stolen from Truck and Farm Supply was used in the getaway.

However, shortly thereafter, the truck and the beer, were found abandoned on McDonald Avenue.

Anglican Youth Gather

STIRLING (Special) — The "real me" had a chance to stand up during the weekend when Hastings County Anglican - Churches sponsored a Youth Conference at the Junior Public School in this village.

The theme for this fourth annual conference was "until the real me, inclass stand up." Youth church groups from the area discussed this theme using discussion provokers, four sessions presented by Stirling, Trenton and Belleville youth group and by Rev. John Utley from Christ Church in Belleville.

Sessions on finding one's own self, understanding others, gaps in communicating were prompted by the youth groups using folk songs, films, skits and plays. The Sunday morning session was led by Rev. John Utley with the topic, "relating as Christians to the world."

Up to 50 youths stayed in the school over the weekend with "not all necessarily members of a church," said Rev. Charles Staples, rector of St. John's Anglican Church in Stirling.

The young people from the area planned and conducted all the talk sessions during the weekend and on Sunday morning they conducted an experimental eucharist at the morning worship service at St. John's Anglican Church.

The youth during spare time on the weekend made use of the school's sports equipment for games of volleyball and badminton. "This has been the best place for the conference so far with the good facilities", said Rev. Utley. The conference has been held other years in Trenton, Belleville and Kingston.

The closing session and evaluation was held on Sunday at a noon dinner in St. John's Parish Hall.

First Endeavor Admired

Marion Sine, left and teacher, Shirley Hennessey both of the Belleville Rug Hooking Guild discuss Mrs. Sine's work, "Rose Charm" — a first endeavor. Mrs. Sine dyed the colors herself. Shirley Hennessey is the president of the Belleville Guild which has a present enrollment of 36 members.

Colorful Hooking Craft Displayed

More than 300 members of the Ontario Hooking Craft Guild were present at Centennial High School this past weekend from Friday night to Sunday afternoon for their annual meeting, to choose a president and offer to the public a display of their work. They also had an opportunity to see each others work and to form new ideas from the discussions.

Members from as far away as Niagara Falls, Mississauga Renfrew, Toronto, Kingston and Vineland attended. Along with these were Picton and Belleville representative displays and their presidents Dorothy Haight and Shirley Hennessee.

The past present of the Ontario Hooking Craft Guild is Dorothy Haight a hook rugging teacher in Picton and Wellington.

The gymnasium of the high school was filled with many colorful displays. Footstool covers, rugs in colorful compositions denoting many hours of rewarding endeavor were arranged in artistic fashion throughout the room.

The guild has been in operation for six years and the purpose of this formation was to develop the work of the craft. Some members in the guild have been rug hooking for over 30 years while others are just beginning.

Artists in this craft come from every walk of life and range in ages from kindergarten children to senior citizens.

"There are presently 36 members in the Belleville Chapter", remarked Shirley Hennessey, president of the group which has been in operation for one year. Past president of the guild Dorothy Haight, and Shirley Hennessey are the only two qualified to teach in this area and are also members of the teachers guild. They attend various rug camps and learn new methods to teach in this craft.

Ted Rowe and his wife Margaret owners of Rittermere Craft Studio in Vineland were also present. "Rug hooking is the fastest growing and most energetic in the field of crafts. We don't have to turn to another country for ideas for here in Ontario we find ideas for rug designs from nature and our history dating back to the farmer and his wife in a log cabin with an earthen floor."

Another reason for it's popularity is the fact that it is a basic simple craft. Mr. and Mrs. Rowan hold workshops and teach kinderarten children, senior citizens and those confined to prison.

"Nature provides the inspiration for my designs," remarked Margaret Rowan whose famous designs are used all over Ontario.

Aside from having their annual meeting for this, artists also have an opportunity to see other artists' work.

Leave Unsaid the Wrong Thing

By DORIS CLARK

"Remember not only to say the right thing in the right place, but, far more difficult still, to leave unsaid the wrong thing at the tempting moment." — Benjamin Franklin.

Dear Old Ben! He put it in a nutshell. Why is it so tempting to say the wrong thing, the critical thing, sometimes? Most of us have, we feel very often, to assert ourselves one way or another, even at the expense of the other fellow.

If we could practise thinking about what the right thing would be to say, the sentence which would give a lift to the spirits of our listener, the wrong thing would fade away unsaid and harmless.

Thoughts are things.

Dear Doris: When the AEC Estate Guide arrived we felt it was very worthwhile and showed it to several friends. They wanted copies so I am sending them.

Evidently many people feel as I do, that this document could make business affairs much less complicated for any widow or family. I should think there be a death in the family. — Grateful.

Dear Grateful: The fact that I received NO requests for the AEC Guide, from that single mention in my column, shows how badly this type of help is needed. How often we have heard of bereaved ones who left a cupboard at a loss regarding the affairs of the one who has passed on.

If the person who died had been given some guidance as to what to put down on paper about financial material affairs, where to find his bank account, deposit box and so on it could have saved endless worry. I still have some of the Guides available for 50 cents and a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Doris: When I go out to my father-in-law's place, a farm, I get my directions all mixed up. To me north is west and west is north, etc.

The first thing I say is that there's no like this. It bugged me that the sun was setting in the north. I just can't get it straight. My husband and I are going to a party there now and it really hurts me that I can't straighten this out.

Maybe living there for a while may help, do you think? — Buggy.

Dear Buggy: You aren't the first person who was born without a sense of direction.

You see, even city roads don't point directly east and west or north and south. To add to the confusion, the sun moves north or south with the season — or seems to, so that we are in a different relation to it depending on the month of the year.

Write to the Department of Transport for a detailed map of the area in which you plan to live. This will give you the true directions of the roads and get you used to the idea. Then buy a new sun compass and carry it around in your purse. (I actually do this.)

Learn how to read your compass and your map, and you can't get lost. Better yet, don't put your self to more inconvenience than is necessary to be intrigued and good for conversation.

(Don't just muddle along. Do something about what's troubling you. A letter to Doris can put you on the way to more Successful Living.)

Desserts with Succulent Pineapple

By ALICE DEGROFF

This luscious fruit of the tropics is available from much of the year and of course canned all the time. It is most abundant and least expensive in late spring and early summer, so now's the time to celebrate with pineapple desserts.

Here, then is a terrific trio and it is interesting to note that the recipes make good use of various forms: produce — core, syrup, light and dark, and corn starch.

Be that as it may, how about fixing a pretty:

PINEAPPLE PIE

3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup lemon juice
1 (1 pound, 13½ ounces) can crushed pineapple
1 recipe double-crust pastry for a nine-inch pie
Milk
Sugar

Mix together corn starch and next three ingredients in a two-quart saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens, comes to a boil and boils two minutes. Cool to room temperature. Turn pineapple mixture into pastry-lined pie pan. Cut several slits on top crust to permit escape of steam.

Cover pie with top crust. Seal and flute edge. Brush with milk and sprinkle with sugar. Bake at 425-degrees F. 30 to 35 minutes or until crust is golden brown.

If using fresh pineapple, follow recipe, but using one medium pineapple, pared and diced (about 3½ cups) in lieu of canned variety and adding ½ cup sugar and two-thirds cup water to the mixture in the saucepan.

Next:

PINEAPPLE IN GINGERED SOUR CREAM

1 fresh pineapple cut in chunks or a 1 pound, 13 ounce can pineapple chunks
½ pint dairy sour cream
¼ cup light or dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon crystallized chopped ginger

Chill pineapple chunks. Mix together remaining ingredients. Pour over pineapple in serving dishes. Garnish with mint sprigs. If desired. Serves six.

PINEAPPLE DESSERT DUMPLINGS

3 tablespoons granulated or firmly packed brown sugar
3 cups diced fresh pineapple
¼ cup water
½ cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons corn starch
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons margarine
½ teaspoon salt
Dessert Dumplings (recipe follows)

Sprinkle sugar over pineapple; let stand five minutes. Bring water to boil in saucepan; add pineapple. Cover and simmer five minutes. Drain; add water to liquid, if necessary, to make one cup.

With a spoon blend corn syrup and corn starch in saucepan. Stir in pineapple liquid. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil three minutes.

Add lemon juice, margarine, pineapple and salt. Turn into greased eight-inch square baking dish. Drop dumpling batter by tablespoonfuls onto fruit.

Bake in 400-degree F. oven 20 minutes. Serve with whipped cream. Dairy sour cream or whipped cream cheese for a calorie binge. Serves four to six.

DESSERT DUMPLINGS

1 cup sifted flour
2 tablespoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ tablespoon salt
¼ tablespoon nutmeg
¼ cup corn oil
¼ cup milk
1 egg

Sift together into a mixing bowl first five ingredients.

With a spoon, blend corn oil, milk and egg. Stir into dry ingredients, mixing just until flour mixture is moistened.

Ann Landers

Sick Humor on TV

Dear Ann Landers: What would you do? Imagine yourself as the principal character in the following situation: You are of no set age. You can be either male or female. You have a cleft palate, known more commonly as hare-lip.

In other words, you have a speech impediment caused by a congenital defect. You are enjoying an evening with friends and someone suggests turning on TV to see his favorite comedian.

Suddenly he's on the screen telling a joke about "this dog with a hare-lip that's funny." Would you try to hide your embarrassment by laughing? Would you leave the room to spare the others discomfort? Can you imagine anything so needlessly cruel as this kind of ridicule? Well, how about the next grabber?

Another TV show? this hilarious skit involves a stutterer and a victim of cerebral palsy. The comedian plays both parts. He does it to perfection — the labored facial contortions, the tangled utterances, the spastic arm and hand movements. It was a masterful imitation.

But can you imagine the anguish this skit must have produced from coast to coast? What about the victims who were watching? Their families? Then after the stutterer has painfully gained his way through a particularly long and difficult sentence, his friend's punch line was, "Yeah, that's easy for you to say."

I am writing in the hope that you, the best-read columnist in the country! will print this letter and ask your readers to demand that the networks not permit such sick humor. If enough people complain they can put an end to these brutal blows to handicapped people. Please help, Ann Landers. — Large, Florida.

Dear L.: I am firmly behind your campaign to do something about the cruel insults to the handicapped. Readers, will you help us? Clip this column and send it to the president of the network of your choice. Here are the names and addresses.

Better yet, get two more copies of this column and send it to the presidents of all three networks. Across the column write, "I agree . . . . " and add your name and address.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend (mine (woman in her mid-40s) dropped out of sight for about a month. She said she decided on the spur of the moment to take a trip to the Orient. No one received so much as a postcard from her.

When she returned she looked ten years younger. She claims she had "a wonderful rest." A few of us are sure she had her face lifted. I decided to come right out and ask her.

She replied, "Absurd. I had nothing of the kind."

I have offered $10,000 to anyone who could prove otherwise.

My question is this: Is it possible that the job was done so skillfully that even a doctor could not see the telltale scars behind the ears and up into the hairline? Please check with your consultants and let us be enlightened.

Dear U.C.: The consultants say no way. A surgical facelift entails scars from the incisions. A woman who invites inspection in all probability is telling the truth.

CAMPUS CONTROL

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) Auckland University students have installed a contraceptive slot machine in their campus building because there were 124 extramarital pregnancies at the school last year, a student government official said.

Church Groups

TWEED — The Catholic Women's League of Tweed parish, held the annual meeting and potluck supper in St. Carthagh's auditorium on Monday evening, April 17.

A choral selection was accompanied by Ronald LaVallee on the guitar, entertained after the supper by a variety of songs, which were most entertaining and appreciated.

A film showing the varied courses available across Canada in technical schools, and commentated by Wayne and Shuster, proves interesting and educational. It was a most informative film, and one recommended to all parents with teenage children in school.

The annual meeting followed with C. E. Baker opening same with the League Prayer. Reports were read revealing a successful year. A message from the Diocesan president, (Mrs.) Breen O'Connor was read.

Father Baker spoke briefly and commended the members of the League for their accomplishments for the past 12 months. The meeting adjourned and members present paid their annual dues.

OLD TIMES

INNISPAIL, Alta. (CP) — The 30th annual Aberdeen Picnic scheduled for July 8 promises to be a genuine old-fashioned affair. Some of the events planned are pillow fights, rooster - catching contests and a nail - driving contest for the ladies.

Indians Go to U.S. To Learn

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The federal government will give the Stoney Point reserve back to the Indians by fall, Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien told the Ontario Indians worker protected Saturday.

Del Riley of Muncey, a treaty researcher for the union, told 100 Indian students at a conference, however, that they may be called upon to help "crusade" the defence department at the bargaining table.

The Stoney Point reserve, a 2,240-acre tract between Sarnia and Grand Bend on Lake Huron, was taken over by the federal government under the War Measures Act in 1942 because the government wanted the land for a military base.

CN Workers Urged to Seek Pension Parity

TORONTO (CP) — Employees of Canadian National Railways were urged Sunday to push union leaders and politicians for pension parity with federal civil servants.

John Pickett, president of the Edmonton Council of Railroad Unions, told 50 CNR workers that figures prepared by an auxiliary showed CN employees pay the same pension contributions as civil servants but receive retirement benefits averaging $81 less a month.

Garbage Strike Talks Stalled

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiators for the city and Metro and representatives of the 4,000 striking outside civic workers were still deadlocked late Sunday night, despite 2½ days of mediation.

The strike, entering its fourth week, affects street cleaning, garbage collection, emergency ambulance and ferryboat service. Statutory staff are maintaining service in sewage treatment plants and water purification plants.

Halifax Strike Is Over

HALIFAX (CP) — Striking Halifax transit workers ended their seven-week strike Sunday, voting 138-48 in favor of accepting a memorandum of agreement reached between union negotiators and the city.

Gerald Hollett, president of Local 508 of the Amalgamated Transit Union, said agreement would give the members a 55-cent-an-hour salary increase over a 27-month period. The transit workers' basic $3 an hour will increase by 26 cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 1 this year.

It will increase by 19 cents an hour next Jan. 1, and by another 10 cents an hour during the final three months of the contract.

Also included in the agreement is provision for five more statutory holidays over the 27-month period, bringing the total number to 10.

MUST BE HEALTHY

FREDERICTON (CP) — The New Brunswick Liquor Commission now requires waiters in licensed premises to pass a medical examination. # Baby Survives 5 Days in Desert

ADE'LAIDE, Australia (AP) — A seven-weeks-old girl was pushed in a baby carriage through the scorching Nullarbor desert for five days by her parents after the family's car gas tank leaked dry.

Railway worker Graham Greenwood, 28, and his 19-year-old wife Marian told today how they kept baby Trudy-Anne alive by feeding her on water from the car's radiator mixed with canned milk.

The parents lived on a pack of cookies and during the chill desert nights huddled together with Trudy-Anne between them to keep warm.

The Greenwoods set out Sunday, April 23, along a little-used dirt road from Eucla in South Australia, en route to western Australia.

Their gas tank was holed by a stone and they started to walk back to Eucla.

He said: "Greenwood was lying in the desert, his tongue swollen, sunburned and with his feet heavily bandaged.

"His wife and baby were a few miles down the track. The baby was partially sheltered under her upturned pram."

Unionists Slain

SAIGON (Reuter) — The chairman of the South Vietnamese Federation of Labor, Tran Quoc Buu, said today that a large number of union officials and members had been captured and assassinated by the North Vietnamese in the occupied areas of Quang Tri, Binh Long and Binh Dinh provinces.

Bobby Kennedy's Daughter Joins McGovern's Campaign

CLEVELAND (AP) — "It is sort of pretentious to say that I am really being helpful," Kathleen Kennedy says of her campaign efforts in behalf of Senator George McGovern and his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"Maybe I am. It would really be nice. The newspapers say I am. I don't know. Seriously, I don't know."

The eldest daughter of the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy was in McGovern's entourage during the weekend as he stumped Ohio in advance of the state's presidential primary Tuesday.

She spoke briefly at rallies and shook hands as she followed the South Dakota Democrat through the streets. She seemed hesitant and nervous in front of crowds.

Milk Stores May Be Closed

TORONTO (CP) — Thirty Becker Milk Stores are being voted Sunday to close their stores here next month if company management refuses to listen to demands for higher wages and improved working conditions.

The vote was taken at the first meeting of Becker Managers Association after R. Stephen Paddon, the lawyer representing Becker Milk Co. Ltd., was asked to leave the meeting.

Cultural Parley Viewed Cynically

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's first major multicultural conference, billed as an experiment in communication and interaction among cultural groups, is viewed cynically by some of the province's first citizens and newest immigrants.

The Heritage Ontario Congress, a three-day conference beginning June 2 in Toronto, is expected to draw 1,000 representatives of almost all cultural groups.

Leslie Currie, president of the Ontario Native League for Youth and a conference delegate, wonders whether the congress is "just another fancy idea put on by government."

Fernando Diaz Costa, a trustee of the Canadian Portuguese Congress, says:

"What we don't need is another exercise in public relations. We will judge on what is implemented."

Other cultural-group members think the conference will be worth while.

Miss Currie, daughter of Prof. Walter Currie, director of Inuit and Indian studies at Trent University in Peterborough, said she was skeptical when asked to serve on the advisory committee of Heritage Ontario.

The Ontario government will pay the $100,000 cost of the conference, which will have two full sessions and about 20 workshop discussions. Major conference theme areas are culture, education, human rights, media, citizenship and the role of governments.

Ryan Paquette, a Hamilton lawyer and president of the French-Canadian Association of Ontario, says that at the conference "I will sit and listen to the problems of others."

"For us, there has been general acceptance of the French fact."

David Archer, Scottish-born president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, will also attend the conference. He expects to hear "beefs" about the predominance of the British group in Ontario.

"I will listen and agree our culture in this province is geared to the majority group," he said. "At the conference, however, you may well find the role of the WASP is defended by second- or third-generation Canadians who descended from a different ethnic group. Some are more Anglo-Saxon than the Anglo-Saxons."

Parliament Workload Heavy

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament has a heavy workload piling up, with new government policy statements about to be tabled and many legislation adding to the current backlog.

In the first eight days of May, the Commons will get the long-awaited government policy statement on regulation of foreign ownership and an outline of economic policy in a tax-and-spending budget.

The foreign-ownership policy is to be published Tuesday evening by Revenue Minister Herb Gray, chief author of a study on which the cabinet based its program.

Six days later, Finance Minister John Turner plans to present a budget.

Mr. Turner's announcement last Thursday that he would outline the budget May 8 cooled speculation that the Liberal government would call a June general election.

With the time-lead required to organize a federal election, last week was the practical deadline for calling one in June.

Further dampening election-calling fever on Parliament Hill last week was word from the Liberal party caucus to the effect that Prime Minister Trudeau had ordered a heavy schedule of legislation.

Apart from legislative proposals accompanying the foreign-ownership policy and the budget, there are promised bills to come on such matters as housing—notably, proposals that would alter the methods of financing home purchase.

In the meantime, Parliament already has a dozen government bills awaiting study, debate and resolution. Subjects range from revisions of the criminal law and farm credit to changes in the federal labor regulations and the baby-bonus program.

Today, the Commons resumes discussion of a weighty bill amending numerous features of the Criminal Code—everything from abolition of whipping as a new crime of airplane hijacking to decimation of the fing.

Rockefeller Admits Error 14 Years Ago

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller says his failure 14 years ago to perceive the need for prison reform was in part responsible for last September's bloody revolt at Attica state prison.

But he reiterated in private testimony released Sunday by the McKay Commission that he was right not to visit Attica personally and also right to support the use of state troopers to put down the riot.

The uprising claimed the lives of 43 prisoners and hostages.

"If I could go back 14 years' instead of six months," Rockefeller told the commission investigating the rebellion, "I would have to say to you that one of the things I regret most is my own lack of perception of the tremendous need which existed in this area."

Service...
IS KEY TO SUCCESS OF BELLEVILLE BP AGENT

BP home heating and farm products agents across the province know that customer service is the key to success in their business.

And Belleville's Don Mill-chell is no exception. "Service means getting to know each customer's heating and farming needs, making sure deliveries are prompt and offering the best from the burner service in town."

Not if anyone should know about home heating, it is Don. He has been involved in the petroleum business since 1948, working for many years with his father as an agent, gaining the valuable delivery and burner service experience that only time can bring.

Don has always liked the Belleville area and more than a year ago moved to a home on Bell Boulevard to serve heating and farm products agent. He serves homes and farms in a 15-mile radius including Belleville, Trenton, Read, Plainfield, Stirling and Foxboro which keeps Don busy the year round.

Don looks after sales and drives the 1850-gallon capacity fuel truck while Ron McFarland helps look after the office work.

"Providing good burner service keeps the customer satisfied and can help save him time and money, and we like to think we can offer the best burner service in the area," says Don.

Don has his office at the BP bulk plant at 3 South Front Street, where there are storage facilities for 75,000 gallons of BP's total line of home heating and farm products.

In his first year, Don has already seen his business increase and now supplies BP petroleum products and service requirements in many area homes, farms and businesses.

Just last month, Don married a local girl, Kay Molyneaux. He is becoming more involved in community life and recently joined the local Lions Club. He also helps on the committee of the local Boy Scouts. "During winter, I unfortunately don't have as much time to put into these organizations as I'd like, but I'm present at the Lions and Scouts whenever I can."

Like all BP agents, Don offers a 24-hour home comfort emergency service, and uses the automatic degree system to ensure deliveries to each customer.

Why not give Don a call at 968-6704. He will be happy to hear from you and discuss your petroleum products problems and requirements.

Viet Cong Backed

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny declared militant solidarity today with three battling U.S. aggression" in Indochina in a May Day speech three weeks before President Nixon's scheduled trip to Moscow.

Podgorny told a cheering May Day crowd on Red Square that the Soviet Union reaffirms its militant solidarity with the courageous patriots of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia who lead the heroic struggle against U.S. aggression."

Diversity Praised

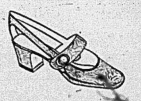
TORONTO (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield says Canada needs more government programs to help cultural minorities and the young thrive and build contacts with society.



Ethnic diversity gives Canada strength and variety, but "we don't want self-made cultural ghettoes."

Home and School Bodies Favor Volunteer Aides for Teachers

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Home and School associations received on the weekend that all boards of education should encourage use of trained volunteers to assist regular teachers in their schools.

The resolution, submitted by the North York council of the association, was passed on the final day of the federation's three-day convention.

The parents felt that volunteers now used in some areas, such as Niagara Falls, should reduce the work load of the teachers and enable them to spend more time with the students on an individual level.

Another North York resolution passed by the delegates called on the Ontario government to provide funds for French-language instruction from kindergarten to Grade 8 in all elementary schools in the province.

The Hamilton Council of Home and School Associations resolution, passed by the delegates, called on public secondary schools to include the national anthem and a prayer of "universal character" at the beginning of any student assembly.

Ontario Said 'Licensing Pollution'

SARNIA (CP) — A Toronto lawyer told the Federation of Ontario naturalists Saturday the provincial government is not preventing pollution but is, in effect, licensing it.

David Estrin, general counsel for the Environmental Law Association, said it is a citizen's duty to sue polluters.

He criticized the Environmental Protection Act passed last year as "a bill of goods" and urged naturalists to press for fundamental reforms in the law and meanwhile to protect their rights in court.

Pair Enjoy LIP Jobs

TORONTO (CP) — A mother who tired of long hamburger grill hours to be there when her children and a bachelor of commerce graduate's job's money are two of the 2,336 residents of Metropolitan Toronto who have found new jobs under the Local Initiatives Program.

Before she worked in a LIP-financed children's play group, Edith Mullen, a single parent, lived on welfare and disliked it.

Now that she has tasted independence and a take-home pay of $94 a week, she doesn't want to give it up.

When the project ends, she can apply for unemployment insurance benefits and receive $66 a week, but Mrs. Mullen says she would rather work to earn her money.

She is one of 15 staff members at a play-school and recreation centre in an Ontario Housing Corp. building. There are two other LIP projects in the area and before the L.I.P. project, the under-18-year-olds had no recreation facilities.

But for Mrs. Mullen it's the pay cheque that makes the big difference.

"I don't have to worry about going from door o door tying to find someone who will rade a dime for an egg . . . I don

$202,000 in Walk

OTTAWA (CP) — Thousands of Ottawans jumped in work and school today in the bruised and blistered feet.

They got the happy casualties of Saturday's Miles for Millions March—a 25-mile charity hike in which 25,000 walkers were sponsored by donors pledging an amount of money for each mile hiked.

More than $202,000 was dropped into aid agencies' Canada and the developing countries.

The last of the 8,338 walkers to complete the full route released the finish line at 12:56 a.m. Sunday, almost 18 hours after the official start time.

The first to finish was Herb Motock of Ottawa who was resting his feet by 11:30 a.m.

Father Real Cousineau of Orleans was the biggest money collector with pledged totalling $1,200, some of which will assist the priest's own aid work in Loscho, Africa.

Other projects now assured of Lake, Ont., Indian reserve and reconstruction of a war-torn village in Bangladesh.

First aid stations treated 4,125 foot injuries, mostly blisters.

Some city residents opened their bathrooms to passing walkers or doled out refreshments.

Four local rock groups set up their drums and amplifiers on residential lawns to entertain marchers.

The Ottawa march was the first of 25 planned for Canadian cities this spring.

Strikers to Picket Mounties

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pickets were to be set up today around city hall, RCMP stations and the public works yard in neighboring Burnaby as 800 civic workers join 2,600 Vancouver employees in a widening challenge to area municipalities.

The Burnaby strike, which was to begin at 4 a.m. PDT (7 a.m. EDT) when civilian personnel were due to begin reporting to their jobs in RCMP offices, is expected to shut down garbage collection, water, sewer and street maintenance.

Burnaby is the second municipality to be hit by a strike following collapse in February of contract negotiations between the Canadian Union of Public Employees, the Municipal and Regional Employees Union and municipalities in the Great Vancouver area.

The unions said Saturday they would reply today to the municipalities' demand that they consult themselves in writing to negotiate a two-year contract instead of the one-year agreement they have been asking.

The unions rejected an offer which the municipal labor relations bureau, which bargains for the municipalities, said amounted to a 9.56-per-cent increase in wages and fringe benefits in a one-year contract.

The unions have demanded a 26-per-cent raise in one year.

National Ballet Plans Tour of U.S.

TORONTO (CP) — Sol Hurok, Russian-born impresario famous for bringing the cream of international culture to the masses, is to sponsor a 22-week tour of 34 North American cities by the National Ballet of Canada, it was announced Sunday.

The tour, which begins Sept. 1 at the National Arts Centre in Ottawa, will feature the company's first production of Tchaikovsky's The Sleeping Beauty, with choreography by Rudolph Nureyev, who will be joining the company on the tour.

Mr. Nureyev, whom Mr. Hurok described as a news conference Sunday as doing "more for Russian ballet than the Russian Ballet itself," will dance the role of the prince in The Sleeping Beauty as well as principal roles in Swan Lake and La Sylphide.

Indians Go to U.S. To Learn

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Canadian universities are lagging in studies aimed at Indians with the result that Canadian Indians are going to the United States for advanced education, Robert Antone, director of London's N'Amerind Friendship Centre, said Saturday.

Courses on native studies in Canadian universities "do not really get into identity and things that are missing today from Indian culture," he said.

Mr. Antone, a post-graduate student and part-time teacher at the University of Buffalo, spoke during a panel discussion on Indian education at a South-western Ontario Native Education Youth conference of 180 secondary schools, university and community college students.

Mr. Antone said Canadian university Indian studies are of the "historical or anthropological type—not really dealing with identity.

Older Boys' Parliament Disbanded

OTTAWA (CP) — Disbandment of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament due to lack of financial support was announced today by Ken McClymont, president of the Ontario Older Boys' Work Committee.

The committee is the sponsoring body of the parliament and disbandment became automatic when the committee itself was dissolved.

The Older Boys' Parliament, designed to provide a forum to teach young men to speak publicly and train leaders for church groups, was established in the early 1900s.

The last Older Boys' Parliament in Ontario was in Ottawa in 1970.

The United Presbyterian and Baptist churches and the Salvation Army—will meet in June to discuss possible revival of the program.

Allan Cup Going South?

Spokane Jets, for the second time in three years, are threatening to take the Allan Cup, Canada's emblem of senior amateur hockey supremacy, out of the country.

The Jets, Cup winners in 1970, ousted St. Boniface Mohawks in the Western semi-final during the weekend and all that stands in their way now are Barrie Flyers, who clinched the Eastern championship against Grand Falls, Nfld., Cataracts Saturday.

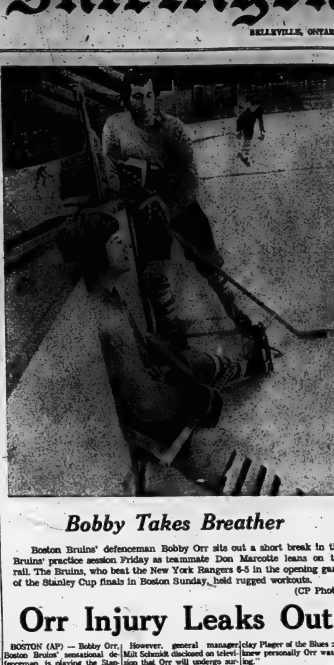
The best-of-seven final round between the Jets and Flyers is tentatively scheduled to start in Spokane next weekend.

The Jets edged St. Boniface 2-1 Sunday and 5-4 Saturday to eliminate the Mohawks in four games of the best-of-seven semi-final series.

The Flyers also made a four-game sweep over the Cataracts, winning up with a 4-3 victory Saturday.

Galt Hornets, Ontario Hockey Association champions in 1969 and 1971, won the Allan Cup in both those years. A Barrie team has never won the Cup.

Spokane, Western International Hockey League champions, won the Cup in 1970 by beating the OHA champion Orillia Terriers 4-2 in games.



In Grand Falls, playing coach Darryl Sly of the Flyers attributed his team's victory to the high level of competition in the OHA.

"The better competition we got all year made a big difference," Sly said after the Saturday win.

"We have seven very competitive teams in our league and each is as strong as the other. They have five or six ex-pros and this makes for better hockey."

The only close game of the series was a 3-2 decision in the opener last week at Barrie. The Flyers went on to win the second game 8-2 on home ice and then won 5-1 in Grand Falls Friday.

Pete Panagabko, a journeyman minor professional the last 13 years, scored twice Saturday to lead the Flyers. His two scores, coming within a 25-second span in the second period, broke a 2-2 tie.

Bobby Takes Breather

Boston Bruins' defenceman Bobby Orr sits out a short break in the Bruins' practice session Friday as teammate Don Marcotte leans on the rail. The Bruins, who beat the New York Rangers 6-5 in the opening game of the Stanley Cup finals in Boston Sunday, held rugged workouts.

Orr Injury Leaks Out

BOSTON (AP) — Bobby Orr, Boston Bruins' sensational defenceman, is playing the Stanley Cup playoffs on virtually one leg.

Orr tied the National Hockey League record by collecting his 26th assist Sunday in the Bruins' 6-5 victory over New York Rangers in the opener of the best-of-seven championship series.

However, general manager Milt Schmidt disclosed on television that Orr will undergo surgery after the playoffs.

Asked which knee was hurting Orr, Boston coach Tom Johnson said in a post-game interview: "I didn't know he needs surgery."

After the semi-final series with St. Louis, defenceman Barclay Plager of the Blues said he knew personally Orr was "hurting."

"He went down one time, and I asked him if he hurt and he told me he did," Plager said. "However, he got up and kept on playing. He's a better player on one leg than most of us are on two."

Clippers Advance to Finals

BALTIMORE (AP) — The final series for the American Hockey League Calder Cup opens in Baltimore Wednesday with an enhanced Clipper team taking on a fast-skating young Nova Scotia Voyageur club.

The Vees won the AHL's East Division crown last Wednesday with a four-game sweep against Boston Braves. Baltimore moved into the best-of-seven finals Saturday night with a 3-1 victory over Cincinnati Swords in a six-game series for the West Division title.

The first two games will be played in the Civic Centre Wednesday and Friday, with the series moving to Halifax for games three and four Saturday and Monday.

Shouts of "Bring on the Vees" were heard in the Clipper dressing room after goals by Pete Lafrenchton, Jimmy Bartlett and Dunc Rousseau and tight goaltending by back-up Bob Whidden had paced the victory over the Swords to end a rough, fight-filled series.

Cincinnati coach Floyd Smith said he felt Baltimore, appearing in its first Calder finals in 10 years in the AHL, "could defeat the Voyageurs.

"They are a helluva hockey team," Smith said. "Anytime you have a couple of defencemen like Kent Douglas and Jimmy Morrison, you are a good club.

Baltimore will be running into a hot goaltender in the Vees Michel Plasse, who has given up an average of only one goal a game in nine exhibition matches against Springfield and Boston.

Petes Win Shy

OTTAWA (CP) — Peterborough Petes moved to within one game Sunday of entering the Memorial Cup Canadian junior hockey championship, beating Ottawa 67s 5-0 before 10,085 Ottawa fans.

The Petes now lead the eight-point Ontario Hockey Association-Junior A final series 6-2 on two wins and two ties in four games and could wrap it up at home Tuesday.

Doug Gibson, Peterborough's leading playoff scorer, hit on his 14th of the playoffs and added two assists. The other goals were scored by Bob Neely and Danny Gloor.

Royals Roll

CORNWALL (CP) — Blair McDonald fired four goals Sunday night to spark Cornwall Royals to a 8-3 win over Quebec Remparts in Quebec Junior A Hockey League finals play.

The victory gives Cornwall a 3-1 lead in games with one game tied in the best-of-seven series. All Cornwall needs is a win or a tie to take the series, which resumes Wednesday in Quebec City.

Guelph Two Up

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The winning and losing coaches both were long faces after Guelph CMCs took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Centennial Cup final Sunday night by defeating Red Deer Rustlers 3-2.

Red Deer coach Al Cadman, stung by two shorthanded goals, bemoaned the mistakes that made them possible. Bill Taylor, his opposite number, was disenchanted with the Guelph penalties that made the shorthanded goals necessary.

Dallas Wins Central Title

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Dallas Black Hawks stormed back from a three-goal deficit to down Tulsa Oilers 6-5 Saturday night and win the Adams Cup, emblematic of Central Hockey League supremacy, in six games.

Bruins Win Rough Opener

Ron Stewart First Victim

BOSTON (CP) — No one could blame Ron Stewart if he declines to play in Boston Garden from now on without wearing a helmet.

The veteran New York Ranger was almost decapitated by Boston's Garnet Bailey, the young centre who administered the final coup with his game-winning tally late in the game as the Bruins edged the visitors 6-5 Sunday in the opener of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup final.

Bailey rattled his elbow off Stewart's jaw in the second period. The Ranger winger was slow getting his skates under him but managed to finish the game.

X-rays disclosed a fracture in the same area Stewart's jaw was broken here earlier in the season. He was an innocent victim, sitting on the bench with Vancouver Canucks on Nov. 18 when a Bobby Orr shot hit him.

Bailey ran 38 feet and gave Stewart an elbow you could see from here to New York and the referee didn't see it or call a penalty," lamented Emile Francis, Rangers' general-manager coach in a post-game interview.

Moments later Boston Johnny Bucyk didn't escape referee Bill Friday's eye when se sent Bill Fairbairn to the penalty box—then exchanged goals in the scoring period.

Boston's Ken Hodge was the dominant scorer, connecting on the only three shots he had in the game. Bailey and Derek Sanderson also made good on their only shots while Fred Stanfield hit on one of two to account for the Boston production.

RON STEWART

York marksmen as the Rangers lived up to their pre-game reputation of making their big move in the third period.

Hadfield, Tkaczuk and MacGregor beat Boston goaltender Gerry Cheevers in the third to make the score 5-5 before Bailey produced the winner in the 18th minute of play.

Notwithstanding complaints of inefficiency from Francis and Boston coach Tom Johnson, Friday enforced the rules strictly and after the first period the players stuck mainly to the game although the Bruins were tagged with four straight penalties in the second.

"Our team is in excellent condition and just has to come on at the end of the game," Francis said. The Rangers are the type of team that doesn't know how to quit. That's how it got this far."

"Hell, it would have been a lot easier to quit than to come back the way we did," said Hadfield, the New York captain, who this year became the first Ranger ever to hit the 50-goal mark.

The Bruins came out hitting, much the same as they did against Toronto Maple Leafs in the quarter-final round, and New York defenceman Gary Doak upset Francis' game plans by getting ejected from the game for retaliating in the first period.

"I don't blame Doak," said Francis, "They were running at us and we had to have someone to run back."

But Francis was pleased with the performance of his club that has been nowhere close to Boston in five of their meetings this season.

KEN HODGE

To the last five games of the season we scored only four goals against the Bruins," recalled Francis. "Now we score five one game."

We Stopped Checking: Johnson

BOSTON (CP) — "We quit forechecking and hitting and played it too easy," said Boston Bruins coach Tom Johnson after his team blew a 5-1 lead but still emerged with a 6-5 victory in Sunday's opening game of the Stanley Cup finals.

The name most often mentioned in both dressing rooms was Garnet Edward (Ace) Bailey, the 23-year-old Boston forward who got the winner with two minutes and 16 seconds to go.

TOM JOHNSON

"A great - winning effort," Johnson commended Gary Doak upset Francis' game plans by getting ejected from the game for retaliating in the first period.

"I don't blame Doak," said Francis, "They were running at us and we had to have someone to run back."

But Francis was pleased with the performance of his club that has been nowhere close to Boston in five of their meetings this season.

KEN HODGE

To the last five games of the season we scored only four goals against the Bruins," recalled Francis. "Now we score five one game."

Navigating Moira Not Necessarily Dangerous

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Travelling troubled waters can actually be fun, provided you're a well - prepared paddler.

That's probably why Barry Brigley found navigating the choppy waters of the lower Moira River less dangerous than it may have appeared to Sunday spectators of the Ontario White Water Championship race.

"If you don't know what you're doing, it's a hazard," said Brigley, who, along with wife Ann, won Sunday's two-man canoe mixed class of the three-mile championship.

The Mississauga paddler, a 16-year veteran of white water competition and a 1969 world canoe championship participant, admitted he'd gone for a swim occasionally, but that the most serious accident he usually sees involves little more than swamped canoes.

To illustrate the safety precautions observed by the Ontario Canoe Cruisers, Brigley noted the usual 3 - mile Olympic course run had been shortened for the Belleville race.

"The river is enough of a challenge without going through a man - made hazard," he referred to Lesbo's Dam, site of the death three weeks ago of a competitor in the annual Loyalist College river - raft run.

Participants in Sunday's Belleville race were eligible to collect points toward qualification for the Munich Olympics the first time White Water canoeing has been on the Olympic calendar.

Practice runs were held over the course Saturday, and Marten Lewis, president of the Ontario Canoe Cruisers, emphasized other safety measures stressed by his group.

"We teach people to read the water and we spend the winter training on safety precautions. "These include emergency procedures in the event a competitor capsizes, Lewis added.

"In the ten to twelve years of organized white water paddling in Canada, the only major accident we've had is a broken collarbone," Lewis noted. All competitors wear life-jackets and hockey-style protective helmets.

Knowledge of safety techniques precludes many other qualifications for white water racing, including sex.

In addition to Ann Brigley and Nona Cummings, who accompanied their husbands in two-seat canoe races, 16-year-old Kathy Parsons of Toronto navigated the rugged Belleville course solo in a kayak.

Six of the 25 boats entered in Sunday's racing were swamped, and two were seriously damaged.

The only casualty in the afternoon's racing was 22-year-old Eric Reid of 167 Albert St., Belleville, one of only two local entries, who was discharged on crutches from Belleville Memorial Hospital after suffering a badly-sprained ankle.

Paddler Battles Moira

Kennedy Can't Climb Higher

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Mel Kennedy will have a tough time improving his record in the Mr. Bowling Tournament.

The Trenton five - pinner was second the first time he entered the event two years ago, and Saturday toppled 2,771 pins to emerge as the first winner of the Belleville Bowl-O-Drome event.

In addition to winning the Lloyd's Cleaners Trophy, the stocky and bespectacled Kennedy took home first prize money of $150 and a watch donated by O'Connor's Jewel Box.

"I've never won a tournament before and I've been bowling in leagues about seven years," said Kennedy, who is averaging "around 238 - 240" in Toronto, where his CPR job takes him.

"The way I started today, I knew I was going to be close."

Kennedy took a commanding lead after the first half of the ten-game competition, compiling a 1,490 total to run-1,396.

"I finished with 2001 when I came second two years ago," Kennedy recalled.

Second and third games of 238 and 241 helped Kennedy build his insurmountable lead over the field of 54 distinct entries.

He finished weakly, with ninth and tenth games of 222 and 230, but St. Louis, a former Mr. Bowling winner, also tapered off to a 218 final game and a 2,569 total, 102 pins behind the leader.

Jack Canning rolled a 338 in his final game for a 2,579 total and third spot. Cobourg's Wayne Tuttle was fourth at 2,514; John Hamilton's 2,467 total was good for fifth spot; Jack Calnan topped the field with a high 348 tenth game to place-sixth at 2,457; Jim Nicholls was seventh with 2,426; and Kingston competitor Jim Corlies rounded out the money winners at 2,425.

Trenton's Wally Knapp, winner of the event the past two years and whose 292.4 average in 1970 was the best in the 11-year Mr. Bowling history, finished out of the money Saturday with a 2,348 total.

The day's high single game was a 380 rolled by Bill Wilson of Brighton.

Another record of sorts was kept intact by Mrs. Cec. "Babe" Hardwick, who now marked scores in each of the 21 annual instalments of the Mr. Bowling tourney.

Trenton Tracksters Fourth

Trenton tracksters were in high gear Saturday at the Central Tech Invitational Meet. Against some of the top track and field powers in the province, Trenton managed to place fourth among the 20 schools entered.

David Thompson was the top local performer with record - setting performances in the junior 400 and 800 metres. He recorded a 51.0 mark in winning the 400, while clocking 1:58.6 for his third-place effort in the senior metric half-mile.

Dennis Bowman took first place in the senior triple jump with a leap of 43'7¼", while his 20'4½" long jump was good for second. Bowman placed fourth in the senior 300-metres hurdles as well.

Senior shotputter Kevin O'Donnell took third with a 38'-10¼" effort and added a fifth in the discus event. In the midget section Dave Lee placed third in the 110-metre hurdles, sixth in the triple jump and fifth in the javelin.

Doug Gillespie took third in the midget javelin and fifth in the shot put while teammate Mark Petrie was fourth in the 100 metres and sixth in the shot.

Junior middle distance man Joe Norman was second in the 800 metres with a 2:04.2 clocking and fifth in the 400 metres, while in the senior age group Duncan Armstrong was fourth in the 100-metres and fifth in the triple jump.

White Water Champions

Barry and Ann Brigley of Mississauga, Ontario, emerged from the Moira River Sunday, as winners of the third Ontario Canoe Cruisers Ontario White Water Championship Race. A founding member of the Canadian White Water Affiliation, Barry has been racing for more than 10 years. His wife has proved to be a handly paddler and the team finished the three-mile course in 11.45 minutes. They were awarded a challenge trophy in the two man mixed canoe class.

After 15 years, over steep slopes and terraces, 100% dependable.

Gentlemen:
You may be pleased to know about the satisfaction and service I have had from my Lawn-Boy mower.

I purchased this mower (Model 5000) in July, 1956. It has done one hour's mowing per week from 1956 to 1965, and two hours' mowing per week since then. Both of the homes we have lived in during the years mentioned have many slopes and terraces, some quite steep.

During all this time my Lawn-Boy has performed practically faultlessly. I can not recall one occasion when I was unable to mow my lawn because of mechanical problems with my mower. It has been 100% dependable, easy to operate, convenient to handle, easy to start . . .

. . . Needless to say, even this Lawn-Boy can not go on forever. When replacement time comes, I certainly can assure you that it will be another Lawn-Boy for me.

Yours sincerely,
Joseph Brusatti,
Grimsby, Ontario.

Mr. Brusatti's letter is just one of many of unsolicited recommendations in our files.

Our new 1972 Lawn-Boy models are built just like our old ones. To last for years. And now, you have a choice of new Super CD Series solid state ignition models. No coil or condenser problems. No breaker points to cause trouble. With bigger mufflers . . . more power. See them and our new Deluxe "MAG" Series—with their famous Lawn-Boy engine (only 3 moving parts — fewer parts to wear), their clog-free grasscatchers, and whisper-quiet operation—at your dealer. Which ever model you buy—years from now you'll know it was worth it.

A product of Outboard Marine Corporation, 150 Pelham Road, Waukegan, Illinois, makers of Evinrude and Johnson Outboard Motors, O.M.C. Stern Drive engines, Evinrude and Johnson lawnmowers, and Pioneer Chain Saws.

Lawn-Boy conforms to COPEA safety standards.

A bargain for years. Lawn-Boy.

United Opens Strong

Belleville United made their first appearance of the year an impressive one by thumping Prince Edward Islanders 8-0 in a Sunday exhibition bout.

Chris Johnson led the Bay of Quinte club with three goals while Stuart Milton connected twice. Stu Hadley and Nick Del Grosso had one each with the other tally coming when Picton accidently shot the ball into their own goal.

Standouts for the winners were Jim Bryce and George Del Grosso who provided much of the support for goalie Dick Howe. United's next exhibition encounter will come Sunday, 10 a.m. against Whitley Travellers.

Quebec League Blasted

TORONTO (CP) — Retiring president of the Ontario Hockey Association took a parting shot at the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association at the closing session of the OHA's annual meeting Saturday.

Clarence (Tubby) Schmalz of Walkerton referred in that season's Memorial Cup semi-final as "a debacle." The Quebec Remparts-St. Catharines Black Hawks series ended with the Remparts refusing to play the ninth game in Quebec City for fear of violence by Rangers fans.

Schmalz said: "There are politics in the game and there's no place for them."

During the day's session, 48 resolutions to the OHA regulations and constitution were tabled for consideration.

Schmalz, being replaced as president by Frank Doherty of Thorold, was given a silver tray for his service to the association. He described his term in office as an enjoyable experience and added:

Rockey League next season.

In accepting the award, Wimmer pledged: "I will be back."

An honour for the Canadiens will rejoin the OHA.

The association's 1972-73

board of officers also was selected at the meeting. Cliffe Philips of Newmarket was named first vice-president while Hugh McLaren of London and Frank Rackland of Peterborough were named second and vice-president and treasurer respectively.

Elected by delegates of member teams as third vice-president was Larry Bellisle of Pembroke.

William Church of Orangeville, Roy Irwin of Peterborough, Stan Moore of Hespeler, Robert Teto of Port Erie and Harvie Treo of Windsor were elected to the executive committee.

Filion Behind for Change

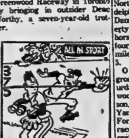
MONTREAL (CP) — Joe Filion O'Brien, a Canadian-born driver representing the United States, was the Blue Bonnets leg of the third World Harness Racing Championship Sunday and now outdistances the favorite, Herve Filion of Quebec, by 105 points.

O'Brien, a 54-year-old native of Prince Edward Island, won one race, finished third once and fifth once in the three races at Blue Bonnets to pick up 67 points for an over-all total of 440 points in the 4-track series.

Giuseppe Gazzinati of Italy, who went into the heat leg of the series as the points leader, managed only third and fifth place finishes to run his point total to 435.

Belgium's Gilbert Martens won one race and picked up 62 points, good for third place in the over-all standings with 383 points.



The first that New Zealand's Peter Wolfenden, with a pair of second place finishes, moved on fourth place with 357½ points. Australia's Vic Frost was fifth. Canada's Herve Filion sixth. Austria's Adolph Ubleis seventh and West Germany's Willi Kaiser trailed in last place with 32 points.

The complete point standings in the world championship series following Sunday's three races at Blue Bonnets are: O'Brien, U.S., 440; Gazzinati, Italy, 435; Gilbert Martens, Belgium, 383; Peter Wolfenden, New Zealand, 357½; Vic Frost, Australia, 330; Filion, Canada, 304; Adolf Ubleis, Austria, 297½; Rode, West Germany, 52.

Filion did better Saturday at Greenwood Raceway in Toronto by bringing in outsider Dear Worthy, a seven-year-old trotter.

Filion kept the gelding in front for most of the mile in the fast time of 2:03 minutes. Doug Worthy, who had not won in the last five starts, paid $45.10.

Filion had a busy Saturday in Roosevelt Raceway in Freehold, N.J., where he took two races before boarding charter jet flight to Toronto.

From Toronto he flew to Northeast Airport near Philadelphia to race in the $40,000 Daniel C. Partin Trot at Liberty Bell Race Course. His horse, Isle of Wight, finished fourth as Adamsview won the mile in a track record of 1:56 2-5.

O'Brien, though he last ground in the championship Saturday, delighted Greenwood's biggest crowd of the season. He drove to victory Fresh Yankee to a win in the $8,700 Fort George Trotting stakes, a race not counting in the championship.

The nine-year-old Mare, owned in Sydney, N.S., strutted easily to her fourth win in seven starts this year to bring her season's earnings to $33,290 and her career bankroll to $1.18 million.

Krausse Earns Start

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I'm trying to win a starting job in the rotation," Boston's Lew Krausse said, and his manager, Eddie Kasko, quickly responded: "Krausse is certainly going to get another start after the bellhop job he did today."

What Krausse did Sunday was give up a single to Len Randle, the first batter he faced, then hold Texas hitless until the ninth inning when Randle nicked him for another hit.

Unfortunately, Boston wasn't getting any runs for Lew. And so, after nine virtually flawless innings, he was removed for a pinch-hitter.

But all was not lost. Carlton Fish had doubled in the top of the 10th before Bob Burda batted for Krausse. And after Burda was given an intentional walk, Tommy Harper crashed a two-run double to the left centre field wall, then Luis Aparicio doubled Harper home.

And after Bill Lee came on in relief to set down the side in order in the bottom of the 10th, the Red Sox had a 3-1 triumph over the Rangers and Krausse had his first victory in a Boston uniform.

In Sunday's other American League games, New York Yankees beat Minnesota 5-4 before the Twins won the second game of their doubleheader by the same score. Milwaukee Brewers beat Oakland Athletics 3-1, Chicago White Sox defeated Detroit Tigers 6-3, California Angels edged Baltimore Orioles 4-3 and Cleveland Indians outlasted Kansas City Royals 5-3 in 16 innings before the second game of their twin bill was rained out.

"It was the longest I've pitched since last August," said the weary Krausse, who came to the Red Sox as part of a 10-player deal with Milwaukee.

He got the start because Marty Pattin had a back injury. And midway in the game, his work and Texas beat were getting the best of him. And hitting a two-bagger didn't help matters.

Rusty Torres' tie-breaking pinch double in the bottom of the ninth inning gave the Yanks the opening game and Rod Carew's tie-breaking two-run single in the eighth inning of the nightcap provided the Twins with a split.

Dave LaRoche was Minnesota's ace in the hole in the second game coming on in the eighth inning after Carew had put the Twins on top 3-2. He gave up an unearned run in the ninth but retired pinch-hitters Thurman Munson and Don Mincher with the potential tying run on second base.

Pirates Slump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It's just a matter of time before we start doing our thing," says Pittsburgh Pirate manager Bill Virdon.

They'd better hurry—they've lost five straight games already.

The defending world champions, who never dropped more than four in a row during last year's run to the National League pennant, continued to spin Sunday when beaten 6-1 by Atlanta Braves.

Pitching, which helped them best the Baltimore Orioles in the 1971 World Series, is no where in sight so far this year. None of the starters has lasted a full game.

Virdon held a closed-door meeting with the Pirates after the game which plunged the club's mark to 5-8. The man ager promised better things than the current fifth-place status in the East.

"And heaven help whoever is on the other end when we break out," said Virdon.

In the National League's other games Sunday, Chicago Cubs defeated Cincinnati Reds 6-4; Houston Astros beat St. Louis Cardinals 7-6; Los Angeles Dodgers downed New York Mets 4-2; Montreal Expos topped San Francisco 5-2 in the first game, then dropped the second 13-2, and Philadelphia Phillies took two from San Diego Padres, 6-1 and 2-1.

Atlanta outfielder Ralph Garr drove in two runs with a home run and double as the Braves swept their three-game set at Three Rivers Stadium and won their sixth game in the last seven.

Garr hit the home run off Bob Johnson after being decked by a high, hard one from the lefthander in the third inning.

Bill Russell bonecred and doubled and drove in four runs to support Don Sutton's seven-hit pitching as Los Angeles beat New York.

Sutton, pitching his second shutout, became the majors first four-game winner. He struck out six and walked only one while lowering his earned run average to 0.84.

Ken Singleton and Mike Jorgensen combined for five runs batted in as Montreal defeated San Francisco in the opener of their twin bill.

What the Stars Say

Tuesday, May 2

Aries (March 21-April 19): Your resources prove to be more reliable than those of others. Choose your words carefully to avoid confusion at home.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Material progress is not the main goal for the moment: your relationships and their welfare may be. Count yourself in for whatever is happening.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): The importance of routine does not make you tense. Speak about it and let intuition come to the surface to guide you.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Everybody seems to have a different idea of what to do and how to do it. Do what you want where you can.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Review your budget. An eliminator of the look is probably justified but take into account the needs of others.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If you meet opposition, remember you helped provoke the circumstances and can still do something to change the situation.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You will have to reckon any promises you make today. Take a conciliatory role in family differences.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Some of your personal affairs may come to public notice, perhaps eventually to your benefit. At the moment they are uncomfortable.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Colleagues have less responsibility for your funds and resources, so follow your own judgment. Keep the lead in managing family matters.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The waiting game is the wisest tactic today. More attentive listening plus diplomacy will help you through the confusion.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Despite your feelings to the contrary, be flexible, allow others wide benefit in any doubts. This attracts help from surprising sources.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Being insistent gets you no great progress, however necessary it may seem to you. Check details of business arrangements closely.

Lichen Planus Cause Not Known

By G. C. THOSTESON MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told by a dermatologist that I have lichen planus. He explains it as a nervous condition of the membranes in my system.

My tongue and mouth become very irritated and lumps appear on the inside of my cheeks. Also the rectal area is irritated most of the time.—J.S.

I'd rather write about things to be more common in individuals who are nervous or have an emotional disturbance of some sort. Sometimes it accompanies some other illness; perhaps worry over the illness has some thing to do with that, but as I said, the cause just is not known.

It often affects the wrists, legs, trunk and even the face.

The itching is the most unpleasant part of the ailment and the rashes it causes. Lichen planus (pronounced LIKEN Plane-us) is not to be confused with the ordinary, but also annoying, kinds that comes from dry skin, diabetes and other such causes. In lichen planus, there is a violent itching.

The ailment can take its time about running its course—often it lasts only weeks, more often months and even a year or more. There are a few severe cases, particularly involving the mouth, recurrences last years.

As we say so cause, we have no specific cure. The best course is to alleviate the itching and to ease the patient's nervous tensions. For the latter, tranquillizers or sedatives are helpful.

Lotions and steroid (cortisone) creams are used for the itching and steroids may be given orally for short periods. There are other medications sometimes taken internally.

It's a worrisome, annoying condition and since it affects some people, the worry over it may well just make matters worse. Fortunately it is not a dangerous disease, just very annoying.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am suffering from what I understand to be a "neuromedian disturbance." I say "understand," but I don't.

First my hands started "going to sleep." Then I lost strength in one hand. My doctor suggests surgery if present treatment does not control it.—Mrs. D.P.

I think you refer to the median nerve which passes through a sheath in the wrist or carpal area.

Pressure on the nerve there can cause what is called the carpal tunnel syndrome: tingling, numbness, loss of strength in the fingers.

There are many contributing causes: injury, nonuse, low thyroid activity, excessive strain and others.

Conservative treatment involves hormones, injection and splinting, immobilization of the wrist, etc. If such measures do not suffice, surgery to relieve the pressure afford more complete and lasting results.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a difference between hypertonia and hypoglycemia?—W.B.

Your question raises some technical distinctions but hypertonia (too much insulin released by the pancreas) certainly can cause hypoglycemia (periods of too little sugar in the blood). However, there are other causes of hypoglycemia that do not relate to any fault in the pancreas.

As Americas team competed at George Rapee, dean R. Crawford, Sam Stayman, Howard Schenken, and this writer traveled to Naples in 1951 to play the Italian team for the world championships. The U.S. team won by 10,000 points.

Frederico Rosa, of Italy wrote a long and interesting account for the European Bridge Review, a portion of which is presented here with all its continental flavor retained. It features a hand where the American team gained 720 points.

Said Rosa: "I witnessed many mistakes by the Americans during the tournament. On many boards they pressed the bidding level beyond the possible. They were apt to overrate their technique, hoping for miracles in the play. But I must state that I have been unable to find a single board among the 220 where their defensive play was not exact, not to say perfect. This is an example of beautiful defense.

"At both tables South was in four hearts. Stayman aptly made the contract after Forquet led the seven of diamonds. At the other table, however, Becker (West) led a trump and started a fine defensive play.

"Trumps won in the closed hand and led a spade to dummy's jack. A low spade to the queen in the closed hand was taken by the ace and a trump returned. Franco again won in the closed hand and led a club to dummy's ace.

"Sestik's club honor disappeared on the king of spades and a low diamond was led from dummy. Crawford coolly played low and it is not to be surprised at that Franco contented himself with the eight. Many of us would have done the same. This trick of Crawford's enabled West to make the nine and since Becker had a trump to lead, declarer had to lose more tricks in diamonds.

"Franco should not be blamed for not putting up the queen of diamonds but the Americans are worth all the praise for their skillful and audacious defense."

Tomorrow: Look before you leap.

Some Big Guns Free Agents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thirty-three National Football League players, including such stars as Bart Starr, MacArthur Lane and Ray Nitschke of Green Bay Packers, Bill Munson of Detroit Lions, Dick Gordon of Chicago Bears and Clint Jones and Gene Washington of Minnesota Vikings became free agents today.

It is not known how many of the 33 have actually played out their options with the purpose of seeking a job with another club and how many are caught in the situation revolving around the wage-price freeze.

But they officially became free agents at midnight Sunday, having played last season without contracts and not having yet signed for the 1972 campaign.

The NFL would not disclose the names of the dissatisfied players, but The Associated Press learned the names of most of them. An NFL spokesman said that when the league has gathered together the names of all the unsigned players, it would send out notifications each of the 26 clubs telling them of the free agents.

"They can then negotiate with any of the players and the players are free to talk with any team," he said.

The group of unsigned players was reduced by five over the weekend when running backs Donny Anderson and Roy Shivers and quarterback Gary Cuozzo signed with St. Louis, tight end Alvin Reed came to terms with Houston and quarterback Bill Kilmer signed with Washington.

Minnesota led the list with seven unsigned players, including receivers Washington, John Henderson and Al Denson, running back Jones, tight end Bob Brown, and defensive backs Charlie West and Nate Wright.

Jim Finks, Minnesota's general manager, said that Jones and West have signed with an agent and would meet with him this week. He said he has written to all the free agents except Denson, and "all of them indicated they want to play with us."

Finks said the Vikings would not attempt to sign Denson, who jumped the club last season after refusing to go on the taxi squad.

The Minnesota general manager also said he has held off negotiations with the unsigned players since last fall because he was waiting for a ruling from the federal pay board on pay in professional athletes.

If a player who has become a free agent signs with a new club that team must compensate his old club.

Threatens Low Blows

VANCOUVER (CP) — If George Chuvalo fights his usual brawling style, today's heavyweight battle could turn into "a low fight," says former world champion Muhammad Ali.

Ali, who took a 15-round decision over Chuvalo in Toronto in March, 1966, claims the hard-nosed Canadian was hitting him with low blows all night in that fight and won't get away with it again.

Chuvalo, who has never been off his feet in 36 fights, dismissed Ali's complaints about low blows as nonsense.

Casper Leads After Three

DALLAS (AP) — "I feel like I can play again now," Billy Casper said.

The veteran professional golfer, winner of more than 40 tour titles but slump-ridden a year and a half, was talking about a changed mental attitude that he credited with helping him to a one-stroke lead after three rounds of the rain-delayed, $125,000 Byron Nelson golf classic.

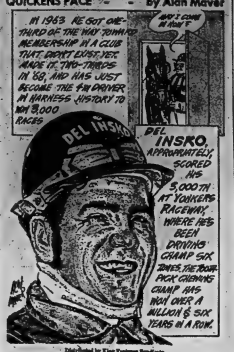
"I'm more relaxed," Casper said after a one-under-par 69 in Sunday's third round that gave him a 54-hole total of 202, eight under par on the Preston Trail Golf Club course.

"Everything seems easier now. Things that were hooked against me before, now seem to be going for me," said Casper.

"Mainly, I'm thinking better, better than I have all year."

And it was thinking, or lack of it, that may have led to a three-over-par seven on the 17th hole that cost Will Homenuk of Winnipeg a share of the top spot in this chase for a $25,000 first prize, more than he has won in any of six previous seasons on the American tour.

He failed to call for relief—to which he was entitled—when his tee shot was plugged in the mud. The slightly-built 36-year-old from Winnipeg was tied for the lead at that point, but tried to hit a six iron out of the mud. It caught a creek and he later three-putted for the seven.



A tournament official later confirmed that Homenuk was entitled to a free drop from the mud, if he had called for a ruling.

"I didn't know it was plugged, but it was and I tried to hit it out," said Homenuk.

"I guess I should have called for an official, but I didn't."

That left him with a 71 and a 205 total going into today's final round. The tournament schedule was pushed back one day when Thursday's play was rained out.

Wilt Beats Knicks At Both Court Ends

LOS ANGELES (AP) — By design or otherwise, big Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles Lakers is scoring again and he's likely to keep it up for awhile.

The seven-foot-one center dominated both ends of the court scoring 23 points and grabbing 24 rebounds—in Sunday's 108-92 victory over New York Knicks at the Forum.

Chamberlain took only 11 shots last Wednesday night and scored 13 points when the Lakers lost 114-92 in the opener of the best-of-seven final. The National Basketball Association championship playoffs resume Wednesday night with games three in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Dave DeBusschere, the Knicks' forward who the Lakers feel is a big factor in the series because of his outside shooting and rebounding ability, has a pulled muscle in his right side as a result of Sunday's game.

The Lakers proved they can play defence, too, blitzing New York 28-11 in the third quarter.

The Knicks weren't nearly as sharp as in the series opener when they made 72 per cent of their first-half field goal attempts.

The Lakers got 21 points from guard Gail Goodrich, but the deciding factors in the game appeared to be DeBusschere's injury and Chamberlain's shooting.

Germans Jolt Wembley Crowd

LONDON (CP) — A Mudville-like gloom has spread across the British sports world following the shock of seeing England's traditionally-formidable soccer team beaten on home ground by a hard-driving squad representing West Germany.

Adding to the humiliation was the fact that the 3-1 clobbering of England, scorers Wimbley Stadium, which was the scene of England's triumph over the same national side in the World Cup final of 1966.

The jolt for sports fans in this country was all the greater because the usually prominent British soccer experts were confidently predicting a solid victory for England against the West Germans, who had never beaten the home squad at Wembley.

But now the funeral atmosphere of pubs across the country would do justice to Madville the day after mighty Casey struck out.

Millwall Steals Show

LONDON (CP) — Millwall, the unfashionable Second Division club in the heart of London's dockland, beat Preston North End 2-0 Saturday to keep alive its hope of reaching the English Football League First Division for the first time.

A First Division program depleted because of the European championship match between England and West German meant that interest centred on the Second Division promotion struggle.

Battlefield Situation Deteriorates Fast

SAIGON (AP) — Flushed with victory in the far north, North Vietnamese troops launched new attacks today in the populous coastal lowlands and forced South Vietnamese troops from another base in the central highlands to the west.

With all of northernmost Quang Tri province in Communist hands, the North Vietnamese radio boasted that the province to the south, Thua Thien, which includes the old imperial capital of Hue, was doomed.

The South Vietnamese were trying to set up a defence line north of Hue and 35 miles south of the demilitarized zone. Hue is 32 miles south of Quang Tri.

Authorities began a drive to weed out suspected Viet Cong agents in Hue, a city of 200,000 now swollen with 150,000 refugees. Officials disclosed 600 suspected Viet Cong agents had been seized in Hue the last two days.

The North Vietnamese conquered Quang Tri province by using a wide variety of weapons —tanks, long-range artillery and sophisticated anti-aircraft artillery. To this was added today a heat-seeking missile.

FIRST USE

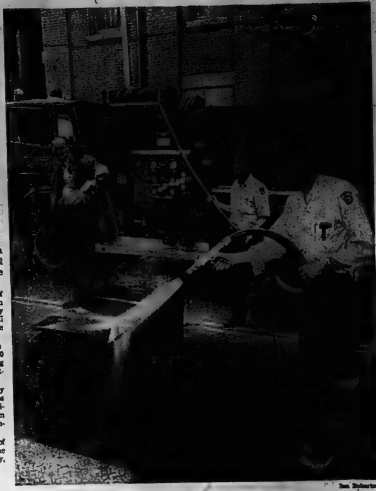
Brig.-Gen. Thomas W. Bowen, deputy senior U.S. adviser in the far north, said the missile, fired from a hand-held launcher, was used for the first time in the war and brought down a U.S. helicopter. The four-man crew, a U.S. adviser and two South Vietnamese were killed.

With the battlefield situation deteriorating rapidly in parts of South Vietnam, top U.S. and South Vietnamese officials met to review the 34-day North Vietnamese offensive and map their next move.

The battlefield situation at noon was:



—Communist forces pressed their drive to conquer all of northern Binh Dinh province along the central coast with new assaults on Landing Zone English, a regimental headquarters that is the last strongpoint in the region.

—Fire Base Lima, on Highway 14 about six miles north of the provincial capital of Kontum City was abandoned after heavy attacks. Up to 800 defenders fell back to tighten their defensive ring around Kontum City.

The Saigon command announced that more than 400 shells slammed into Landing Zone English on Monday, inflicting moderate casualties.

The attack was resumed early today. North Vietnamese troops drove to the barbed wire perimeter where they locked in heavy fighting with the government defenders.

Both Qui Nhon, the capital of Binh Dinh province—and the country's fourth largest city, and Kontum City were shelled.

Uneasy Calm Grips Ulster

BELFAST (AP) — Battleweary Northern Ireland slumped into an uneasy calm today after a devastating series of explosions ripped through a shoeplace factory and a chain of riots had awakened fears of a Protestant backlash.

North of Belfast Monday, eight well-placed explosive charges badly damaged a £14 million ($36.4 million) synthetic fibres factory, killing one man and severely injuring several others.

One victim had both arms blown off, others legs badly broken and faces badly cut.

The bombing was blamed on the Irish Republican Army.

Ann Dickson, former Protestant member of Parliament for the area—Carrickfergus on the shores of Belfast Lough—said she believes the plant was picked out because it had brought "so much peace and happiness to the town."

"This tragedy, especially if it results in layoffs, will bring the whole community down and I do," she said.

Some 300 of the 1,200 jobs the plant provided are expected to be lost.

Edgar Hoover Is Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation since 1924, died Monday night at his home at the age of 77, the justice department announced.

Hoover, the chief law officer in the United States for 48 years, had become a legend in the country, an "untouchable" who shaped the FBI into a massive, powerful federal agency.

Acting Attorney-General Richard Kleindienst issued a one-paragraph statement in which he said Hoover's body was found by his maid at approximately 8:30 a.m. today. Death was due to natural causes.

The job-jewed FBI head was permitted by presidential order to continue in his $42,000-a-year government job after reaching the mandatory retirement age of 70.

Hoover, unmarried, dominated the bureau during his lifetime. Wielding vast power, he was said to lavish on the FBI the pride and possessiveness of a stern and watchful parent.

Ohio Primary Seen as Key

WASHINGTON (CP-REUTER) — Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, a methodist minister's son and a wartime bomber pilot, and Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota are seeking primary election victories in key states that would vault the winner to the front of the Democratic presidential race.

In Ohio, both candidates were locked in a head-to-head battle for Democratic national convention delegate support in the state which will send the fifth largest delegation of 153 to the party's presidential nomination convention in Miami July 10.

The key election will be in Ohio, where McGovern and Humphrey have been battling for a victory that could thrust them into the leading position and spark their chances in the forthcoming major primaries in Michigan, California and New York.

Missile Curb Seen As Nearer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev, in recent secret exchanges, have scored "a major advance" toward a U.S.-Soviet missiles-curb accord.

In announcing this late Monday, the White House implied that submarine missiles will be included in a first-stage strategic-arms-limitation-talks deal that also will cover anti-ballistic defence missiles and nuclear land-based missiles.

An agreement is expected by the time of Nixon's May 22-29 Soviet visit.

Submarine-launched nuclear missiles have been a major issue in recent SALT negotiations. Envoys at the U.S.-Soviet talks are said to have pretty much agreed on ABM and intercontinental ballistic missile limits.

Settlement Bid Made

Pared-down Proposals Listed by Garbagemen

TORONTO (CP) — Described by the union as "a settlement position," a pared-down set of proposals was submitted early today to the mediators in the strike of 4,000 outside civic workers, including garbage collectors, which has entered its 22rd day.

The new proposals, put together after about two hours of talks by the seven-man union committee, were taken to W. H. Dickie, Ontario assistant deputy minister of labor, at 1 a.m. He was expected to deliver them to management negotiators this morning.

P. J. O'Keefe, national representative for the Canadian Union of Public Employees, and chief negotiator for its Local 43, said the proposals are the union's best effort to "end this terrible dispute."

Toronto's parks are piled with mountains of garbage in plastic bags, taken there by residents after household collections ceased.

Mr. O'Keefe indicated the unids had got down to its minimum demands and that the reduced set of proposals represented a realistic position.

The local has been determined at least to sustain a 15-cent wage increase negotiated in Etobicoke borough for a two-year agreement and to improve current fringe benefits.

Mr. O'Keefe said the new proposals are in the area of the Etobicoke settlement.

Management has contended that the union's pre-strike demands would result in a $34-tax increase for the average household this year and $68 next year. The union argued that cost of meeting all demands would mean a $18.64-tax increase per household in 1972.

The city had offered 21 cents the first year and 17 the second, which would result in the average weekly wage to $148.40 from the present $142.38 for a 40-hour week. Local 43 had been seeking 21 and 21 cents for each year which would mean a raise to $138.20 a week.

Police Hunt Fox Through Picton

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Town police assisted by several hunters, last night chased a fox believed to be rabid through Picton streets until darkness forced an end to the search.

At one point the fox attempted to enter a basement window at the Pitt Street residence of R. MacAdams but was frightened off. The animal reportedly snarled and threatened to attack Mr. MacAdams as he chased it away.

The fox was last seen running from behind the Picton United Church into the area of the town dump.

Although police received two reports of a fox being sighted yesterday afternoon, Constable Harry Sletz said tracks indicated only one animal was roaming in the town.

Last night's chase was the second in less than a week. A fox suspected of being rabid was pursued in the east end of Picton and later on Bridge Street several days ago. The animal was found dead on the shoreline of Picton Harbor and the carcass was taken to the Picton animal hospital.

No report has been received to date to indicate if the dead fox was rabid.

Government Is Not Ready To Intervene

Russia's Missile Submarines Are Allocated to Murmansk

LONDON (Reuter) — The most important naval development over the last few years has been the rapid Soviet buildup of a missile-carrying submarine fleet, according to a report published here today.

The strategic survey, published annually by the London-based Institute for Strategic Studies, said there now are 25 of these short-range Y-class boats, each carrying 16 limited-range missiles, and they are being built at a rate of about 10 a year.

With their present armaments, the submariners said advance beyond the Norwegian sea—between Iceland and Norway—in order to be able to reach stations from which to cover potential targets in the United States," the institute said.

However, it added that "a new submarine-launched ballistic missile (SLBM), with a solid propellant and range of more than 3,000 miles has been paraded by the Soviet Union and flight-tested."

The report said the new Y-class submarines are being allocated primarily to the northern fleet, based around Murmansk in the Soviet northwest, and now the largest of the four Soviet fleets.

The report refers to the Norwegian Sea as an important strategic transit zone as well as a forward defence area for the northern fleet.

Trenton Mill Rate Shops 4.5 Drop

TRENTON (Staff) — After a brief closed-door session following last night's regular council meeting, Trenton's 1972 budget was finally approved.

There was some discussion about revising it but Mayor Duncan McDonald said this morning it stayed "as is" at $3,383,948, up about $310,000 over 1971.

Despite the modest increase, public school ratepayers both commercial and residential have been given tax decreases. For the residential rate, there has been a decrease of 4.5 mills to 127.188 mills and for the commercial rate a decrease of 3.966 to 140.05.

Major contributing factor to the decrease was a reduced demand for funds from Trenton by the Hastings County Board of Education. Per separate school supporters taxes are up due to increased education costs here.

The residential separate mill rate is up 7.282 mills to 122.517, the commercial separate rate up 9.736 to 143.982. Despite the 1972 increase to separate school supporters, over the past two years per separate school supporters' taxes have not climbed as absurdly as those for public school ratepayers.

The public works department accounts for $122,000 of the 1972 budget increase. Mayor McDonald says reconstruction of Dundas East, North Murray and Reid Street are the major items as well as installation of sewers in the Cochrane-Holland streets neighborhood.

Salary increases accounted largely for the $71,000 police service and $40,000 fire department budget increases. The fire department budget includes $10,000 for a retaining wall at the back of the riverside station house.

Less money is required not only for education but for social welfare and health unit services.

CN Track Underpass Favored by Committee

Members of the city council traffic and light committee prefer an underpass beneath the CN double tracks just west of Hambly Street as the most acceptable method of eliminating the existing grade crossing on Canniffon Road.

Although costing more money than the overpass plan recommended last week by consulting engineers, Totten, Sims and Hubbell Associates Ltd., the proposal favored by the traffic committee would have the advantage of discouraging the use of Brockover Ave. as a north-south artery and would also allow Albion to remain open at Station Street.

Alternatively Emily Street is recommended to be deadended at Station Street, thus eliminating what otherwise was described as an inefficient intersection.

The underpass proposal for west of Hambly Street was one of four plans submitted to council by the consulting engineers with an overpass solution being recommended for the sake of economy.

The four alternatives were referred to the traffic committee which yesterday opted for the underpass proposal and will recommend its acceptance to city council.

Cost of stage 1 of the favored underpass proposal (not including road widening on Station or Emily Streets) is estimated at $1,814,000 of which the city's share would be $472,000.

Estimated total cost of the overpass proposal recommended last week by the consulting engineers was $1,843,000, including road widening. Strong opposition by area property owners and residents to the closing of Albion Street at Station and to the fact that Emily Street alignment would direct through traffic onto Blecker Ave. were the main factors prompting the traffic committee to favor the easterly underpass proposal.

A number of Albion Street residents including the owners of several businesses forwarded a petition objecting to dead-ending of their street, claiming that it would reduce property values and interfere with truck deliveries.

In addition to traffic committee members, four other city council members — Aldermen Robin Jeffrey, Jean Smith, Donald Soulter and Ezoo David — sat in on yesterday's meeting.

At council members agreed that Albion Street should not be closed off. Conversely it was felt that closing of Emily Street at Station would not result in any problem as there would still be access to Station Street by way of Oak Street.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said the No. 3 underpass scheme was "considered" while the consulting engineers agreed that the scheme would leave more flexibility for any possible future preference for a north-south arterial road south of Station Street.

If the underpass scheme is okayed by council, approvals from the Ontario department of transportation and communications and the federal department of transport commissioners will be sought.

Pedestrian Crossover Possible at John St.

Although to be closed to vehicular traffic, the John Street level crossing in Foster Ward could remain open for pedestrian use if a request of the city traffic and light committee is approved.

Early this year at a meeting attended by city and railway officials it was agreed that crossings on Church and George Street would remain open and that automatic crossing protection should be provided.

At the same time it was agreed that the John Street crossing could be closed but before this was done an investigation would be made to determine if it was possible to construct a pedestrian walkway and chain link fence on CN property south of the CP track between Church and George Streets.

Now investigation has shown that construction of the latter would pose a problem for railway customers and in view of the fact the walkway would cost an estimated $4,-500, CN is suggesting that the John Street level crossing remain open for pedestrians.

However the CPR is not prepared to give approval for this without further consideration and a further meeting between city officials and railway representatives will be held.

The John Street pedestrian crossing over the railway tracks was but one of a number of items considered at yesterday's traffic committee meeting.

The committee is still awaiting a report from the police chief on the school and school association request for a traffic signal at Victoria and Dundas Streets intersections.

The committee recommended installation of a traffic light at the Sidney and Bridge Street intersection, but felt that this traffic condition didnot warrant a traffic light at the corner of Yeoman and Bridge streets.

The committee gave its approval to the recommended 1972 capital reconstruction program totalling $0.890 square feet. The addition to the list of another 1200 feet to provide a walk on the north side of Dundas Street west of Herchimer Ave. was recommended.

The complaint of a group of Elmer Street residents about automobiles and trucks blocking the sidewalk with parked cars was referred to the police chief for report.

Trenton Council Seeks Change in Schedule

TRENTON (Staff) — Councillor Pete Asit took a new approach to promotion of the tourist trade here at Monday's council meeting — lures tourists to see Trenton.

Complaining of a new schedule of swing-bridge openings for the Dundas St. Bridge, he suggested that if the number of the bridge openings were cut down boating tourists would be forced "to stop and see what a wonderful place we have here."

He said 11 bridge openings daily — five in the morning, six in the afternoon — are too many. He particularly criticized those at 4.15 and 4.45 p.m., when crossdown vehicular traffic is high.

The merchant, who the same day announced a forthcoming sale of his downtown shop, charged that the department of Indian affairs and northern development that determines the bridge openings is discriminating against Trenton.

"It doesn't appear to me they have much consideration for the community," he said.

Councillor Ted Parker told council he didn't feel Trenton's case in arguing for bridge opening changes would get as good now as five years ago before opening of the upper high-level bridge.

Council decided to ask the department to open discussions with the town on the possibility of revising bridge-opening times.

Fire Victim Identified

TRENTON (Staff) — Ontario fire marshal inspector Paul Mckercracher has been completing a gutted north-end variety store today to determine cause of an early morning blaze that Monday claimed the life of a former Trenton police sergeant.

Fire officials here said this morning they have received no preliminary report from Insp. Mckercracher on the cause of the fire in which store proprietor 59-year-old Douglas Bradshaw died.

Bradshaw, a widower, lived one on the premises of Bradshaw's Variety Store. His body was found yesterday morning by firemen in the living quarters of the building.

Identification came later in the day. Dr. J. V. Byrne, however, refused yesterday to discuss a post mortem conducted on Bradshaw at Trenton Memorial Hospital, repeating only that he had nothing to report. Bradshaw had left the police force here five years ago for health reasons and had operated the Front St. store since that time.

To Book Or Not to Book

Howard Bleecker, chairman of the Hastings Public Library board, proclaimed himself as the devil's advocate at a meeting last night, criticizing a library scheme that will encompass the county. # Picton Seals Building Fate Mary Street School to Go

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Controversy re; garding the former Mary Street school last night divided town council and ended with a 5-4 recorded vote in favor of demolition of the building.

The school, considered by council last summer as a possible site for lockup facilities and a town office, was mentioned when councillors approved a two year lease for cells at the former stairs jail at a rental of $100 per month.

Councillor Cory Walraven asked if the site earlier considered for a lockup would remain in its present state for the next two years.

Picton Deputy Reeve James Bird suggested in subsequent discussion that council should decide whether to go ahead with the renovation of the school.

A bylaw for renovation of the school, read twice by council last year, was introduced for third reading and unanimously voted down.

A discussion of possible future need of lockup cells in Picton ensued and Picton Reeve; Albert Pirsh, who talked a new police station and town offices were required.

Council defeated a motion by the reeve to allow the town engineer, David McIntosh, to inspect the Mary Street school and offer plans for its renovation under a winter works program for 1972-73.

Reeve Pirsh said a new county museum received approximately $41,000 in assistance under this program and observed the town might enjoy new offices and a police station for $15-$20,000 employing the same plan. Renovations at the former school building to include lockup facilities were estimated at $78,000 last summer.

Councillor Harry Abram finally moved for demolition of the school and on re-recorded vote councillors tied the motion 4-4 until Mayor Margaret Ackerman cast the deciding "yes" vote.

Reeve Pirsh asked if the citizens committee, a group organized last summer to support renovation of the school, would be notified of the demolition motion.

Mayor Ackerman replied that this would be a decision of council and when asked by Reeve Pirsh when demolition would begin the mayor replied "at the crack of dawn."

Councillors voting for demolition of the school were Harry Abram, William Lane, Harold McLoughlin, Bessie Ward and Mayor Ackerman.

Council Asks Chief For Guard Report

TRENTON (Staff) — Following a letter from the Home and School Club of Prince Charles School protesting pending dismissal of crossing guards, Trenton council reluctantly accepted the recommendation of Councillor George Brown that the chief of police be asked to prepare a report on the crossing guard situation.

Mayor Dennis McDonald took the opportunity to reiterate his oft-stated position that the police chief should have reported to council on the issue before council decided to axe three guards.

The home and school communication quoted school principal Charles DeLong as saying "a guard should be maintained" at the Dufferin Avenue crossing near Prince Charles School.

The letter called the guard at the crosswalk "a vocal reminder (of safety rules) to both those children walking and riding bicycles.

"As parents, we feel, that saving of this small expenditure does not justify the risk of children's safety and we urge you to reconsider your decision," the letter stated.

Although agreeing to have police chief David Saunders bring in a report on the guards, Councillor Ted Parker questioned whether the chief could be objective, saying he could probably quote now what the chief's findings would be.

"It would be a waste of time and money," commented Councillor Stan Ketcheson.

Architect of the guard dismissals, Councillor Paul Tripp said: "I don't expect the (Saunders) to say something akin to being taken down a peg hood." On the usefulness of the guards, he said he didn't mean to put them down, that "the children are more capable of crossing the street than the guard . . . the children are keen and alert."

Councillor Parker said he travels Dufferin Avenue, where he works, several times daily and concludes there are at least eight places where the lives of the children and pupils are in greater jeopardy than at the guarded crosswalk. "I don't know why someone isn't hit!" he said.

County Library System To Be Given Trial Run

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The townships of Hastings County are to be given a product they don't seem to want, in the hope they will want it sooner or later.

Lake Ontario Regional Development, through provincial stimulation and subsidization, is pressing for a system which will update County library services.

They intend doing this by centralizing libraries and offering schemes to provide for more book circulation.

Last night, representatives of libraries (both public and departments of education) met with LORDC representative Ronald Boyce to discuss the program's merits.

Mr. Boyce, who claimed the system was "darn exciting", told The Intelligencer, "there are 28,000 people throughout the county who do not receive the services of a library."

"With a mail service program, books can be delivered to these homes at a small cost," he said.

Postage and handling of the books would amount to about $2 per book.

Mr. Boyce said the tax-supported libraries cater to their own municipalities.

For those who live outside the municipalities, there is a fee of about $2 for the use of the library.

"It isn't much but the people don't use it," said Mr. Boyce.

For a public library, existing in the present system, Mr. Boyce said "if you went down on your knees, on a good day, they might mail you a book."

Many of the figure of people without service, Marmora Library Board chairman Howard Bleecker, said "I'll be the devil's advocate and say that there are 28,000 people who cannot be bothered spending $2, they don't really need the service." Most felt $5,000 would be a fairer figure.

Cecil Woods, reeve of Madoc Township, turned in his seat and called back, "I agree with you 100 per cent."

Mr. Boyce, answering both men said "we are going to proceed with a demonstration to give you proof."

Mr. Wood, a member of county council, added, "You'll not get it off the ground by misrepresenting it," to which Mr. Boyce claimed he was not.

It was Mr. Boyce's contention that too much was being asked of the librarian. "There is too much to do in a library for one person to handle it," he said.

The system calls for a central office that will take care of all the office work away with under the new scheme, if accepted.

The county is in complete control of the program in co-operation with a Rosery board," said Mr. Boyce. "They can stop the program any time they want to."

The scheme plans for new libraries and mini libraries to be set up in barren portions of the county to cut down travelling distance.

"We, in this province, are causing every with projects that people are not asking for," said Mr. Bleecker, "and then we will have run away costs," said Mr. Wood.

Both in circulated publicity of the program and in his "verbal persuasion," Mr. Boyce said the program would not cost one cent to anyone in the county.

Reading from a publication, Mr. Boyce said, "if municipalities do not provide services (through) Township Act, provincial legislation allows, regional government will step in and do it for them."

"When we get a few projects under way, we will then put on a real drive to consultin, seeking their endorsement," he said.

Government Spending

Now that the tax deadline has passed and the coffers of the Government have been further enriched at citizen expense we believe this is a good time for Canadian administrations — federal and provincial — to take a hard look at spending programs.

Year after year the revelations of the Auditor-General as well as the reports of spending by such bodies as The Canadian Council makes it abundantly clear that those who spend our money do so with an abandon that borders on the criminal. Some of the make-work programs for unemployed youth fall into this category also but nowhere is it more evident than in the evidence of departmental spending in Ottawa.

For example, the Commons was informed recently that Prime Minister Trudeau's office was refurnished at a total cost of $41,-908. Six firms were involved in the project according to Works Minister Dube in a written reply to Robert Coates (PC, Cumberland-Colchester North). The work included repairs and painting of the ceiling, firing up the woodwork, installing built-in cabinets and a new lighting system at a cost of $18,484. New furniture, including a coffee table and end tables as well as leather covered chesterfields and chairs cost $34,058. A new rug cost $1,363.

In other words the equivalent of one of the more outlandish homes in say Toronto was spent in refurnishing and redecorating alone at the Prime Minister's parliamentary office. Perhaps the place was beginning to show its age, but in giving it a facelift Mr. Trudeau or his aides showed no regard for economy.

We think it is time Ottawa began showing such an example. That also goes for our provincial government which lately has been doing its air travelling at taxpayers' expense and is contemplating buying a jet aircraft for the use of Premier Davis. By comparison we recall it was not so long ago that former Governor Kirk of Florida got around by DC-3. We repeat, it is time Governments in Canada and the ministers and civil servants concerned were more careful where the spending of public money is concerned.

Downtown Blaze

Whatever the reasons for the disastrous weekend fire in Belleville it represents a serious loss for the store owners and businesses concerned. Even where there is insurance there is the tragedy of personal loss. The severing of business and working links with that particular area of town, the destruction of stock and the problems of replenishment and restoration, the difficulties of the law firm faced with destruction of its files and records — these all come to mind in the aftermath of this destructive blaze. Hopefully the various enterprises will be able to resume business elsewhere, but Front Street meanwhile is the loser. What will be the fate of the corner site? Demolition probably, or will it remain derelict and an eyesore like the old Moira Furniture store left abandoned a short distance away? As it is, downtown can ill afford such a loss.

Primary Politics

Granted that for political reasons alone Senators George McGovern and Hubert Humphrey must find themselves in opposition to President Nixon. But in virtually assuring the Communists of a complete U.S. withdrawal, even down to the date, Hanoi must be thinking "with friends like these, who needs enemies?"

Once in office though, if either should attain it, McGovern or Humphrey, as the case may be, might have to change his tune. Being the head of government and leader of the Opposition demand two different approaches; that is why those in opposition speak with different tongues and in diverse ways.

Frustrations of the Commons' Question Period

Diefenbaker Told Law Conference Cost $165,000

By HENRY F. HERALD
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker Wednesday got an answer to a question he had on the Common order paper since the last session of Parliament opened Feb. 18.

It was not a tough question: How much did the recent law conference cost the country delegates attending? Two tonnes and a day later he learned it cost $165,000 and 500 pounds of beef.

Mr. Diefenbaker's question was No. 4 on the paper. Numbers 1 and 2 are still there. They don't appear all that difficult either. David Orlikow (NDP — Winnipeg North) wants to know how many grants for mental health research were requested and how many were granted; and he wants to know how many grants for physical fitness were requested and how many were granted by Polymer Corp. in 1971.

They may have been left untouched on purpose to see how long it takes Mr. Orlikow to start demanding answers. Or one of the answers is delayed to forestall as long as possible the disclosure of embarrassing information. With others, the delay is simply routine. Mr. Orlikow's colleague Perry Ryan (PC — Toronto Spadina) has a nine part question dealing with the lease of land in downtown Toronto for a commercial development. It requires detailed information from a number of government departments.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre), in his reception pursuit of better answers for public servants, asked detailed questions about the number of pensioners receiving more than $20 a month; how many $20 a month; and so on. He got his answer eventually but the public servants handed a team of statisticians many days of poring over data to get the answers.

The oral question period in the Commons each day is a battle of wits. The opposition MP's are looking for publicity and so appreciate a jab at the head of the minister salvage at the switch. A minister, if adequately briefed and on his toes, can counter the situation into good publicity for himself with quick answers or, perhaps, with evasion or wit.

Written questions are a different ballgame. They are put on the order paper for a variety of reasons to get information for constituents, to get official figures for use in future speeches, to complete an MP's files on a subject he's picked, or to force the government to reveal embarrassing details of flubbed projects or of patronage bestowed in the official publication on departmental spokesmen.

Jack Marshall (PC—Humber — St. George's — St. Barbe) asked whether Treasury and previous departmental had called tenders for an order of protective eyeglasses for fishermen. Several companies had complained to Mr. Marshall that the tendering procedure had been ignored.

The answer, which took two months to come, was simply that a certain company and a certain department had special glasses for a number of years and it was the only reasonable supplier.

Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey — White Rock) made questions about automobile safety and seat-covering campaigns. Richard Forestall (PC—Halifax-Dartmouth East) asks questions on public health.

But the most prolific question asker of the Commons this session is undoubtedly Kenneth Robinson (Toronto — St. Paul's shore). The government has answered a little less than half of the 500 or so questions asked this session. About a quarter of the remaining ones are in Mr. Robinson's name; 25 of the last 100 answers were for him.

There is no consistent theme. They deal with immigration, voting procedures in United Nations, industrial tendering procedures, agriculture, youth affairs, Canada Council development, credit information, federal aid for municipal sewage plants, foreign aggression, with developing African nations, Arctic research, with historical events in Trinidad and a host of other matters.

Mr. Robinson apparently has no axe to grind. He is just seeking information. He is a valuable addition in the Commons but when he has a way it still is phone the minister's executive assistant.

"Justin just said his first words—'When's the election, Pop?' "

An Average Day on Parliament Hill

By FARMER TISSINGTON

OTTAWA — Recently on one afternoon in the Commons there were two unusual occurrences. The one that everybody noticed became when a demonstrator suddenly rose to his feet in the public gallery and tossed a number of leaflets onto the floor of the chamber, while shouting out a protest about deportation.

The incident was over in a matter of seconds as the Commons' security staff hustled out the man and took him downstairs for questioning. It is not the first time that a similar protest or demonstration has taken place, but what makes it frightening is that the leaflet could so easily been a stick of dynamite, a hand grenade, or some other destructive device.

While visitors to the public galleries must check their cameras and packages before entering the chamber, it is impossible to prevent a person from carrying a small object in a pocket and hurling it over the railing before the guards are even aware of his intention.

Following the near disaster with a dynamiter a few years ago, a great deal of study was given to the protection of our legislators. The idea of installing a glass partition in front of the floor of the chamber from the galleries was one plan considered, but abandoned as impractical. But something of this sort may have to be done if we are to get another serious incident of that nature.

It is true that MPs now are well paid for their labors, but perhaps a part of their last increase in the income could be looked upon as a form of danger pay.

The second unusual occurrence of that afternoon went largely unnoticed by the public. It was the fact the MPs went through the entire question period without once directing a question to Prime Minister Trudeau.

Normally, the PM is the target of a lot of the questioning as he rises to defend the government from the criticisms of the opposition. Some days he takes as many as 15 to 20 per cent of all the questions put in the 40-minute period. But on this unusual day he sat throughout the time without once having to rise to his feet.

If you happened to be sitting in the Commons on a Monday recently and listening to a debate on a Conservative want of confidence motion, you would have wondered if the government MPs and the opposition were discussing the same country.

The opposition charged the government with failing to halt unemployment, criticized it for the rise in the cost of living, the weakness of its tax reform legislation, the decline in the rate of capital investment, and so on and on. In short, Canada sounded like a pretty dismal place to be.

But government members spoke in glowing terms of our high rate of economic growth, how some 330,000 new jobs were created, the outstanding Canadian record in fighting inflation more successfully than any other industrialized nation, how manufacturing shipments have been rising strongly for more than a year and so on. It was a boomingly, vigorous country with a steadily improving economy was the assessment of the Liberal MPs.

It's the crux of the argument you are going to hear a lot more about once the MPs start out on the hustings.

Strike Chaos Blasted By John Roberts

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

John Roberts may be able to make as strong an even stronger contribution in his retirement than he did as premier.

Mr. Roberts made a notable speech to the Empire Club in Toronto last week. In this, his first major address since retirement a year ago, the former premier gave perhaps the most important lead to labor matters we have had recently in Canada.

He drew attention to the increasingly deplorable situation being brought about by strikes, and the growing public dissatisfaction and concern. His opinion was that it now was time to move ahead to a more mature position on labor-management disputes.

Mr. Roberts specifically referred to the recommendations of the Rand inquiry as the possible lead to be followed. That report, prepared by Mr. Justice Rand for the government in 1968, was perhaps a bit ahead of its time, he said. But it will might fit the needs of today.

Mr. Justice Rand made proposals which in resolution are on both sides of the labor question should be put out what he could be some answer to the needs in this field.

The key recommendation was that a labor tribunal should be established with very broad powers of adjudication and intervention. Then various things such as boycotts, secondary strikes and mass picketing would have been banned. There would have been more responsible (including penalties) for both unions and companies.

Whether these proposals are fitting ones is not the point at the moment. The point is that a man of the stature of Mr. Roberts has protested against the labor situation today.

Everybody knows that it is bad, of course. But there has been now need of a voice of importance to point to it and take the lead towards correction.

Industrialists can't provide this voice; they would be suspect. Nor can important businessmen. Labor leaders can't be it through fear of losing support. Politicians can't do it; they could step on too many toes.

But Mr. Roberts is unique. He still has great prominence and respect and he can't suspect. He will be listened to and perhaps, one hopes, not only on this but on other issues that need to be brought before the public by a strong and independent voice.

Writers' Dilemma

Toronto Daily Star

Alexander, Solzhenitsyn is a Soviet winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature for his novels Cancer Ward and The First Circle He is also a courageous critic of the Soviet system, who refuses to be silenced. In an interview in Moscow he detailed the persecution he has suffered for the past seven years. He accuses Italy puppet Kosygin in charge by the International Communion of Jurists, of "political repression of freedom of speech in the Soviet Union."

Like Boris Pasternak, who was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1958, Solzhenitsyn does not go to Stockholm to receive it. Even if allowed to leave his country, he probably would be refused re-entry, and he feels much enough to prefer prosecution to exile. So did Pasternak.

The men in the Kremlin have not gone as far as they went in Stalin's brutal methods. Under Stalin, Solzhenitsyn probably would have been shot. His outspokenness by being, in a pet phrase of the late dictator, "made shorter by a head." But Solzhenitsyn has to put up with continual spying, and systematic spreading of malicious slanders about him, while lesser known Soviet writers are dispatched to labor camps or to insane asylums if they criticize the regime.

Possibly all that saves Solzhenitsyn from their fate is that the Soviet government hesitates to outrage opinion abroad to that extent. If so, the louder the condemnation of Soviet repression of writers, the better for them.

Landbuyers Confronted With Flock of Rumors

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is running into obstacles as it sets out to buy 25,000 acres of land east of here on which to establish a new city with a major electrical power plant and a population of between 150,000 and 200,000.

The city—tentative name is Pickering—is to be created in conjunction with a controversial $1 billion plus airport to be built in Pickering Township to supplement operations of the Toronto International Airport at nearby Malton.

The new airport to be built by the federal government is due to get into operation in late 1979 or 1980. Land for the proposed new city is being bought by the provincial government, which hopes to have developers build the community.

Harry Mitchell, the Ontario government official in charge of land purchases for the airport-city, says his early problems are caused by false information being spread around about the big deal, possibly some by fast-money operators hoping to cash in on the project.

The first rumor that bothered him, says Mr. Mitchell, was that the province was buying land outside the city project boundaries. No sooner had he denied this than panic stories went around to the effect that the government was moving in within a week and that no one would have to leave.

"Our main problem is to keep everybody informed and stop rumors spreading. Before you know it, really know where you are, all sorts of stories have got out."

Currently, he says, there is no schedule for the start of construction. The first few government offices for Pickering have gone in now, and everyone with property should know the offer by fall.

Of course, if they do not accept, their land will be expropriated.

Ireland May Ruin Heath

LONDON (CP) — The International Institute for Strategic Studies suggests the Northern Ireland crisis could destroy the Conservative government and bring Labor back to power in Britain in 1974.

"This comment is interjected in a worldwide survey of military developments by the institute, over which Lester B. Pearson, former Canadian prime minister, presides.

The institute suggests that in 1971 British army losses in Northern Ireland "were supportable and recruitment rose, as always in Britain in a crisis."

But Britain's relations with the Republic of Ireland were almost stroked "to breaking point." Northern Ireland and unemployment were the week spots in Prime Minister Heath's government "and could well bring Labor back to power in 1974.

"If so, and if Labor maintained its inevitably anti-EEC (European Economic Community) stand, this could result in paralysis within the Community shortly after British entry," the institute concludes in its survey published today.

Great Debate Near On Capital Punishment

OTTAWA (CP) — The time is approaching when Parliament will be faced with another grisly debate on capital punishment. The Commons rose in a preview of it Monday.

Members of Parliament are showing concern about it now, although there are eight months left of sessions and no decision either bring back hanging or abolish it permanently.

It was brought up in the Commons Monday by several speakers, including former prime minister John Diefenbaker—a bitter foe of the supreme punishment when he was not the subject of debate.

The Commons was debating an omnibus bill that would amend the Criminal Code in numerous ways—including abolition of corporal punishment and making serial hijacking an offence. But it does not deal with capital punishment.

On Dec. 30, 1967, Parliament passed a bill that abolished capital punishment except for the murder of police and prison guards—for a trial period of five years.

So by December Parliament will have to decide what it wants to do—continue the policy of the last five years, eliminate capital punishment altogether, or have another trial period.

Perhaps the strongest argument for abolition—instead of hanging cases from Mr. Diefenbaker who told of a man convicted of rape and executed six months later the chief Crown witness confessed to the crime.

"That will never be effaced from my memory," he said.

He also mentioned that when capital punishment was in effect juries brought in a verdict of manslaughter, whenever it was possible. Juries today did not have the same qualms about conviction.

Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena), also expressed himself against all capital punishment, including the present provisions. But he said the government is undermining the law when it commutes the death penalties of murderers of police and prison guards.

He said he believes there have been five or six commutations in recent years. If hanging was a deterrent, as many believed, then the government was "practically murder by not going through with the death penalty."

He added that he did not believe hanging is a deterrent.

Lincoln Alexander (PC—Hamilton West) positively expressed the feeling of many when he said he did not know what to advocate.

"Everybody says we should bring back capital punishment because the statistics show what happens without it."

But the last five years had not been a test, not of the law because the cabinet had flouted the wishes of Parliament and commuted death penalties.

While Canadians did not know what the last capacities, they did know they wanted capital punishment as a protection for the police.

Mark Rose (NDP—Fraser Valley West) said there are many arguments for and against retention of hanging.

"I would prefer to find myself on the side which suggests that capital punishment is really no deterrent to murder and that capital crimes would be no less prevalent as a result of a return to capital punishment."

Meanwhile, there was general support among speakers Monday for the abolition of corporal punishment by the courts, as provided in the bill.

'Moral Decay'

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A 22.8 percent increase in crime in the Niagara Peninsula last year was largely due to "moral and family decay," Chief Albert Sherman of the Niagara Regional Police Force said Monday.

Tools' Lacking

BRANTFORD (CP) — Provincial Judge W. A. MacDonald of Brantford Monday criticized the lack of tools for adult rehabilitators for not providing the court with all the tools necessary to administer justice properly.

He was commenting on the Crown's inability to satisfy the court that signatures on certificates from the federal food and drug directorate were those of a government-approved analyst.

Seedlings Sold

Sam Dodds, brother of Philip Dodds who is president of the Quinte Arts and Cultural Society, last week-end served as a super salesman for more than 6,000 tree seedlings distributed from the Picton Armory Mall. ## FBI Probes Sex Lives of Mighty

Hoover's Secret Memos LBJ's Bedtime Stories

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson said today FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover "happily prepared secret memos, loaded with intimate details about the personal affairs of the high and mighty," for then President Lyndon B. Johnson's "bedtime reading."

Anderson told the government information subcommittee of the House of Representatives the "sex lives, drinking habits and personal affairs" of prominent Americans have come under FBI scrutiny although the FBI has no jurisdiction nor justification for this kind of snooping."

"A love affair, no matter how sordid, is no business of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, yet FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover has demonstrated an intense interest in who is sleeping with whom in Washington," Anderson said at a hearing on governmental secrecy policies.

Johnson was the one White House occupant who had a fine appreciation for stories about the extracurricular love lives of public figures."

Anderson said he has seen FBI sex reports.

French Programs Said Disposable

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario home and school associations replying to a survey consider French programs the "most disposable" elementary school services and would rather see spending reductions there than in any other area.

Still Loves to Paint

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lynn Sissons, linked to Canadian art circles for more than 30 years, now lives in Winnipeg's Oak View Place nursing home but her fingers itch to paint new subjects all the time.

Miss Sissons, born in the late 1890s at Maple Farm, a mile from the central Manitoba town of Portage la Prairie, says she is in love with life and misses its pace.

One of a family of nine, Miss Sissons came to Winnipeg to study art in 1911, first at the Winnipeg School of Art, and then at the University of Manitoba School of Art. She also took lessons from the late Walter Phillips, known for his delicate water-colors and woodcuts.

For 30 years she spent her summers living in a tent at Clear Lake, then renting a cottage in the fall near Whitefish to wait for the snow.

"Morning crews were glorious and then a whole day of painting," she said, referring to those pastels, oils and water-color painting in the winter too, but I can't do that now.

"I'm an on-the-spot painter. I prefer to paint at the site rather than sketch and finish it in a studio—it is more exciting and I like involvement shown in the painting."

Although not yet visiting the new Winnipeg Art Gallery to see her work is included in a permanent collection, she has held several one-man shows in Western Canada—all successful presentations.

Friends and relatives escort her to Manitoba Theatre Centre productions. She is blind and take her fine drives as well as in special events held by the Winnipeg Rotary club.

She does not take kindly to ill-health—"those pills, pills, colored blobs—those pills, pills, pills," and exercises her feelings with "pill poems" and some painting.

But with a little luck Miss Sissons will be outdoors this summer in her favorite province of Alberta at oils and water-colors and creating more of the wildlife, trees and lake resort scenes that have become her trade mark.

Exhibit of Watercolor Paintings

Sisters Set for Show

Two sisters from Belleville, Dorothy Walters and Helen Graham, are presently showing 40 of their carefully selected favorite water color paintings at the Corby Public Library. This exhibit started yesterday and will last for a two week duration.

Dorothy and Helen have been painting seriously for 12 years and have adapted their own style after studying under artists such as: Paave Aerola who lived in Cobourg but now resides in Mexico; Peter Kolisnyk, Cobourg and Carl Schaeffer, Toronto.

This is the first show these two sisters have had which only shows their water color paintings. They do enter their work in various exhibitions including the East Central Ontario Art Association, The Etherington Gallery, Kingston and are members of the Belleville Art Association.

"Water colors are not a very popular art," remarked Helen Graham, "because once you've painted something in water color, you can't change it." These artists have a van in which they drive around the country side and when they see a scene they like — they paint it. All their painting equipment is stored in the van which proves to be a lot more comfortable than painting in a car.

Helen and Dorothy very seldom criticize each other's work and they very seldom see each other's work until they get home or maybe even a month later. "If all the class painted the same subject, each painting would be different," commented Dorothy Walters. They each have different styles and are consistent in their art.

Helen goes through a self-criticism process. When she finishes a painting, she sets it in her living room for two days and if after that time she doesn't like it — she puts it rid of it.

This art which can be a timely and expensive project but according to the sisters, once you get in it, you keep working at it and that is why whenever they have the spare time or when the weather is suitable, they hop in their van and drive in search of a scene to paint.

May Ordain Women

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishops of the United States, facing appeals for admission of women to the priesthood, disclosed Wednesday that they are making an official inquiry into the matter.

The outcome will be "predicated on theological studies now going on," said Archbishop Leo C. Byrne of Minneapolis, chairman of a special committee on women in the church.

Earlier at a meeting of the Church's American hierarchy, a mimeographed appeal from a Catholic laity and sight Catholic women's rights organization was distributed to the 227 bishops, urging them to support changes allowing ordination of women.

"It's a question of knowledge and research," Archbishop Byrne later told a news conference. The archbishop, who also is vice-president of the U.S. bishops, noted the rule against women priests is based on long church tradition.

If the studies turn out to justify a change, he said, his committee is ready to do it. He pointed out that, should U.S. Catholics support such a step, it also would require papal sanction.

The more ideological study commission by the bishops concluded today that there are no anatural or theological obstacles to women being priests.

Ann Landers

Ann Corrected on Beard Length

Dear Ann Landers: You were wrong when you attributed the world's longest beard to a man named Phillip Hessen. You said he was six feet two inches tall, had a 36-inch waist, and his beard was long enough to sweep the carpet, measured six feet eight inches in length.

According to the back files of the Hinckley, W. Va., Raleigh Register (we run your column) an item and picture dated June 8, 1933, reported that a man named Zach T. Wilcox of Carmel City, New, had a beard 17½ feet three inches long. It had been growing since 1881 and was 12 feet three inches long when the article appeared in print.—The Miscellin Wizard of Society

Dear Ann Landers: The man with the longest beard was not Phillip Hessen. It was A.B. Norton of Dallas, Tex. Mr. Norton, a college student in 1884, vowed he would not shave until Henry Clay was elected president of the United States. When he died at the age of 88, Mr. Norton's beard was so long he had to roll it up and keep it tucked in his vest.

The undertaker who buried him was my great-grandfather. He was 5 feet 10 inches tall. "He buried a man today whose beard measured 12 feet nine inches long." Or he was 6 feet, Ann.—Fifth Generation Texan

Dear Ann: I hope you don't mind being corrected, but the longest beard, according to the Guinness Book of World Records, belonged to Adam Diamond, born in France in 1858. His beard measured 11 feet, 11½ inches long when he died in 1911.—Twelve, Illinois Reader

Dear Ann Landers: Your boner about the man with Phillip Hessen's beard was not the world's longest. As the general manager for the Hobbs Co. Of Not Museum, we have specialized in the unusual for 39 years. The world's record is held by a man named Melvin Tapley of Ft. Worth. Had if Abraham Lincoln were elected president he would never shave again. Fifty years later, when Mr. Tapley died, his beard measured 15½ feet. Below is our card.—J.H. Long, Ripley Museum, Chicago

Dear Mr. Long: I'd like to believe it, but read the next letter:

Dear Ann: Phillip Hessen's beard was nothing compared to my great-grandfather's. Hans Langseth was born and raised in Norway and lived most of his life in Barney, N.D. When he died in 1927 his beard was 17½ feet long.

The beard now is on display in the Smithsonian Institution. Many articles and pictures were published about my great-grandfather's fantastic beard. Both Life magazine and the Minneapolis Tribune did some wonderful pieces. The Minot Daily News clipping is the source of I am sending it along with this letter. Anyone who wants proof can go to Washington and see for himself. Lyn Langseth, Great Grandchild Of Tim Wheat

Dear Ann: By this time you're probably plenty sick of beard measurements. Did you know the longest head of hair in the world belonged to Swami Pandarasannadhi who lived in the Thiruvadu Thurai monastery in India? It was 36 feet in length.—S.P OF J.

Dear Ann: Since you seem interested in hair-raising stories, did you know that the world's longest moustache belonged to Maurizio Din of Calcutta? His moustache was 102 inches from tip to tip.—Chico, California

Dear Ann: You are a churchist pig. You reported that Sandra Haight is the girl who would be longest to a man named Henson. Why didn't you mention the women who holds the record? Her name was Janice Deveree of Kentucky.

When she died in 1884 her head was 14 inches long.—Louisville Fan.

Dear Fan: Sorry about the oversight. Since you seem to be up on these matters I wonder if you can tell me if Janice Deveree slept with her beard over the blankets or under the blankets?

Young Woman Takes Over Restaurant

TORONTO (CP) — A Philadelphia chapter of the Hospital Pharmacists doctor told the Toronto ciety' Association Wednesday that use of the drug cortisone may help save premature babies.

Dr. Mary Soestgen said that although it is too early to tell, cortisone has helped in some cases of hyaline membrane disease, which results in a lack of coating on the lungs and makes breathing a massive effort. It often causes death.

Dr. Soestgen, director of newborn nurseries at Thomas Jefferson Medical College, said cortisone was given to 31 babies afflicted with the disease, whose condition was deteriorating despite other treatment. Seventeen of the babies survived.

She said that the number is still too few to demonstrate that cortisone saved them. The babies might have survived without the additional treatment.

Dr. Soestgen warned the pharmacists that all drugs can affect an unborn child to vary ing degrees.

The Only Problem Is Sex Relations

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My husband gets mad at most anything. Used very bad language and threatens to "give it to us," or go drinking, which he often does.

I have suggested to go to a doctor or counselor but he has only got annoyed at the idea. He claims our only problem is our sex relations, which I do enjoy and miss when he gets him his state of mind. It makes me all tensed up.

In the past month I've had two appointments to go talk to a doctor, but didn't go either time. I'm afraid I may start more trouble. — Turmoil.

Dear Turmoil: Sex of sexual relations go wrong, everything else suffers — and there's the rub!

Obviously you leave each other unsatisfied in some way. It leaves him angry; it leaves you tensed up. He feels criticized, even if silently and every area of your life gets the bitter blow of his anger — including your three fine children.

Many a man objects to a counselor than a feeling that it is no one's business but his own. Yet if he had symptoms of a serious illness it would be only the most ignorant of men who would avoid seeing a doctor.

Women never understand about human relations — even sexual ones. I'm sending you my list recommending helpful books on these matters; but would strongly advise that you go yourself to a counselor for help in understanding sex, and be the key part in placing in making marriage work.

Dear Doris: We are planning a 45th wedding anniversary for the wife's folks this summer. We are thinking of having a social with appropriate verse printed for framing.

Could you tell us please, if there is a printer who has these or could have one made up? — Fond of Them.

Dear Fond: I'll say that idea was right on the button!

There are commercial artists associated with printing houses, advertising agencies; there are services which frame pictures or handle photography and can guide you to the artistically talented person you need.

There is the occasional retired person who does actual work as a hobby and would take the pains to do a beautifully illuminated verse for you.

If you are also looking for a verse, your public library will help you dig for it.

Dear Doris: I have read in your column of many who are interested in pen pals. I have had a pen pal since I was 16 years old, and now am 70.

My pen pal and I think we have the record in Canada, as we doubt if anyone has had a pen pal for 49 years. If they have, please let us know. I am leaving my name and address with you. — Nellie.

Dear Nellie: Sounds like a record to me! Congratulations to both of you. Do we have any pen pals who can beat 49 years of correspondence? And how old, Nellie, have you never met personally in all that time?

(Don't just cuddle along. Doris knows human behavior and can help. Write to her and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Car Seat Regulations

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal regulations to control advertising, sale and import of children's car seats and harnesses come into effect June 1.

Consumer Affairs Minister Robert Andras, making the announcement Wednesday, said more than 70 per cent of the seats and harnesses being sold to late 1971 in Canada would not have met the new rules.

"The industry was advised and I understand the situation has improved," he said in a statement.

More stringent regulations are coming, he added. The department and the Canadian Standards Association are developing new standards that would replace the June 1 regulations "in the relatively near future."

With the summer driving season approaching, I thought it advisable to move now to remove the worst designs from the picture rather than wait for completion of the new standard," Mr. Andras said.

The regulations are under the Hazardous Products Act and require installed seats and harnesses to be able to withstand a static pull of 1,000 pounds.

In the event a seat does not meet the test in a given car, this fact must be clearly declared on the product."

Other regulations affect the width, strength and durability of webbing, head-restraints and energy-absorbing padding. Designs which look over the vehicle's seat are prohibited.

The webbing in children's car seats must be well distributed over the pelvis and chest.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Should girls be pushed into romance?

NOT if girls—by their own volition—would rather devote their time and energy to some other enterprise. Perhaps it could be school work or a career. The same thing goes for boys. Of course, if a girl or boy is purposely shunning romance because of a personal fear or sense of inadequacy, professional help should be considered. Other than that, girls and boys will enjoy romance more if they are not pushed into it.

Can spite drive a man to success?

NO, not real success. Oh, if a man has a grudge to settle—either because of neglect or abuse as a child or because of some deeply felt rejection in young adulthood—he might be driven to accumulate the material things some people link to success. But such a man rarely is considered a success by his family or close associates. They are the ones who usually know that spite and success as a human being mix as well as oil and water.

Does anything go in mental therapy?

NO. The concern for the patient is uppermost in the minds of the ethical and competent mental therapists. They are not quick to leap upon any "new-fangled" or "way-out" programs that seem to grab the headliners without producing the publicized results. Professional mental therapists are, after all, trained in a highly specialized calling; they accept anything that would cause one patient undue distress would be reprehensible to them.

Action Against DISC Trade Unlikely

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government will not hesitate to take any action necessary against the United States DISC program, Acting Prime Minister Mitchell Sharp said Monday, but he added there "don't think we will have to take any action."

After fielding a series of questions in the Commons, Mr. Sharp indicated to reporters that he was optimistic the trade issue could be settled in direct negotiations with Washington.

"We have a very strong case which, I hope the Americans understand."

The DISC program preoccupied the Commons' daily question period for the second consecutive sitting. The issue surfaced last week after it was disclosed that American firms were already shipping goods in Canada as domestic international sales corporations.

Such export companies, usually subsidiaries of existing corporations, qualify for tax benefits under new U.S. law. Canada regards the law as a form of export subsidy which violates trade pacts.

Mr. Sharp, acting on behalf of Prime Minister Trudeau who was working at home, told the Commons that Canada would not hesitate to take "countervailing action" against the U.S. DISC program, but he would not be pulled into a trade war, as Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield had appeared to be suggesting.

Mr. Stanfield termed the situation a "disaster."

Outside the House, Mr. Sharp said the use of threats and talk about "disaster" was encouraging a trade war which Canada could not win.

He said it was extremely difficult to assess the effects of DISC because the names of U.S. firms, which may be exporting goods to Canada under DISC, have not been disclosed. This is a problem that must be solved "if we are to successfully deal with it."

When George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) asked Mr. Sharp when the government expects the DISC program to affect adversely employment in the Canadian auto industry, the minister replied "never."

Mr. Hees followed this up by asking whether the government believes that the program will "not in any way", shift auto industry employment to the U.S. from Canada, and Mr. Sharp said that so far there is no evidence that this can happen.

But should it happen, he added, the Canadian government will not hesitate to take necessary measures.

'Snoot' Measure Of Pollution

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Minister James Auld admitted Monday night that the province's anti-smog plan is written by "the snoot, the human nose."

Mr. Morton Shulman (NDP —Toronto-High Park) drew the admission after asking how the province measured plants in west Toronto. Dr. Shulman said some packing plants leave animal carcasses, still steaming from slaughter, on sidewalks outside their plants, resulting in a terrific stench.

He said Los Angeles County has devised a method of measuring odors and controlling them, which Ontario should follow.

Mr. Auld said his department is aware of the Los Angeles method but department inspectors still look for offensive odors from industrial plants by scrolling them.

New Deadline

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey said Monday that the May 31 deadline for some projects receiving local initiatives grants has been extended to the middle of June.

MPPs Will Be Told Why Province Lost Suit to Stop Glass Pollution

TORONTO (CP) — Legal experts from the Ontario environment department will be brought before a legislature committee to explain how the province lost its first court case under new pollution legislation, Environment Minister James Auld said Monday night.

Stephen Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party, told a legislature committee studying the department estimates that the government had been less than enthusiastic in dealing with pollution offences of Pilkington Glass Ltd. of Scarborough which is in Mr. Lewis's riding.

Mr. Lewis also said a ministerial order against the company to cease polluting the atmosphere "immediately," delivered July 13, 1970, "had not to this day been complied with."

He said because of the pollution, residents in the area are afraid to plant gardens, and won't leave their small children outside. Cars in the area are dotted with the tiny glass particles blown about by the wind.

After Mr. Lewis' repeated requests and urgings from the committee, Mr. Auld agreed to have department legal officials involved in the case appear before the committee Thursday.

Alitalia to Fly Direct to Toronto

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and Italy have reached an agreement whereby Alitalia, the Italian airline, will have direct flights to Toronto. In exchange, a Canadian airline will be given landing rights in Milan.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told the Commons, in reply to question from Charles Caccia (L—Davenport) that the agreement gives Canada "extensive benefits in Milan and beyond." He later told reporters this would enable the Canadian carrier, which he did not designate, to fly from Milan to points beyond.

Youth Grants May Be Raised

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is considering an increase of funds for this year's Opportunities for Youth summer job program, State Secretary Gerard Pelletier told the Commons Monday.

Plan Controls

TORONTO (CP) — Legislation will be introduced in the next few days to control pyramid selling schemes, Tom Winkler, consumer and commercial relations minister, told the legislature Monday. He was replying to a question from Bernard Newman (L—Windsor Walkerville) who asked about three companies out of Toronto which he said were involved in pyramid selling.

Will Charge Firms

OTTAWA (CP) — Northern Affairs Minister Jean Chretien says that when oil companies ask the government for permission to build pipelines along the Mackenzie River valley, they will be asked to "pay up" for the new Mackenzie highway.

Indians Aided

TORONTO (CP) — Self-help grants for Ontario Indians totaling $25,650 were announced Monday by Rene Brunelle, minister of community and social services.

Widows Victims

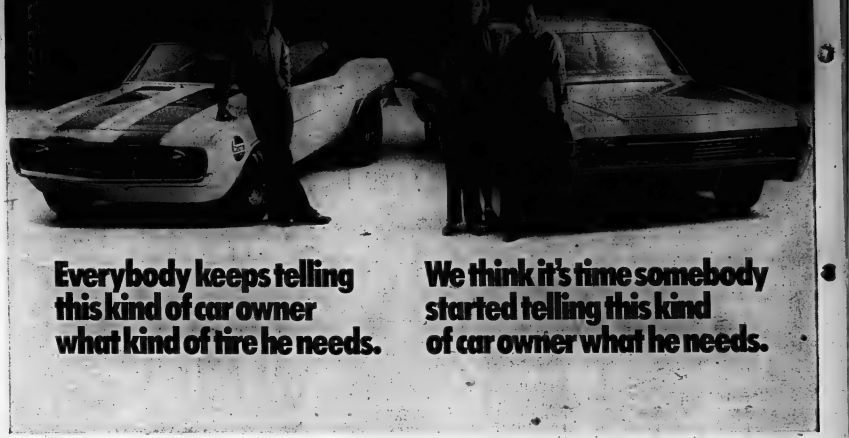
TORONTO (CP) — Middle-aged widows and cripples are the special prey of dancing schools that sign the gullible to long-term contracts for all the traffic will bear, says Frank Drea (PC—Scarborough Centre).



He was speaking Monday during debate in the Ontario legislature on his private member's bill to limit the amount a dancing school can demand as a registration fee.

Don't Like Food

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Ontario legislature are getting restless with the food served in the legislature dining room. An all-party committee to discuss ways and means of improving the food was agreed upon Monday after Les Dewar (NDP—Wentworth) said it was "the worst food I've ever tasted in my life." He said he is "embarrassed" to ask guests to eat in the members' dining room.

Link Not Certain

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario environment officials said Monday they cannot definitely assert that there is a direct relationship between the high rate of lung cancer deaths in Hamilton and Windsor and air emissions from steel plants.

Everybody keeps telling this kind of car owner what kind of tire he needs.

We think it's time somebody started telling this kind of car owner what he needs.

The birth of the souped-up Muscle Car made it necessary for tire manufacturers, including Uniroyal, to develop special kinds of tires for them.

Reality.

These car owners usually know they need them because of the style of driving they're likely to do. Plus the fact that a lot of money has been spent telling them they do.

Well, there are a lot of car owners who don't need them. They'd be simply wasting their money on this kind of tire. They need something else because of the kind of car they own and the kind of driving they're likely to do.

Among them is the Uniroyal Fastrak 4-Ply Polyester. (Obviously a name only an engineer could love.)

It was created for the family sedan owner who doesn't do a lot of tearing around but instead is more likely to do this kind of driving.

A lot of in-town, stop and go travelling. A day in the country. The office and back. The cottage on weekends. Picking the kids up at school.

If this sounds like you, then the Fastrak 4-Ply Polyester (there's that name again) is ideally suited to your driving needs.

The 4 polyester plies (or layers) make for a carcass that's every bit as strong as the one in a belted muscle car tire. They also make for a cool-running tire with little heat build-up. And the less of that in a tire, the better. Because with intelligent driving, the tire will last longer. (In fact, in most cases every bit as long as a high-priced "performance" tire.)

Also, unlike a lot of tire materials, polyester virtually resists "flat-spotting". (What happens when you've been driving for a while and the tire's a little warm, and you happen to park. A lot of tires form flat spots where the standing weight of the car forces down on them. When you start up again later, the tire's a little out of shape and it starts bumping as it turns, and making noise.)

So along with strength and durability our Fastrak 4-Ply Polyester also gives you a smooth and noise-free ride.

Four full plies.

Then there's our exclusive tread design. It gives our tire skid-resistance and pull-away traction equal to that of a belted muscle car tire.

And gives you some peace of mind knowing that those qualities are there if you ever need them.

All of which brings us back again to "only buy what you really do need."

If it sounds like the Uniroyal Fastrak 4-Ply Polyester just might be it (in spite of its name), you'll need just one more thing.

About $26.

Because at Uniroyal Centres right across Canada, they actually start that low.

UNIROYAL

Adjuster Dodges Falling Debris

Fire insurance adjuster Gerry Brennan of Brennan and McBride, dodges falling debris as Fiddle Crane operator Ray Finkle pushes in wall of King Sol store Monday night. Shortly after this picture was taken, this front portion of the badly burned Victoria block, exploded from pressure, sending rubble onto Front Street and a small crowd of onlookers racing to safety.

Demolition Speeded Up

Burned Building Collapses Into Street

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Demolition work at the corner of Victoria and Front Streets was proceeding as scheduled late last night, until a situation feared by fire officials occurred. With a thunderous roar, the building collapsed.

The large crowd which had gathered to watch crane operator Ray Finkle push in the upper two storeys of the King Sol building, destroyed by fire Sunday, had thinned substantially. The remaining onlookers took to their heels as chunks of charred limestone and beams came crashing to the street.

City building inspector Grant Sickle announced at noon Monday, the top two stories of the 100-year-old Victoria Building would have to be razed in for safety reasons. The best of the fire left the structure in a state of collapse. Mortar and limestone could crumble at any moment Inspector Sickle told The Intelligencer.

When most of the spectators left, shortly after midnight, much of the upper portion of the building had been pushed in. The east upper wall southeast front corner and north portion remained.

"The front wall was so weak. One push and that's it and it fell in, at about midnight.

"The back wall came down at about 1.15 a.m." he said.

"There was such a crowd. You should have seen the people run down the street," he added.

A fire insurance adjuster present for the demolition said the third floor at the rear had been suspended as it burned beams. They just touched it and it came down.

One spectator, when asked if he was scared, was overheard to say, "no, but I spent a lot of guys who were."

The adjuster said the entire block will become a temporary parking lot after rubble is cleared. "There was no life left in that mortar. You can imagine what would have happened if the street hasn't been closed," he said.

"Thank goodness the city shut off traffic."

Belleville Licence store owner Gerry Boogard, who also owned the Mercier - Brown stores, left a large quantity of bicycles and tools in his basement and rear portion of the store. Believed to be out of dangers from crumbling wall, the good were to have been salvaged at a later date.

Dog Licences Now Available

The decision was made at a council meeting Monday.

In the past, canine owners picked up the identification plates at the home of dog catcher Donald Tucker in Stirling or had him deliver them personally. This service is still available.

Prices remain the same at $2 for first males and spayed females; $4 for each additional male and spayed female; $6 for first females; $8 for additional females; and $25 for kennel licenses.

Although the rear of his store appeared to be untouched, after the unexpected "explosion," the status of his merchandise is now in question.

Neither Mr. Mercier or Mr. Brown are overly concerned over the turn of events.

Mr. Brown was proceeding with relocation of his store before the fire. His merchandise, of a less perishable nature, had been left in the building. The watchmaker's store took most of the falling bubbled.

Mr. Mercier's office safe, which he says contained most of his customer's goods, was one of the first items hoisted from the rubble by the Finkle crane.

"Almost all my customers' goods were in the safe and when I opened it up, there was no damage from fire, smoke or water."

At present, his tools and supplies are stored in his home garage. He may set up business from there. "I'm not young anymore," he said, "besides, the rent here was reasonable. They want very high rents on Front Street."

Asked about fire insurance coverage, the Belleville watchmaker and official Canadien National Railways watch inspector replied, "I'm all right, financially."

By Monday, owner of King Sol Stores said "we shall relocate as quickly as possible.

Youth Work Projects Selected By Ottawa

Opportunities for Youth grants have been awarded for Hastings and Prince Edward counties, but the lucky recipients have yet to be announced publicly.

Official letters of notification were sent from the Opportunities for Youth office in Ottawa Monday, but officials there preferred not to release the names of the winners until later.

The public relations office in Toronto handling public announcements said names of those receiving the grants will not be available before Thursday.

However, it is believed groups in Tweed, Trenton, Thomasburg, Belleville, Picton and Marmora have received grants. The Hastings county total is believed to be about $75,000 and the total for Prince Edward county is believed to be about $18,611.

Graham Deline, in the Opportunities for Youth office in Ottawa said today that one application in six "could be".

About 19,000 applications were received from across Canada and 3,000 qualified for grants.

He gave "scarcity of resources", in other words, lack of money as the reason for most refusals.

"If we had had enough money, we could have accepted two-thirds of the projects submitted," said Mr. Deline. "The quality of the projects submitted this year was higher than last year.

Getting the correct location is important.

Much of the clothing goods store stock was sent to Toronto to a salvage company, but Mr. Mercier said all deposits and other "customer commitments before the fire, will be honored."

Mr. Boogard, who operated a bicycle sales, repairs and sporting goods store, said he is "looking for a place now. There's not many available."

A large quantity of bicycles waiting for repairs, were stored in a shed at the rear of his store. Most are only slightly charred and readily salvageable.

Lawyers Louis Maranda and Bernard Hurley, whose offices above the King Sol store were heavily damaged, have shipped their records to the old Dominion Foods, which now stands vacant.

Filing cabinets and offices safes from the law offices were hoisted from inside the ruins. While contents of several cabinets were stained, a large quantity of files were found to be only slightly damaged. The safes must be left unopened for several days. If opened now, the loss of air in the fire, would reduce the records to dust.

Frank Burns, owner of Frank's Cigar Store for the past 13 years says he has "a lot of looking around to do yet."

If he does relocate, "it would be downtown."

Apart from several cartons of cigarettes and one or two cases, the entire contents of his store were lost in the $300,000 fire which Inspector Paul Mckerracher of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office, labels as arson.

Mr. Burns says he was "adequately insured."

Job Centre for Students Open for Summer

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

While summer employment prospects are not yet clear-cut in the Belleville area, Canada Manpower officials seem certain of one thing:

Many students seeking summer work still will have to dig out the opportunities themselves.

The cautionary indication comes as Manpower Monday re-opened its Student Employment Centre for a fourth consecutive year — a project which has drawn increasing enthusiasm since it was first launched as a national prototype in 1968.

Belleville Manpower official Jim Staveley says it may be several weeks before the summer job scene can be assessed in proper perspective.

Compounding aspects: (1) An expected increase in the number of students seeking summer jobs. (2) The fact senior government winter incentive programs run out this month — releasing even more job seekers on the labor market.

"The problem is will the economy absorb all of them," says Mr. Staveley. "We won't know for another month what the job situation will be."

Ray Lesage, the 26-year-old university graduate, who is Manpower's student officer in charge of the SEC offices on Wallbridge Crescent opened Monday, says already he scored some success in placing students, even before his bureau officially became operative.

But he's emphatic that many students will have to seek out their own jobs, and not strictly rely on the Manpower service to find them work.

H. W. Karn, manager of Belleville's Canada Manpower offices, agrees it's yet too early to assess the summer economic scene. students must also be prepared to supplement SEC services with their own initiative.

"They can't expect to come in here and be guaranteed getting their job. They will have to do some of their own digging."

With more students on the market, stu more expected to register than in the past with SEC, the situation right now, Ray Lesage, cautious, "doesn't look too good."

One reason is that initially only 20-30 percent of employers use the centres' services for listing.

"So this means 70 to 80 per cent of jobs I'm not aware of. So students have to get out and find those jobs on their own."

Already in his contact work he has managed to find part-time work for several high school students, obtained order for some university students and referred 68 - 70 university students for full-time summer jobs.

Whatever the economic outcome of summer 1972, it's still a good idea for students to register with the SEC, even if they prefer seeking jobs themselves.

The project also has drawn co-operation from various community agencies — like the Chamber of Commerce — already has sent out pamphlets to members and 300 non-members, giving the SEC background and advocating employers use its services.

Chamber president, Frank Folwell says his organization is "ready to assist (SEC) anytime."

Most crucial, employers have been co-operative and positive in their attitude to youth, reports Ray Lesage. (Only one, of all interviewed has bluntly refused to employing young people, whom he described as "long-haired hippies").

However, at the time of earlier interview, summer was still some time away and "many said it was too early to make a commitment of any kind." Many also were unaware of SEC as a Manpower service.

SEC's territory involves Belleville, all of Hastings County and Ameliasburg township.

Students in the riurbern. reaches of the county present a more complicated problem. SEC maintains liaison through Manpower councillors with guidance officers at Bancroft's North Hastings High School.

Any student who wishes to work elsewhere in Canada will have his application forwarded to the necessary SEC centre.

Believed to be the first student job agency to operate independently in Canada, the project proved its worth by having young people counselling their peers while relieving pressure on the regular Manpower centre.

"Some (Manpower offices) use their own quarters, which, is a mistake," believes Mr. Karn.

Last summer — predicted as a tight job period for Belleville — 1,007 students registered. Despite the loss of several large job orders, the centre still managed to place 625 — 36.2 of its total registration. Some 61 per cent of past secondary male students were placed and 34 per cent girls. The SEC also estimates that 46 per cent of all male students seeking jobs, also found work themselves and 34 per cent of the girls discovered jobs.

Reminds Ray: "I would like to be able to give a job to everyone that comes in. But it's just not realistic. We're not a job - creating agency. We're a job - referral agency."

Students In Hurry To Register

Job-hunting students were already filing applications Monday while Belleville's Student Employment Centre was being officially opened by politicians and community spokesmen.

The centre, operated as a separate entity by Canada Manpower, this year — its fourth in operation — now is located in bright, new quarters at 19-21 Wallbridge Crescent.

Like many other aspects of the SEC enterprise, the office comes as an example of community co-operation and goodwill which has marked the agency since it was launched as a first in Canada in 1968.

The quarters, once part of a job-retraining unit later transferred to Loyalist College, have been given SEC by the college for its summer operations.

Mayor Russell Scott said the site was ideal because of its central location and bright environment.

SEC, he added, has "certainly proven its worth in the community."

The agency, which seeks out work in the community for referral to applying students, was formally opened by Lea Grills, MP Hastings.

It is headed by Ray Lesage, 26-year-old university graduate who has two counsellors — Nora Whalen, 21, and Debbie Duffy, 18, both university students.

The emphasis on youth in deliberate—an operation run by young people for young people, which assists in creating a perhaps more responsive environment, says Belleville Canada Manpower manager H. W. Karn.

By separating the student operation from the Standard Manpower agency, it also helps alleviate additional pressure on regular staff caused by the yearly increase of job-hunting students.

Also in attendance at the opening ceremonies were Frank Folwell, president, Belleville Chamber of Commerce, Ray Loader, president, Quinte Labor Council, Steve Chomo, personnel officer, Hastings County school board.

MP Hears Job Hunters

Young job hunters already were filing out registration forms at Student Employment Centre while politicians and community spokesmen were officially opening project. Eric Law, Sally Shepherd, both 20-year-old university students, chat with Lea Grills, MP Hastings, who performed official ceremony.

Is Winning Kentucky Derby Easy as Pulling Baby Teeth?

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Sentimentalists and hunch bettors rejoice: Juan Arias is back for the Kentucky Derby May 6 as trainer of Ludwig Jester and Hasat's Image.

Arias came out of Venezuela last year and won the Derby with a $1,300 yearling named Cannonero II, Lester's Jester also was a $1,300 yearling purchase.

Derby Derby week 1971 Cannonero II had two baby teeth pulled.

The return of the 25-year-old Arias to the scene of his storybook triumph has not been an easy one.

Arias last Cannonero II when the colt was sold after finishing fourth in the Belmont Stakes.

Nevertheless, he decided to stay in the United States to become a trainer on his own.

"I began looking for a horse to go back to the Derby," he said, reflecting on the past year.

"It was a struggle at first," said Arias, who now speaks more English.

But for several months after he decided to go on his own he had little to smile about.

Criticized in some quarters for his training method of using gallops instead of more serious works and handicapped by the language barrier, Arias was not sought out by American owners. He also got into some difficulties with an owner in Ohio who refused to count mutts that still are pending.

But then Arias, who now conditions seven horses for three owners, was asked by a Cleveland attorney to train his three horses. Arias accepted and in the fall he went to Churchill Downs where Dr. Hasel Shinn ordered him up and asked him to train Hasat's Image, the Arkansas Derby runner-up and Lester's Jester, who has good speed.

"I met Dr. Shinn on Thanksgiving Day," said Arias of the Louisville physician who was born in Baghdad, Iraq.

Ali Thumps Chuvalo

VANCOUVER (CP) — Muhammad Ali thumped George Chuvalo "with my best shots," but he couldn't drop the durable Canadian to the canvas in winning a unanimous 15-round decision Monday night.

Ali, the former world champion, exhibited flashes of his old-time speed as he danced around the bull-like Canadian heavyweight champion, stinging him with flickering left jabs and rocking him with right hooks.

"He was in better shape than I thought he would be," said the Toronto fighter. "He was in better shape than for our last fight."

The two met in Toronto in 1966, when Ali, then fighting under the name Cassius Clay, whipped Chuvalo but still didn't manage a knockdown.

Chuvalo bore the marks of Monday's beating—a cut over his left eye, a gash in his mouth and swelling over his right forehead. His face was bruised and swollen. Ali was virtually unmarked.

Perkin had guaranteed the fighters $200,000 with $300,000 going to Ali.

Live gate receipts were estimated at $200,000, with tickets sold for between $10 and $100. The promoter also had a share of the pot for cable television broadcasts into 34 countries.

"Come on, take your best shot, try and knock me down," he yelled at Ali in the third round, dropping his hands to his sides and laughing at the former champion.

Ali obliged by firing a left jab, bringing a trickle of blood from the Canadian's mouth.

Ali started slowly, sliding around the 18-by-18-foot ring and carrying his hands low. He weighed in at 216½ pounds, less than he has weighed for any fight since he lost the world championship back to Joe Frazier in March, 1971.

The lower weight made a difference, as Ali pranced around Chuvalo and escaped any potentially-dangerous situations.

Chuvalo, weighing 221 pounds, moved ponderously forward most of the fight, ignoring the shouted advice from Angelo Dundee and Ferdie Pacheco who yelled at Irving Dagurerre, who yelled at the Toronto fighter to "crouch and hook, crouch and hook."

The fourth round was Chuvalo's best of the fight, as he skimmed Ali against the ropes and landed a crunching left hook.

"He hurt me with that hook," Ali said, but added that he had never been in danger.

In the fifth round, Ali lay on the ropes in one corner and goaded Chuvalo forward. After a couple of attempts to get close, to which he responded with hard lefts, Chuvalo backed to the centre of the ring and walked for Ali.

The former world champion came alive in the sixth round, pinning Chuvalo in the corner and banging lefts and rights off the head.

The two judges and referee Dave Brown scored the fight heavily for Ali, who was in complete control throughout.

One judge gave Ali all 15 rounds, another gave him 10 while Brown handed the former champion 11 rounds.

Derby Team To Beat

LONDON (CP) — Derby County took over the leadership of the English Football League First Division Monday night when it beat Liverpool 1-0.

But Derby may yet have to surrender the position title to either Liverpool or Leeds United, who beat Chelsea 3-0 at home Monday night.

Derby, finished its league campaign has 58 points, one more than Leeds and two more than Liverpool, both of whom still have one match to play. Both clubs have better goal averages than Derby, so both will pass the current leader if they should finish even on points with Derby.

Blue Ending Holdout

BOSTON (AP) Vida Blue, the Oakland Athletics sensational young southpaw, was set to end his holdout and sign a 1972 contract today as probably the highest-paid major league sophomore in history.

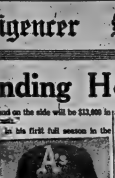
"I'm ready to play," the 22-year-old pitcher said late Monday night after arriving in Boston on a flight from San Francisco and then going into seclusion.

Blue was met at the airport by Joe Reichler, assistant to baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn. He was polite, but not communicative with the local sports writer he met him.

He looked fit, but merely shrugged and occasionally smiled when asked questions, such as how long did he think it would take before he's ready to pitch.

"I've been working out on my own," the 1971 American League's most valuable player said. Cy Young Award winner said, "I don't have any plans."

Blue had been scheduled to start for $62,000, agreed to accept a total package of $62,000 to play for the Athletics. All that's needed now is his signature on the contract. That baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn ordered Blue to come first today before he left a motel and moved in with his team-mates at a hotel a short distance from Fenway Park where the Athletics meet Boston Red Sox tonight.



Kuhn and Oakland owner Charlie Finley also were due in town for the official signing of one of baseball's top gate attractions.

"I wouldn't miss it," Finley said in Chicago, adding he was "extremely pleased" that Blue had decided to sign.

"Needless to say, Vida will be a welcome addition and will be a great welcomer," Finley added.

Finley said the contract terms in the seventh six-player deal last week in a meeting with Blue. The club owner added, "The contract will read $50,000 and on the side will be $13,000 in cash."

In his first full season in the league in 1971, Blue earned $34,726 while compiling a 24-8 record and pacing in fans wherever he pitched.

Blue and his lawyer, Robert Lee Blue of Louisville, Ky., conducted marathon negotiations with Finley. An apparent agreement fell through last Friday when Blue refused to sign a last minute amendment of the contract's details.

Kuhn stepped in the next day. As commissioner, he used what he called his general powers to act "in the best interests of baseball" and ordered Finley to keep open his offer to Blue.

That's when I saw red," Finley said, as he threatened to withdraw the offer if Kuhn didn't order Blue to accept it.

Finley was happier when he learned that Blue said in a taped interview for national television Monday night he was ready to sign for the $62,000. Kuhn announced Blue's acceptance when asked about the taped show.

Vida Blue for $62,000 package—we're not happy, but we're satisfied," Gerst said later.

Then the attorney added a solemn warning:

"We'll be back next year."

Gerst credited Kuhn with bringing "reason, logic and fairness" into the negotiations, although Finley has charged the commissioner with arbitrarily involved himself and forced himself" into the salary dispute.

Wynn Belts His Way Out of Dog House

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Houston Astros traded for a big gun during the off-season after their toy cannon, Jimmy Wynn, lost some firepower.

Getting Lee May has really helped. It has made a better hitter out of Wynn.

The 5-9, 176-pound outfielder is more than pulling his weight with five home runs this season, including a grand-slam blast that helped the Astros beat Pittsburgh Pirates 9-5 Monday night.

"I'm smiling now," said Wynn after a big night that also included a double and single and two runs scored.

He should be happier than last season, when he hit only seven home runs all year and plunged to a career-low .205 batting average while sitting in manager Harry Walker's doghouse.

Now batting in front of the power-hitting May, who had 39 homers last season for Cincinnati, Wynn is hitting at a .379 clip with 18 RBI and 15 runs scored. The performance is reminiscent of his fence-breaking form of 1967, when he slugged 37 home runs.

In the only other games Monday, New York Mets turned back San Francisco Giants 7-4 and Philadelphia Phillies beat Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1 in National League action.

Wynn named the National League's Player of the Week by commissioner Bob Feeney because of his .577 batting average last week, says he owes his hot start to pure concentration. Personal problems which bothered him last season have been resolved, he says.

The victory moved the Astros into sole possession of first place in all-Soual League's West by a half game ahead of Los Angeles, and shoved the defending world champion Pirates deeper in the East. The Pirates dropped to 4½ games off the pace of Montreal Expos and New York Mets, who are tied for first.

Right-hander Tom Seaver struck out 12 batters in 6 and 2-3 innings and got relief help from Tug McGraw in post his fourth victory with a loss this season. The total tied him with Los Angeles' Don Sutton as the league's top winners. ...

Leading 4-3, the Mets broke open the game with three runs in the seventh on singles by Bud Harrelson, Tommie Agee, Rusty Staub, Cleon Jones and Jim Fregosi.

Brazilian Ties Hulme

MADRID (AP) — Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil drove his JPS to victory Monday in the Spanish Grand Prix and gained a first-place tie with Denis Hulme of New Zealand in the standings of the world championship for Formula 1 cars.

Fittipaldi, now deadlocked with Hulme at 15 points each for three races, took command on the 14th lap of the 29-lap event and led the rest of the way. He finished the 190½ miles over the twisting 2.11-mile Jarama Circuit about a half-mile ahead of runner-up Jackie Ickx of Belgium, who had gained the pole position in his Ferrari.

BCI Widens Lead

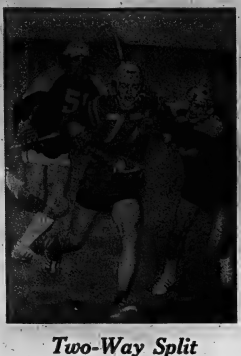
The high school lacrosse leaders began to pull away from the pack last night as BCI and Moira recorded lopsided wins. The league-leading Collegians trounced North Addington 9-0 while Centreplace Moira was coasting to a 9 - 1 win over Centennial.



BCI could manage only a 1-0 lead after the first period, but managed to carve in Coyne's tough opposition with two goals in the middle frame and six unanswered scores in the final 26 minutes. Goalie Peter Cox maintained the BCI shutout.

The other Monday night encounter followed a similar pattern as Moira and Centennial were deadlocked at 1-1 before the Trojans managed to pull away in the second and third periods.

Moira got the services of league leading scorer Dan Nuttall, received two-goal efforts from Bill Donald, Leon Lewsen and Rick Barbeau. Single tallies by Dan Coulson, Dan Payne and Dunc Present rounded out the nine-goal total, while Waytie McGeachy scored the lone Centennial goal.

The losers were assessed 18 of the game's 22 minor penalties.

Two-Way Split

Wayne McGeachy of Centennial splits the Moira Secondary defence in a Bay of Quinte COSSA lacrosse match at the Dick Ellis Rink Monday. Mceachy was the only Charger to solve the riddle of a tough Moira defensive corps, scoring his team's lone goal in a 9-1 loss to the Trojans.

Payne-ful Experience

Dan Payne of Moira lays the humper to a Centennial attacker in Monday night Bay of Quinte COSSA lacrosse action. Moira emerged from the contest with an easy 9 - 1 win over the first-year Centennial squad to remain within striking distance of first - place BCI, The Collegians maintained their two - point edge over Moira by blanking North Addington 9-0.

Colling Cup Entries Glad Cory Gone

By running off with the Ken Colling silverware, Paul Cory managed to make himself appreciatively 88 new friends.

Certainly very few of this year's field of 88 long distance runners would be greatly looking forward to chasing the Prince Edward Collegiate grads to the finish for a fourth time. Cory was given persuasive assistance of the Ken Colling Cup last year by winning the race for his third time in succession.

Only the Picton runner, Jim Green, and Bill Vermilyea have managed to accomplish that feat in the 17-year history of the event. With Cory no longer competing it leaves the field wide open when the 38th annual competition gets under way Wednesday.

Among the favorites in the four-and-a-half mile endurance test would have to be Quinte's Gerrard Farrell, runner-up to Cory last year, and Tom Da Silva of Napanee. Last year's fourth place finisher has been competing this winter with the Trenton H.T.S. track and field club.

The field of approximately 88 runners will be drawn from the Bay of Quinte COSSA schools as well as such outside entries as Campbellford and Brighton. Trenton, the dominating power in high school track and field, will have runners entered in the event for the first time in two years.

The race will get under way at 3.30 p.m. behind BCI with the approximate route running down Glenn Street, across to Dundas and north on Parrott Drive. From that point the runners will return on Victoria and Queen Street to finish at BCI. Record time for the distance is 21:48.5 set by Cory in 1970.

Francis Changes Tune

BOSTON (CP) — Emile Francis admitted Monday in a telephone interview from New York that both Jean Ratelle and Bill Fairbairn were hurting, but denied he had accused Boston's Garnet Bailey of knocking Ron Stewart out of the Stanley Cup playoffs with an elbow smash that would do justice to professional wrestling.

"I know Bailey hit Stewart with his elbow, but I didn't say it was deliberate," said Francis, New York's general) manager-coach. "I did say he hit him with an elbow. You and I both know it wasn't a program."

Bailey delivered the shot that sent the Ranger veteran reeling in the second period, then later fired the goal that sent New York spinning to a 6-5 loss as the Bruins took the opener of the best-of-seven National Hockey League final.

Second game in the series goes tonight at 7:30 p.m. EDT.

"No, Ron won't play," said Francis. "He was admitted to Massachusetts General Hospital last night and was gonna have his jaw wired this morning.

Francis, however, had a good medical report on Ratelle and Fairbairn.

Ratelle, coming off a broken ankle, played his first game in nearly two months Sunday and Fairbairn was tripped up by Boston's Johnny Bucyk. He suffered a knee injury in the collision.

"Billy worked out for an hour this morning and there was no problem," said the Ranger coach. "As for Jean, there's no change planned for him.

"I'll continue to use Bobby Rousseau on Jean's line with Vic (Hadfield) and Rod Gilbert. He's been going pretty good. Jean is skating well so I'll use him a little more.

"He's not suffering any ill effects and has no problem playing. But unless I go with four lines, I don't think he's ready for regular shift."

"I might dress six defencemen instead of seven tonight and still have enough for four lines," Francis said, adding: "You know, I can always use Rod Selling as a forward."

Francis would not say his veteran goaltender, Ed Giacomin, for getting pulled out of Sunday's game-winner with 2:16 left in the game.

"Eddie made the right move . . . tried to stick-check the puck off Bailey's stick," Francis. "But what surprised me was the fact that Bailey was even able to get around the end of the net.

Giacomin shared the chores with Gilles Villemure during the season and when Giacomin was injured in the first game of the semi-finals with Chicago Black Hawks Villemure moved in to sweep three more from the Hawks.

Boston coach Tom Johnson has a different approach.

Veteran Ed Johnston is scheduled to start tonight's game, in a continuing Boston policy to alternate goalies—"I don't call it alternating, just using them every other game," says Johnson.

Stasiuk Replacing Laycoe?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province says Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League will name a new coach today, replacing Hal Laycoe.

The morning newspaper says the new man is expected to be Vic Stasiuk, first last week as coach of California Golden Seals. Stasiuk has been in Vancouver since Sunday.

Laycoe, coach of the Vancouver club in its two years in the NHL, was an expansion team, will be offered another job in Vancouver's NHL organization. The Province says, probably a coach and general manager of the Canucks' Western League affiliate, Seattle.

The Canucks, under Laycoe, finished sixth in the seven-team Eastern Division of the NHL in their first year, but slipped to the bottom in the 1971-72 season.

Orr Needs Surgery

BOSTON (CP) — Dr. Ashby Moncure confirmed Monday that Bobby Orr, may undergo surgery after the National Hockey League season ends to remove a floating piece of cartilage from his left knee.

The Boston Bruins team doctor stressed that the operation still was not definite, only 4 likelihood, but that it likely would be done in Boston shortly after the Stanley Cup final ends.

Orr, the league's No. 1 defenceman who in 10 games had already tied a career high for assists—16, set by Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens in 20 games last spring—said he has been bothered by the cartilage problem for about 2½ months.

The injury was aggravated in a collision at Philadelphia with Flyers' Bobby Clarke but has no relation to the knee bruise also on the left knee, picked up late in the season and responsible for Orr missing several games.

BOBBY ORR

"It's the cartilage floating around in the knee," said Dr. Moncure, "and every now and then causes a momentary lock in the knee." He did emphasize, however, the cartilage did not pose a serious problem to the Boston star or a threat to his future career.

Two WHA Franchises Fall by the Wayside

Two franchises in the World Hockey Association have been cancelled but the president of the new professional league still vows that the WHA will have 12 teams to open the season next fall.

He said one of the principals in Calgary is ill while the Miami franchise is stymied by a zoning regulation involving parking lots for an arena.

Ten teams posted $100,000 performance bonds at a WHA meeting in Chicago April 15. Those were Edmonton, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Quebec, Los Angeles, Chicago, Houston, Minnesota, New England and New York.

"We are also actively talking with other groups from Philadelphia and Salt Lake City and some cities that have applied for National Hockey League franchises," Davidson said.

Meanwhile, Minnesota Fighting Saints announced two signings Monday—Mike Antonovich of the University of Minnesota and Jack McCartan, 33, former Minnesota graduate who was the goalie on the 1960 U.S. Olympic team that defeated Russia for a gold medal.

McCartan later played in 12 games for New York Rangers of the NHL during the 1959-60 and 1960-61 seasons. He has played for San Diego Gulls in the Western Hockey League for the last 10 years.

In Montreal, Morden Lazarus, the lawyer for Pete Mahovlich, said Monday the Canadiens' left winger is "under a lot of pressure" to sign with the Fighting Saints.

"He hasn't signed," Lazarus said but there will be a decision soon.

And in Los Angeles, defenceman Harry Howell, who last week was reported to have agreed to coach WHA's New York team, signed his 1972-73 contract Monday as a player for the Kings of the NHL.

After Slump, Rodriguez Can't Believe He Won the Whole Thing

DALLAS (CP-AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez looked around, grinned, and said:

The little Puerto Rican champion for a year and forced to abandon his role as a carefree clown, had just beaten Bill Casper on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff for the $25,000 first prize in the Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

And Will Homemik of Winnipeg, the surprise of the tournament, perhaps is wondering how he missed a two-foot putt on the 18th hole that cost him more than $2,000.

Homemik, who had third place alone, three-putted the final green to end up with 36-34 —70 and a three-way tie for third place with Bruce Crampton and Charles Coody. They won $6,000 each.

The 36-year-old Rodriguez hit a third shot stiff to the flag and tapped in a five-foot birdie putt on the 555-yard 15th hole, the first of the playoff. Both he and Casper were tied at 272, seven under par on the Preston Trail Golf Club course. Casper shot a final-round 71 and Rodriguez a three-putting twice on the closing holes trying to make a par. 70.

Casper said a loss of concentration on the ninth hole, the first of three holes where Monday's final round three under par, marked his downfall. He won $14,300.

Homemik, who went into Monday's final round three strokes off Casper's eight-under par pace, had missed only three of 54 greens in the first three rounds.

Only one of those three misses, No. 17 in Sunday's third round when he tried to play a ball without realizing it was in mud, led to a bogey. The rule, permissible to get a free drop. The muddy ball fell into water and he three putted to go three over par.

Homemik, who turned pro in 1956, had his best year in 1970 when he got at this time, he said in an interview.

Kingston Bid Shelved

TORONTO (CP) — Sudbury Wolves were formally inducted into the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Monday, but four other applications for membership from Thunder Bay, Kingston, Sault Ste. Marie and Niagara Falls were shelved until the club owners meet again in Ottawa next week.

Bud Burke, one of the new owners from Sudbury, and Trevor Boyce, a former scout for Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, and who will be the general manager of the Wolves, both were present at Monday's meeting.

A seven-man delegation from Thunder Bay and four - man group from Sault Ste. Marie presented their applications to the meeting while Niagara Falls was represented by Mayor Franklyn Miller.

Toe Won't Go

MONTREAL (CP) — Toe Blake, former coach of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and now vice-president of the hockey club, said Monday he will not coach the professional hockey team representing Canada against the Russians this fall. His health would not allow him to take on the job at this time, he said in an interview.

Times Wins Pulitzer Prize

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times has won the 1972 Pulitzer Prize for meritorious service for its publication of the Pentagon papers, the 47-volume study of how the United States became involved in the Vietnam war.

The national reporting award went to syndicated columnist Jack Anderson for his disclosure of administration policy-making during the India-Pakistan war. The trustees of Columbia University announced the annual prizes Monday.

But, the trustees issued a statement in which they expressed "deep reservations about the timeliness and suitability of certain of the journalism awards."

They did not specify which awards they referred to, but The Times said today it had learned that the controversy involved the awards to The Times and Anderson because of the way in which official government documents had fallen into journalistic hands.

In the awards for letters, the trustees gave the fiction prize to Angle of Repose, by Wallace E. Stegner, a professor of English and director of the writing program at Stanford University.

Joseph P. Lash received the prize for distinguished biography for his book on Eleanor and Franklin. He was a friend of the late Eleanor Roosevelt.

The general non-fiction prize went to Stilwell and the American Experience in China, 1911-1945, by Barbara W. Tuchman, her second award in the category. She won in 1963 for The Guns of August.

For the first time since 1958, there was no Pulitzer award for drama this year.

A second Stanford winner was history Professor Carl N. Degler, his award for history honored his book, Neither Black Nor White, an historical and cultural comparison of slavery and race relations.

James Wright, a professor of English at Hunter College of New York City, won the poetry prize with his Collected Poems.

Jacob Treblenk II of New York's Juilliard School of Music, won the music award for his orchestral piece, Windows, which was premiered last March 16 by the Chicago Symphony.

Walter Kerr, a member of the drama jury, said the panel had considered "five or six" possibilities for the award but then voted unanimously to make no selection.

The Pulitzer prizes were endowed by the late Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the old ew York World. They were first awarded in 1917.

Each of The 11 journalism awards and the seven cultural prizes carries a $1,000 award, to be divided where there are multiple winners. The public service award includes a gold medal.

The Times said it had nominated Neil Sheehan, the Washington correspondent who first obtained the Pentagon papers, in both the national and international reporting categories.

The Pentagon study was commissioned by then defence secretary Robert McNamara in 1967 and was classified secret. The Justice department sought to halt The Times' publication of its series after the third installment.

Eventually, the U.S. Supreme Court sustained the newspaper's claim that such prior restraint of publication in violation of the constitutional guarantees of freedom of the press.

Other journalism awards were:

International reportiaL—Peter R. Kann, Wall Street Journal, for coverage of the India-Pakistan war.

General local reporting—Richard Cooper and John Machacek, Rochester, N.Y., Times-Union, for coverage of the Attica prison riot.

Special local reporting—Timothy Leland, Gerard M. O'Neill, Stephen A. Kurkjian and Ann DeSantis, Boston Globe, for exposure of municipal corruption. Male, Mass.

Editorial writing—John Strohmeyer, Bethlehem, Pa., Globe-Times, for editorials urging reduced tensions when Puerto Ricans faced hostility amid police brutality charges.

Editorial cartooning—Jeffrey K. MacNelly, Richmond, Va., News Leader, for a portfolio of cartoons during the year.

Youngest Jackson Teeny-bopper Idol

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Joe Jackson, lead singer of the Jackson Five brothers who have sold 17 million records, is described by his recording company—Motown Records—as the first singing idol for black teeny-boppers.

Michael, four feet 11 and 80 pounds, says such prominence makes him feel "good." He and his brothers in two years have become Motown Records' hottest-selling group. They've had a million-million-selling album.

Michael's recently released album of his own, Got to Be There, had advance orders for 320,000 copies. Two singles from it, the title song and Rockin' Robin, have sold a nearly four million copies.

The album's songs include Girl, Don't Take Your Love From Me and Maria, You Were The Only One. Does Michael have a girl-friend?

"No," he grins, "too young."

The Jackson Five include Jackie, 20; Tito, 17; Jermaine, 16, Marlon, 14 and Michael. Their father, Joe Jackson, was a former crane operator in Gary, Ind., and off-hours guitarist and songwriter. Their mother, Katherine, sang country western. Diana Ross saw the brothers perform at a talent show in Gary, told them their act was great and took them to Motown Records.

The family, including three sisters and another brother, now lives in a magnificent home in the San Fernando Valley suburb of Encino.

All of the brothers do chores like raking, dish-washing and making their own beds. Michael does the living room daily. His allowance of $5 a week goes, he said, for art supplies and sometimes bubble gum.

Jackson, who manages his sons' group, said their parents are going into trust funds. Michael plans to study art and business administration in college.

He shares a two-bed room with his brother Marlon. A sign placed by the mother reads "Keep America Beautiful—Clean Up Your Room." The back of the mail was behind the door.

Marlon's caged mynah bird is on a dresser and a caged black rabbit is in the dressing room. Michael brought in Jermaine's three-foot, pet boa constrictor and hoisted it fearlessly, dragging it about his neck.

"He's a good boy," his mother said, "except for practical jokes. Like scaring people with the snake."

Tape Used for Thriller

NEW YORK (AP) — A successful art director who moved up to producer without losing his interest in new techniques, Robert Markell, is still experimenting—in a pilot program coming up tonight on NBC.

The audience probably will not be aware he is fiddling around with unusual forms, but Markell hopes the four will be another step toward more efficient ways of producing better performances and more effective photography.

The program is The Dark Side, a thriller shot entirely on location in New York. The program is unusual because it was shot entirely on tape. Then Markell transferred the product to film for editing and returned it to tape for broadcast.

Markell made the entire show in seven days.

"Tape is great for ball games and news," the producer said, "so why not a dramatic show? By using tape, we can play it back immediately and know if we need a retake of a scene. All this gives the actor more confidence, and the director more flexibility

Cribbage Outdraws Sailing

Pleasure boats are taking to the water again after the long winter lay-up, but two junior enthusiasts haven't quite got into the summer swing yet. Joe Gable and Laurie Calford were more interested in a game of cribbage than in spring tune-up time aboard Evangelint III as sailors took advantage of the weekend's warm sunshine to prepare for the coming boating season.

AN and AF News

Chairman Howard Kolesh, Veterans of Belleville Council has received an invitation from Westminster United Church, Wallbridge Road, to have small groups of local veterans' associations and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment to co-operate with the church in a dedication service for the roll of honor in memory of the fallen of both world wars. This replaces one that was destroyed by fire. The councils accepted the invitation.

The service will be held Sunday, May 7, Veterans will wear berets and medals. The RCSCC Quinte Band will provide the music and Dominion President J. C. Lundberg and Padre Norm Humphries will read the lessons.

The Color party will consist of a Flag bearer from the Legion and one from the Duke of Edinburgh Unit carrying the Union Jack and the Canadian Flag, supervised by Cdr. Hal Scott.

After the service a reception will be held at the 418 Wing clubhouse.

The tired and tanned tyros of the almost virgin fairways wearily weeded their trail to the clubrooms where they collapsed into whatever seating accommodation was available. Then the soothing touch of David's hand brought them to an end as he started to compile the results of the first golf match of the season while yet soothing the shattered nerves of the Saturday afternoon duet players, who had been impatiently champing at the bit for their favorite way of relaxation. After the dust had settled, golf results were as follows: Low gross, Bob Brooks; low net, F. Newman; 2nd low gross, Jack Asseltine; 2nd low net, Doug Rone and D. Sakay; 3rd low gross, Cuff Nokes; 3rd low net, Steve Hunter and Tom Squires. High score, J. Fitzgerald. Another card-table winners, Gladys Fitzgerald and Dave Feeney; runners up, Ken Clayton and Ivor Kellogs. Afternoon darts: No. 1 Dundas, George Christopher and Jack Asseltine; runners up, Bob Brooks and Russ Bland. No. 2 Winners, Hank Boyle and Dick Thomson; runners up, Bob Benn and Ken Herrington. No. 3 Winners, Ron Mansfield and Gerry Rodwell; runners up, Gerry Dafoe and Chuck Lane.

It is planned to have the final competition for the Harold Dracup Mat, and Trophy on Saturday evening, May 13. A hilarious group, Celebrities, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Pitts and his youngest son's Birthday, have been laid in the rain forest corner. Sad to relate but last night's atom who whittles the nights down to size at times, was in rare form and, despite the family's bowling was scoring the winning double with astonishing regularity much to the discomfort of the family and the enjoyment of the others. She did not even have her blacksnake. Mrs. Kolesh entertained us near perfect weather.

The following counsedes are in hospital: Mrs. Anne EDEH. L e e m a n, Hotel Dieu Shp. Kingston; H. Smale, Pte. D. Grass, 694 and A. Adams is now transferred back to Belleville Hospital as well as 694.

Thursday evening 8 p.m. May 11. Important general meeting. Be there.

'Disaster' Day May 13 at BGH

On Saturday, May 13, Belleville General Hospital is going to be faced with a rash of serious motor vehicle accidents, airplane disasters, boating accidents, and victims of anything from building 'cavities to shootings.

Such things are rarely planned, but in this instance, that's exactly what's going to happen.

All of the aforementioned problems will be simulations of events that will be put into action for a hospital disaster exercise.

The 'patients' will be 30 cub scouts recruited for the job.

None of the medical staff will be advised as to the extent of injuries or the time of arrival at the emergency ward.

Alderman Enos David, city representative on the hospital board of governors, said Fridays such exercises are designed to show flaws in the emergency system.

Alderman Ben Corke putting tongue in cheek, noted that this exercise comes several weeks of preparation.

"For a change we have to plan several weeks. What would happen if we had a real disaster?"

Fall Election Likely - - Hees

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Charging the federal cabinet has no knowledge of business affairs George Hees told a Progressive - Conservative audience here Friday his party would slash taxes by at least 10 percent.

"We must put more money in the hands of the public," he said.

He said Progressive-Conservatives would give incentives to businessmen that will promote reductions in costs to them. He suggested tax rebates to businesses that slash prices.

The minister of trade and commerce in the Diefenbaker government told the gathering at the Masonic Lodge here Canada needs a new overseas trade crusade.

He said Conservatives will "reexamine the pending federal election campaign" in the same way the Davis campaign was run in Ontario and "not just dying to go." He said for candidates the Conservatives "are getting young men with zip — with go . . . our campaign will be crackerjack.

"We have a great deal of the Davis organization — young lawyers and brokers who are fascinated with politics — but the gathering here.

The Prince Edward - Hastings Association received a new constitution Friday and filers recommended the committee that prepared it. "It is a gut - slugging job," he told them, "and I am sure the whole riding thanks you."

He said the Conservatives under party leader Robert Stanfield, "we'd be better to go (with an election) now."

However, he contended unemployment rates and polls that indicate Canadians consider unemployment the major problem have made Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau decide not to hold an election until the fall.

The Conservative MP had offered "several bottles of whisky" as a bet than an election would be held in the fall of 1971 and now says he thinks he was a near early.

Towers Agrees To Planned Ban

OSHAWA (Staff) — A spokesman for Oshawa Group owners of Towers Discount Department Stores said Friday their Belleville outlet would not be selling "firecrackers that go bang".

Referring to a recent Intelligencer article reporting a city bylaw which bans fireworks, Sam Crystal said Towers would be selling only fireworks home containing such things as little red schoolhouses and spinning wheels.

Earlier this month, a spokesman for the local store said their buyers had not made a decision on what items they were going to sell.

Local firemen expressed concern that the purposes of the new bylaw which restricts sale, display or use of exploding firecrackers in the city limits, would be defeated if customers could go beyond the city to make their purchases.

Wheels Stolen

STIRLING (Staff) — Ontario Provincial Police are investigating weekend theft of four license rims and wheels from Centenary Co. Manufacturing and Marketing here.

Value has been set at $400.

What the Stars Say

Wednesday, May 3

Aries (March 21-April 19): Try to simplify your work and your attitudes toward it. You may be waiting time and temperament or more side issues.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Being rushed into anything is unlikely to make a difference in either direction. Rather, be the one who encourages others.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Old friends help you along, but somewhere during this busy day you come to conflict about what to do and where.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Varied discussions may run longer than you'd like but are preferable to silent disagreements. The evening hours are rich with good feeling.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Your persuasive powers come to a peak according to how badly you want the results. Be sure you don't ask for too much.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have an odd chance of reaching people at more profound levels than usual. Be candid with them.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It is time to stand up for what you believe in. Compromises only create worse problems and a future date. Add something to your reserves.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Carry on at yesterday's speed, without letting stressful news make you change directions. Fresh and interesting assistance is at hand.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There is a practical limit to how hard and how long you can push vocational or business action. Rest, focus your energy at home and loved ones.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If you can stay out of the front lines, long-standing issues can clarify. Your appeal to people in authority should be direct.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Modest advances on all important personal projects are indicated. Keep your own counsel about any financial prospects.

For Good Health

There's More to Pay Than Apple A Day

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An apple a day keeps the doctor away.

Provincial health officials across Canada wish that maxim lasting good health and subsequently holding down health costs were as simple as that little rhyme suggests.

Most provincial ministers of health readily agree with federal Health Minister John Munro that health costs must be low in check.

But the big problem is how. Mr. Munro has suggested a new five-year agreement to limit increases in the current federal per-capita contributions to provincial medical and hospital care programs to the annual increase in the gross national product.

A special federal "threats fund", over and above the per-capita increments would be used to finance provincial efforts aimed at saving costs and improving accessibility.

Provincial health ministers were asked to comment on Mr. Munro's proposal and on health costs in general.

A. T. Rowe, Newfoundland health minister, said he favors a national study of the rising medical care programs.

Health Minister John Malcolm of Prince Edward Island said he is not concerned greatly about health costs.

Health Minister Scott MacDonald of Manitoba said provinces should abandon many traditional concepts in health care services in favor of new diagnostic and ambulatory systems. This suggestion is also the likes of one by Mr. Munro that greater emphasis is needed on prevention of illness in the battle to lower costs.

In New Brunswick, Health Minister Paul Creaghan said his province shares Mr. Munro's concern about the escalation of health-care costs.

Provincial health authorities in Quebec declined comment before a committee of the legislature takes up the estimates of the province's social affairs department later this month.

Dr. Richard Potter, Ontario health minister, agreed that health costs must be controlled.

He said the province has set up experimental programs of family conferences and self-care units where persons can receive medical advice without occupying costly hospital beds.

But he said the federal view that money can be saved through preventive plans is wrong because "the big savings will have to be made through better methods of delivering health services."

He said widespread abuse of the medical-care program by persons who go to their doctors for trivial complaints is a major factor in the rise of health costs.

He said his province cannot accept a GNP-based formula because then there "would be no way we could ever get up to the standards of the 'have' provinces."

Health Minister Walter Seidel of Saskatchewan said he hopes Mr. Munro has not indicated federal government is thinking of opting out of health-care programs.

Health Minister Neil Crawford of Alberta said he shared the concern of Mr. Munro about rising costs, but thought the federal health minister had expressed no new views in his recent statements on the subject.

Opening lead—six of clubs.

It is natural in card combat experience and play spontaneously in situations frequently encountered before, but this last habit is one that every ambitious player must abandon as quickly as possible.

Consider today's hand where West led a club and declarer finessed the queen, losing to the king. Back came the jack of diamonds and, from this point on, declarer's number was up. South ducked the ace and was forced to concede continuation, but later lost a heart and another diamond to go down one.

Of course, declarer was unlucky to lose both finesses, but the fact is that he could have frustrated the contract 100 per cent by rejecting the club finesse.

In the actual case, the queen would lose to the king, but the only tricks the defenders could then take were two a club and a diamond — since dummy's A-J of hearts would provide a parking space for one of South's diamond losers.

Let's grant that, ordinarily, when declarer has x-x of a suit facing the A-Q, he should finesse. But this generality takes a back seat in a case where taking that finesse jeopardizes the contract, while refusing the finesse guarantees it.

If declarer's chief problem consisted of counting his winning tricks he would of course finesse, because that would be the winning play in the long run. But here South's main objective is to make sure of his contract, and he should not allow himself to be diverted from that aim merely because he is faced with a ready-made opportunity to finesse.

Tomorrow: A criss - cross squeeze.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history reports, "Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place."

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured tissue and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is the subject of intense and supportory form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

No Buy-Back Canada Bid

Foreign Role Debate Sure To Continue

OTTAWA (CP) — One thing appears clear from the government's new takeover legislation — the long debate about the extent and dangers of foreign control of the Canadian economy is far from over.

If anything, the moderate policy approach of the legislation proposed Tuesday seems likely to fan an economic nationalist claim that the government acted too softly and failed to cover other important fields of concern.

The government rejected outright the buy-back-Canada approach, the suggestion that certain key industries be added to those now off-limits to foreign control, plus other stronger measures.

In setting up a review board to look into future takeovers by foreigners, the government dealt only with the future. Everything else is left just as it is now.

There is no demand—as the nationalists hoped—that existing foreign-controlled firms sell more of their shares to Canadians, no controls on future investment through expansion by foreign-owned companies already in the country, and no requirement for Canadian directors on boards of management.

Revenue Minister Gray, however, gave an inkling that other measures may be adopted later. He told the Commons that the decision to establish a takeover review board "does not rule out entirely" the possibility that other approaches might be required at some time in the future."

Later in his Commons speech, he said:

"Our objective as Canadians —which is to exercise greater control over our domestic environment—cannot be achieved by exclusive reliance on a takeover review process.

"As part of its response to this issue, the government will continue to develop positive policies to encourage Canadians to participate more fully in the development of their country, and to encourage the growth of Canadian sources of capital, technology and management."

He gave no clues on the type of future action, but there were scattered hints in the government's background report of possible moves toward a more detailed national industrial policy.

The report of the group which Mr. Gray headed speaks of gaps in the Canadian economy which attract foreign investment because the requirements can not be filled at home.

It suggests these gaps "were more than financial, that they were in fact entrepreneurial or technological in nature."

"It is clear that some of the gaps identified appear to be the result of deficiencies in Canadian public policy."

Approve Plan To Cut Debate On Euromart

LONDON (CP) — The Conservative government, enjoying continued Liberal party backing, has won an 11-vote Commons majority for a controversial decision to cut off debate on the issue of direct transitive European Common Market bill.

Tory spokesmen say they now are confident the bill, providing for British entry into Europe by Jan. 1, 1973, has cleared most of the major obstacles to final parliamentary approval.

29 Die In Idaho Mine

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — At least 29 miners have died in the smoky shafts of the richest silver mine in the United States, an Idaho state spokesman said today, and about 50 others were reported missing.

A spokesman for the Idaho state mine inspector's office said there were 24 bodies on the 3,100-foot level of the Sunshine Mining Co. mine at Kellogg, which more than 100 had escaped Tuesday.

Five bodies were brought out of the mine earlier.

Marvin C. Chase, a Sunshine vice-president and general manager of the company's western operations, refused to comment on the report of 29 deaths.

Rescuers probed through the night in the murky underground shafts in the mineral-rich area of northern Idaho. The fire was reported at about the 3,400-foot level near midday Tuesday.

Humphrey Edges Wallace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota fought off the best opening gamer in a northern primary by George Wallace to defeat the Alabama governor in Tuesday's Democratic presidential preference poll in Indiana.

While Humphrey was the winner by about 30,000 votes over Wallace in Alabama, the former vice-president clung to a narrow lead over Senator George McGovern of South Dakota in the Ohio primary as that contest headed today for photo finish.

McGovern did not run in Indiana while Wallace was not on the Ohio ballot.

Deadly Rockets Down Aircraft

SAIGON (Reuter) — North Vietnamese rockets shot down two American aircraft over Quang Tri with a specially-handheld Soviet rocket which they have been armed with for the first time in the war, military sources said today.

The Soviet Strella rocket, carried by hand and fired from the shoulder, homes in on the heat of an aircraft's engine and is considered a formidable new weapon in the North Vietnamese arsenal.

Kids Dial Los Angeles, Delighting Mother Bell

TORONTO (CP) — Wondering about those calls to Los Angeles listed on the telephone bill? Ask the kids — they might just have the answer.

One Toronto father did when he got a bill for $37.67 and found his 10-year-old daughter had been telephoning the California city hoping to hear her favorite singing group.

The calls were made in response to an article in a teenage magazine advertising a number that which people can hear recordings of their favorite stars.

Unfortunately, the girl got the number from a friend and not the magazine and didn't realize the number was in Los Angeles or, that it offered only recorded messages from various stars scheduled for different days.

But finally after 19 attempts she managed to hear her favorites, Donny and The Osmonds, a few times.

A spokesman from Bell Canada says they have had several calls from angry parents wanting an explanation of the Los Angeles calls listed on their bills and "all we can suggest to parents is that they check with their kids. . . ."

Drug Use Soars

OTTAWA (CP) — There were whistles of surprise in the Commons justice committee Tuesday as RCMP Commissioner W. L. Higgett outlined the sharp rise in illegal drug use in Canada. In 1967, the commissioner said, the total of drug arrests was 2,300. In the 11 months ended February this year, the total was 14,700. Marijuana seizures in 1969 totalled 671 pounds. In the 11 months ended in February, the seizures totalled 2,896 pounds.

Parole Board Overworked

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Jean-Paul Goyer said Tuesday the national parole board is grossly overworked and it is unfair to ask its nine members to continue to work under such a heavy load. Appearing before the Commons justice committee, he said the board must study up to 17,000 applications a year for parole. That broke down to each member handling about 20 files a day.

Million in Bribes ?

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Twenty-four policemen in Brooklyn's organized crime control division were charged Tuesday with taking about $1 million in bribes from gambling concerns in the borough over the last four years. The defendants, including a police woman, pleaded not guilty when arraigned on charges including first-degree gambling, bribe receiving, and official misconduct.

Foreign Investment

All Agreed Policy Mild

Replies Varied

By The Canadian Press

The federal government's foreign ownership policy announced Tuesday evoked mixed reactions from politicians, was generally favored by businessmen and was damned by some labor leaders.

All saw the draft legislation, which provides for government approval of foreign takeovers of Canadian businesses, as a moderate, middle-of-the-road measure. Those who feared extensive restrictions on foreign investments were relieved while others were disappointed at the absence of stronger measures to put limits on foreign control of Canadian industries.

Premiers Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia and Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick saw nothing in the draft legislation that would hinder much-needed foreign investment and technology. Premier Regan said he could not find "any real complaint" with the federal proposals.

However, Premier Frank Moores of Newfoundland feared the controls might be used "for political purposes" and said he believed an independent review board would be better.

Prince Edward Island Premier Alex Campbell declined comment, and premiers William Davis of Ontario and Robert Bourassa of Quebec were not available for comment.

In the West, Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba said the draft legislation will do no harm to the Canadian economy, but its effectiveness will depend on

"Excuse me sir! Someone about foreign ownership to see you!"

Ontario Leaders Unhappy

TORONTO (CP) — The Gray report on foreign investment has left Premier William Davis and the leaders of the other two major Ontario political parties largely dissatisfied.

Mr. Davis, in Kingston Tuesday night for the official opening of a new building at Queen's University, declined, immediate comment on the report, released in Ottawa earlier in the day.

But the Gray report did not cover Mr. Davis' personal priorities on foreign investment as he summed them up last January in a Windsor speech:

—There should be more prominent Canadian participation in new enterprise.

—Canadians should be dominant on the boards of directors of subsidiary firms in Canada.

—Means should be found to increase Canadian equity participation in all Canadian-based enterprises.

—Clear guidelines should apply to performance of foreign industry and unions in Canada.

—Portfolio rather than equity investment from foreign sources should be encouraged.

Sales Need Okay

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will come under concerted attack when it seeks parliamentary approval for its proposals to control foreign ownership of industry in Canada.

That became clear Tuesday when all opposition spokesmen brushed off the policy with such derogatory words as "weak", "a nothing", "a sere", and a "hoax."

There was not one opposition word of praise for the proposals, which provide for a review of major foreign takeovers, after they had been delivered in the Commons by Revenue Minister Herb Gray.

For Other Stories On The Foreign Ownership Policy See Pages 5 and 33

All parties said the proposals do not go far enough in one direction or another.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said the proposals do nothing to promote Canadian participation in Canadian industry but provide no provincial involvement in the whole field of foreign ownership decisions.

He said the minister's statement would not even make a good leak, a reference to leaks of various versions of the policy in the past.

New Democrat Leader David Lewis said the policy is a hoax

Independent Canada Committee Says Ownership Policy Deplorable

TORONTO (CP) — The Committee for an Independent Canada today criticized the new federal policy on foreign ownership as being insufficient in every aspect and having no appreciable effect in checking control of the Canadian economy by foreign investors.

Edwin A. Goodman, national chairman of the committee, told a news conference the government's failure to announce a definite policy on regulation of existing foreign investment is a serious omission.

Mr. Goodman, emphasizing that he was speaking for all committee members, said it is "particularly deplorable" that the government rejected the many policies recommended in a study group report prepared by Revenue Minister Herb Gray.

North Vietnamese Close in on Hue

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces captured the last South Vietnamese stronghold in northern Binh Dinh province today and marched to within six miles of the old imperial capital of Hue.

One-quarter of Hue's 200,000 population already had fled, fearing a repeat of the 1968 Tet offensive slaughter in which Communist troops seized and held most of the city for about a month and executed more than 3,000 residents.

Leading Zone English, on the central coast, crumbled after two days of savage attacks that destroyed its artillery and ammunition and inflicted heavy casualties on the South Vietnamese defenders. The several hundred remaining Saigon troops and their families withdrew under the cover of darkness.

It left the North Vietnamese in control of 200,000 people, one-fifth of the population of Binh Dinh, gave them a rich rice harvest for their forces, and established a springboard for further thrusts either to the north or south.

A southward thrust would threaten Qui Nhon, South Vietnam's fourth largest city. A northward drive would aim for Quang Ngai City, about 75 miles south of Da Nang.

Generals Fired

SAIGON (Reuter) — South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu today replaced the commanding general of the northern military region where government troops lost control of Quang Tri city this week, Saigon radio announced.

Another general who commanded the main army division defending the country's northern frontier has been discharged from his post and an investigation has been opened into his actions, it said.

other economic development measures.

Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed said he was pleased the federal policy was less restrictive than suggested in the report of the working group headed by federal Revenue Minister Herb Gray. But Allan Blakeney, Saskatchewan's premier, said the government proposals did not come to grips with the problem of regional control of industry in Canada.

There was no reaction from British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett, but NDP Leader Dave Barrett and B.C. Liberal Leader Pat McGeer expressed misgivings about the proposals of the legislation and the role of the cabinet.

Some Liberal politicians at both the federal and provincial levels were cautious in their approval of the policy statement.

Ian Wahn, Liberal MP for Toronto-St. Paul's who was chairman of a Commons committee which recommended 51-per-cent Canadian control of industries operating in Canada, described it as "a short step on the right road."

But he said he was disturbed that the proposed legislation did not establish a time limit to form the government about problems of foreign investment.

In Winnipeg, Liberal MP for Provencher Leader J. R. Asper, a noted taxation lawyer, said he was "cautiously" approved the proposals, but feared the lack of safeguards for provincial interests.

He said the federal government should "show its demonstrate that a particular takeover would be damaging to Canadian interests, rather than requiring a company to prove a takeover would be beneficial to Canada.

Strongest opposition came from members of the New Democratic Party.

Melville Watkins, leading spokesman for the party's left wing said the policy statement was "a vast disappointment which simply leaves us where we are."

Mr. Watkins, who headed a task force report in 1968 called for an independent agency to oversee foreign investment, said the industry-dominated advisory in the government policy "has no credibility at all."

Stephen Lewis, leader of the Ontario NDP, said the report represented "the greatest single abdication of political responsibility in the Trudeau years."

"It really makes one very angry to believe the government can labor for three years and bring forth a document which destroys our search for control of the Canadian economy," he said.

Businessmen appeared pleased with the proposed legislation.

In Toronto the Canadian Manufacturers Association issued a statement saying the government appears "to take a moderate position and lay the groundwork for a policy of constructive nationalism."

The CMA said it was pleased the job of subsidizing the policy had been given to the department of industry, trade and commerce.

Keith Dixon, general manager of the Canadian Importers Associates, saw in the legislation possible help for some of the organization's members.

He said federal controls likely will not deter large companies but smaller companies might prefer to import instead of attempting to establish manufacturing operations here through purchase of Canadian firms.

"I think the government has been smart in going down the middle of the road," he said.

Similar attitudes were expressed by Mr. Dixon's opposite number, James McAvity, president of the Canadian Exporters Association.

The government had taken a common - sense approach, he said, because it had an alternative in view of Canada's social and economic situation.

In Halifax, Harry Pleaming, executive director of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council said the exclusion of new investment capital from the proposed controls would be welcome news in the Atlantic region.

Joseph Zaltzman of Dartmouth, N.S., president of the Maritime Chamber of Commerce, also was relieved that new foreign capital investment would not be hindered.

The restrictions on takeovers of Canadian firms "shouldn't bother us at all," he said.

Interviewed in Ottawa, Dave Furlong, managing director of the Canadian Petroleum Association, said the organization would like to see a larger proportion of Canadian business owned and controlled by Canadians.

However, "foreign investment has been of great benefit to Canada and we hope it will continue to be so in the future."

The petroleum industry is made up is 88-per-cent foreign-owned.

Allan Milner, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of Canada, said in Ottawa that the policy statement did not make clear "what policies are in fact intended nor how they will be applied."

However, he said, "we are always concerned when yet another government review process enters the business scene.

"The real growth in Canadian ownership will be made when Canadians are given an equal opportunity to invest in the petroleum industry on an equal footing with citizens of other countries."

In Montreal, Charles Neapole, president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, said the government announcement appeared to be "very innocuous," but this only showed the government is aware of the need for foreign capital in Canadian development.

"The trouble with Canadians on the matter of foreign ownership is that they are like a man who refuses very righteously to drink but somehow would like to get a little plastered anyway," Mr. Neapole said.

A. T. Lambert, president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank thought the government's going "at about the right speed."

"We are moving in a delicate area—somewhat cautiously perhaps," he said. "But I think it is appropriate in the circumstances. Many people feel we shouldn't over-react."

He said he was "rather relieved" to find that certain recommendations in the original Gray report, which he considered were not "particularly well-supported," had not been acted upon.

Alan F. Haycraft, president of Kimberly-Clark Canada Ltd. in Toronto that he was not surprised at the moderate tone of the draft legislation. He generally realized, he said, that all foreign investment would be welcome as capital is needed to provide jobs for the country's expanding work force.

William Mahoney, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America called the legislation a "faltering step."

"We could do much more than we have done to make companies, irrespective of national origin, good corporate citizens," he said, comparing Canada's controls over foreign investment unfavorably with those of countries such as Mexico.

David Archer, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, reiterated only qualified approval to the legislation.

"It does not go far enough," he said, but added that the draft legislation showed "recognition of the problem" and indicated the first cautious steps were being taken to correct the situation caused by foreign ownership.

and a tragedy for Canada.

"It deals with nothing which is of consequence in relation to regaining control over Canada's economy."

Gilbert Rondeau (SC—Shefford) said the draft foreign ownership bill tabled by Mr. Gray is an election bill.

Outside the House there was more critical comment, including that of Paul Hellyer, leader of Action Canada, who said the policy is a nothing.

The government gave no indication of its legislative plans for its policy, other than that Mr. Gray will table a bill, word for word for the draft bill he tabled for MPs' consumption Tuesday, later in the week.

It was not known Tuesday night when the bill would come up for debate on second reading. But one report said it could be as early as Friday.

The government has promised that it will present its budget Monday and the six-day debate on that will give the opposition considerable scope to attack the foreign ownership policy.

The budget documents could have provisions to encourage Canadian participation in industry, thus answering Mr. Stanfield's main criticism of the foreign ownership policy.

Mr. Stanfield and other critics were interested in their reaction on Mr. Gray's proposals.

The Conservative leader said he does not object to the monitoring of takeovers, as provided in the proposals.

"It cannot be emphasized too much that this policy does not ensure the continuation, let alone the expansion, of Canadian control over the areas in connection that they face.

"Furthermore no effort has been made to increase the Canadian presence in existing subsidiaries in Canada.

Positive action was required if there is to be an increase in Canadian participation in the economy. Measures were needed in the area of research, involvement in Canadian industry and to make that industry thrive.

"In terms of the real needs of Canada, this is a dull document," he said.

"I look forward to the budget. I hope it is a more meaningful document than this."

He said there is no provision for provincial consultation, either in connection with discussions or with guidelines.

"Surely we all realize that there is going to be more effective approach in this country to weed investment, participation and toward Canadian ownership, it has to be a joint federal-provincial effort.

These proposals were not only inadequate, he said, but did not start that were going to lead to bad feeling.

Mr. Lewis said the policy lacks imagination and courage.

"It cannot be said that the policy members of the government were not ready to do anything decisive about the 95 corporations which provide them with the financial necessary to them at election time."

His Job: Mud Slinging

By MARGARET HAYLOCK

Howard (Howie) Rowe, a Belleville pilot who works with Conair Aviation in British Columbia each summer fighting forest fires from the sky, yesterday told Picton Rotarians lightning usually triggers the sweeping blazes which destroy trees and wildlife.

Mr. Rowe observed campers frequently are blamed wrongly for these forest fires and added he and fellow workers do not actually put out the flames.

He explained a ring of fire retardant is put down around the forest fire and ground crews are flown from two to three weeks to extinguish the fire in the center of the circle.

The area is allowed to burn off completely to prevent reforestation.

The aviation company which employs Mr. Rowe is based at Abbotsford, approximately 40 miles east of Vancouver.

Pilots fly several types of aircraft against the fires. The Avenger, five V 26 planes, several light aircraft such as the Cessna and one Harvey.

The planes carry loads of "mud", a substance containing fire retardant chemicals which later act as a fertilizer in areas where the material is dropped. The substance was nicknamed mud because of its viscosity and is colored to make it readily visible.

Policy Statement Draws Hees' Fire

George Hees last night described the federal government's announced intentions on foreign takeovers legislation as "a sick coming out of a cannon."

The Prince Edward - Hastings MP said the policy announced proves the federal government had been "scared off" interference in the economy and had finally realized any such moves would hinder economic expansion and greatly increase unemployment.

The government's long awaited announcement comes from the Trade and Commerce Minister Herb Gray, under whom a study of foreign investment in Canada has been in 1963.

But, said Mr. Hees in an interview with The Intelligencer from Ottawa last night, instead of a total policy on foreign investment expected by parliamentarians, the government announcement only involved scrutiny of takeover proposals.

"Everybody has agreed on that for years. There's no problem there," said Mr. Hees.

But "we were told for three years that this was going to be a great announcement on policy governing foreign investment in Canada. And nothing came out. They have been scared off that."

Thus yesterday's announcement was "an anti - climax . . . a great disappointment" for Mr. Hees added.

"I would describe it as a great hoax and watching a sick come out of a cannon," said Mr. Hees.

Some years ago, added Mr. Hees, there was a nationalist feeling in Canada that foreign investment should be discouraged and Canadians "would do it all ourselves."

The task Mr. Gray was given was to work out a policy which, in economic terms, could justify a nationalistic policy. Now they've found out such a policy cannot work because we require foreign investment for jobs.

"Evidently the message got to them through the provincial premiers that any interference in this (investment) would be very serious for employment in their provinces," said Mr. Hees.

He said $14½ billion was invested annually in Canada from abroad.

"You shut that off and you have created an increase in national unemployment because you're not going to get $14½ billion. So they (the government) have obviously been told that their gay idea of bringing in a policy to control foreign investment in Canada just wouldn't work.

"I've been saying these things for a long time," said Mr. Hees, who was trade minister in the Diefenbaker government.

"The government, he said, "should have started on the thing. They have finally seen the light — and thank God they did."

Lovely roses from his garden,
Of a loved one gone to rest.

Lives on.

For I know you're beautiful somewhere,
In God's eternity.

Monday Closing Said Unfair

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

TWEED (Staff) — Four years ago, village council approved a bylaw calling for closing of retail stores on Mondays rather than on the usual Wednesday afternoon hours found in most small Ontario cities and towns.

Now, a business element in Tweed wants to rescind this decision and allow stores to re-open at the first of each week.

Spearheading this move is Clarence Woods, owner of the Woods' Red and White Foodmaster on Victoria Street.

He claims both a certain unfairness because quite a number of stores keep their doors open, and a substantial loss of business not made up by Wednesday afternoon shopping. Unlike neighboring Tweed stores are open on Wednesdays.

To back up this claim, Mr. Woods produced figures showing Monday register receipts of more than $12,000 between Jan. 1 and May 17, 1971. This revenue, he claims, is lost unless he challenges bylaw #26 and remains open. On one occasion, he paid a $50 fine because he remained open on Mondays.

Mr. Woods has obtained 33 signatures to his petition. At this time, the matter has been forwarded by council to the Tweed Chamber of Commerce for study.

When the bylaw originally went into effect, Mr. Woods was in favor of it. Why the change in heart?

This situation, he says, "is not good for the village as a whole. It's not good for the fellows who are trying to make a business.

"It has come to the point that the chains in larger centres and malls are open six nights per week. It's foolhardy to sit back," and allow business to move out of the community.

"Here we are sitting in the centre of the area, and losing a lot of business to the larger stores. I don't think it's good for the economy of the town to go outside and shop."

The unfairness angle of this situation arises out of the case of several store owners who are allowed to remain open on Mondays because they operate a gasoline retail outlet.

"Across the street, the competition has the advantage. I personally have lost a few customers on this basis," he told The Intelligencer.

Although Mr. Woods feels the bylaw should be changed, he wanted to go on record as not attempting pressure.

"Far be it for me to force legislation on Joe Blow to keep his store open when he doesn't want to.

"At the same time, I don't want anyone telling me I can't stay open," he said.

"I'm just interested in getting the town off its haunches."

Assessors Make Rounds

Should a gentleman call on you asking to inspect your house, check his credentials before letting him in.

If all is in order, he'll be an assessment officer from the provincial ministry of revenue seeking to appraise the real value of your property. His visit may be a momentary nuisance, but consider the fact that he's helping establish an equitable property tax system that will eliminate unfair, outdated assessment practices.

Residents of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties will soon receive brochures acquainting them with the province's new market value assessment scheme.

In the brochure are answers to most questions likely to occur to concerned homeowners. A look at the information will make the assessor and yourself much more comfortable when inspection time comes.

The revised system actually took effect January 1, 1970, when responsibility for property assessment was transferred from local municipalities to the Ontario government.

Revised rates will not be in effect until 1975, however, since the changeover requires complete revaluation of all homes, apartments and commercial properties within the province.

The only difference apparent to most ratepayers lies in the wording of the old and new definitions of property value.

The latest term is "market value"; described as "the amount a property might be expected to realize if sold on the open market by a willing seller to a willing buyer."

Under the old system, local assessors determined "actual value" which incorporated the amount of usage a property sustained, its location, cost of replacement, sale value and many other related but confusing variables.

In essence, market value should provide an accurate reflection of the difference in value between your property and your neighbor's.

G. Leighton Thompson, regional assessment commissioner, says the new legislation "will probably not mean an increase in taxes.

"If your tax goes up, then it was too low before," he said. The tax base is established by the municipality, meaning mill rates and assessment values have a direct relationship.

Home improvements between now and 1974 must increase the market value by $2,500 to boost assessment rates. The commissioner advises that you may be able to spend $4,000 on your home before it raises an assessor's estimate by the prescribed amount.

After 1974, assessments will be reviewed regularly to ensure that they remain fair and accurate. Until then, the 1970 figures are official.

Mr. Thompson has a staff of 25 working at inspecting homes and other properties. They have already completed work in Shirley and Picton but there's a long way to go.

"The commercial staff works a regular week but they do it in only three days by working nights as well," he said. "And if they have to go back to a place after hours, they don't get paid overtime."

One off shoot of the new system is the benefit it will provide for the federal government when capital gains taxes are being determined. Maurice Stateskerry, chartered accountant with George Welch and Company in Belleville, said last week figures provided by provincial assessors will be used to compute the amount of income tax to be levied for increase in property holdings.

Just in case anyone thinks they can escape the assessor's probing eye — say by surreptitiously erecting a fireplace or recreation room — inspectors are constantly reviewing building permits throughout the county and individual municipalities.

Even in townships where no permit system exists, "The clerks keep us pretty well informed," says Mr. Thompson.

Older Dogs Need Love

After a visit to the Humane Society and a great deal of careful consideration, the pupils from Dr. R. Atkins Public School felt that the greatest need seemed to be in regard to focusing public attention toward the opportunities for enjoyment and companionship offered by the older animal.

Here is our choice from the slightly older generation of dogs. He is a handsome unnamed male Border Collie.

This black and white dog has shown that he loves children and responds eagerly to affection. He is leash-trained and in our opinion would make a perfect companion for any one of our readers.

If you would like to be his permanent owner, why not contact the Humane Society office at 967-1421 between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. or pupils of Dr. Douglas R. Atkins School.

Temptation

A duck was stolen over the past weekend. It wasn't the feather kind, however.

City police last night found one of the children's plastic riding ducks, removed from Zwick's Island, in the back seat of an auto.

A youth has been charged with possession of stolen goods.

City's Past

It is not identified as such but the picture is quite plainly Church Street just below St. Michael's and Tabernacle United. The scene is little changed from today except that the long line of cars from Union to Victoria, of which we were a part at the 4.30 p.m. rush-hour the other day, was in sharp contrast with that of nearly a century ago. The old print showed only a single horse and carriage descending the hill and of course except at rush hour it can be almost as quiet today.

There are other familiar scenes in the V and D display: Kingston from the slopes at old Fort Henry in 1854, Goderich Light and harbor entrance in 1882, a reminder of a visit there a few years ago when our gaze fell upon a rather lacky shoreline and a polluted Lake Huron — victims of "progress."

All but one of the remaining prints — the Guelph railway viaduct in 1861 — are of the same vintage (1882) and include scenes of Toronto from the island, a steamboat landing at Orillia, Parliament Buildings, Ottawa, boat-building at Owen Sound and views of Stratford, Lindsay and Peterborough.

There have been other artistic offerings in Belleville of late, such as the collection at the library of color portraits and landscapes by young Canadian photographers. Currently on show at the library are water colors by local artists Helen Graham and Dorothy Walters.

Spendthrifts

If the $41,808 spent in sprucing up Prime Minister Trudeau's office offends the taxpayer it is still only peanuts compared with the horrendous waste perpetrated by the defence department in recent years. The millions of dollars spent on the aircraft carrier Bonaventure before it was finally sold for a song and scrap is a case in point. Now we have yet another "white elephant" on our hands and an elegant one at that. We refer to the sleek hydrofoil developed for the navy which underwent exhaustive trials in Halifax harbor. It was to be a submarine chaser and it was claimed to be the fastest in the world. Development costs amounted to some $53 million; the first prototypes were reported shattered. But now it is being sidelined for five years, placed in mothballs so to speak and we are told that that will cost another million. Why do we spend such money when the product may never be used? Why does Ottawa play games like this at the taxpayers' expense? Remember too the Arrow jet fighter, another project that drained the national purse, not to mention the Bomarc missile. Why . . . why . . . why?

School Resources

Trustee Raymond Rowe has a point in suggesting that some school facilities such as community use of schools, could be cut to conserve money for student-oriented services. As he pointed out, "we are supposed to be educating children, not giving adults schools."

It is a point to be considered in future budgets.

Meanwhile, although he believes there is doubt about the credibility of psychological tests, education director Eric Runacres says removal of psychometrists (who administer IQ and aptitude tests) is a "backward step." He says there is need for more psychologists, psychometrists and dental health workers.

Smile . . !

In the weekly newspapers from round about one sees some happy young faces. Some examples: Stirling public school senior girls' basketball team; Lennox and Addington 4-H homemaker club winners at Achievement Day in Moscow; the Napanee Comets' Lee Paradise who with Gary Hart played a strong role in the Comets' victory over the Lucan-Ilderton Jets to win the OHA Intermediate B championship, and Cobourg district's collegiate band awaiting to go on stage in the school's performance of Damn Yankees. We have not seen so many genuinely happy smiles for a long time and we wonder is it because people are friendlier and enjoy a greater sense of community spirit in the smaller towns.

Threat of Communist Expansion

'Domino Theory' Haunts U.S. Thinking on Vietnam

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — In the lexicon of the Vietnam war, Woodrow Nixon now has gone full circle, resurrecting a version of the "domino theory" of President Eisenhower's day.

It's an idea that for years had scrupulous support, in both wings of both the Republican and Democratic parties, before it was broadly rejected in the late 1960s.

The theory is that if the U.S. lets Vietnam fall to the Communists, its neighbors throughout the whole area will quickly succumb. "You knock over the first one," said Eisenhower, "and what will happen to the last one is that it will go over very quickly."

President Kennedy, in the circumstances that prevailed in 1963—long before the U.S. overture to China—said he believed in the domino theory. In President Lyndon Johnson's era the catch-phrase of the day was "containment," which meant pretty much the same thing. If Communist aggression was not contained in Southeast Asia the alternative would be to draw back to "Fortress America"—to join the battle at another time in another place.

In almost an echo—indeed an expansion—of that theory, Nixon told a nationwide television audience last week that the repercussions of a military defeat would spread to the Middle East and even Europe.

If the Communists win militarily in Vietnam the risk of war in other parts of the world would be enormously increased," he said. "If Communist aggression fails, it will discourage others to do the same thing."

In the view of some observers, Nixon's emphasis on this idea was all the more surprising in light of the disclosure last week of a once-secret study put out by a variety of government agencies for Nixon in the first months of his term.

The 1969 National Security Council study, although reflecting differing opinions, reported that both the majority and dissenters rejected the view that "an unfavorable settlement in Vietnam will inevitably be followed by Communist takeovers in outside indochina." A defence department paper suggested the outcome there would be only one factor—not necessarily the most important one—affecting developments in Southeast Asia itself.

Still, Nixon said firmly in his speech Wednesday that "we will not be defeated and we will never surrender our friends to Communist aggression."

He thus reiterated his faith in "Vietnamization," the scheme to let the South Vietnamese take over the war while continuing the withdrawal of American forces, which is being sorely tested on the battle fields today.

Nixon said that in the secret negotiations in Paris, There is nothing in their history to cause optimism now, but Nixon's new enthusiasm for the Paris talks have led some observers to suggest that maybe Nixon and his adviser Henry Kissinger have something that has not been made public.

The fact Soviet party leader Leonid Brezhnev, during Kissinger's recent secret mission to Moscow, urged the Americans to return to the conference table has brought diplomatic speculation that the U.S. might expect some movement there.

Other diplomatic sources inside the Soviet Union still is not anxious to help the American extract themselves from Vietnam. But Moscow gives signs of being eager for the summit conference there as the occasion of Nixon's visit this month to discuss disarmament, trade and other issues.

A friendly gesture by Soviet leaders on the Vietnam issue, it is felt, certainly would contribute to a more productive atmosphere at the summit.

A World-Be Patient and The Hospital

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

If you need help at our local hospital do not expect to receive it unless your doctor is there to meet you. What do you do if your physician isn't available? Well, I called that 12 million - answering service who recommended me to another doctor who said to wait until my own doctor returns.

With no place else to go I decided to take my need to the hospital. Once there and after hearing that electrodes are in short supply, I could feel the security blanket looked after on a weekend. Explaining my problem to the ward aide and an audio once of four idle nurses, she stated that my doctor must meet me there. She also stated that this area was for "emergencies only." I didn't think ward-aides were qualified to pass a medical judgment even though I felt I couldn't cope with my problem any longer. I walked into the emergency, and since I wasn't bleeding or escorted by an ambulance driver, it wasn't an emergency.

In another instance, Mrs. Smith an injured snowmobiler being rolled in and that voice again asking for his insurance number. Surely this man was in no shape to give her his number, nor did he care. Is there not a more appropriate moment to ask these questions?

An out-of-town relative some time ago phoned the hospital concerning her little boy and an internal boil that required lancing. She was told that if she didn't have a doctor they could not take him. She finally came in from Trenton to be cared for by an intern.

I could go on and on, so BGH, keep growing with your new dormitories and lawns and soon there will be no one to seal your fine white linen or call on your modern staff, only to be turned away. "Emergencies Only!" What a shame.

Alas, there are a few dedicated physicians and nurses on staff but upon entering the front door be prepared for frustration, abruptness and a long wait.

Hose stupid they think we are. Maybe we are dazed to be pushed around. Not better report at the A and W. If the staff at Emergency can't show a more adequate means of talking to and serving the public—then quit and let some of the unemployed youth work. Surely we could do ward aide work.

Never mind me though: I'm just another young person knocking the Establishment, but I am concerned at the future of my child and the possibility of someone dying while sitting in our "Emergency Ward."

BARRY G. KROGMAN

Editor's Note: Perhaps it was one of those days. Recently we had occasion to wait for some time in the hospital lobby and were impressed by the general air of cheerfulness in the reception area. Overall there was an atmosphere of quiet efficiency and the only thing amiss was a clock that had not been moved on one hour for daylight saving!

A Look at the Operations Of Air Canada, Charters And Provincial Services

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau
TORONTO — Ontario

A short while ago Air Canada announced it intended to continue and improve its local services within Ontario.

This was a straight reversal. Two years ago the national airline had announced that it intended to phaseout its service to smaller centers in Ontario.

This was a blow to many in our government. Its policy has recognized the need for modern travel facilities throughout the province, and particularly in the north.

Subsequent to the Air Canada statement it said it would see that such facilities were available. And last fall norOntair, serving the Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie and Timmins area and a pilot project for a provincial air service, was started.

Since the recent statement by Air Canada, which was read to the legislature by Transportation Minister Gordon Carton, there has been curiosity as to why the change of heart.

No explanation was given. But people close to the travel industry are speculating that it is because as probably a good one.

And the gist of this is that Air Canada's interest really isn't in servicing Ontario, but in preserving other more important business.

The key is that some months ago it became known that another organization, Air Ontario, intended to try to get into the local service field in the province.

It held talks with people here. And though what was discussed wasn't made known, presumably it was negotiating to either meld in with or absorb the provincial air service.

Whatever it was, the company looked important. It was being developed by experienced airline men and apparently had ample capital.

There existed little doubt it would get off the ground, particularly if the province gave it its blessing.

This would frighten Air Canada.

Not because of its service in Ontario. This is a trivial, and probably unprofitable, operation for big Air.

But because a new franchised airline in the province would be aiming right at its heart.

For once it had its franchise and was in operation this new line could go into the charter business. Under new federal regulations only franchised lines can get charter licences.

Charter is lucrative. It is very important to Air Canada. And a new line of charters could take away a good share of its Ontario business, its largest market.

So it put on the squeeze?

This at least rings enough of truth that we can expect there will be no change of plans here to go ahead with the further development of norOntair.

Officials here say off the record, norOntair undoubtedly could continue anyway as Air Canada will only provide a trunk service and a second-level service would be needed.

But aside from this it probably would be continued anyway as an invaluable further change-of-mind protection.

Property Tax Examined

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

Among the mail which recently arrived on our desk is a 136-page booklet entitled Ontario Budget. It is heavy but interesting reading.

The section dealing with the Property Tax Credit Plan is particularly interesting. The objective, as cited by the Department of Treasury, Treasury which is headed by Hon. Darcy McKeough, is to relieve, minus one per cent of taxable income of the same maximum.

The property tax relief will also be extended to roomers and boarders, that is will apply also to principal residence. not to exceed $2,000 in value.

The credits for 1972 will be claimed in the 1973 income tax returns which will be filed and delivered in the form of a refund in the spring of 1973. the report states. It says that the Ontario government will make a special effort to find those who have never filed income tax reports before "to ensure that they get the full benefits to which they are entitled."

It will be impossible to give a completely ! detailed picture here. However copies are available by writing to the Information and Fiscal Policy Branch, Ministry of Treasury, Frost Building, Queen's Park, Toronto 5, Ont.

In general, we feel that the tax credit system has to be an improvement over the basic, shelter grants. It recognizes among other things that the system did not take into consideration the all-important ability of the citizen to pay.

A Suicide Increase

West Germany has the highest suicide rate after Sweden and East Germany, Dr. Fleck of Bad Kreuzingen told the more than 500 advisers of the 22 West German Good Samaritan telephone services attending an ecumenical congress in Viersen-bellicen.

The two major denominations regard the steadily rising suicide figures as a result of the spiritual absence of other people. Hatred of life had reached epidemic proportions in the Federal Republic, they claim. Suicide, criminality, alcoholism and drug addiction are symptoms of this.

The malaise of modern man is really the malaise of his relations to others, the church leaders claim. It is not only those people who somehow become a bit unlucky way out that must be helped. Those who are unable to give help must also be included.

The people ringing up the Good Samaritans should not receive are mainly those who are contemplating suicide and are suffering from depression or a serious illness. There has been a drop in the number of callers who express sexual, social, family or religious problems. The number of callers rose by 16,571 in 1971 to a total of 121,571.

Over thirty Good Samaritan telephone services in West Germany are organized into two denominational groups specializing in this field.

Ceylon: A New Name Amid Political Troubles

Winnipeg Free Press

Ceylon is no more. Two-and-a-half centuries of history have been sunk by the stroke of a pen and the spicy breezes no longer waft "rich and rare gifts" where every prospect pleases and only man is vile.

Bishop Heber, who wrote the poem at the turn of the 19th century, may have been a bit sanctimonious, but the change of name from Ceylon to Sri Lanka, derived from Sinhaladwipa, or the island of the Sinhalese, to the new Sri Lanka will hardly solve the human-political problems of ethnic rebellion and facing unemployment.

Prime Minister Sirimao Bandaranaike overwhelmed in a landslide as Mrs. Bandaranaike's leftwing administration is floundering in corruption, battling a Marxist rebellion and facing national bankruptcy. Some 18,000 rebels have been interned, and much cruelty has been evinced both by the young guerrillas, who kill without compunction, and by the army that kills without discrimination.

Ceylon's history is nothing new in Ceylon's bloody past. Civil strife and invaders coveting the "rich gifts" riches have put their stamp on the island's history and may have indeed inspired Bishop Heber's thoughts. The neighbors came first. In 543 B.C. loved by the Europeans. The Portuguese arrived in 1505, the Dutch in 1602 and the British in 1797 and it was only after the British had settled down in 1815 that Ceylon enjoyed a century of peace. When the British left, in 1948, Ceylon was a model prosperous, peaceful and democratic state with centres in South-east Asia. But this heritage of a hundred years has been squandered in less than decades.

Sri Lanka is to be a new beginning, but despite all the state planning, bold essays into all the kinds of socialisms, the prospect for sober hope, even of a bountiful nature, no longer appear to please.

Only One Road Is Policed In Foreign Ownership Control

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's long-awaited policy on foreign investment in Canada boils down to action on only one of the many alternatives open.

As announced Tuesday, legislation will be enacted to subject future significant takeovers of Canadian firms by foreigners to cabinet scrutiny and approval.

A background study released at the same time says only five to 20 per cent of the growth in foreign-controlled assets in Canada is the result of takeovers.

That means that even if all takeovers are banned—and that is not the intent of the legislation—it would put considerably less than one-fifth of foreign investment growth under government control.

There was no mention in Revenue Minister Herb Gray's policy statement to the Commons of other possible measures, such as curtailment of investment, expansion of existing foreign-controlled firms or other types of increased foreign investment.

This "moderate" approach brought immediate expressions of relief from the business community—which had expected tougher and more critical action from the opposition.

Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin, whose department will administer the takeover regulations, told a news conference the policy represents a delicate balancing of the advantages and disadvantages of foreign investment.

But he stressed it was not the intent of the legislation to stop takeovers. Rather it was a move "to optimize Canadian interests."

A prime requirement for approval of a takeover under the new regulations will be to show that it is of "significant benefit to Canada."

Mr. Pepin said the policy should be taken in context with existing laws—taxation, investment and Canadian-control rules—as part of a continuing process to encourage Canadian ownership without damaging the country.

Both Mr. Pepin and Mr. Gray held out the prospect of other measures in the future, although they wouldn't say what or in what fields.

Mr. Gray, in his 1,400-word policy statement to the Commons, said "this decision, as a course, does not rule out entirely the possibility that other approaches might be required at some time in the future."

Under the new regulations, cabinet approval will be required for any foreign takeover of a Canadian firm with assets of $250,000 or annual revenue of $3 million. Based on recent years, that will likely mean rulings will be required at a rate of about one every working day.

The policy rejected outright more stringent regulation of foreign controls as proposed by economic nationalists, and stronger measures mentioned in a background study prepared by a committee under Mr. Gray.

The so-called Gray report also was issued Tuesday. It suggested a much broader control process than the takeover-clearance system adopted by cabinet.

"The cabinet has taken all that it's going to use from the report—at least as its present policy," a senior government official said.

Asked why many recommendations of the study group were rejected, Mr. Pepin said some ministers had objections at substance to stronger measures and others felt firmer steps would have been premature in the current situation."

He said the policy was a compromise because there was no consensus in the country. Canadian unity would have been disrupted had the government gone as far as some people wanted—an apparent reference to hostility in some provinces towards any investment controls.

Mr. Gray said the decision to zero in on takeovers was based on the belief that takeovers represent the form of increased foreign investment least likely to benefit Canada.

"The extent of foreign control of a number of industries in Canada is large enough to make the acquisition of more Canadian businesses a matter of concern to the government and Canadians generally."

An estimated $30 billion or more of Canadian business assets is owned by aliens—80 per cent of it by Americans. It covers ownership of 58 per cent of all Canadian manufacturing assets and generates almost two-thirds of manufacturing profits in Canada.

Giant Corporations Could Replace Nations

OTTAWA (CP) — The nation-state system could be replaced with a world dominated by giant multinational corporations, says the government's study group on foreign investment.

In its report presented to the Commons Tuesday, the study suggests that Canada co-operate with other nations to face the challenge of the growing power of multinational enterprises.

It notes predictions that the annual output of such enterprises will rise to more than $2 trillion by 1990—half the anticipated total output of all noncommunist countries. Multinational enterprises now have between $300 and $450 billion in output, equivalent to 15 per cent of total output.

Cultural Impact Feared

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's study on foreign investment expresses concern about its impact on development of a Canadian culture. It mentions United States influence in particular.

But "development of a Canadian nation with a distinctive indigenous culture will depend, in the main, on the encouragement of domestic talent and creative capabilities, rather than on the erection of barriers to foreign influence."

Development of Canadian facilities "can be stifled if Canada is inundated with influences from other countries which are much larger or much more developed than Canada."

By such predictions, "it will not be unusual for a multinational enterprise to have one million employees."

The group says such predictions are open to question, but "it is probably true that the total value of production by multinational enterprises will exceed $1 trillion by 1985."

Because of more flexible organization and a greater innovativeness, U.S.-based multinational enterprises would continue to dominate.

But even the mighty U.S. government would run into conflicts with these mammoth business enterprises.

"In the longer run, the development of multinational enterprises, especially if they begin to lose their national identity could lead to growing confrontation with all national governments."

Canada Being Pushed To Integrate With U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Foreign control of Canadian industry is pushing Canada toward integration with the U.S., says the government's study group on foreign investment.

Their report, published Tuesday, says "foreign control has facilitated, and in some cases made necessary, the various special economic arrangements between Canada and the U.S., especially in respect of motor vehicles, defence production sharing, balance of payments and oil."

"The point in common in each case is that foreign control, to one degree or another, has prompted or facilitated the special arrangements. In turn, the arrangements have caused Canada to become more closely integrated with the U.S. narrowing Canada's economic and political options."

Gray to Talk With Premiers

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government plans to open "as soon as possible" a series of meetings with provincial premiers to discuss Ottawa's plan to oversee foreign takeovers of Canadian enterprises.

However, there was no suggestion following publication of draft legislation Tuesday that the bill will be altered as a result of the meetings.

Revenue Minister Herb Gray, who led a study of foreign investment for the government and announced the policy decision, told a news conference he will be meeting with the premiers to discuss the plan and foreign investment generally.

Jean-Luc Pepin, who as industry minister is designated to administer the policy, said provinces affected will be consulted whenever possible on individual takeovers.

There would be no formal mechanism for federal-provincial consultation but it would be as extensive as possible through existing methods of liaison between his department and its provincial counterparts.

Need for Cash Not Vital Factor In Growth of Foreign Ownership

OTTAWA (CP) — Among the causes for the high level of foreign ownership in Canada, the simple need for hard cash emerges as one of the least important in the two-year study published Tuesday.

It attributes the growth of foreign ownership to more complicated —and less measurable— social and psychological factors. The study was headed by Revenue Minister Herb Gray.

Canada's colonial past may have led to a mentality of looking abroad for new and better goods and services, it says.

The Canadian educational system, especially in Quebec, was heavily geared to classical training, producing—until recently, at least —insufficient graduates with the technical and managerial skills required for a growing, home-based economy.

And, the investigators say, financial houses and businessmen themselves tended to be clannish, rejecting new ideas and barring new members from the inner circles.

But the study shows Canadians have nearly enough to finance all the investment that is being carried out now by foreign-controlled companies.

Takeover OK May Take Long

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's proposed procedure for foreigners wishing to take over a Canadian enterprise would be as quick and painless as a routine dental checkup for some.

But for other foreign investors, it might be a long, agonizing operation.

The moderate-length bill, 28 pages including French and English text, makes it possible for a takeover to receive smooth and speedy official sanction.

It applies in all cases where "control" of an enterprise in Canada is to be transferred to a "non-eligible person" or persons.

"Control" is defined as five per cent of the voting shares in a company whose shares are traded publicly, or 20 per cent of a private company. Purchases by foreigners of such amounts are presumed to constitute acquisition of control.

The legislation would apply even where a company was being sold by one foreigner to another.

A "non-eligible person" would in most cases be a foreign investor.

The procedure for getting approval for a takeover can be simple:

1. The investor tells an industry department "registers" of the proposed deal.

2. The minister of industry, trade and commerce recommends approval to the cabinet.

3. The cabinet officially approves the takeover and a notice is printed in the government's official publication, the Canada Gazette.

But that simple procedure would apply only where the proposed takeover is clearly of significant benefit to Canada. The officials, the minister and the cabinet could be faced with difficult decisions where significant benefit is not obvious.

The bill provides that the government's decision should be based on five factors:

—The effect of the acquisition on general economic activity in Canada, including unemployment.

—The participation of Canadians in the enterprise.

—The effect on productivity, industrial efficiency, technological development and product innovation in Canada.

—The compatibility of the acquisition with national industrial and economic policies.

—Any other factors could take weeks of painstaking analysis.

Rich Resources Can Do Us Harm

OTTAWA (CP) — Foreign hunger for Canadian resources may prove so strong in years to come that it might aggravate unemployment by frustrating industrial development, the Gray report warns.

It suggests time and again that Canada should offset the trend by tougher tax policies and requirements for associated job-creating activity in resource development.

Canada's openness to direct investment . . . has meant that Canadian industrial development and priorities have in large part been determined by foreign corporate interests and the industrial policies of other governments," the report says.

This has led to great emphasis on the resource sector in comparison with manufacturing."

Questions And Answers

By The Ontario Motor League

QUESTION: When is the Kentucky Derby this year and how far is it from Belleville?

ANSWER: The Kentucky Derby is always run on the first Saturday in May, which falls on May 6th this year, at Churchill Downs in Louisville Kentucky. By tradition, the horses are led to the starting gate as the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home" fill the air. The race is preceded by the Derby Day Festival, ten days of gala festivities including parades, balls, a steamboat race and a music show.

Some of the noted thoroughbred horse farms in the vicinity are open to visitors. These include:

Darby Dan Farm located six miles northwest of Lexington on Old Frankfort Pike. This is the home of many Derby winners and is open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Spendthrift Farm, on the Iron Works Pike, is owned by Leslie Combs II. This is the home of Nashua, winner of over a million dollars. There are also many other famous horses here, including Majestic Prince, the 1969 Derby winner. This farm is open Saturdays and Sundays only, from 10 a.m. to 3.30 p.m. March 1st through June 30th, and open daily 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. the balance of the year.

There are a few of the important farms. Information and maps are available from the AAA Blue Grass Club.

Louisville is an important distilling centre and one of the largest tobacco-producing centres in the world. Louisville and Jefferson County distillers normally produce about 25 per cent of all liquor made in the U.S. Tours of distilleries and cigarette factories are available on week-days.

The Belle of Louisville is an old - fashioned stern - wheeler that offers 3 - hour cruises on the Ohio River. Check locally for schedule. Week-day fares are $1.50, children 75 cents. Saturday, Sunday and holidays $2, children $1. Saturday evening cruises, with orchestra for dancing, leave at 8:30 p.m. at a fare of $3.

Churchill Downs, the famous track where the Kentucky Derby is run each year, is at 700 Central Avenue. Free tours of the grounds and paddock can be made Memorial Day through Labor Day, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

About 90 miles south of Louisville, on Interstate 65, is Mammoth Cave National Park where electrically lighted underground trails lead the visitors through a fairyland of gypsum formations, under vast domes and past colorful formations such as the Frozen Niagara, a gigantic mass which took over a 100-million years forming. Mysterious and rare fish are found in many subterranean rivers and lakes of the cave caverns. A special feature for visitors taking a four-hour tour is a luncheon served in the Sowbell Dining Room, 367 feet underground. A variety of overnight accomodations and dining facilities are available within the Park area.

By O.D.

REPORT ON PLANET THREE by Arthur C. Clarke

Here is another of these delightful books by Arthur C. Clarke in which that urbane writer is at once lighthearted and serious, his tongue in his cheek and his wit keen. The book is divided into five sections: Talking of Space; Outward from Earth; the Technological Future; Frontiers of Science; and Son of Dr. Strangelove. In all the author comes up with a universe so fantastic that everything that is at all possible must happen somewhere.

Montagu has written one of the most unusual books of the year — a mixture of a detective story, a humanistic case study, and a warm portrait of an apparently bizarre figure who is likely to capture the affection of every reader. The question the author tries to answer is: Do people who are seriously deprived in the affection and care they receive turn out to be emotionally stunted and deficient people?

A TANGLE OF ISLANDS by L. R. Higgins

From Shetland's northern tip, Muckle Flugga, down to Barra Head, the southernmost extremity of the Long Island and westward to far St. Kilda, there are hundreds of tiny islands. Very few of the several books which have been written about the northern and western isles of Scotland discuss and describe these remote places. The author's enthusiasm for these islands is infectious and his descriptions of their wild and incomparable splendor are vivid.

MY CAT SAMMY by Ethel Mannin

Miss Mannin's approach to the cat is strictly non-sentimental. "I admire and respect these beautiful, courageous, splendidly independent animals far too much to sentimentalize them," she says. "A cat, no matter how domesticated, is still essentially a wild creature, nocturnal as his great cousins the tiger, the noblest cat of all."

PSYCHOLOGISTICS by T. A. Waters

Psychologistics is defined as the science and art of using the mind — but using it more, better, and more efficiently than ever before. The book is a stimulating collection of methods for the more efficient use of your mental powers. In his introduction T. A. Waters states his aims specifically. You'll learn about a whole new area of your mind, one area few people ever use, and what it can do. You'll learn how to remember anything and how to recall anything that has ever happened in your life. You'll discover mystics — a fascinating game for your friends that secretly tells you a great deal about them.

TROTSKY: THE GREAT DEBATE RENEWED by Nicolas Krasso (Editor)

In this book are four conflicting theorists and activists of the Left in a brilliant, hard-hitting debate on the meaning and contemporary relevance of Trotskyism. Together they raise and argue all the critical questions of his revolutionary politics and theory. Together these men with contrasting points of view allow the reader to make up his own mind about some of the critical questions of our time and how they are influenced by one man.

Talks Taped: Tannian

TORONTO (CP) — A former executive of the Workmen's Compensation Board told a legislative committee investigating the board Monday that on at least 20 occasions he saw another executive tape-recording conversations.

J. A. Tannian, former public-relations officer for the board said he believed the recordings were made without the knowledge of the persons being recorded.

Mr. Tannian testified the recordings were made by W. P. Draper, director of safety for the board and an electronics engineer.

"I frequently saw tape recording devices being concealed behind drapes or attached to telephones," he said.

He said that despite his own feelings that submissions by Foster Advertising were inferior to those of two other advertising firms representing the board, he was told 50 per cent of the business was to go to Foster. Mr. Tannian said he understood the order came from board chairman Bruce Legge.

Mr. Tannian said that in a conversation one day in early 1969 Mr. MacDonald told him he had been out to Mr. Cauley's house to ask for his resignation.

Earlier in the hearings, Mr. MacDonald denied ever asking for Mr. Cauley's resignation and said he visited the former vice-chairman in an attempt to alleviate board conflict over new legislation.

Both Mr. Tannian and Donald C. Brown, who served as public relations officer for almost a year ending in 1966, told the committee they were the subjects of public "pressings down" by Mr. Legge at staff meetings.

"There was only one boss there and that was Mr. Legge—no matter whom you reported to," Mr. Brown said.

Credit Good

TORONTO (CP) — Japan is anxious to lend money to Ontario, Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough reported to the legislature Tuesday on his return from a 10-day trip to Japan.

He said if the terms and charges are favorable, Ontario will borrow from Japan. The province is seeking a loan of $200 million to $700 million for Ontario Hydro and another $200 million loan for itself.

DISC Deal Still Cloudy

OTTAWA (CP) — Some Canadian subsidiaries of United States companies which have set up Domestic International Sales Corporations have co-operated with the federal government in its attempt to track these firm's down, Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said Tuesday.

But the minister told the Commons that the U.S. treasury department and perhaps U.S. parent companies seem to be reluctant to tell the Canadian government who is using the export-subsidy scheme.

It was revealed last week that some U.S. firms, particularly auto companies, have already started shipping exports to Canada from DISCs, special export corporations that get tax breaks —considered unfair by Canada —under President Nixon's economic policies laid down last Aug. 15.

Boycott Possible

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Tuesday he hopes Canadian consumers will boycott Danish imports in an effort to persuade Denmark to stop fishing for the endangered Atlantic salmon.

He said outside the Commons there can be no official Canadian boycott of Danish goods because that would be in violation of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

But he said a consumer boycott—a possibility mentioned in the Commons by some opposition members—"probably is a good idea."

Little Return

OTTAWA (CP) — A $30 million investment in language training for public servants has still to pay off the expected dividend for the federal government, the Commons miscellaneous estimates committee was told Tuesday.

"It's like starting a university from scratch—you expect not to have any graduates for the first years," said John Carson, chairman of the public service commission which operates the bilingual training program.

Mr. Carson said [illegible] servants have [illegible] language training. Certified bilingual graduates [illegible] a.m.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES B. ALDRIDGE

Aldridge – Ethier

Christ Church, Belleville, was the scene of the recent marriage ceremony, when Brenda Ann Ethier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ethier of Point Anne became the bride of James Blaine Aldridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Aldridge of Antigua, West Indies. Canon R. B. Wright officiated and was assisted by a friend of the bridegroom's family Archdeacon Ashcroft from England.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length empire styled gown of silk organza over taffeta featuring a wedding ring collar and puffed sleeves adorned with an insertion of pink ribbon which was also carried down the front of the dress to the hemline, enhanced also with lace. A chapel length train was edged with matching lace and a four-tier bouffant veil of silk illusion was caught to a cluster of pink and white flowers. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations, purple corn flowers and baby's breath.

Miss Susan Ethier, sister of the bride as maid of honor and the bridesmaids Mrs. John Hill and Miss Elizabeth Aldridge, sister of the bridegroom wore gowns styled similarly to the bride's but in white polyester dotted Swiss over candy pink taffeta with short puffed sleeves and wide flounces at the hemline. All wore white picture hats and carried baskets of pink and white mums.

The flower girl was Miss Christine Yorke, cousin of the bride who was dressed identically to the other attendants and carried a basket of pink and white mums.

A reception was held at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall where the bride's mother wearing a pink crimplene dress, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations tipped with pink, with matching flowers in her hair, greeted the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a pastel blue coat and dress ensemble with beige and gold accessories and a corsage of white mums tipped with pale blue.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and Quebec City, the bride donned a violet silk jersey dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The couple will reside in Kingston where the bride will attend McArthur College of Education and the bridegroom will continue his studies at Queen's University.

Change to Automatic Something New Added To City Beauty Salon

Something new has been added to Peggy's Beauty Salon—the first automatic shampooer to be used in any city between Oshawa and Cornwall. This new device is operated by water pressure and goes through two rinses and two washes. "It's a time saver and helps our hands from getting sore," remarked Jim Grills, proprietor of the salon. Over 75 women have been shampooed with this device and at first, they were a little bit nervous but now they like the idea—the massage is a comfort.

"Well, that's quite the job, so comfortable I could almost go to sleep," commented Mrs. Doris Clarke, a regular client at Peggy's Beauty Salon.

The advantages of this automatic shampooer are: less splash; does the whole head thoroughly; no hair damage; (no hairs in the drain); no red scaly hands, happier customers, less space and a reduced consumption of shampoo.

Mrs. Sue Lucas, an operator at the salon remarked, "My customers seem very pleased and as of yet, there have been no complaints."

"Jim Grills believes every year, one should add something new to their salon. He consults with his customers, as he did with this automatic shampooer, then purchases it. In fact, he believes every shampooers would be ideal for barber shops. Most men do not like to have their hair pampered and this device would do a thorough job in less time.

Some customers worried about scalding scalps but thanks to two reservoir tanks of water pre-set at a regular temperature — the problem is erased.

These automatic shampooers are easily installed and take less space. All that is required is a water line hook-up and an electric outlet. Up to 20 shampoos per hour can be performed.

Fancy Goodies for Spring Tea Party

By ALICE DENHOFF

The easiest, nicest and least expensive way to entertain for a group is with an afternoon tea. At this time of year, a tea party is a delight—the table at its daintiest, the refreshments as simple or as rich as you want them to be, from simple little sandwiches to luscious pastries and cakes.

The tea you serve must, of course, be freshly brewed and piping hot. It should be brewed just before the guests arrive. Using your prettiest teapot, allow one tea bag or one teaspoon of loose tea per cup. Pour boiling water over the tea and let it stand for three to five minutes. Remove tea bags or strain before serving.

Or make a tea concentrate ahead of time, especially if you expect a large number of guests. Pour one quart of water over 2-3 cup loose tea. Cover and let stand five minutes. Stir and strain into a teapot. This makes enough for 25 cups.

When serving, pour about two tablespoons of the concentrate into a cup and fill with boiling water.

NUT CAKE

1 package graham cracker crumbs (1¼ ounces)
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups chopped pecans (2 cans, 4¼ ounces each)
2-3 cup butter or margarine
2 cups sugar
6 eggs
2-3 cup milk
Pecan halves and chopped pecans
Butter Frosting

Mix crumbs, baking powder, cinnamon and two cups chopped pecans well. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, blending well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each.

Stir in the crumb mixture, alternately with milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Distribute evenly in two greased and paperlined nine-inch layer pans; smooth tops evenly with back of spoon. Bake at 350 degrees F. for about 45 minutes, or until top springs back when gently pressed with finger tips.

Let cool in pans on racks for about 10 minutes. Turn out onto racks, remove paper and continue cooling.

When cooled, frost between layers and on top and sides with butter frosting. Arrange pecan halves in circles around top of cake and press chopped pecans around sides. Refrigerate until needed.

SUGAR COOKIES

1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
Pinch of salt
½ cup sweet butter
1½ cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon milk
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
Nuts, chocolate frosting or sugars. About two dozen cookies.

FINGER sandwiches with three blends of cream cheese, Nut Cake, Cookies and Irish Tea, easy elegance for an afternoon.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together; set aside. Cream butter and sugar together until light and fluffy. Blend in next three ingredients. Fold in dry ingredients until blended. Wrap in waxed paper and refrigerate three hours or overnight.

Roll out, about half at a time, on floured board or cloth, to about one-quarter-inch thickness. Cut with 2½- or three-inch cookie cutters and place on cookie sheets. Bake at 375 degrees F. for about nine minutes or until edges are slightly brown. Do not overcook.

Remove to wire racks for cooling. Decorate tops with nuts, chocolate frosting or sugars. About two dozen cookies.

TEA SANDWICHES

2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese
¼ cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon chopped, crystallized ginger
3 tablespoons minced parsley
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
3 tablespoons drained capers
12 slices thin white bread
12 slices thin rye bread
12 slices thin whole wheat bread

Soften cream cheese to room temperature; blend with cream. Then divide into three equal portions.

Blend ginger into first portion; parsley and Tabasco into second; capers into third.

Make six sandwiches with white bread and ginger mixture; six with rye bread and parsley mixture; six with whole wheat and caper mixture. Wrap all well with waxed paper or foil; refrigerate until well chilled.

When ready to serve, trim crusts from white sandwiches and cut each into four triangles; trim rye sandwiches and cut each into four fingers; with small cookie cutter make four circles from each whole wheat sandwich.

SEX ALLOWED

WATFORD, England (AP)—Can making love steam up windows and start wallpaper peeling? Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Creamer claimed a housing official suggested it could. The city, which owns their apartment, dismissed the diagnosis and reassured tenants there was no ban on sex in the building.

Husband Becomes Ill on Quitting Jobs

BY ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is overwhelming me. I got the idea to write to you when I saw a letter from a teen-ager who vomited every time she had to eat away from home.

My husband has had so many jobs I can't count them. When he starts he always seems happy. He's sure "this is it." Suddenly he gets sick. I mean really sick. He vomits, runs a high fever and is so weak he can't get out of bed. Afterwards he goes to the company doctor.

"Nothing wrong," the doctor says. You have a sensitive stomach."

I've been reading your column for years. When I suggest it to him he says, "You and that nutty Ann Landers think counselors are magicians. I don't need counseling. I have to work it out myself."

What can I do, Ann?—Hubby's Wife

Dear Wife: Suggest another doctor. With a little luck he'll find one who will tell him, "Your stomach trouble originates high up—in your head. You need counseling so you can find out why you can't function in a normal way."

Perhaps your husband should be doing a different kind of work. A good therapist will explore this possibility.

Dear Ann Landers: Next week my husband and I will celebrate a big anniversary. My mother has supplied what would have been a glorious surprise party by tipping me off. This is the fourth time she has done this and it just burns me up. I've told her each time that I'd rather not know. She insists she does it for my own good.

She says, "I don't want you to get caught wearing an old dress, or maybe your hair won't look right."

It would be such fun to walk into a room just once and have people yell "Surprise!" and have it really be a surprise. I've had to fake it three times and now I'm going to have to fake it again. It not only takes the fun out of it for me but I feel like such a phoney baloney.

Any suggestions, Ann?—Mixed Up Fraud

Dear Mixed: Tell your mother that if she tips you off again you're going to call the hostess and ask her to change the date of the party because somebody blabbed. If your mother is the hostess tell her to change the date of the party and keep her lip zipped or you won't act surprised.

Dear Ann Landers: Here it is from the horse's mouth, in case that girl from Corning won't take your word for it. I married a man with a drinking problem thinking he would change for me. (God, how he procrastied!)

When I think that I broke up his marriage I could die. I envy his ex-wife. How I wish I were in her shoes. His children never see him. He won't even sign the birthday cards I buy for him to send. His life consists of working and drinking. I am only 24 years old and I (sp), like life. I've decided to go in at Al-Anon meeting next week and get some help for myself since he won't budge. I hope Corning like wine to you. I wish I had. You told me not to marry this man. Beloved Free Press

Dear R.: I'm glad you're going to give Al-Anon a try. It has helped millions. Good luck, dear.

Toast Used to Be A Slice of Bread

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I have a good dictionary that states the usual thing about "toast", e.g., slices of bread browned by heat; and a person whose health is proposed and drunk.

At the end it says: "toast", from the use of spiced toast to flavor drinks. — Mrs. N.

Dear Doris: Concerning the origin of the term "toast": I am sending you a page taken out of a book: — "Pimp Drinks and Toasts." — Mrs. R. B.

Dear Mrs. N. And Mrs. R. B.: Thank you for both. I note in the page of assorted toasts, there is one item which provides another origin of the term, which comes from Bath England, in the mid 1600's:

"Englishmen often flouted a bit of toast in drinks, but the term 'toast' first began when a famous beauty was in the public baths. An admirer filled his glass with the bath water to drink to her health. A companion remarked he didn't care for the drink, but he'd like the toast!"

Dear Doris: I have a friend who has a steady, well-paying job but not a regular babysitter. She has the children here and there and doesn't pay the babysitter.

It's not the easiest job looking after two toddlers, plus our own kid. The mother says not to let them do this and make sure they do that and be sure they have a sleep or they're cranky when she gets home.

Both she and her husband have jobs. What do you think of this? Please print this in hopes that this kind of parents read it and stop taking advantage of goodhearted people. — Getting Less Good-Hearted

Dear Getting: It is an impossition.

Worse than that, how can her little ones know where they are at? She is going the right way about producing two insecure, unhappy personalities.

Correction for Who Knows I Was Born — And Others: For birth and death certificates from Northern Ireland since December 31, 1922, you still send to the Registrar General, Fermanagh House, Ormeau Avenue, Belfast. We got that part right.

But for certificates prior to January first, 1922, in Eire and Northern Ireland, the place to write is the Registrar's Office, Customs House, Dublin. Please make a note of this, or correct me into you drive through made, which gave an address in Scotland.

(When writing in, allow Doris four weeks for private reply which will be sent if an eight-cent-stamped envelope is enclosed.)

Settlement Awarded for Discrimination

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Seven women employed by Southern Bell Telephone Co. in management positions have been awarded a total of more than $100,000 in an out-of-court settlement of a sex-discrimination suit, state Representative Gwen Cherry (Dem., Miami), said Wednesday.

Mrs. Cherry, a lawyer who represented the so-called Southern Belles, said:

"This is an incentive for other women who have been denied equal employment opportunities to press charges against their employers.

The women, most of whom have worked for the telephone company for many years, charged they were victims of sex discrimination in pay and promotions, said John Chenier, Mrs. Cherry's law partner.

"They did the same work as men, but they didn't receive equal pay."

A company spokesman, denying that the firm practiced sex discrimination, said the settlement was "part of our continuing affirmative action program."

Chenier said the women will receive a total of about $48,000 in back wages, about $60,000 in pay raises between now and their retirement dates and perhaps $20,000 in retroactive pension gains.

The company also agreed to grant the seven women pay raises of $1,000 to $3,000 a year each effective April 30, Chenier said.

Daughter Runs Famous Cafe

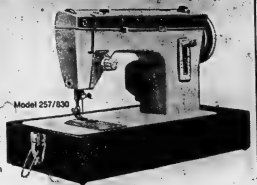
NEW YORK (AP) — A pretty blonde who graduated from a posh New York finishing school and an Ivy League college has become one of the better-known restaurant proprietors around New York City.

When Laura Maioglio was acquiring polish at the Brearly School and Bryn Mawr, she was far more interested in studying art than learning the ins and outs of the food dispensing business. But she knew from close observation that it was one of the richest of ventures.

Laura's father, Sebastian Maioglio, had for more than half a century been the owner of Barbetta, noted Italian bistro in the heart of New York's theatre district. Since Maioglio founded the place in 1906, Barbetta had been a favorite of several generations of artists, including opera star Ferruccio Cappuccini, conductor Arturo Toscanini and Elio Pinza, who won fame in the Broadway show South Pacific.

Maioglio elevated the restaurant in 1968 because of his failing health and prepared to sell. But Laura, who had grown up around the venerable eatery, decided to try her hand at running it.



For openers, she put her artistic training to use and redid the decor along the lines of an 18th-century palazzo. The glittering chandelier in the center of the main dining room, for instance, was acquired from the Palace of Rosina, queen of Italy two centuries ago.

Laura, who spent one of her four Bryn Mawr years studying in Florence, Italy, has instructed her kitchen staff to specialize in the dishes of northern Italy.

Dispute Over W.I. Founders

STONEY CREEK, Ont. (CP) — For 75 years Women's Institute members have argued about whether the WI was founded by a man or a woman.

Enlisted Lee both had a hand in organizing the first WI meeting in Stoney Creek, near Hamilton, in 1897.

Mr. Lee was secretary of the program committee of the flourishing Sough Wentworth Farmers' Institute in 1897. Every year it held a ladies' night, at which a bit of music was added to the program. Otherwise the program was the same, featuring a male speaker supplied by the provincial department of agriculture to talk to the men.

That year Mr. Lee had heard Mrs. Hoodless speak at a farmers' meeting at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph. She talked about her two-year-old son who had died after he drank impure milk. She said the tragedy had happened because she was, inexpertly informed, and she was working to have domestic science taught to girls in schools.

Mr. Lee proposed that she be invited to be the main speaker at the Farmers' Institute ladies' night but was hooted down by colleagues. So, as chairman of the evening, he invited her anyway, and her talk followed a government speaker's lecture on feeding calves.

It is at this point in the story that the argument starts. Mrs. Lee of Hamilton, Mr. Lee's daughter, wrote a history of the WI, founding. In it she said her father was so impressed by Mrs. Hoodless' eloquent plea for the need for women to be informed that he asked the ladies' audience how many women would attend if he called a meeting to organize a women's institute. All 30 women present stood, Miss Lee's report says.

However, Mrs. J. McKinley Morden, 86, the only living charter member, says this is inaccurate. Mrs. Morden now lives in a Burlington nursing home.

Mrs. Morden says Mrs. Hoodless suggested it would be a good idea if the women had an organization like the Farmers' Institute.

Mrs. Morden also says the women did attend the first meeting of the WI, who should get the credit. If those women hadn't taken hold of it, there wouldn't have been a Women's Institute today. They are the ones who made it a success.

Whether the argument is ever settled or not, the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario are paying tribute to the importance of the Lees' contribution. They have raised $40,000 to buy the 80-year old Lee homestead in Stoney Creek, and hope to own it by June.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Can frustration restore confidence?

YES; on occasion and in a backhanded way, a person may regain lost self-confidence in a situation in which he encounters frustration at every turn. Let's say his work is being criticized sharply, the more nervous comment he hears, the more his work invites criticism. Just before he throws up his hands and quits, he might say "Oh, well, they've got to fire me first." He might then relax and develop the confidence to do a better job.

Will a jealous kid 'outgrow it'?

PERHAPS, but with just about as much chance that he will "outgrow" the effects of having a broken arm that wasn't set properly. When a child is so jealous he cannot function properly, his parents should see that he has professional guidance. He is carrying too much of a burden to "let nature take its course." With the proper attention, though, a jealous child could learn to cope with his problem.

Is chess threatened by Women's Lib?

HARDLY; since there is no conscious or unconscious effort to keep women away from the practically all-male preserve around the chess board. Dr. Reuben Fine, pointing out in "The Psychology of the Chess Player" (Dover), that chess either "grabs" you or it leaves you cold, mentions that it is mainly a man's game. "Even in Russia," Dr. Fine says, "where chess is a national pastime, women show less interest in it than men."

Good or Bad?

Penalty Costs Rangers

BOSTON (CP) — New York players differed Tuesday night as to whether the penalty was good or bad, but the outcome left the Rangers down 3-0 in games in their Stanley Cup final with Boston Bruins.

Walt Tkaczuk, who took the tripping penalty, said it was a bad call. Team-mate Jim Neilson thought the strategy good because he had lost the puck along the boards and Boston's Phil Esposito had clear sailing to the New York goal before Tkaczuk hauled him down.

"The score was 1-1 so he (Tkaczuk) had to take a chance," said Neilson. The Bruins took advantage of the call on the Ranger centre, which gave them a two-man advantage, to nail down a 2-1 victory.

The series now shifts to New York for the next two games, Thursday night at 8:30 p.m. EDT and Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. EDT.

The Bruins took only seven seconds to count the winner. Ken Hodge, who rifled three goals in Boston's 5-5 victory Sunday, slipped Mike Walton's passout into the corner of the net under Gilles Villemure's stick.

Boston's earlier goal, in the first period, also came on the power play when Bruin defenceman Bobby Orr set up Johnny Bucyk. New York's Gary Dosk was off for high-sticking Esposito.

Bucyk just snapped Orr's pass by Villemure, giving the young defenceman his record 17th playoff assist in 11 post-season games this year. The playoff standard of 18 assists was set last year by Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens in 20 playoff games and equalled by Orr last Sunday.

The New York goal, by Rod Gilbert, came with both sides at full strength in the second period.

"He (Esposito) was already falling down," claimed Tkaczuk. "My stick hit him and I got called for it.

"Maybe I did trip him, but in my mind I didn't.

It was no trip in the mind of Rangers' coach Emile Francis either.

"That guy was already falling from fatigue, not a trip," said Francis in his summation of the call that eventually cost Rangers the game.

"It's still gonna be a tough series," said Tkaczuk, dabbing a piece of cotton on a four-stitch cut on his chin, a souvenir left by Boston's Derek Sanderson late in the game. "Our club's in pretty good condition.

"All we have to do now is get some scoring into it." His sentiments were echoed by Francis.

"If we keep playing that good, something's got to happen," said the Ranger defenceman.

Boston coach Tom Johnson agreed the Rangers had given it a good shot, but the cloverens of the first two games "shouldn't hurt us" in New York.

He felt Esposito had a reason to be upset by the loss "he has been hooked and bothered" by the Rangers through the two games.

The Boston centre and Tkaczuk had two close-in sessions in the third period but both players avoided stiff penalties.

Walton's play, particularly in the third period, caught Johnson's eye. The young winger was a persistent fore-checker in the New York end and was instrumental in setting up the Boston winner.

"Great play . . . excellent," said Johnson of the move by Walton who took Esposito's faceoff and skated around defenceman Bod Selling to take a move behind Ranger goal.

But instead of going behind the goal, Walton passed out to Hodge, who eluded Neilson long enough to flip the puck under Villemure's stick side into the corner of the net.

Villemure faced a 25-shot Boston attack while the Rangers had 28 drives at Bruin goalie Ed Johnston.

Villemure was pulled in the last minute of play to give Francis an extra attacker but the Bruins held on and Francis claimed they had help from the time-keeper.

A stoppage in play came with 58 seconds left on the clock, but the clock kept going for another four seconds, Francis claimed.

"I was watching it," said Francis. "It went four seconds.

"I'm not making any excuses. We got beat. But a hockey game is 60 minutes and every minute has 60 seconds."

Francis appealed to referee Art Skov, who huddled with the timekeeper but then told the Ranger coach:

"There's nothing I can do."

Francis had a shouting match with the timekeeper, a neutral official from Montreal appointed by the NHL, as he left the ice.

"I've seen plenty of games turn on a single second, no less four of them," said Francis.

Laycoe Kicked Upstairs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Canucks, big winners at the gate but big losers on the ice in their first two seasons as a National Hockey League expansion club, will head into their third year with a new coach and a new vice-president.

The new vice-president is the old coach.

Vic Stasiuk, 42, fired 11 days ago as coach of California Golden Seals, was signed Tuesday to a one-year contract to coach the Canucks.

Former coach Hal Laycoe, who finished second-from-last in his first year in the NHL East Division and last in his second, was appointed vice-president in charge of player development, a newly-created position. His is also a one-year contract.

Petes Champs

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Doug Gibson scored two goals Tuesday night to pace Peterborough Petes to a 2-1 victory over Ottawa 67's and their first Ontario Hockey Association Junior A title in 13 years.

The Petes took the best-of-seven final 3-0, with two games tied.

Peterborough now represents Ontario in the Memorial Cup playoffs for the junior hockey championship of Canada. They open a three-team round-robin tournament in Ottawa Monday night against the winner of the Quebec and Western Canada leagues.

Remparts Alive

QUEBEC (CP) — Rejean Gi roux scored an unassisted goal at 1:15 of a sudden-death overtime period Tuesday night to give Quebec Remparts a 5-4 win over Cornwall Royals and stave off elimination from the Quebec Junior A Hockey League finals.

Cornwall entered the game with a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series and one game tied The Royals needed only a tie to wrap up the series.

The series resumes Thursday night in Cornwall.

Kings Sign 7

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League announced Tuesday the signing of seven veterans, including their 1971-72 most valuable player, defenceman Gilles Marotte.

Vancouver is the third NHL club to hire Stasiuk as coach. Before going to California, he spent two seasons with Philadelphia Flyers, leading them to first place the first year and third place the second.

Blonde Will Become Second Female Kentucky Derby Rider

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "I can tell you one thing, if the Kentucky Derby was a beauty contest, Judd Hawk would win it hands down," the colt's female jockey, Mary Bacon, said.

"He'll win it anyway," she added. "We'll be in front going past the finish line the first time and we'll be there the second time, too."

The 23-year-old blonde divorcee is set to be the second female rider to start in the Derby Saturday when she climbs aboard the strapping colt by Dust Commander.

Diane Crump finished 15th two years ago aboard Fathom.

"I've never been real high on girl jockeys, but she handles this horse better than anybody else," said trainer Frank Carlin, who heads the syndicate that owns the colt.

Carlin said he most probably would withdraw from the Derby if the track is anything but fast for the $125,000-added classic.

Mrs. Bacon said she and her husband had thought of fighting the racing rule that forbids them to ride in the same race while married.

"But it was just easier to get a divorce," she said.

"The rule is unconstitutional, there's no doubt about that, and if somebody fought it in the courts, they probably could get it thrown out," she said.

The rule states that husband and wife are one and the same as far as racing is concerned.

"I know of a trainer who got suspended and his wife had to lay off during those days from her work as a pony girl," she explained.

She recalled the first two times she rode against hers husband after the divorce were a standoff.

"The first race, I beat him by a length and he came in second. The other riders really kidded him about that. Then, the next time out, I shut him off and was suspended five days. They kidded me about that one," she said.

In her three years of riding, she has ridden about 300 winners, been kidnapped by a disgruntled groom who thought women should stay off the racetrack and is headed into the most famous race in the world.

Perfect Record Broken

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Key to the Mint, recently recovered from a racing injury, handed No Le Hace his first defeat of the season Tuesday in the Derby Trial at Churchill Downs.

With Braulio Baeza in the saddle, Key to the Mint went to the front midway in the turn for home and held off the hair-changing No Le Hace, who swerved badly inside the 16th pole.

Dr. Neale, owned by C. F. Nicholas, finished third and Big Brown Bear, the colt of the A. F. Reinhole stable, was fourth, both apparently earning a start in Saturday's $125,000-added Kentucky Derby.

Meanwhile, trainer R. J. Frazier announced that New Prospect and Diverse Trial were definitely out of the derby because of injuries. New Prospect injured an ankle in his stall just before he was scheduled to run in the trial.

"He was running like a snake through the lane," No Le Hace's rider, Phil Rudolph, said.

"He ducked in after we cleared those horses in the stretch. Then when I hit him left-handed, he ducked out. I don't know what the reason was. He's never done it before."

Baeza said Key to the Mint "got a little tired near the end, but he figured to. It was a real big race considering that he hadn't run in a long time."

Perry Pitching Hairy

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Does pitcher Gaylord Perry of Cleveland Indians use his hair to put "stuff" on the ball? Only his manager knows for sure.

"He's a cute pitcher, all right," says Texas Rangers' manager Ted Williams, who's pretty sure. "I think he doctors the ball up every, now and then."

Whatever Perry was doing with the ball was way over the Rangers' heads Tuesday night. He allowed only four hits and had 12 strikeouts before leaving in the eighth inning as Cleveland took a 4-2 decision.

As exasperated Williams was still trying to wash that man right out of his hair after the game.

"It's the first time I've seen him," said Williams. "I kept hollering to the umpires about him going to his hair. I don't know what you have to do to get them to go out and look at it."

Perry, who has heard much distress signals from National League opponents before his off-season trade to the American, can this season, firmly insists that he never doctored greasy kid stuff.

"I heard Williams hollering at the umpire but it didn't bother me," said Perry. "It's the best speed I've had on the ball all year. I don't remember when I had so many strikeouts last."

In the other American League games, Baltimore Orioles whipped Chicago White Sox 3-0; New York Yankees defeated California Angels 5-0 and Kansas City Royals downed Detroit Tigers 6-3. Twins washed out Minnesota at Milwaukee and cold postponed Oakland at Boston.

Williams' players supported their manager's charges that Perry was using an illegal pitch.

"A lot of pitchers throw the spitter maybe once," said center fielder Elliot Maddox. "But Perry starts the spitter with it . . . spitter . . . spitter . . . spitter."

Perry, former San Francisco Giants star who came to Cleveland during the winter for Sam McDowell, pitched a powerful game before weakening in the eighth with two outs. Relief pitcher Steve Mingori came in to pat out the Ranger fire.

Perry was helped in his third American League victory by Ray Fosse, who capped a three-run Cleveland rally in the sixth inning with a two-run double.

Dave McNally pitched a four-hitter and needed only Boog Powell's two-run homer in the first inning to record his third victory for Baltimore.

McNally, who served up 34 home-run pitches last year, still hasn't thrown any so far this season. But he can't explain it.

"Before the year is up, I'll probably be right up there where I belong," said McNally.

The left-hander struck out for singles by Rick Reichardt in the second inning, Richie Scheinblum in the third and Bill Melton in the fourth before retiring 17 consecutive batters. Then Melton got the White Sox' last hit, a two-out double in the sixth.

Mel Stottlemyre continued his domination of California, winning a seven-hitter to lead New York over the Angels. It was eighth straight victory over the West Coast team and boosted his career mark to 15-5.

Kansas City managed only three hits off Tom Timmermans over the first seven innings, but then pushed across two unearned runs in the eighth to beat Detroit. The Royals, who broke a 3-3 tie with the rally, added their final run in the ninth on Lou Piniella's home run.

Blue Back In Bullpen

BOSTON (AP) — Vida Blue is back in uniform with the Oakland Athletics but American League rivals won't have to worry about him for a while.

The 23-year-old southpaw ended his long holdout by signing a 1972 contract for $63,000 Tuesday, then worked out with the team before a scheduled game with Boston Red Sox was postponed, by rain and severe cold.

Blue, a 17-game winner, compiled a 24-8 record while winning the league's most valuable player and Cy Young awards in his first full season in the majors.

Told that Williams had predicted that he still will win 20 games despite the late start, Blue said:

"I'll be lucky if I win 10. I'll take what I can get."

Sport Fan's Dream

A television like this could solve the problems prominent when the football, hockey and baseball seasons overlap. It's RCA's "Showcase" set which has four black and white monitor receivers whose programs can be switched remotely to the 25-inch color screen. As an added extra, it also gives the time and temperature.

Gentry Knocks Own Two-Hitter

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"A two-hitter is great if you get a two-hit shutout," New York's Jerry Gentry observed.

"But two hits and two runs? I hate to think what would have happened if I gave up six hits."

Gentry, who has two one-hitters to his credit, came up with a two-hitter to go with them. And if Bobby Bonds hadn't been in San Francisco Giants' lineup Tuesday night, there's no telling what Gentry might have pitched.

Bonds got the only two hits off the Mets' hard-throwing right-hander, triples in the fourth and ninth innings that led to both of the Giants' runs.

But the rest of the San Francisco offense was strangely inept, enabling New York to come away with a 4-3 victory that allowed the Mets back into the National League East.

In the rest of the National League action, Cincinnati Reds overtook St. Louis Cardinals 7-4, Chicago Cubs bombed Atlanta Braves 12-1, San Diego Padres defeated Montreal Expos 6-1 and Los Angeles Dodgers squeezed by Philadelphia Phillies 7-6. Houston-Pittsburgh game at Pittsburgh was rained out.

Reds should have had three hits. In the first inning, with a runner on first, he slammed a pitch deep into the right field corner. But Rusty Staub raced to the fence and made a one-handed grab of the drive, robbing Bonds of a run-scoring, extra-base hit.

In the fourth, he unloaded a shot to left-centre, then scored on Gerry Maddox's grounder. In the ninth he went the other way. Mommies a triple to right-centre, then coming home on Ken Henderson's sacrifice fly.

GARY GENTRY

The Mets grabbed a 2-0 lead in the second inning against Don Carrithers on run-scoring singles by Jerry Grote and Gentry, then Cleon Jones got what proved to be the winning run with his second homer, a solo shot in the sixth.

Pepitone Packing It In

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Pepitone, colorful and controversial most of his 16-season big league career, stunned Chicago Cubs Tuesday by announcing he is quitting baseball.

Five batsmen Pepitone, 31, with the Cubs after unhappy pairings with New York Yankees and Houston Astros, requested to be placed on the voluntarily retired list as of Monday.

The action came as the Cubs were holding pre-game drills before a scheduled game with Atlanta Braves and left team-mates of the popular, if unpredictable, Pepitone saddened.

Pepitone, who last season hit his career batting mark of .287, was reported to have been chagrined about being benched recently. He also had been suffering from gastritis the past week.

Manager Leo Durocher, of whom Pepitone said, "he's the only manager I could possibly play for," was bewildered by Pepi's quitting.

"Something must be disturbing him. It's too bad this has to happen and we have to lose a guy like that."

Rollins Still Team to Beat

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

The pitching may, or may not, be as formidable this season, but Rollins Construction will still be the team to beat when the Commercial Softball League begins play May 22.

Scott Reid will anchor a revamped Quinte Hotel entry this season, while Wayne McConnell, the other half of last year's potent Rollins combo, two pitching punch, has yet to put in a spring training appearance for anyone.

But playing - coach Ralph Plane already leads the league in signings with eight starting players already on the dotted line. Last year's starting infield of Dale Duvall at first; Steve Ling at second; Wayne McTaggart at third and shortstop Paul Goodfellow will return intact, along with outfielders Plane and Carl Boomhower.

The Constructionmen have boosted this already - potent hitting attack with 1971 batting champion Larry Mavety. The power - hitting backstop fashioned a .454 average last season with Point Anne, while his 18 RBI's were also tops in the league.

One pitching spot is certain to be in capable hands with the signing of Don Delaille. The right hander was an all-star with Picton of the tough Trent Valley League last season.

A pennant win by Rollins is far from a foregone conclusion, however. Point Anne, whose 17-7 mark last year left them five games back of Rollins, also figure to improve.

Jim Hunter has taken over the coaching reins, with Bill Shaw moving to manager. The new coach will have everyone from last year's strong lineup returning in addition to some helpful newcomers.

The team, now known as Devolin Motors, has had Ron Pance's ace battery of Ron Maracle and Marv Stacey working with them. Maracle was the all-star Trent Valley catcher last season, while Maracle was one of the league's top right hand pitchers.

Another bright spot for Devolin is the return of last year's pitching ace Don Holoway. It was rumored during the winter that the big right-hander might miss this season because of a back injury.

Howard and Robert coach Doug Murray admits that "pitching could be a problem." Much of the Printers' hopes must rest on the recovery of southpaw pitching star Bob Ehler, who suffered a cracked ankle while playing hockey this winter. Ehler, whose 14 strikeouts were second in the league last year, is expected to be out of action for at least another month.

Bob Swan, who played with Quinte Hotel last year and Mark Sheridan, a former Belvedere Hotel mountsman, are two of the Howard and Robert pitching candidates.

The Printers have already signed four players, including the team's leading hitter 'Moe' Hunter. The third baseman connected for a .356 average last year. Other signees include shortstop Ken Generaust, second baseman Don Gardiner and Allan Chaffey of last year's Ellis Juniors entry.

The Juniors, who trailed Howard and Robert by two points in 1971, have signed five players to date. Lefthander Ron Hill, who recorded a 5-4 mark in his rookie season, is expected to be one of the Ellis pitching mainstays this year.

Ted Write, a pitching mainstay of the Ellis Juniors for the past two seasons has yet to definitely commit himself to a team, although Rollins, Quinte Hotel and Howard and Robert are three clubs anxious to sign him.

Among the other players signed are second baseman Brian Gariepy, catcher Pete Stalkovich and outfielders Glenn Carleton and Terry Pope. Former Quinte Hotel shortstop Terry Meagher will also play for the Juniors this season.

New Quinte Hotel coach Harold Reid is expected to field a much stronger entry than last year's team which finished with a dismal 2-22 record.

Son Scott could provide much of the improvement on the Quinte mound. With Rollins' 1971 champions he compiled a 10-3 mark while his 130 strikeouts were most in the league. Among the other candidates for spots are Paul Merawa, a hustling third baseman from Tweed's Trent Valley senior entry. Terry Lesage, another Tweed veteran, and Prince Edward player 'Moose' Ostrander.

Bermanville coach Terry Kellar will be relying on the squad that captured the Prince Edward County Softball title last year, along with the possibility of adding Picton players from last year's Trent Valley team.

Badminton Lives

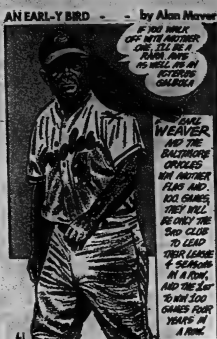
Bird swatters will get a chance to continue their favorite sport Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Sunday afternoons at Centennial Secondary School.

The Belleville Garrison Badminton Club will continue to hold court in the school gym until the end of May.



The club's official season ended April 27. Players will have to supply their own badminton birds.

Flyers Chase First Allan Cup

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Barrie Flyers have a wealth of professional and senior hockey experience, but still are newcomers to the Allan Cup finals.

In their eight-year history, the Flyers never advanced beyond the Ontario Hockey Association finals until this year.

They meet Spokane Jets, Cup winners in 1958, in a best-of-seven final round scheduled to start Saturday in the Washington city to decide Canada's senior hockey championship.

Flyers topped the OHA Senior A series for the first time this season, edging defending Allan Cup champion Galt Hornets by one point.

Under player-coach Darryl Sly, the Flyers have developed into a high-scoring team, and strengthened by pickups from Orillia Terriers, they rate high defensively.

One of their forward lines placed on the OHA Senior first all-star team.

Doug Acomb took the league scoring title with 37 goals and 41 assists in 48 games as well as the all-star centre position. New 23, Acomb led the OHA Junior A series in goals three seasons ago with 55, and then played two years in the Toronto Maple Leaf chain.

Line-mates Bob Cunningham and John McMillan finished fourth and fifth in the OHA scoring race and were named to the first all-star team at left and right wing, respectively.

Three of the oldest Flyers have turned out to be the club's top scoring line in the playoffs. Team captain Corby Adams, 36, plays left wing and is a former Canadian national team player. At centre is Connie Maxwell, 34, obtained from Orillia Terriers late last season. Pete Panagabko, 34, plays right wing and is a former American Hockey League player.

Ray Ott, who took over the coaching in October, played defence with Trail in 1967 when Dad Birkish Columbia club won Canada's best world hockey championship, and the next year helped Galt Terriers to the Allan Cup.

Trojans On March

Moira Trojans marched into a first-place tie in the Bay of Quinte COSSA lacrosse league Tuesday with a convincing 23-3 win over Quinte Secondary.

The victory left Moira tied for first with BCI. Both teams sport 4-1 records, while the loss dropped third-place Quinte to a 2-3 mark. The top two league teams are eligible for the layoffs.

Andre Brant paced Moira with three goals and a pair of assists, while Rick Barbeau had three goals and one helper. Dan Hudick added his ninth and 10th goals of the season, while single scores went to Dan Coulson, Pat Raycroft, Gerald Grier and Jack Green.

Quinte goals went to David Drake with two and Alex Cruikshank. The losers received eight of the game's 14 minor penalties.

Frazier Ready for Ali 'Today'

MARGATE, N.J. (AP) — Joe Frazier, relaxed at his seaside hideaway here, appears light years removed from the "Soulkin' Joe" who relentlessly pursues opponents in the ring.

But when he starts talking, you realize that the world heavyweight championship and the comforts it brings haven't mellowed him.

"Cassius Clay," he says, "I have no more heart for Clay. My heart went out for him the first time. But he's not a true brother."

"He's a phoney, that's what he is. A plain, old phoney. The next time we meet, it won't last 15 rounds."

The champ doesn't say what occurred since March, last year, when he successfully defended his crown against Ali. to make him conclude that Ali isn't "a brother." He's more explicit about their rematch.

"Right now, I'm training for my May 25 fight against Ron Stander in Omaha, Neb. But I'll put it this way—if Clay's ready tomorrow, I'm ready today."

Skaters See China

TORONTO (CP) — Figure skating coach Bruce Hyland announced Tuesday he has been engaged by the federal government to organize a group of skaters to perform on plastic ice in China.

"We're going to China as part of a trade commission which will be touring there from mid-August until Sept. 8," Hyland said.

"That country hasn't been on big in world skating, but I think this will help bring it up to normal standards."

Hyland, one of Canada's top skating coaches, made the announcement following a meeting held to promote the Canadian Figure Skating Association's annual fund-raising dinner scheduled for Saturday.

Hyland said the government requested he gather a group of professional skaters and as a result he will take nine pros from Toronto.

He said the tour will cost about $35,000, not including transportation, and the plastic ice surface is already on its way to China.

Commission Cut Up

WINNIPEG (CP) — Recreation Minister Larry Desjardins told a judicial inquiry Tuesday he doubts the impartiality and capability of the former Manitoba Boxing and Wrestling Commission in conducting its own inquiry into a controversial fight card here Feb. 21.

Desjardins told Judge Benjamin Hewak's one-man inquiry there was "a personal vendetta" between Turenko fight manager Irving Ungerman and Norm Caskie, former boxing commission secretary, that resulted in "a shouting match across the country."

Earlier, he testified he thought the controversy was too big for the former commission, prompting the provincial government to establish the Hewak inquiry.

"He says he's fighting more than I am. My belief is he's fighting because of his financial situation, because I don't see how all that fighting he's doing is going to help him any when he loses one.

"The records show that once I've fought a man, he's not the same. He has no more speed or spunk."

The inquiry is investigating the four-bout card which resulted in the death of Toronto boxer Stewart Gray, 27, following his knockout during a title match with Canadian light heavyweight champion Al Sparks; allegations by Detroit fighter Jim Christopher that his life was threatened if he did not throw his fight with Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo; and suspicion that knockouts in two preliminary contests were feigned.

Desjardins, the minister responsible for the boxing commission, said:

"I had doubts of their ability to go ahead with a proper inquiry because they were trying to do something."

The inquiry continues today.

Birmingham Back in First Soccer Division

LONDON (CP) — Birmingham City made a jubilant return to the First Division of English League soccer when it scored a tension-packed 1-0 win over Orient Tuesday night to finish runner-up to Division Two.

Birmingham, which needed only a draw to earn promotion, ended a seven-year spell in the Second Division and thwarted Millwall's hopes of moving up for the first time in its 87-year history.

Only a Birmingham defeat would have allowed Millwall to end the season second in the table. But Tuesday night's emotion-charged match saw Birmingham bring its points tally to 56—one behind Division II winner Norwich and one more than third-placed Millwall.

A 56th-minute goal by Bob Latchford settled the issue for Birmingham and with 15 minutes remaining.

Parents Help Design School

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Manuel get some help from their five - year - old son Michael as they help design the new Balmy Beach public school in Toronto.

Hoover's Body Lies in State

WASHINGTON (CP) — The body of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI for nearly 48 years, goes on public view today in the Capitol Rotunda amid expectations that his death will mean the passing of an era.

There seems little doubt that no matter whom President Nixon names to replace the 77-year-old bachelor, found dead in his home early Tuesday, there will be changes in the top U.S. investigative body which Hoover ruled with an iron hand and moulded in his own image.

The body will lie in state until 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

President Nixon will deliver the eulogy at the funeral service at the National Presbyterian Church. The late Hoover attended, at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery in the capital. His only survivors are nieces and nephews.

Hoover's death was attributed to "hypertensive cardiovascular disease"—an ailment linked to high blood pressure.

Clyde Tolson, 72, Hoover's longtime friend and No. 2 man in the bureau, was named immediately to take charge. Nixon was to name an acting director today, but not Hoover's permanent successor.

Nixon, speaking at the White House Tuesday, said every American owes Hoover "a great debt for building the FBI into the finest law-enforcement organization in the entire world."

Vice-President Spiro Agnew said bootleggers, bank robbers, saboteurs and draft-card burners disliked Hoover "for the qualities that endeared him to all other Americans, his total dedication to principle and his complete incorruptibility."

Coretta Scott King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who was a subject of intense FBI surveillance in the 1960s, said the bureau under Hoover had compiled files of "lies and sordid material."

She urged Congress to make sure "that never again shall one individual be in a position to wrongfully intimidate a nation and its leadership."

Radical lawyer William Kunstler said Hoover was "a true subversive and a Fascist, and his death is a boon to the American people."

Hoover, who had more friends in high places than perhaps any public figure in American history, was virtually a law unto himself for many years—with even presidents careful to avoid crossing him.

His power resulted from his immensely strong personality, his influential contacts in the government, and above all from his vast experience and understanding of how the government works.

More than a dozen names have been mentioned as to who will succeed him as director of America's only federally run detective force.

Nixon is likely to be torn between promoting someone from within the bureau and bringing in an outsider—which is what FBI critics would prefer.

Among those most prominently mentioned are U.S. Supreme Court Justice Byron White, 55, a former deputy attorney-general; Washington Police Chief Jerry Wilson, 44; former assistant attorney-general Jerris Leonard, 41, and Robert Mardian, 48, a senior justice department official who recently resigned to join Nixon's re-election campaign.

Hoover became national hero during the Bonnie and Clyde era of the 1920s and '30s, when the FBI fought such public enemies as John Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd and Machine-Gun Kelly.

But ever since the Communist witch-hunts of the 1950s, critics maintained that the FBI spent too much time chasing alleged Communists and spying on leftists—and not enough time fighting organized crime.

Archie Bunker Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Already cuffed by the Transit-ters Union, television's Archie Bucker has collected some new lumps from the American Jewish Congress.

The CBS television series All in the Family, in which Archie Bucker is blue-collar worker who makes racial and ethnic slurs, is "creating a new freedom to be offensive," says Rabbi J. Lelyveld, president of AJC.

The rabbi said a major s/s of the television show is that "it is teaching our children disrespect."

He said his own children have come home from junior high school "with Polack jokes that have been told to them by their teachers."

"If you think for a moment about applying the same technique of ridicule, of merre'es gatire, to other social evils of our time, you would think twice about applying lampooning and laughter to big story," Rabbi Lelyveld said. NO BIGOT HARMLESS

"There is no such thing as a harmless bore any more than there is such a thing as a friendly cancer or a benign drug pusher or a lovable murderer or rapist," Rebbi Lelyveld said Monday in the organization's official publication Congress bi-Weekly.

"When policemen are 'p'gs' they are fair game for the slaughter," Rabbi Lelyveld said. "When blacks are stupid, schuman beings, when killers are flayed and daptn or wops are sly and murderous, it is only one step from the exiles to contempt, and another step to discrimination and another step to persecution and the final step to the gas chamber and systematic exterminution."

Earlier this month, a Teamsters Union publication said workers resent the image presented by All in the Family.

"For some reason the writers of these shows decided the average worker is a dingbat, fat, more than a little dumb, a committed racist and most of all, very comical," the union said in its publication, Focus.

"There are a lot of workers who are thin, think everyone deserves a truly equal opportunity, are sincerely compassionate and essentially intelligent."

NBC's Dark Side Seriously Flawed

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dark Side, filling NBC's hour-long special program niche Tuesday night, was a pilot show for a series. It was aimed at the heights in quality but turned out seriously flawed.

Filmed on location in New York, the program was an actors' romp — they seemed to have been given their heads and performed with abandon all over the screen. It also was a photographer's field day. The problems were primarily in the script which painted the characters in a corner from which there was no escape unless a cliche wind up were resorted to or a leading character threw himself out of a window.

Since the entire effort was on the arty side, the window was by the window route.

Use of television's demands is that the living room viewer have someone to like and root for in an action show. There was no one in The Dark Side. David Wayne played a whiskey-sodden bum with ornate and unbelievable flourishes as he tried to pass himself off as the long lost father of a new millionaire. Robert Webber was such a vicious bad guy as a scheming private eye one could only regret he escaped punishment. Yvonne Wilder, Burton, as the teen-aged, mother-dominated heir, was so weak that it came as a mild surprise that he was psychotic.

Showbiz Shorts

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Bing Crosby's Oscar is missing.

Police said a statue of Mickey Mouse was left in place of the Oscar, which was stolen during the weekend, from the Crosby Library on the Gonzaga University campus.

Police said the theft appeared to be a prank since none of the other Crosby memorabilia on display cases was disturbed.

Crosby won the Oscar for his role in the 1944 motion picture Going My Way. He has donated his awards to the Roman Catholic university that he once attended.

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Lewis will become the first black conductor in the history of the Metropolitan Opera.

Lewis, the 39-year-old music director of the New Jersey Symphony, has been engaged to make his debut with the company next season in Puccini's La Boheme.

Lewis, married to Met soprano Marilyn Horne, has conducted the San Francisco Opera, the Vancouver Opera, the Boston Opera and the American Opera Society, as well as major symphony orchestras.

Soviet Intellectuals Appalled by Violence

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two visiting intellectuals from the Soviet Union say they are put back by the violence of American motion pictures. The two commented on two movies, The French Connection and The Godfather.

"I saw more blood spilled on the screen than I've ever seen before in my life," said Genndi Fedorov, secretary-general of the Institute of Soviet-American Relations.

"The reaction of the audience was very foreign and hard to understand. Somebody would be shot in the face, and there would be an uproar of laughter or applause sometimes.

"We don't have the way of showing the dead on film that you have," commented Yuri Olenichuk of the Institute of the United States of America.

"Maybe I am not used to such pictures," said Olenchuk, "but my first reaction was negative."

Poacher Patrol 24-hour Vigil For Conservation Officers

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

These nights, if you're one of a handful of vigilant professionals like Pat Hogan, that stealthy rustle you may hear in the shadows of a river bank isn't bears.

For a low, odorless profile is part of their task.

It may reveal nothing but a fitful breeze in the brush. Then again, it could end in a flurry of action — challenges, possibly pursuit, maybe a scuffle, perhaps a capture.

Pat Hogan is a provincial government conservation officer, one of a minute task force the significance of whose assignment this time of year is out of all proportion to its size. Its job is to safeguard the annual reappearance of roe-filled fish whose upstream urge to spawning beds guarantee the survival of the species.

Their main enemy — and the reason why this is the busiest time of duty for wildlife officers — is older than organized conservation: the poacher.

But the ancient illegality assumes a darker complexion in modern times when conservation is a prime public concern, indicate department of natural resources officials.

"It's a little depressing," says Tweed District Forester Eric Gage. "I know that people have so little regard for such a resource that they resort to such means . . . to deplete fish stocks . . . when it is not a sport.

The way some poachers ambush their quarry gives the fish "as much chance as a bull in a bull ring."

Right now, a lengthy spawning season is drawing to a close in the southern townships of the Quinte district. It's getting underway in the northern reaches of the district.

In the Bay of Quinte — Lake Ontario region the run began in late March.

The conservation officers can recollect it easily because that's when they made their first seizure from poachers, says Pat.

Since that time the warden, aided by provincial police have been constantly on a mobile vigil.

Their territory, like their task, is immense in contrast to their numbers.

In all, they are a squad of five, directed from the dept. of natural resources divisional headquarters at Napanee, assisted by a few fellow professionals drafted in from other ranger stations in the Tweed forestry district.

Their patrol area extends from close to Gananoque to Trenton and includes all Prince Edward County. (One officer, patrolling Prince Edward can clock up 3,000-4,000 miles during the spawning run Pat Hogan estimates).

Nonetheless, their relentless patrolling, assisted by the OPP, apparently has made their presence felt.

To date, says Conservation Officer Hogan, some 10 persons have been charged. Three men already have appeared before the courts, one fined $250, he says.

Flak, flashlights, spears — the poachers favorite tool — even three automobiles, have been seized during various encounters.

The officer believes poaching over the entire southern Quinte - Kingston area may have declined recently — due perhaps, in part to heavier court fines.

But the strain imposed by the demands of such intense vigilance has its personal side effects, he admits.

Agrees District Forester Gage: "It's hard on them. It's the toughest season of the year really."

Aside from the regular patrol schedules, the officers must be prepared for decoys in the course of any report of suspicious incidents received from the public — an imperative response, says the chief forester.

"You pretty well have to get there. You can't ignore them or they would stop reporting," he says.

A conservation officer is usually accompanied by an OPP officer on their patrols. If police are absent, wardens will patrol in pairs. Night radio contact is maintained with police through a relay system at the new regional jail in Napanee.

The close liaison with police also has helped discourage some poachers, Pat Hogan believes.

"The OPP have always helped us, but I don't think the poachers realized this until lately."

The police presence broadens the scope of enforcement. Under the Fish and Game Act, conservation officers are classed as peace officers for the purpose of seizure and with the power of arrest. Police have a broader base of laws to work from — including liquor offences which, says the officer, are often a factor in poaching.

"If," he says, "you try to apprehend somebody, normally they'll have a spear in their hands — which can be dangerous, especially if they're drinking. And a lot of times there is drink involved."

Surprising poachers may have unreliable results at times.

"Every year you always have a pushing match with one scone one. Although we didn't have anybody get hurt this year," admits the officer.

In one incident, he claims, a warden and OPP constable "came pretty close to getting run over" during a seizure attempt.

If a poacher is surprised at work, the approach is cautious.

"You never know what they are going to do. You never know who they are," explains the officer. "About 80 per cent of them will be just an ordinary guy out for a fish and will be just as calm as could be. But, sometimes, there's always one or two guys who like to get-rough."

Police are always present during the run of the choicest pickerel. During the quiet time, conservation officers will work in pairs — something as which their superiors frown.

It's not only for protection in a possible confrontation. There's always the likelihood that an officer, treading a dark, isolated waterway, could suffer serious injury in a fall and be undiscovered for hours.

But prevention also plays a major role in shepherding the spawning fish on their way through any poaching gauntlet. When it's known a heavy run is expected in a certain area, officers will preemptorily patrol the spot, maintaining a warning off any poachers.

"Being there before the poacher and letting him see you . . . means he doesn't get any fish."

Such conservation vigilance despite its hazards, wearying and nerve-fraying demands, is an annual task which may continue as long as fish run. Pat Hogan feels. For as long as the run continue is likely poaching will be a feature of He accepts it somewhat philosophically, like this:

"There s e e m to be some people that we always see every year. They've been picked up, charged and it's cost them a good deal of money. But they'll be there next year . . . and they'll maybe be a little harder to catch each year. . . It seems to be, some people is there all the time — as long as the fish come in."

Meeting Discusses Education Ideals

MADOC (Staff) — Parents, students and educators met in Madoc High School Monday evening to discuss four questions that might strengthen our education problems.

The four questions were 1) What are the basic areas of learning the school is responsible for 2) Who should make contributions planning curriculum, 3) What should be taught that presently is not; 4) What type of child should be graduating from our schools.

The questions were to be kept on a general basis so the answers could be applied across the board from kindergarten to high school.

Skills in reading and listening and composition were given priority in key areas of learning, with the remaining areas dabbling in all other conventional areas of sciences, mathematics, literature and humanities.

The group felt that students, parents and concerned citizens should have some voice in the curriculum programming with the weight of suggestions falling on the shoulders of the students.

An area of concern to the group was the facilities available for counselling.

Most felt that guidance services should be stepped up to handle some problems than picking subjects for a student. The group felt that guidance officers should be getting down to personal problems.

The group also suggested the possibility of offering home economics to boys and men in girls.

In the final analysis, members of the group considered what they thought the graduating student should look like.

The student should be self reliant, self responsible, self disciplined and be able to cope with all aspects of today's changing society.

This is the last talk of the year for the group, but the department of education is excited about the results.

Next year the program will be started up again with hopefully twice the number of participants.

"It is a step to reach the taxpayer and let him know what is going on and give him a chance to make recommendations," said a spokesman for the department.

"The people open up and

Hit-and-Run Investigated

TWEED (Special) — Madoc detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police is investigating a hit - and - run accident that caused $250 damage to the rear of a pick-up truck driven by Charles Robert Conlin of Coe Hill.

The accident occurred about 2:15 p.m. Monday on Highway 62, four miles south of Madoc.

really talk things over," he said. "If people have a problem they know they can bring it to the meeting."

Wrong Trees Cut Foresters Charge

Although there may have been isolated instances of live trees having been cut, winter works crews in the Quinte district hired to remove diseased elms were cut only dead trees.

This is the feeling of district foresters with the ministry of natural resources branch office at Tweed.

The comment was in reply to a charge by the Ontario Provincial Foresters Association that winter works crews had destroyed live elms and trees of other species.

In a letter to Transportation and Communications Minister Gordon Carton, the association demanded that the $6-million program be suspended and replaced with a broader plan under professional supervision.

The foresters add they had studied the project only around Hamilton, Kitchener, Hespeler, Guelph and London, but believe the abuses found there were widespread.

The tree cutters were supposed to cut only dead elms killed by Dutch elm disease along roadsides.

In addition, the foresters said they cut down maples, oaks, walnuts, cedars and basswoods because supervisors could not distinguish tree species.

The letter to Mr. Carton was signed by William Hall, of Renfrew, the foresters' president.

Eric Gage, district forester at Tweed, said he had heard rumors that a few other than dead elms had been cut by winter works crews but knew of no specific cases.

He had heard that a live tamarack had been mistakenly cut as a dead spruce.

He felt that in most cases crew supervisors knew the difference between a live and dead tree.

William Fasken, farm forester at the Tweed office, felt that any cutting of live elms in the Quinte area was not a serious problem.

He said in many cases where live elms had been cut, they were in an area where Dutch elm disease was rampant and the trees were already diseased or soon would be.

Also, in some instances, he said work crews may have been directed to removed trees because of their interference with hydro or telephone wires.

"There may have been cases where esthetically valuable trees were cut, but it was not a serious matter," Mr. Fasken said.

He did admit, however, that he had received one complaint from a rather irate farmer.

In this case, a township winter works crew had cut the farmer's apple tree.

Crossing Death Inquest Called

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Coroner Dr. W. O. Elliott will decide the date and location this afternoon for an inquest into the deaths of William James Richardson of Trenton and Mrs. Bertha Gertrude Plaskett, RR 4, Trenton, killed in a car-train accident Feb. 24.

Police officials here announced yesterday that an inquest would be called.

The couple was enroute to a bowling competition when the collision occurred at the Barcovan Beach Road's level crossing about 8:30 p.m. Feb. 24.

Traffic on the CN's mainline was held up 2½ hours after the accident and the westbound Dunkirk acted as a tow truck to dislodge the car from its position under the front of the eastbound dayliner.

July 1 Deadline for Institute

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The building that once housed the finest minds in North America in the field of ecological control, will now soon be a property of Crown Assets as the exodus of trucks begins to transplanting scientists to points across Canada.

The work done at the entomological institute on Dundas Street benefitted farmers throughout the world, increasing crop productivity, raising redder tomatoes and pushing rid of pests without chemicals.

Last July the scientists had the rug swept out from under them and now a skeleton staff remains in the building sorting rig rid of tag-of experiments and preparing to leave the lab some have worked in for more than 25 years.

To the professional staff of the building, the demise of the institute will mean mostly transfers, the majority to Winnipeg, while to the clerical and maintenance staff it will mean probable temporary unemployment.

The federal government gave the scientists one year to wrap up their work, and ending most cases this has been done.

Dr. Peter Harris, acting director of the institute, told The Intelligencer, "the only unique thing about this city was the field work. In the past year, most of this work has been done and now the reports can be written from a desk.

"Some scientists will have to return on occasion to check on their field programs but in most cases, the work has been completed," he said.

With each scientist transferred, there is a position with him for a technician to be declared, but many have elected to find positions closer to home in the province and have succeeded.

"Many will not be going anywhere," said Dr. Harris. "The clerical staff will be left behind to seek employment in the city. Most are housewives who simply can't make the trip because of their homes."

Most are glad, but for the 32 remaining staff members, the "big exodus will take place July 1 when the front doors will be locked for good as far as the institute is concerned.

The first furniture van the last Monday, another will be coming this coming Monday.

The scientist is carted lock, stock and barrel to his new home. Everything is shipped so that experiments can be continued with the slightest possible delay.

A major concern to the scientists is the home and roots.

"You have to lay down roots in your community and it hurts when you find you have to leave," said Dr. Harris. "I have been here for 12 years, and my home is on the Bay. I don't like leaving from a personal sense."

In a profession of one Dr. Harris will be much better off in his new Regina home. Research will be more easily handled with the convenience of an airport at his doorstep.

While over half have been able to sell their homes, many suffer the tension of not yet finding a buyer.

"The change in attitude is really quite dramatic," said Dr. Harris, "once the home has been sold.

"One day a scientist will be dragging his heels, the next, he'll be content," he said.

The building looks the same, with many of the labs still equipped and scientists carrying on, at least on the surface, as usual.

Packing It Up

Dr. Peter Harris, acting director of the entomological institute, is now leading a skeleton staff, waiting for the July 1 exodus that will mark the close of the building. Many will leave for Winnipeg to continue their work while the remainder will be scattered across the country. Only staff now numbers 32, including seven students, initially hired for the summer.

Monstrosity to Go

Mary Street School in Picton should have been levelled last week but town council was told Monday night. Although four councillors voked against the motion, council agreed to accept an offer that it called "a monstrosity" and the building will come down as soon as the wrecker can find time for the job. Last summer a citizens' group blocked demolition temporarily.

Picton Council Hears Water Condition Report

PICTON — Picton Mayor Margaret Ackerman Monday night moved in council to notify town residents of dye tests available to detect possible sources of pollution in an effort to curb a sewage overflow into Picton Bay.

It was stated that Provincial water filtration plant engineers the average and peak daily demands until 1990.

In 1900 an additional 220,- 000 gallon storage system would be required.

The report added that, on Hill Street, the overflow trickles down to Picton Bay and such a discharge will have a deleterious effect on the quality of the water.

It was observed the Bridge Street pumping station receives more than 70 per cent of the flows from the town and overflows for 30 to 35 days, largely in the spring. Twenty five million gallons of sewage is discharged without treatment and most of the solids settle in Picton Bay after flowing through the creek.

A marked improvement in the bay should be provided by an adequate station and force mains.

It was suggested the unusually high sewage per capita flow of 150 gallons per day in Picton presumably occurs because of illegal roof drain connections to the sanitary service, weeping tiles are allowed to leak into the sanitary sewers and, sewer systems, particularly in the older parts of town require reconstruction and repairs.

Also, raw untreated sludge also was reported floating in some places and untreated domestic waste was discovered in a ditch.

BUY NOW FOR SUMMER BARBECUES

The price of barbecue steaks is sure to rise when the outdoor cooking season opens. SO YOU SHOULD BUY NOW AND STORE THEM IN YOUR FREEZER. YOU MAY BE SAVING UP TO 20 CENTS A POUND.

Steak prices go up everywhere in the summer. Since there are only a few pounds of steak on every 600-pound side of beef, the law of supply-and-demand puts upward price pressures on steaks and other tender cuts.

The same is true of chicken legs, chops and spareribs. Spread your purchases over the coming weeks and freeze for summer enjoyment. Also, when summer comes, learn methods for barbecuing less expensive cuts, to supplement those in your freezer.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION AND RECIPES READ THIS WEEK'S CONSUMER BULLETIN AVAILABLE AT ALL MIRACLE FOOD MART STORES.

Warm and Clear

British Columbia and portions of Alberta and the Maritimes can expect below normal temperatures for early May, with the remainder of the country receiving above or near normal readings, according to the 30-day weather outlook of the United States Weather bureau. Precipitation is expected to be heavy in Saskatchewan and portions of Alberta and Manitoba, with rest of the country receiving light. This is a specific forecast and changes may occur. (CP Wirephoto)

Police Protect Alleged Slayer

NEW YORK (AP) — Police are holding in protective custody an associate of the Joseph Colombo gangland family who says he and four other men carried out the killing of Joseph (Crazy Joe) Gallo on April 7, the New York Times says.

The informant, who was reported to have turned himself into the FBI out of fear for his life, was identified as Joseph Luparelli. The Times says he was a close associate of Joseph Yacovelli, acting head of the Colombo family.

Neither the FBI, the police nor the U.S. attorney's office would comment on the report.

The Times says Luparelli told police and federal officials that he took part in the Gallo shooting along with Carmine DiBiase, Philip Giordano and two other men believed to be brothers but apparently not yet identified.

DiBiase is a former member of the Genovese family of the late Vito Genovese; Gambino is a longtime soldier in the Colombo family and is said to be distantly related to onetime boss Carlo Gambino, the Times says.

Gallo had been marked for execution by the Colombo family since the near fatal shooting of Joseph Colombo Sr. at an Italian-American rally in June of last year.

The Times says that Luparelli told law enforcement officials that by chance he was in Umberto's Clam Bar in Mennisi's Little Italy about 6:30 a.m. on April 7 when Gallo and a party arrived to cap a celebration of his 43rd birthday.

Luparelli said he left and informed the others of Gallo's presence. They armed themselves and returned 45 minutes later in two cars. While Luparelli waited in one car the four others walked into the restaurant and opened fire, The Times says.

At least 20 shots were fired and Gallo fell mortally wounded in the street while his assailants sped off in the cars, the accounts says.

Jordan Offers Find for Study

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuter) — Jordan is to offer for study by world experts an important archaeological find which it says contradicts the Bible's version of the conquest of Palestine by the Jews.

The discovery, a large fragment of plaster from a mud-brick wall dating to a religious text in the Aramaic language, comes from a temple wall at Tell Deir Alla in the Jordan Valley.

It was discovered by a Dutch archaeological expedition under Dr. H. J. Franken in 1967, and deciphered in Holland before being flown to the Jordanian department of antiquities Tuesday.

It is claimed that the text does not conform with information in the Bible about the history of Jordan's Ghor region in the seventh century B.C. at the time of the kingdom of Judea.

Jordan's minister of tourism, Ghaleb Barakat, intends to put the text at the disposal of world experts for study.

"For the first time the find will correct the errors of history told by the Zionists," he said Tuesday.

Franken, in a press statement, said the text confirms Tell Deir Alla as an ancient Moabian sanctuary completely independent from ancient Hebrew religion and Hebrew influence during the period of the Judean kingdom.

Laws Are Confusing Advertising Group Told

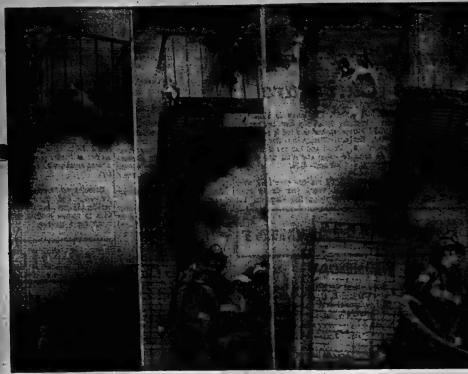
TORONTO (CP) — Increasingly complex and numerous laws will soon make it impossible for advertisers to determine whether or not an advertisement is acceptable, a Toronto lawyer told a meeting.

Reuben Bromstein told the Association of Canadian Advertising ads for toys which are covered with paint containing unacceptable levels of lead. Mr. Bromstein said it appears the onus is on the advertiser to check the level of lead before allowing the ad to run.

Mr. Bromstein was critical of the Combines Investigation Act and the government department which enforces it. He said there are few guidelines in Canada regarding the act, and the consumers department does not give many examples of what sort of advertisements are considered misleading.

Mr. Bromstein said a Quebec statute rules that any warranty or declaration concerning a product that appears in an advertisement, in effect, becomes part of the contract of purchase and sale so that an advertiser is liable civilly for false claims.

The advertiser must be aware of federal laws as well. The Hazardous Products Act prohibits an advertiser from running ads for toys which are covered with paint containing unacceptable levels of lead. Mr. Bromstein said it appears the onus is on the advertiser to check the level of lead before allowing the ad to run.

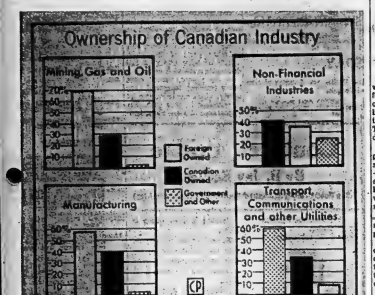


Mr. Bromstein was critical of the Combines Investigation Act and the government department which enforces it. He said there are few guidelines in Canada regarding the act, and the consumers department does not give many examples of what sort of advertisements are considered misleading.

He said penalties under the act for misleading ads have increased from $25 a few years ago to $2,000 today, "and the amount will probably increase."

Mr. Bromstein said the ones is increasingly being placed on advertisers to prove he did not do something wrong. He accused the consumers department of having "insufficient familiarity with advertising problems and procedures."

He said priorities established by the department regarding possible prosecution include: The degree of coverage of an advertisement's effect on the public, the deterrent effect of successful prosecution of a particular case, the best cases to prosecute to allow the courts to develop a reasonable and clarify sections of the act.



The lawyer was also critical of advertising critics. "They lend it lump all advertising together. The most flagrant examples, the bad apples, are paraded before committees, consumer groups and the government, with the implication that all advertisers believe they have a licence to lie."

Strikes Undermine Stability

TORONTO (CP) — Public service strikes are undermining social stability and turning the public against everyone involved, W. J. Cheesmond, president of Westinghouse Canada, said Tuesday.

"These bitter disputes in which the public has been the victim call in to question the right to strike by public servants and cry out also for re-examination of present collective bargaining procedures."

Industry Ownership

Graph shows how ownership of industry in Canada is divided between Canadian - owned and foreign-owned companies. The estimated $30 billion or more worth of Canadian business assets owned by aliens — 80 per cent of it American — includes ownership of 78 per cent of Canada's mining, oil and gas industries and 58 per cent of all Canadian manufacturing assets. Cabinet control over future foreign takeovers of most Canadian - owned businesses would be required under draft federal legislation published Tuesday. A 1,400 word policy statement to the Commons by Revenue Minister Herb Gray — backed by a 37-page bill — said the decision on takeovers "does not rule out entirely the possibility that other approaches might be required at some time in the future." (CP Photo)

Subsidiary Review Not Covered in Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The people who wrote the background study for the government's foreign ownership policy proposed regular government review of the trading behavior of subsidiaries. The government apparently didn't agree.

The study suggests that export and import performance of subsidiaries could be improved with benefits to the whole economy—if the government kept tabs on them and put its weight behind them when they make bargains abroad.

But there was no mention of such a review process in the policy announcement Tuesday.

Tallying up the costs and benefits of the export performance of subsidiaries, the study gives them generally good marks, although it stresses the scarcity of information available.

Overall, the study says, the benefits likely outweigh the costs.

"On the other hand," it adds, "the existence of export restrictions affecting a large number of foreign controlled companies must be taken into account."

A typical restriction imposed by parent companies abroad, for example, is a limit on where a Canadian subsidiary may sell its goods.

That can reduce Canada's income of international payments, and satisfy Canadian competitiveness in world markets.

PAY LOW PRICES

Moreover, parent companies sometimes pay artificially-low prices for the products of its Canadian subsidiary. Parts and raw resources are examples.

That reduces Canada's foreign earnings. And it reduces the profits of the subsidiaries, and therefore the taxes they pay the government.

The study says import practices also cause problems.

Subsidiaries import more of their equipment and supplies then do Canadian companies—much of it from their parent firms.

In 1960, about 30 per cent of total Canadian imports were intra-corporate transfers.

That may be good for the companies, the study says, but it could be bad for the country.

The study said U.S. subsidiaries are especially prone to this kind of inside trade, and that the trend is continuing.

Trial Ordered

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal ruled Tuesday that R. Kent Rowley, president of the Canadian Textile and Chemical Union, must stand trial on a charge of obstructing a highway.

Mr. Rowley was charged during a demonstration near the strikebound Texpack Ltd. plant in Brantford Sept. 9 when he stepped into a street in an attempt to lead a picket line.

Teenage Protestant Gangs Are New Force in Ulster

BELFAST (AP) — Gangs of teenage Protestants calling themselves Tartans have become a new force on the streets of Northern Ireland. But their elders in the militant Ulster Vanguard Movement are telling them to cool it.

Last weekend, Tartans" turned out by the hundreds to challenge police and British troops in running-fists through the Roman Catholic Short Strand district of East Belfast. They shattered windows, wrecked pubs and homes and started fights with Roman Catholics.

But the Vanguard Movement, an organization claiming 100,000 members and headed by former cabinet minister William Craig, announced Tuesday it had ordered the Tartans to halt their rampages and to meet with police authorities.

The Tartan gangs are a growing symptom of Protestant dislike of what they consider an over-conciliatory attitude by the British government to the Roman Catholic minority in Northern Ireland.

They say the British, who took all control six weeks ago, are soft on the gunmen of the underground Irish Republican Army, and they fear Britain eventually will force Northern Ireland's Protestant majority into union with the Republic of Ireland to the south.

The immediate cause of last weekend's rioting was the shooting of two young Protestants on the Shankill Road, Belfast's Protestant heartland.

Tartans claim the gunmen are Roman Catholics.

The shootings brought a Protestant-Roman Catholic skirmish in East Belfast. And then the Tartans took over, turning against the mainly Protestant police.

The Tartans' uniform is faded jeans and denim jacket, heavy boots—useful in a fight—and a tartan scarf.

They came together originally for support and supposed protection while walking from their homes on the Shankill Road and Londonderry.

Letter Said Misleading

TORONTO (CP) — A letter to graduate students from George Kerr, minister of colleges and universities, contains misleading comparisons of tuition fees in Ontario to those in other provinces, a spokesman for Ontario graduate students said Tuesday.

The three-page letter has been sent to individual students in response to complaints about tuition fee increases.

Statistics in the letter compare Ontario's new fee of $388 for eight months with fees ranging from $180 to $645 in other provinces and to New York's fee of $1,300 in public institutions.

Colin Isaacs, president of the Ontario region of the Canadian Union of Students, said the comparison does not say the fee in other provinces covers a 12-month year. The Ontario fee for a full year starting this fall will be $877.

Law Clinics Asked

MONTREAL (CP) — A system of community legal clinics run by full-time, government-paid lawyers would cost Quebec less than an Ontario-style "Judicare" legal aid system, says a group of Montreal lawyers.

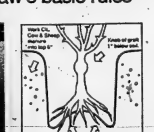
Secrets of rose-growing
John Bradshaw's basic rules



John Bradshaw:

"Follow these simple guidelines, and your roses will improve enormously. I've spent 25 years finding this out.

Sun: If you can't give roses 6 hours full sun each day, don't plant roses.

Soil: Must be rich. To make the poor soil rich enough for roses, work CIL Steer & Cow Manure into top 6" soil in early Spring.

Drainage: Must be excellent. Raise rose-bed so surface is 6" above rest of garden. (Roses must be raised up at the same time!)"

Treat new roses carefully

"Keep roots out of sun at all times. Before planting, prune off damaged roots and stems. Prune back stems. Set plant on mound in hole. Make sure roots aren't crowded and graft will be 1" below final soil surface. Half fill hole with rich topsoil, sifting and tamping around roots. Fill hole with water—allow to drain, then complete filling hole with topsoil, firm and water soil again to drive out any air pockets.

"A few days later work ¼ cup CIL Rose Doctor into the top 3" of soil for one square yard around stem, keeping about 1" away from the stem—soak in immediately."

How to manage established roses

"Sucking insects (e.g. aphids, leafhoppers) plus wireworms, root borers and weeds can all be prevented by CIL Rose Doctor. It's unique—and I can honestly recommend it, because I use it on my own roses.

"Feed Rose Doctor when spring growth starts and again in late July for a lovely second crop of blooms in August and September. Remember the CIL Rose Doctor.

"Prevent Black Spot and Mildew by careful watering.

"Water early morning; keep splashes off leaves and stems."

How to prune, and cut flowers

"In late April, when the soil is workable, remove winter protection.

"Prune new and established plants so only 4 buds left on each stem.

"When you cut blooms for the house, cut just above the first 5-leaf twig that appears below the flower.

Winter: Hill up roses before mid November. Cover lower part of bush with 9" to 12" of soil, and firm into a mound."

What the Stars Say

Thursday, May 4

Aries (March 21-April 19): Take care of the main points and fill in the less important details later. In general it's a normal day of ordinary conditions.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Research into unfamiliar information has promise. Stories from far away or from the past are incomplete and should be taken with some skepticism.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Your opinion is probably sounder than even technical advice at the moment. Have faith in your own judgement and proceed vigorously.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Keeping a close eye on minor items is essential; most things seem slow starting but go very well once off dead center.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): For once you can find no way to pass the buck. Do what is necessary, however inconvenient, then clear up details as if nothing had happened.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Temptation to clutter your life with trivia must be resisted. You'll be glad you spoke up.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If you have a clear knowledge of the situation, you may well ask a question that could force an old issue to your favor.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be sure your preparations are all sound before going on with experiments. Criticism at the moment is sharp and has an unsound basis.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec.21): If you can finish something up quickly, fine. It takes many stages, this is not the time to begin.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Endless conversation on useless topics goes on all day. You may well learn to shut up what doesn't interest or concern you.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Skepticism and thorough checking of facts turns up facts that hold your attention. Take a break in later hours and relax.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Petty annoyances should not be allowed to spoil this generally productive day. Avoid any sort of misunderstanding.

Time Short to End Spine Curvature

By G. C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thompson: About three years ago I was told I had a curvature of the spine. The doctor didn't recommend a brace but told me to do some exercises. Unfortunately, I didn't stick to them.

I have recently turned 17 and was wondering when this trouble will end or if it will continue. The curve is almost at my waist, my hips are not the same, and one leg is nearly an inch different than the other.

Could you tell me if this can be corrected and what will happen if it's not?—G.N.

Let's not cry over spilt milk —the years you should have been doing the exercises but didn't. Few of us are exactly symmetrical.

One leg's shorter than the other and your hips don't match. This may or may not get worse as time passes. One thing is certain: It won't get better by itself.

At 17 you haven't much time left before your bones become too rigidly set to change very much. Not much time but probably a little.

Get back to the doctor. More especially, go to an orthopedist who is a specialist in these things. It may take more than exercises. It may take a brace and exercises and perhaps even other therapy. It may require a special shoe.

But go get some expert advice at once. And follow it.

Don't spend the rest of your life saying, "I wish I'd done something when I was 17 and things could still be corrected."

Dear Dr. Thompson: I have been told I have skin cancer. It is a black spot on my breast, almost under my arm, about the size of a half dollar. It has been there about 10 years and given no trouble.

The past few months there have come a few black spots in the neighborhood of the original spot. Is there any danger from this? Is anything needed to treat it? I am 94 years old.—E.J.J.

Who diagnosed it as cancer? If it is cancer, it needs attention and you should have a doctor look at it right away.

Your age is a factor to be reckoned with. If you were younger, I would say the spot should be removed surgically because skin cancer, promptly removed, is a very curable disease.

The trouble is that cancer, even though painless, has the savage habit of spreading, no matter where it is. Give it time enough and it will spread also to other parts of the body, sooner or later attacking and destroying some vital organ.

In the skin, cancer often has a tendency to spread very slowly, which may answer a lot your questions in your case. The appearance of more spots, however, could be an indication of spreading, so I urge you to see your doctor without delay.

What his judgment may be, I can't guess—whether it test the new spots to see what they are, whether to remove them and the original spot, or use x-ray or other treatment to keep the spreading alive. But see him.

Dear Dr. Thompson: I have this girl friend who is an excessive drinker. Can a woman with her problem get pregnant and have a normal and healthy child? Does alcohol have any serious problems physically? A woman who wants a child!—J.T.

Booze-happy women do get pregnant . . . and they do have healthy children, but it's a dirty trick to saddle a child with a drunk for a mother.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Investors showed little reaction to the federal government's long-awaited policy on foreign investment in Canada as the Toronto stock market scored only fractional gains in slow mid-morning trading today.

The industrial index was up .20 to 197.77 and western oils .30 to 214.11. Golds dropped .61 to 81.22 and base metals .15 to 95.98.

One trader said the coming federal budget appears to be the main concern of many investors.

"Many investors have withheld the stockings until the budget is introduced next week," he said.

Trading was light with only 230,000 shares changing hands by 11 a.m., down from 385,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Advances held a moderate margin over declines, 153 to 82, with 198 issues unchanged.

Steel, industrial mining, communication, beverage and pipeline stocks moved moderately higher while banking, chemical, merchandising and real estate issues drifted fractionally lower.

Magna Electronics was up ¼ to 25½, Bell ¼ to 64½, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas ¼ to 54⅛, Alcan ¼ to 32⅛, Seagrams ¼ to 33⅜ and Moore ¼ to 54¼.

Peoples Department Stores dropped ½ to 23¾, Walker-Gooderham ⅜ to 24⅜, Slater, Walker ⅛ to 22, Ranger ⅛ to 18⅝, Falconbridge ¼ to 81 and Noranda ⅛ to 57⅞.

On Tuesday a broad decline crept through most sectors in slow trading.

PLAYS FOR ELDERLY

TORONTO (CP) — Peter J. McCandless, a former city policeman-turned-playwright, and Brian Robinson, a local producer, have formed The Smile Company which performs free one-hour shows for hospitals, convalescent homes and senior citizens' organizations in the metropolitan area. The company operates on a grant from the federal department of manpower and immigration.

Mining Tax Incentives Suggested

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government's objective of increasing metal processing requires making tax incentives, the Ontario Mining Association was told Tuesday.

J. H. Stovel, in his speech at outgoing president, said if the province wanted metal processing to be an answer to economic problems, it was an over-simplification of the issues.

Referring to recent statements by Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough that Ontario's long-run objective is to increase metal processing, Mr. Stovel said the government's approach ignored the problems of ore supply, the pollution control factor and the reality that different metals cannot be mixed in the same processing plants.

Without an adequate supply of new ores, capital investment by industry or government would be a complete waste of money.

The idea that Canada has an unlimited supply of ores is a popular myth, he said.

Check Lacking After Beatings

TORONTO (CP) — A provincially-financed report on physically abused children says that follow-up procedures for preventing recurrences of beatings are "frankly appalling."

The report compiled by a group headed by Cyril Greenland of the school of social work at McMaster University in Hamilton was released at Queen's Park Tuesday.

It said many children are severely beaten in the province in 1970 "are still living in perilous situations" because of inadequate follow-up services.

The study was done for the department of community and social services, under Rene Brunelle, the minister. Mr. Brunelle said he has not had time to read the report and had no comment.

Mr. Greenland said in his report, "available information suggests that 73 children are still living "in unhealthy situations."

The report, however, emphasizes that there should be less concern by society about child abuse and more about the accidents, which claimed the lives of 181 children in 1970, 78 of them boys.

Infant deaths by physical abuse totalled only 40 from 1968 to 1970, of which eight occurred in 1970.

The study found that an average of 220 child-abuse cases are reported each year in Ontario.

Referring to lack of adequate follow-up services, the report says in many instances Children's Aid Societies recognized the problem but were unable to provide the help because of an already heavy case-load.

The study also found that over-strict discipline by parents or guardians was the most apparent cause of injuries to children, not abuse or neglect.

Driver Fined

SUDBURY (CP) — The driver of a car in a fatal car-train crash last Feb. 26 was convicted of careless driving Tuesday, fined $100 and had her licence suspended for six months.

Bertha Nellie Trudeau had pleaded not guilty to the charge. The collision resulted in the death of Agnes Wassengeso, 21, her sister, Elizabeth Wassengeso, 23, and their cousin Freda Gail Wassengeso.

Envoy Harassed

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Soviet delegation to the United Nations complained that two "Zionist hooligans" harassed and abused its ambassador, Jacob Malik, as he drove through midtown New York Tuesday afternoon.

Nikolai K. Tarassov, deputy Soviet representative, said two persons with Zionist emblems on their shirts first "tried to hamper the movement" of Malik's car. When it stopped for a traffic signal, Tarassov said, the two knocked on the windows, tried to open the doors and shouted abuse.

Sell or Else

OTTAWA (CP) — Board of control has ordered that two civic employees either sell their West Quebec homes or be fired from their jobs.

Both J. R. Savard, a treasury department employee, and Mario Herrera, who works in the community renewal department, moved to the Gatineau area when they found living in Ottawa too expensive.

Overtime Paid

OTTAWA (CP) — Mounties finally are going to get paid overtime for the long hours they spend getting their man, the Commons justice committee was told Tuesday.

RCMP Commissioner W. L. Higgitt said between $6 million and $8 million will be added to the force's budget for the fiscal year beginning April 1, 1973.

Pay for a first-class constable last year was $157 weekly.

Davis at Queen's

KINGSTON (CP) — Premier William Davis gave two student demonstrator groups what they called a "political brushoff" Tuesday after he had officially opened a new Queen's University building.

The premier, here to open the $8 million Duncan McArthur Hall, was met by students protesting increase in tuition fees and lack of teaching positions.

Ship Year Late

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — The Stewart J. Cort, largest ship on the Great Lakes, slipped away from its moorings on schedule Monday and headed out across Lake Erie en route to Taconite Harbor, Minn., 850 miles away.

The 1,000-foot Cort began its maiden voyage about a year late because of production difficulties.

Overtime Refused

TORONTO (CP) — About 200 Air Canada employees, disconcerted with working schedules, caused a slowdown at Toronto International Airport Tuesday by refusing to work overtime or assume part-time managerial duties.

Apathy Promoted

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal Urban Community's daily air pollution tests encourage public apathy and legalize pollution, Tony LeSauteur, president of the Quebec Wildlife Federation, said Tuesday.

Statement Asked On Mercury

TORONTO (CP) — A call for a clear statement from the government of the dangers of mercury poisoning in fish has been made by the medical officer of health for northern Ontario.

Dr. P. F. Playfair of Kenora said in an interview Tuesday that the issue is being "blown loud and clear, "not tucked away in some booklet in Toronto."

"Government departments tend to shilly-shally," he said, because they worry about frightening away tourist business, an important part of the area's economy.

Trade Pending

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario and Cuba are on the verge of closer trade and development relations, A. B. R. Lawrence, provincial secretary for resources development, indicated to the legislature Tuesday.

He met Monday with the Cuban ambassador, the trade commissioner stationed in Montreal, the consul in Toronto and the secretaries of external affairs and Canadian affairs from Havana.

Theatres Aided

OTTAWA (CP) — Grants totalling $178,850 to 23 performing arts groups were announced Tuesday by the Canada Council. Ontario grants include:

Loud Talker Slain

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Frank Whitfield was shot to death Tuesday in a restaurant by an elderly man who complained he was talking too loudly to a partially-deaf companion, police said.

Other patrons continued eating while the gunman returned to his seat and resumed his breakfast, police said.

Agents Bothered

Splashed, Sues

HAMILTON (CP) — The wife of a Canadian chess champion checkmated a puddle splasher Tuesday. She took the motorist to court, and won.

Madeline Vaitonis, wife of Paul Vaitonis, 61, was awarded $25 for cleaning bills.

Plane Crashes

STRATFORD (CP) — Two young men were critically injured Tuesday night when their light aircraft crashed in a Logan Township field 15 miles northwest of here.

Graham Hall-Holland, 26, and John Rowe, 21, both of Atwood, suffered head injuries and were taken to Stratford hospital. Their plane apparently stalled and crashed shortly befort a rainstorm hit the area.

Train at School

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial government committee on the costs of education was told by three different organizations Tuesday that students should be given on-the-job training while still at school.

The proposal came from the Ontario Federation of Labor, the Labor Council of Metropolitan Toronto and the Peel County Educators' Association, which represents 1,350 elementary school teachers.

Revamp Piccadilly

LONDON (Reuter) — A $200 million plan to modernize Piccadilly Circus in the centre of London was unveiled Tuesday.

Towers and raised pedestrian walkways are a feature of the new plan, which is intended to retain the statue of Eros at its centre, as an international meeting point.

Train for Apollo 17

Fertilizer Aids Salmon

BURLINGTON (CP) — An experiment using common garden fertilizer has achieved a yearly growth increase of 20 per cent in rockeye salmon, the third Canadian oceanographic symposium was told Tuesday.

And this work "does suggest the possibility of developing techniques and using sewage to benefit lakes which are naturally low in nutrients," said Carey McAllister.

Mr. McAllister is head of the environmental research group at the federal government's Pacific biological station in Nanaimo, B.C.

Wiretap Law Said Too Lax

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation to restrict electronic snooping and help establish, in the words of Justice Minister Otto Lang, "the proper balance between the needs for privacy and disclosure," was attacked Tuesday in the Commons for the loopholes it leaves police.

New Democrat justice spokesman John Gilbert (Toronto Broadview) said the bill still leaves authorities the right to permit eavesdropping in most cases where police suspect crime.

A judge can grant the use of a wiretap to look into any indictable offence if police convince him other investigation methods either have failed or would likely fail, or that urgency makes other methods impractical.

The Commons justice committee, which had considered the question of wiretapping, recommended that such snooping be allowed only for the most serious crimes. As it is, wiretaps could be used to check up on income tax evaders, petty thieves and drinking drivers.

"It seems to me we will have a wide, permissive system which may well be Orwellian in nature and concept," Mr. Gilbert said.

Both the wiretap bill, which was introduced for second-reading debate Tuesday by Mr. Lang, and another bill which offers a range of reforms in Canada's criminal law, were referred by the Commons to its justice committee for detailed study.

On the wiretap bill, Mr. Lang said the basic intent is prohibitory, designed to protect the rights of privacy against intrusion. Snooping techniques have reached the point where it is possible for almost anyone to penetrate all facets of a citizen's life.

The bill, introduced last June by former justice minister John Turner, permits police interception of conversation in two cases other than the one in which they receive permission from a judge.

Officials designated by a provincial attorney-general could permit an emergency wiretap in suspected cases of organized criminal conspiracy. Such permission would have to be authorized by a judge within 36 hours.

Or the federal solicitor-general could initiate wiretapping or eavesdropping if he felt it were needed to detect or prevent espionage, sabotage or other subversive activity.

Former New Democrat leader T. C. Douglas took strong exception to the latter, saying all kinds of nebulous interpretations could be placed on the term subversive activity.

Gasoline Explodes On Seaway Tanker

Peace Talk Ends Again

PARIS (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam indefinitely suspended the Vietnam peace conference today.

U.S. delegation chief William Porter told reporters that South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, speaking for the southern allied side, "did not agree to set a date for the next meeting."

Porter said the decision was made because of "a lack of progress in every available channel" of the peace talks.

Porter said that the decision not to set a date for a new meeting was not altogether a result of today's session at which he said the Communist side "refused to answer any of our questions." His reference to lack of progress in every available channel was taken to mean that secret talks have also been going on.

Captain Dies, Four Injured

MASSENA, N.Y. (CP) — The captain of the gasoline tanker Venus was killed and four seamen injured, one seriously, when two explosions shook the empty ship while she lay at anchor in heavy fog in the St. Lawrence River six miles upstream from here early today.

The captain was identified as Charles Stanley, 53, of Cleveland.

Most seriously hurt was Edwin S. Mark, 28, whose hometown was unavailable.

The other injured seamen were Ken Callahan, 27, Chicago, hands and facial burns; Edward Kuhn, 41, Milwaukee, leg injury, Emery Dugas, 46, Worcester, Mass., injuries not specified.

They were brought to hospital here by tug and a doctor gave them emergency treatment on arrival.

There were 23 aboard the tanker at the time. The Venus, a 23-foot motor vessel, is registered to Cleveland Tanker Inc., of Cleveland and was en route to Montreal Petrofina to reload. She was bought by the line about the first of January and formerly was the Martha Allen. She has a maximum capacity of 33,000 barrels.

A St. Lawrence Seaway Authority spokesman said it is believed a fire preceded the first explosion in No. 1 hold and that the captain was killed in the second blast while investigating the first. The fire was extinguished.

The first explosion was reported to have occurred while the crew was cleaning tanks after having discharged cargo at Ogdensburg, N.Y.

Visibility was zero at the scene of the blast, almost opposite Upper Canada Village on the Canadian side, about 10 miles upriver from Cornwall, Ont.

But two tugs were nearby, the Constructor and the Salvage Monarch of Montreal. The Salvage Monarch took the injured aboard and brought them to hospital here. Three were able to walk ashore.

Other ships were standing by at daylight in case of further trouble as the crew remained aboard. Extent of the damage was undetermined but it was thought confined to No. 1 hold.

"We are a chunk of TNT," was the first word of the explosion, reported by the tanker's radio operator to New York state police.

"Gasoline fumes are more dangerous than the gas," a police spokesman said when the call came in.

The Venus' radio operator asked that rubber bumpers be used by any approaching vessel to minimize danger of further blasts. The rescue was hampered by the fog. From Massena a doctor gave radiophone instructions for care of the injured.

Cpl. Michael Richardson-Smith of the Ontario provincial police at Cornwall said the blasts occurred while the Venus was at the Wilson Hill anchorage on the Canadian side of the ship channel. The channel is on the outer side of islands four miles out on Lake St. Lawrence from the Canadian side.

The incident occurred about 15 miles upstream from where the 343-foot Eastcliffe Hall, a Canadian freighter, sank July 14, 1970, with the loss of nine lives after grounding in the St. Lawrence. A government inquiry later decided the captain of the Eastcliffe Hall was drunk.

Picton Parking Meters Robbed

By MARGARET HAYLOCK, Staff Correspondent

PICTON (Staff) — Town council this week was told locks have been changed on a number of parking meters at an estimated cost of $300 in an effort to curb thefts totalling approximately $2,000 from meter boxes.

In a confidential report last September council learned approximately $2,300 had been removed during the first six months of the year.

The latest theft apparently occurred last month and netted the culprits more than $300.

Several councillors expressed surprise that some of the thefts had taken place on the Market Square, adjacent to the town police offices.

Picton reeve Albert Pirolli requested a full report of the incidents be made to town council but was told by Mayor Margaret Ackerman that Police Chief George Pitt reports only to the town police commission.

When he asked for a report from the police commission, Reeve Pirolli was advised by town solicitor Jack Ward that there was no reason why it should not be requested.

FBI Head Chosen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dampening the potential fireworks of an election-year debate over the FBI, President Nixon has chosen only a temporary replacement for the late J. Edgar Hoover who ran the agency for 48 years. Nixon appointed L. Patrick Gray III, as assistant attorney-general, as acting FBI director Wednesday and said no permanent appointment will be submitted to the Senate until after the Nov. 7 election.

Police Told: 'Shoot'

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu today ordered police in South Vietnam's cities and towns to "shoot on the spot" anyone engaging in terrorism or public disturbances.

The order, issued to military region commanders and province and district chiefs, was aimed at preventing terrorism and revolutionary public order during the North Vietnamese offensive.

Intelligence officials have documents which indicate the Viet Cong plan terrorism and civil disruptions as a later phase of the offensive.

South Vietnamese and U.S. officials also are concerned about keeping order among the population if the fighting continues to go against Saigon's force.

Duty Is Not Forgotten

— Voluntary war service of nearly 200 Belleville-area men in two world conflicts will be recalled Sunday at a special dedication service at Westminster United Church on Wallbridge Road. Names of the volunteers have been re-inscribed on two honor scrolls, from original plaques in seven local rural churches, now closed and united in the Westminster congregation. The project is given a final check by pastor Rev. John Bunner (left) and Howard Kokesh, chairman, Veterans of Belleville Council. Fer details, see Page 3.

Rescuers Travel Mile Nearer Trapped Miners

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) — Rescue teams struggled nearly a mile underground today trying to reach 38 miners still entombed from three days after smoke began swirling through the Sunshine mine.

Mine officials held out hope they would find survivors because air being forces into the shafts apparently was being consumed below through an air pipe system.

Twenty-four persons were known to have died in the murky, hot mineshafts of the richest and deepest silver producer in the United States.

Rescue workers sought to reach the mine's No. 10 shaft, a vertical elevator shaft only, hoped would give them access to the 4,000-foot level where the missing miners were or believed to be, Sunshine officials said.

Access to No. 10 could allow rescuers "to explore the lower portions of the mine where we hope that our remaining crews are still awaiting rescue," said Marvin Chase, vice-president of Sunshine's western operations and general manager of the mine.

The pipe for the air system that mine officials hoped the trapped men were using runs through the mine shaft at chest level. Miners carry tube-like wrenches that enable them to tap into the line and breath out air.

Chase said the air lines apparently were being tapped and "the best indication the men are still alive is the large amount of air being sent down there."

A mine spokesman said, however, that carbon monoxide in the fire generated would be so concentrated that a man could be killed if he took his mouth from the tube.

Humphrey Ties Rival in Dakota

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has won Tuesday's Ohio Democratic presidential primary election, defeating Senator George McGovern for the state's 38 at-large delegate votes to be cast at the Democratic national convention in Miami Beach in July.

Humphrey surrendered many of the state's 115 congressional district delegates to McGovern, whose supporters said the South Dakota senator would send Humphrey "dead even."

With 90 per cent of Ohio's 11,648 polling places tabulated by state election officials, Humphrey had 38 at-large votes and 38 from eight congressional districts, while McGovern had 61 delegates from 13 congressional districts.

Thirteen other delegates were won by local favorites.

Romania May Try Peace Bid

BUCHAREST (AP) — Premier Golda Meir of Israel arrived in Romania today amid reports that Bucharest may try to help defuse the Arab-Israeli crisis.

She was welcomed at the airport by Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer and other officials, the official Romanian news agency, Agerpres, reported.

It is the first trip by an Israeli government leader to the Communist world and Israeli officials describe the journey as a major event. They see little chance, however, that it will produce any immediate peace move in the Middle East.

Vietnam Fighting Subsides

SAIGON (AP) — Major fighting tapered off sharply today as the North Vietnamese offensive began its sixth week, but U.S. bombers kept up heavy raids over both North and South Vietnam.

Informants said U.S. fighter-bombers were averaging about 100 strikes a day inside North Vietnam and about 600 over the South, but there were serious doubts whether the bombing was achieving its objective of stopping the Communist drive.

"This is the quietest day since the offensive started," said one officer.

Informants said it was possible the North Vietnamese were resting, regrouping and resupplying in preparation for new assaults.

Field reports said that air strikes were called on a convoy of vehicles believed to be supply trucks headed toward the threatened imperial capital of Hue.

U. S. Fears Controls May Distort Trade

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. treasury department issued a formal caution today that if special "normal trade patterns" will not be distorted by Canada's negotiations with foreign investors under proposed new Canadian legislation to screen business takeovers.

The brief, anonymous statement distributed by the treasury press office said the U.S. government "appreciates the legitimate interest of the Canadian government in the activities of all industries, foreign and domestic, in Canada.

"At the same time, we would hope and expect that any Canadian negotiations with foreign investors would not produce results which would have the effect of distorting, normal trade patterns."

It was the first substantial official comment from U.S. government sources since Revenue Minister Herb Gray tabled his report and proposed legislation in the Commons Tuesday.

Most government departments here had declined any official comment earlier, although numerous officials discussed the legislation on a personal or unattributed basis.

There Is A Tide In The Affairs of Men Which, at Full Moon, Leads on to Murder

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Outbreaks of murder may be touched off by the moon tugging on "biological tides" inside the human body, a team of psychiatric researchers has found.

Dr. Arnold Lieber, a senior resident in psychiatry at the University of Miami's medical school, said Wednesday a two-year study had established a "scientifically-sound relationship" between phases of the moon and the murder rate in Dade County.

Lieber said a chart of Miami-area homicides during the last 13 years plotted according to moon phases looks remarkably like a chart of ocean tides.

The data revealed that the county's murder rate began to rise about 24 hours before the full moon, reached a peak at full moon, then dropped back before climbing again to a secondary peak at the new moon.

Lieber said the makeup of the body itself helped him turn to the concept of "biological tides" to explain the phenomenon. The body is "a microcosm comprising essentially the same elements and in similar proportions as the earth's surface—approximately 80 per cent water and 20 per cent minerals," he said.

Quebec Shuns Arbitration

QUEBEC (CP) — Civil Service Minister Jean-Paul L'Allier said Wednesday the government has rejected a proposal by the Quebec Teachers' Corp. that an advisory group arbitrate certain aspects of a contract dispute between teachers and the Quebec government.

He told the national assembly's civil service committee "we are opposed to any form of arbitration whatsoever."

Yvon Charbonneau, president of the 70,000-member teachers' union, said earlier Wednesday teachers would accept the conclusions of the Superior Council of Education on some disputed questions such as working hours and teacher-student ratios if the government also would agree to accept them.

Hijackers Surrender

VIENNA (AP) — Four Turkish hijackers surrendered today to Bulgarian authorities at the Sofia airport, abandoning their threat to blow up the plane and some 58 passengers unless the Turkish government met their conditions.

The official Bulgarian news agency BTA reported "the group of armed youths who forced the jet aircraft of the Turkish civil airlines to land at Sofia left the aircraft and handed over their weapons to the Bulgarian authorities."

BTA reported that the hijackers demanded the release of three condemned terrorists held in Turkey. In the above picture, taken yesterday, one of the hijackers, with a gun and hand grenade stands guard as a Bulgarian airline official helps an injured passenger from the airliner.

"The passengers and crew are in complete safety, the undamaged aircraft is at the Sofia airport."

The first report by BTA did not say whether the Turkish government met any of the hijackers' conditions.

They had demanded the release of three condemned terrorists held in Turkey. In the above picture, taken yesterday, one of the hijackers, with a gun and hand grenade stands guard as a Bulgarian airline official helps an injured passenger from the airliner.

RotaryAnns' Program Varied

Wives of visiting Rotarians will be treated to a Quinte-flavored antique show, part of a special program in store Saturday for 300 women expected over the weekend.

The show, to be held at King Street United Church in Trenton, brings together pieces from 18 local antique dealers. Organized by the Trenton chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, it's the first of its kind every held in that town.

RotaryAnns accompanying their husbands to the three-day district conference, can also enjoy a coach tour of historic Bay of Quinte. And should they wish to skip the men's business discussions altogether, there's an art show and luncheon at the Sun Gallery Restaurant Saturday at 11 a.m.

Chairman of the organizing committee for the women's program is Mrs. Gwen James of RR 1, Carrying Place. She and her staff from neighboring clubs in Trenton, Picton, Belleville, Cobourg and Colborne have been planning events for weeks. Since hearing that this year's conference would make an unusual departure from its normal confines in Toronto.

The antique show is a fantastic fillip, sure to delight viewers, more than half of whom will be from points as far away as Guelph and Toronto. Local interior enthusiasts have seen similar shows in other towns, most notably at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Belleville, but for visiting rotaryannes' buffs, the display of Canadiana furniture and other rare articles will be an exciting, novel experience.

The antique display is open to the public from 1-10 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. - 10 p.m. Saturday. Although the visitors won't all be arriving at the same time, other interested viewers should be well advised to schedule their tour at a time other than around 2 p.m.

Another first for the ladies is the mini-craft and talent show which opens Saturday's program at the Inn By Bridge. Produced entirely by Rotary. Produced entirely by Rotary Anns, the event will feature handicrafts and metal sculpture given talented women an outlet for their finished wares as well as providing an opportunity to get started.

"Usually there's a coffee party or something similar to gather the ladies," says Mrs. James, "but we thought we'd try something different."

Following the one - hour show will be a luncheon at which Mayor J. Russell Scott will offer civic greetings and Mrs. Verley Conway, chief of Rotary International representative James Conway of New York, will bring a message from the world-wide organization.

Mrs. Joan Wilkinson, wife of district governor Will Wilkinson, will speak on behalf of district 707's 56 clubs.

Rotary Anns say they have the privilege of listening to two local experts expound on their respective fields, but in particular interest to women. Mrs. Ruth Bowker, president and executive director of the Central Volunteer Bureau for Belleville and District since 1965, Dorothy McKinnon is director of home economics of the poultry products institute of Canada.

Next is the coach tour taking in all the sites along Rednersville Road and ending on Highway 2. If time permits, stops will be made at Rednersville's Point Park and at Scott Anderson's Refreshing on Highway 2.

"All we're hoping for is that it doesn't rain and that everyone gets back to the ballets by 4 p.m.," said Mrs. James, looking ahead to Saturday.

"The ladies have to be back for the ferries for the Governor's Ball that evening. It's the highlight of the weekend."

Social, Personal Skills Important to Children

Schools should be teaching the social and personal skills children need to live successfully in a complex society, a ministry of education official told Hastings county parents and teachers last night.

Dr. Joan Bowers, an associate superintendent in charge of teacher training and certification, said schools are set up to teach subjects and they forget how to teach people.

The specialist in teaching learning-handicapped and super children spoke at the annual meeting of the local branch of the Council for Exceptional Children at the Legion Hall.

"Her much of the material in our classrooms permits a child to express himself?" Dr. Bowers asked her 125 listeners. "The material says 'don't touch,' or 'teach me to learn what I want you to learn'. But there is nothing to let the children express themselves.

"We don't teach the child how to be himself and how to make contact with people. Yet we all need practice in this, so that the recovery gets the message we are trying to put across.

But, Dr. Bowers told teachers, "it's almost impossible to have personal contact with a person when you're always afraid to touch him.

"We repress their individuality from our consciousness," she said.

Teachers should intervene so that all children establish contacts with others of their age group and should train children how to learn to associate with their fellows.

Teachers should have great social skills and can help with other children. Why don't we pair up grade 8 children with grade 4 children, pair up grade grade 2 children with more outgoing grade 5 children.

Dr. Bowers said she was not sure of the role of the parent-teacher interviews, because "I have seen the interviews become tense and upset because mother was meeting Daddy."

Most exchanges between home and school have been exchanges between father and mother.

"But most of our children have two parents," Dr. Bowers reminded her listeners, advocating that fathers be brought in on teacher interviews.

Everyone, but especially the disturbing or the disturbed child, needs to be wanted, loved and respected," Dr. Bowers said.

"But how often do we express that to our children? Who we are our most repulsive we need love the most."

OFY Details Still Held Up

Announcement of the local Opportunities for Youth grants, promised today, are still held up in Ottawa.

Summer of 72 in Toronto, the office designated to release the names of recipients, said this morning it had not received the notification from Ottawa.

"We can't give them to you until we get them," said an information officer with Summer of 72. There will be no information until tomorrow (Friday). Ottawa wants all the releases to go out at once."

But three Loyalist College students were notified yesterday by letter that their grant had been approved.

Mr. Wills and two companions will operate a furniture exchange, collecting furniture from donors, trucking it to a warehouse donated by Whalen Real Estate and delivering it to needy families.

Mr. Wills' project is an expansion of the Furniture Exchange operated for some time by the Central Volunteer Bureau.

The three young men have operated their exchange on a volunteer basis for some time, and assisted the people burned last month in the Marchmont Apartments fire.

Because Mr. Wills is out of town for the day, details of the amount of his grant are not yet available.

Meanwhile, rumors continue to circulate about projects given tentative approval but still awaiting the final, official letter.

Graham Deline, an Ottawa official with Opportunities for Youth, said earlier this week that his office preferred applicants to receive official notification by letter before releasing information to the press. He said all such letters had gone into the mail Monday.

HOME Building Boosts City Total

The availability of HOME lots' (Home Ownership Made Easy) in the Glenarden subdivision in the city's northwest quadrant, is providing a boost in Belleville this spring for the construction of single family residences.

The 75 fully serviced lots were made available through the Ontario Housing Corporation last February and already 36 houses are under construction.

Forty four of the HOME lots were originally Quinte area builders, Maurice, H. Rollins Construction, Stirling Homes Ltd., and Don Butler Ltd. with the balance being reserved for lease or sale to individual home owners.

During April, Stirling Lumber Ltd. took out building permits for 18 houses in the area, Don Keller for Sero, and Rollins Construction for 13 houses. Permit values for the houses are in the $14,000 to $15,000 range.

Building on the HOME lots has resulted in a bit of a switch from the general housing construction pattern which in recent years has seen apartment units far outstrip the erection of single family residences.

The April building total at the office of city building inspector Gordon Sabine shows that there were permits for 127 housing units issued during the month — 37 of them for single family residences.

Biggest single permit for the month, was that for the new William R. Kitz store on Palmer Road at $303,208.

Total permit value for the month was $2,128,355 with 62 permits being issued.

Town Sidewalks Vandals' Victims

DESERONTO — Recently poured sidewalks in this village will have to be dug out and repoured, town council has learned.

Vandalism on the part of citizens who walk and ride bicycles over newly poured wet concrete is responsible for the damage, said a spokesman for the contracting engineering firm on the job.

Charles Colby, an employee of the firm representing Interstone Construction Co. of Oshawa, suggested sandblasting asphalt for the concrete now being used. He argued that asphalt hardens faster than concrete and would give vandals less chance to mar the new sidewalks. Hot mix asphalt would cost less than concrete, he added.

But mayor James Sharpe and Councillor James McVicker said the crux of the problem was control of vandalism in the town.

YOUNG — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who died and passed away May 4, 1968.

Four years have passed since that day,
We do not need a special day,
To keep you in our memory,
For the days we do not think of you,
Are very few indeed.
Your memory is our treasure,
And no one can steal it from us,
We often sit and think of him,
And shed a silent tear,
For memory is the only friend,
That grief can call its own.
Sadly missed and loved ever remembered by wife Kay.

YOUNG — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who died and passed away May 4, 1968.

We do not need a special day,
To keep you in our memory,
For the days we do not think of you,
Are very few indeed.
Your memory is our treasure,
And no one can steal it from us,
We'd give it, yes, and more,
To have you here again.
But everything through the house,
Reminds us of the love you gave,
And the home you built for us.
Sadly missed and loved ever remembered by wife Kay.

YOUNG — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Ernest Young who passed away May 4, 1971.

Scrolls to Be Dedicated

With costs underwritten by young people who have never known war conditions, names of Belleville - area veterans who fought two world conflicts are being guaranteed perpetual exhibition close to their home communities.

The names, inscribed on two war honor rolls, will be formally dedicated this Sunday at Westminster United Church on Wallbridge Road.

They display the names of all men from the Wallbridge area of Sidney township who served in both world wars.

The scrolls, more than a half-century old — with names of World War II volunteers added to those from the 1914-1918 war — originally hung in rural churches throughout the area. The circuit closed several years ago and their congregations amalgamated into the Westminster church, first opened in early 1976.

Among the artifacts removed from the old church buildings were the scrolls of parishioners who had fought in the wars.

Some time ago church trustees decided the veterans should not be forgotten and their names were re-inscribed for exhibition in their new church's lower auditorium.

Uncertain of the procedure involved, they contacted Bram Humphries padre of the Canadian Legion in Belleville, who relayed the project to the Veterans of Belleville Council.

Two scrolls needed for the names were procured from Ottawa by Jack Lundberg, the Bellevillian who is national president of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association.

The scrolls were inscribed and framed by local craftsmen.

"The nice thing," says Rev. John Bunner, Westminster pastor, "is that the young people of the congregation, who know nothing of war, paid with their own contributions."

Costs came to about $50.

There was only one moment of minor trepidation during the project. Wallbridge church burned to the ground two years ago. It was first feared the scrolls' contents had, too. Later, relieved trustees found one of their number — Douglas Ketcheson — earlier had removed it to safekeeping, says Rev. Bunner.

The veterans' council, with its chairman Howard Kokesh has also helped organize a tributary ceremonial for the Sunday morning service at which the scrolls will be dedicated.

Members of veterans' associations, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Quinte will be present.

Church members are working in teams to invite the survivors whose names highlight the scrolls, and family members of those killed in combat or since dead.

The service coincides with observance of Battle of Atlantic Sunday.

Liquor Vote Is Requested

NAPANEE — Belleville and District Hotel Association members want the question of liquor licences raised again in the fall election in Napanee.

Town council agreed Monday to investigate the possibility of a liquor vote in the municipal elections after hearing association president Gordon Hutchison, proprietor of the Richelieu Hotel on Dundas St. in Napanee.

In a letter, Mr. Hutchison said merchants are losing business because Napanee has no liquor outlets. The four hotels in the town of 4,600 people can serve beer only. Only temporary licences are granted to organizations for special events.

The last liquor vote was held in 1968, when the dries won by a slim majority. Sixty percent of the total number of votes cast is required to change the law.

Assault Brings $200 Fine

Provincial Judge J. L. Clendening Tuesday reserved the plea of a Belleville man who told the court he would plead guilty to assault causing bodily harm.

The judge later fined John Deltuskie, 28, of 20 Lime Street, $200 on the charge, laid by city police.

Earlier, Deltuskie had pleaded guilty when common assault charges were brought against him by plaintiff Leo Melville, 308 Coleman Street. "I guess I'll plead guilty," Mr. DeltuSkie told the judge yesterday. "I pleaded guilty before to common assault and they're the same."

But the judge directed a plea of not guilty be entered on the accused man's behalf, before proceeding with the case.

Albert College Could Be Hockey School Hub

By ROY PEACOCK

Belleville's Albert College could become a year-round instructional institution if current negotiations with a Toronto recreational club turn out as anticipated.

The proposal is that the city's west and residential college be used as a base for the operation of a summer hockey school using the Pidgins arena for skating and hockey practice.

The hockey school operation, which could see up to 200 boys per week enrolled, would be in agreement with the Tam O'Shanter Club in Toronto, which a few months ago lost its clubhouse and ice facilities through fire.

Donald Williams, chairman of the Albert College Board of Governors said today that the college was now negotiating with Tam O'Shanter and the Picton Arena.

"We expect a decision on Monday," he said.

The college approached the Belleville Recreation and Arena Committee with the view of obtaining the use of the Dick Ellis Rink for summertime use by the hockey school.

But the west end ice rink was not constructed for year-round operation and the college proposal was found to be impossible without considerable capital expenditure for additional refrigeration and insulation.

As a result, the committee had to turn the college proposal down for this year at least.

"There was just no way that we could ask city council to approve the expenditure this year," committee chairman Ald. Robin Jeffrey said.

Recreation Director Lorne Williams said investigation had shown it would cost $25,000 for additional refrigeration alone while other required expenditures would increase the total.

With the Belleville rink ruled out, college officials then approached Picton arena commissioners and Mr. Williams said he was optimistic of ice facilities in that town being made available, if negotiations with Tam O'Shanter ended favorably.

"It all points up the need of a community centre in Belleville," commented the former city parks board chairman.

"We've spent $600,000 or $700,000 for the Ben Bleecker Auditorium and the Dick Ellis Rink and still haven't got what is needed."

The initial program as proposed by Albert College would be for a period of from four to six weeks commencing the first of July. The summer program would utilize college and other recreational facilities.

The program would include hockey, skating and curling as well as sailing, soccer, softball, tennis, cricket, track and gymnastics. College facilities would be used for living accommodation and for dining.

Foreign Control

Only time will bring a proper understanding of the full intent of the report on foreign ownership which Revenue Minister Herbert Gray has presented at long last.

It is always difficult to see such a report in its most positive light because what the Opposition has to say is almost invariably negative. Thus when Opposition leader Stanfield says it would not even make a "good leak" he is inspired by the current "in" joke on Parliament Hill but is scarcely being helpful, let alone informative.

And when NDP leader Lewis says the report stops short of effective measures "to deal with" (meaning control) the big Corporations whom he says help finance the Liberal and Conservative parties, we are reminded once again that the NDP's objective is nationalisation, socialism, government control of the means of production and goodbye to private enterprise from whatever quarter.

Premier Regan of Nova Scotia says he wants a climate which encourages such firms as Volvo of Sweden and Michelin of France, who are already there, to help the province develop. In this regard we wonder how an area like Northern Ireland—leaving aside the violence for a moment) would have fared since the war without the former government's encouragement of foreign investment; Michelin incidentally has a plant there too.

Premier Lougheed of Alberta meanwhile is taking the cautious approach by saying he needs time to study the report, while some other premiers have yet to comment. The general impression is that Mr. Gray's piece is a middle-of-the-road effort which advocates controls over foreign takeovers but nothing else that will greatly alter the status quo.

Vietnamese Terror

The reports of local officials being executed by the North Vietnamese in areas the latter have abandoned in recent weeks is like a playback of the same old Communist record in Vietnam over the past decade. Execution and terrorism have been the norm in areas overrun by the Reds. Not that the South Vietnamese soldiery have always acted with decorum — they too have a record of brutality toward enemy wounded — but the Communists kill off civilians, village chiefs and officials alike.

Meanwhile the sight of refugees, including the usual host of children, fleeing in the wake of the enemy advance or holed up in communities without food, sanitation of the most rudimentary sort as yet another reflection of latter-day barbarism.

That it is not happening here is something for which we can only be eternally grateful. On the other hand we're a social malaise of another stamp and it is identifiable in such words as apathy, complacency, smugness and self-righteousness. If there is no physical pain involved in these, there may develop nevertheless, an erosion of the spirit, bringing with it possibly the triumph of forces we failed to counter when the opportunity was there. That can be the penalty of letting things slide or of assuming that other cheek to some trend we know to be wrong.

As for the realities of life in Asia we note that Anne Davison of the Social Action staff of the Anglican Church has returned to Saigon this month to become director of the Foster Parents Plan office in Saigon. Miss Davison has been in her present post for nearly ten years after service in China and Korea.

Her sentiments on leaving for South Vietnam afford a clue to the difference between our affluent society and that of a have-not area for no longer does she regard War. She says she will be glad to get away from what she calls the "artificial" life of Toronto, to work with people who "really respond . . ."

Straight and Narrow

Note in a church bulletin: "No man ever got lost on a straight road." Probably that is what saved Australian railway worker Graham Greenwood, 29, his wife Marian, 19, and their seven-week-old baby girl. Their car's gas tank holed by a stone and living on cookies, with water from the radiator mixed with canned milk for the baby, the family was found five days later by a motorist, teacher. The road — between Eucla and Reid in South Australia — was little used but they stuck to it while trying to make their way back to Eucla. We understand there is a long stretch of this continent's Northern Territory where to stray from it even for a short distance is to risk getting lost and perishing from heat and starvation.

Conservative Versus NDP

Robert Thompson Will Tackle Barry Mather in B.C.

By HENRY F. HEALD
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa bureau

OTTAWA — The voters in the British Columbia riding of Surrey-White Rock will have the unenviable task, wherever Prime Minister Trudeau gets around to calling an election, of choosing one of the gentlemen in the House of Commons.

For the recent Progressive Conservative nomination meeting they chose Robert Thompson, former Social Credit leader and now Conservative MP for Red Deer, Alberta, to contest the next election.

Mr. Thompson and Barry Mather, the NDP MP who now holds the seat, are known on Parliament Hill as two of the most gentlemanly members of the House — quiet spoken, hard-workers in their constituencies, non-smokers, backers of good causes and light drinkers (Thompson is virtually a teetotaller).

They were first elected in 1962 both are strong campaigners and always won their seats handily.

Mather is 63, a former columnist with the Vancouver Sun and known more for his reluctance campaign against smoking than for his support of traditional NDP policies. In fact a splinter group of Tories in Laval, Quebec, recently founded the Canadian Conservative Party and asked Mather to be their candidate.

He has a home in Wakefield about 15 miles north of Ottawa but his daughter lives in the B. C. riding which Mather visits about once a month.

Thompson is 52. He moved recently from Red Deer to Port Langley, B.C. which is in Fraser Valley but not in Surrey. He has a position there with Trinity College and at the time of the election announced he would not seek re - election. Where he changed his mind and decided to tackle the job of unseating Barry Mather.

At first glance it appears that Thompson is most likely to be the unlucky gentleman when the 28th parliament is formed. In 1968 the vote in Surrey was NDP (Mather) 18,198, Liberal 11,888 and Conservative 5,381. Where will Thompson get the other 10,000 votes?

When Thompson first decided to throw his hat in the ring he figured he had a five to one chance of getting elected. When he returned to Ottawa after the nomination meeting he figured his chances at 50-50.

Thompson has always travelled a great deal and speaks far more often on non-political platforms as a lecturer on international affairs than as a party campaigner. For the last six months he has been co-ordinator of organizing the Conservatives and has conducted a series of seminars across the country. He feels he knows the mood of the country pretty well.

What he cannot count on is the anti-Trudeau atmosphere which is sweeping Ontario and particularly in British Columbia. He sees the PCs taking at least four seats in B.C. Surrey-White Rock is not one of the four. But if a Conservative swing develops, as Thompson hopes it will, then seven more B.C. seats will fall to the Tories including Surrey.

The riding is a mixture of agricultural, residential and industry-cities industry now than in 1968 since some of the lumber mills along the river (located in the strong NDP vote) have closed. Surrey-White Rock also has the largest Old Age Pensioner Vote of any riding in Canada and that has traditionally gone to Mather.

But the voting population has increased by some 20,000 since 1968; partly by lowering the voting age to 18 and partly by the influx of middle class families from Vancouver into the newly developed residential areas of Surrey. Thompson is counting heavily on winning this vote.

Premier W.A.C. Bennett has let it be known that he will support the Conservatives in the next election. He would be delighted to see Prime Minister Trudeau defeated. In return he will probably expect the Tories to back him in the next provincial election in his long-time fight against the New Democrats.

One thing-is certain. The election campaign in Surrey-White Rock will be about the cleanest in the country.

Pickering Residents Fight Airport Decision

By FARMER TISSINGTON

OTTAWA — I am sure there must be many times when cabinet ministers and other people in high governmental places must throw up their hands in despair and wonder whether all the effort is worthwhile.

One of these times is happening now as Don Jamieson and his ministry of transport people lock horns with a group of citizens from the Pickering area of southern Ontario, over the location of a proposed second airport in the Toronto area.

After many months of study and consultation with provincial authorities, the decision was made to locate the airport near Pickering. Then the fun started.

It's probably a classic case of the adage that you can't please everybody, and governments are more aware of this than anyone else. No matter what decision had been reached on the location, there would have been some people wholly in favor and other people violently opposed.

Those in favor would be chiefly farmers and others who saw a chance to sell their land and house at a good price and area businessmen who hoped the proximity of a major airport would boost their income. The anti-group is largely people who like living in the area, don't want to move out and are concerned about the effects of an airport on noise, pollution and traffic congestion levels.

The Pickering case is particularly interesting in that the group opposing the airport are generally upper income, highly intelligent professional people who know how to go about arranging evidence in support their stand—and have the finances to present it in a forceful way. They call themselves People for Planes, or POP for short and they are led by a surgeon, Dr. Charles Godfrey. They came to Ottawa recently to present their case and the genial Mr. Jamieson granted them more than four hours to discuss the situation in all its details.

This is not the place to go into all the pros and cons of the argument, but the POP group claims the decision is a straight political one and that there has been a lack of real consultation between the federal government and the government of Ontario.

On the one hand, they charge that the province never seriously questioned the federal decision that a second airport is needed now. On the other side of the coin they say the federal government acquiesced too readily to the provincial pressures on the location factor.

As one member of the POP group expressed it, to me: "There was a wide chasm existing between the two governments and the airport just fell in between. We are not impressed with the statements from governments that they are going to give us a two airport and we should be prepperly thankful."

The POP group says its interests extend beyond the Pickering dispute and they are launching themselves in the argument over the development at Lake Louise and the James Bay hydro project.

They also claim they are getting a favorable response and support for their stand from all political parties. Many people who recognize in the Pickering dispute the real issue of democracy between governments and citizens over the quality of life and the preservation of the tax dollars of all Canadians on projects they believe are of dubious merit.

But, backed by his studies and his experts, Mr. Jamieson appears to be holding firm. While leaning over backwards to be fair to the Pickering opponents, he is still convinced that the Pickering site makes the most long-term sense. It's the sort of thing that causes people like Don Jamieson to wonder sometimes what they are doing in politics.

Band Seeks Aid for Trip

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

Council showed keenness in agreeing to consider a request from the General Vanier Secondary School Band for a $700 grant to help finance a trip to Bermuda.

The 45 students involved no doubt have worked hard to achieve the high degree of perfection which resulted in their being included in large a number of concerts in Bermuda. And the request is coming in a small fashion budget. But approval of this grant would only invite a multitude of other requests and how would council be able to draw a line on such grants or turn down other requests?

When council tabled this budget two weeks ago a suggestion was given that no such flexibility was possible since costs had been stripped bare. Months of cutbacks and scratched-pens were required to hold the tax line.

Purpose of the austerity budget was to attract urgently needed industry, a philosophy council and the public has supported since April.

Gilles Meitivier, spokesman for the band, approached Ald. Douglas Fawcett, chairman of council's finance committee, and Mayor Ed Lumley. Both replied that the request could not be met, but Mr. Metivier was invited to address council.

The band has already raised $3,000 and needs another $20 for the flight. A further raising campaign would seem to be the only means of obtaining the extra funds.

The request has been referred to the city's industrial commit tee, however. Granted this committee has one of the largest budgets, but the money is earmarked for attracting new industry.

What has a city band playing in Bermuda to do with attracting industry? Fuss to no. wonder.

Planning Retirement

Royal Bank of Canada
Monthly Letter

There are many saving devices that are useful throughout life but are specially needed at retirement age: for example a written record of where important papers are to be found. Some people make a synopsis of documents such as leases, insurance policies, wills, contracts and agreements, and keep this synopsis at home while preserving the papers in a bank safe deposit box.

Another world wide trouble is by consulting competent professional people. The decision to buy a house or other property, to purchase expensive equipment, to enter upon a lease or a contract that places obligations on either party: these are potentially troublesome matters that should be discussed with a lawyer.

Retirement is not made up of dreams. There are realities to be dealt with, and a leading contender for first place is finance.

A possible source is government or company, is not designed to provide a life of luxury but to help provide a sense of security. Even those with liberal pensions will probably find that the financial aspects of retiring.

Most people plan to reduce expenses by living close to work, parking fees, gasoline, lunches, entertaining. All these are reduced. Men and women can save on clothing costs. They can save money by doing things for themselves that they did not have time for while they were working, such as repairs and improvements around the house.

Orderly analysis of the post-retirement financial set-up should be made well in advance. The points to consider include: What income will you need to live in comparative comfort? what does your company or government pension plan give you? have you an annuity programme, and from which you pay now and receive periodic payments after retirement? have you any statutory insurance policies? to what dividends will be yielded by investments? all these do not give prospect of meeting your needs, what can you do to supplement them?

Apartheid: Some Signs of Relaxation

The Christian Science Monitor

In two widely different fields — economics and sports —there are welcome signs of at least some give in the South African Government's hitherto rigid apartheid policies.

On the economic front the give is due to national and local pressures — to the urgent need for more labour to man the country's industries and keep up its growth rate.

In sports the concessions so far granted are in large part the result of the sporting world's ostracism of South Africa on account of apartheid.

The first timid concessions on the sports front were announced by Prime Minister Vorster last year and South Africans in recent months have been witnessing their effects. Multi-racial events at international level have taken place in selected stadiums in golf and lawn tennis — something which a few years ago would have been unthinkable. Multi-racialism has yet to penetrate down to the local and club level, but at least a beginning has been made.

On the economic front Minister of Finance Deiderichs, in his budget statement, laid month the groundwork for modifications of the laws on the employment of African workers, who so far are barred from many jobs reserved for whites. It is here that the conditions of apartheid are the most acute. The gap in wages between the white and black worker is enormous. At the same time there is a staggering shortage of skilled workers — some estimates put it as high as 100,000. And there is a vast reservoir of black manpower to be drawn upon. Yet apartheid doctrine demands that the black shall sik be allowed to advance into the white man's territory but must live in his own tribal homeland.

In this situation the foreign companies operating in South Africa can play a major role in breaking down racial barriers in employment. It is no solution, as some groups engage in the United States — demanding, that these companies pack up and withdraw. As Alan Paton, leader of the National Association for Advancement of Coloured People, Roy Wilkins, pointed out after his recent visit to South Africa, it is the presence of companies of other nationalities that helps to take the Americans' place.

It is far better for the American and other Western Powers did last year — initiate programs to improve the wages, housing and working conditions of their black employees. And it is good that the Ford Motor Company and American companies (including General Motors and IBM, whose top executives visited South Africa recently) are planning to follow Polaroid's lead.

In the long run, what happens in the economic front could do more than anything else to open the doors for South Africa's black population and force major modifications of apartheid.

Perspective Needed In Measuring Pollution

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

A recent article in your paper made note of a pollution incident. Some facts regarding the local firm charged with polluting the air should be made public.

(1) The previous charge mentioned involved the accidental ignition of an old city dump that had been completely dismantled by hand and was being put to use as recycling. Involved was approximately eight minutes of light grey smoke.

(3) The company has received evidence of being in contact with various Government Department of air pollution since 1969 trying to introduce incinerators of various types to combat this so-called pollution with always a NO but never a constructive suggestion.

(4) The time period co-incides with the retirement of a steam engine by the local railway, when free rides for the enjoyment of everyone was accompanied by a great emission of black dense smoke. This accompanied by photographs and article in your paper gave the railroad some glowing publicity and the public several days of healthy pollution that multiplied that of the prosecuted company many fold.

While I do not submit this as a valid excuse for this company to pollute, it is obvious we can look around us and find industries participating 24 hours a day, UN-NOTICED.

We have now seen a company prosecuted for 14 minutes of smoke, but who are the real 'polluters of our air and water and what is being done about continual volume pollution!

I would suggest the local company has been victimized unfairly more because of personal conflict than the seriousness of the pollution charged.

Bylaw Revision Planned

With more than 9,200 bylaws now on the books, city hall is giving serious consideration to doing a complete revision of its bylaws and having them brought up to date.

And when the work is proceeded with it will be with the knowledge that while it may not be a best seller, a revised book of bylaws can have wide circulation.

The last revision of city bylaws was back in 1940 and one of the volumes last week made its way back to Belleville by way of Campbellford and Toronto.

The old book of bylaws was presented to Mayor J. Russell Scott at an executive meeting of the Ontario Mayors and Reeves Association by Campbellford Mayor Morley Tanner.

"It is a good document to have and will be of assistance when we again compile our bylaws" stated Mayor Scott.

The last compilation of the city's bylaws was done by former city solicitor Bernard A. Collins and the then city clerk, J. Wilfred Holmes.

It listed all city bylaws by title, cross-indexed them for ready reference and noted whether they were obsolete or had been brought up to date.

Former Mayor Glenore E. Thompson, who headed council at the time, said the compilation was a good book in its time.

"It was designed as a ready reference to assist residents," he said.

A number of the books were put together for free distribution to residents and businessmen.

The intent at the time was to keep the book up to date with the addition of current bylaws, but like many other good intentions, the idea was allowed to drop by the wayside.

The bylaw compilation presented last week to Mayor Scott had come into the possession of the Campbellford mayor from the effects of a now deceased Campbellford lawyer.

This week City Solicitor John C. Miller said a new revision of the city's bylaws had been discussed at executive level and was something to be undertaken in the future.

At the moment, however, he was just too busy to get at the work.

"It would be a big job and is not high on the priority list," he said.

But something of a start on the work has been made.

The city's old building bylaws have been revised and brought up to date by their inclusion in one bylaw.

In addition to bylaw revision, Mr. Miller said that with the number of city bylaws now well over 9,000, consideration should also be given to a renumbering system to indicate the year in which new bylaws were passed.

Helicopter-seeded Fish Lead to Better Catches

By HARRY MULRALL
Staff Reporter

A helicopter will be used to sow the annual harvest of new fish species in Quinte district lakes this year.

The technique — to be launched next week — has been adopted by the department of resources at Tweed, whose conservationists now seem satisfied by earlier experiments resulting in claimed higher yields by anglers.

The new method permits the new season's species to be lowered gently into the water by hand from the helicopter hovering just above the surface.

Conservation officials term it the "soft" method of planting fish — in contrast to the once-customary blanket drops from faster, higher-flying aircraft.

The softer landing not only benefits the fish, it also assists in selecting the best spots for seeding by the young fish.

"We find it's not only better on the fish, but anglers tell us the lakes are better," said Russ Whitfield, wildlife management officer at Tweed today.

The department experimented with the soft seeding method some time ago. Last year, they decided to use the helicopter-hand technique on a widespread basis in the Tweed forestry district last year.

The fish planting comes as seasons are beginning to open up throughout the Quinte district. For several species the dates differ according to zones drawn up by wildlife authorities.

Pike, Yellow Pickerel — Six: Prince Edward, May 6-March 31; Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Haliburton, May 13-March 31.

Muskinonge — Two; Hastings, Prince Edward, June 3-Dec. 15; other counties (as above) June 17-Nov. 30.

Season for speckled, rainbow and lake trout already opened earlier this year and close Sept. 30, with one exception — Hastings County, where lake trout may be fished to Oct. 15. Taken on all these species five daily.

But there are further limits. Possession — which would mainly mean refrigerated storage — should not exceed one day's take on any species.

Season for bass, pickerel, muskie, rock bass, perch, sunfish, crappie, catfish, bullhead, suckers, carp, eels, rainbow smelt, alewife, gizzard shad, mooneye, goldeye, burbot, sturgeon, whitefish, cisco, lake herring, mudminnow, stickleback, sculpin, frogs, turtles, crayfish, bait fish, and all species not listed — all year round.

Cheese Factory Still in Business

PICTON (Staff) — Elmbrook Cheese Factory, one of the few such plants remaining in Prince Edward county, has a new lease on life.

At one time scheduled to come under the auctioneer's hammer, the plant is officially off and running for another season under new ownership.

The plant has been operating since April 1.

Behind the venture, which now has the corporate name of Elmbrook Cheese Company Ltd., is a small group of equal shareholders. They are Gary Shelley, maker at the plant for the past several years, his brother Joseph Shelley, their grandfather Joseph Shelley Sr. of Adolphustown, Clifford Fennell, Milton Fennell and Gordon Dennison.

Early plans call for putting in a full line of cheese products at a dairy bar. Mr. Shelley, Sr. is company president with Milton Fennell, a Cherry Valley merchant as vice-president and Gary Shelley as secretary-manager.

Mr. Shelley said the firm members believe there is still a future for the cheese industry and Prince Edward county — and we intend to keep at least this one factory going."

Doris Now Springs Into Poetry

By DORIS CLARK

I have written a poem. It is a stillie: "Spring Has Sprung!" and it goes like this: Birds are building, air is soft, Crows are hearing twigs aloft, Work is boring—even for the heavens; Let's play hookey. I've got spring fever!

Think it would win a prize, or had I better just tuck it away among my souvenirs? I am afraid the world wouldn't miss it much . . .

Dear Doris: I am male, born in 1950, but I won't admit to old age. I think this is Dotting Nephew's uncle's first mistake. Nobody should admit getting old. Personally, I think that over a period of time, our personal "memory banks" become saturated with all kinds of information, and the so-called degeneration of the mind is actually over-saturation.

I find that I do not always retain a thought unless I set upon it immediately, because there is always another thought waiting to replace it. I can usually recall the previous thought by retracing my steps, and observe every small item in the retracing.

It is easier to say "Aw! to heck with it, it wasn't important anyway!" or, "It must be old age." I agree with you that a person must keep his brain active, and I would add, his hands and body also.

I also believe that the mind is the most powerful thing in the world. The only thing I have not been able to fathom is what activates the mind. I believe that we have to be in tune with the Universe. — Seventy-Two Years Young.

Dear Seventy-Two: The silly part is that our Canadian culture equates age with inactivity, uselessness — and mindlessness. I could not agree more that we are slow down the process of aging by keeping brain and hands busy.

That idea about memory banks and over-saturation is intriguing. Certainly the brain is a marvel we do not understand; and it has a filing system which, it seems to me, ought to get jammed up after many years of storing things away. The wonder is that we retain as much as we do.

Perhaps another time I will be able to find room in the column to tell the part of your story that has to do with mind control.

Dear Doris: People do not necessarily have to become foster/parents to help deserately needy children. PLAN has a Gestalt Fund which constitutes the primary source of income available for initiating programs in new countries. It helps construct medical and dental clinics, consumer co-operatives, community centres and office facilities for PLAN social workers, translators, etc. The Fund is also used for emergencies such as earthquake and typhoon disasters. Those who contribute to the General Fund are helping PLAN children and their families in the nine South American and Asian countries where we currently have programs. —Foster Parents Plan Of Canada.

Dear F.P.P.C.: Good news. People who would contribute but cannot take the responsibility of financially "adopting" a child will thank you for telling us.

Physicians' Wives Plan Events

The final spring meeting of the Belleville and District Physician's Wives Association was held last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Marius Bates. Topics under discussion included a resume of the year's social events and dispersal of the funds raised through group activities.

On the social side it was decided to once again hold a New Year's Eve Ball at the Four Seasons Hotel and plans were started towards an entertainment program for the O.M.A. Group 8 meeting to be held in Belleville in October this year.

Funds on hand were distributed to a number of causes. In view of the reduction of training allowances for nurses it was voted to contribute $250 to the Edith Cavel Regional School of Nursing towards the first year training of a student from the Quinte Area. It was decided also to purchase three blood-pressure apparatuses for the V.O.N. to replace the badly worn ones they are now using. A request for assistance had been received from the Nursery School for Handicapped Children and $200 was directed to buy educational toys to help them in their work. A further $200 was given to the Salvation Army to send a child from the Quinte Area to summer camp.

The meeting was followed by an interesting talk by guest speaker Mrs. Carol Wilson on the status of women in Canada today which promoted a lively discussion.

The annual dinner for members of the Association will be held at the Four Seasons Hotel on May 25.

Bridge Club Meets

The annual meeting of the Belleville Ladies Bridge Club was held Monday evening May 1 at the Sun Valley Motor Inn.

A social hour and buffet supper was followed by a business meeting with the following executive elected for the 1972 - 1973 season: president, Mrs. G.W. Gist; past president, Mrs. J. Partridge; vice - president, Mrs. G. O'Brien; secretary, Mrs. G. G. Brearley; treasurer, Mrs. R. Trepanier; directors, Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. P. F. Geerkens and Mrs. P. Ross.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Is a smart person immune to neurosis?

NO, as one is immune to neurosis, perhaps least of all a person whose intelligence level ought to put him beyond the reach of such a condition. Even a doctor who can convince a patient that it is foolish to become victim to some neurosis is powerless to use the same argument on himself. Although he believes he can help his patient, the doctor is not so sure he can help himself.

Do clerical braces ruin romance?

NO; although it is hard to convince a girl that the braces she least wear on her teeth are not keeping the boys away. Sometimes a girl can be so self-conscious about the braces that she will twist her mouth in trying to smile without showing her braces. Her last bit of spontaneity goes when she smiles may affect her whole attitude—putting her under a cloud that only clears up when the braces are off and she can break into a charming smile.

Should a wife 'dress' her husband?

YES, if he is a little slow in keeping up with the newer trends. A husband, of course—like female, he—hasn't the time nor the inclination to make sure his lapels are the correct width or to see if "they're" wearing white shirts or striped ones. So he safely protests when she replaces his old things with the new, yet he is secretly pleased that she takes an interest in his appearance and prevents him from being called old-fashioned.

Club Activities

Senior Citizens 280

TWEED — Recently 84 members and guests gathered at the St. James' Anglican Hall, for the regular meeting of Tweed Senior Citizens Club. It was thought the attendance was larger than the figure aforesaid mentioned, as some of the visitors evidently did not register.

The meeting was chaired by the president, Harries Jenkins, who opened with a prayer.

Members were requested to sign a form, where they had an option or choice of three different bus trips which are possibly coming out for Club members, and the executive wish to ascertain which place the most members would want to go.

Mrs. W. Curtis and Mrs. H. Spencer were thanked for their recent visit to Hastings Manor in Belleville, as good will ambassadors on behalf of the Senior Citizens Club at Tweed. This is under the convenorship of Mrs. Jennie Moffat, of the Club.

At this time, the president welcomed the numerous visitors from Roslin, and district, and introduced Mrs. Ralph Sills, of Foxboro, who showed colored slides she and her husband had taken on a recent 27-day tour trip to Africa by way of Rome.

She was thanked by Mr. S. Howard Connor on behalf of the members and visitors. Mrs. Maude Hartflen of the Roslin group, thanked the Tweed Club for the invitation to the Roslin Seniors' (not organized).

Ann Landers

Jockey Names Horse After Columnist

Dear Ann Landers: I was shocked to read in the Toronto Star that you disgraced yourself in front of 8,000 people. It seems you were the two-to-one favorite and finished third.

By this time you have decided I am nuts, but let me explain. Ann Landers is the name of a three-year-old filly who made her debut recently at Greenwood Raceway. Everyone was excited about her but she was maned out of second place by Sailing Chance. Victoria Lonsdale is first.

The jockey, George Zitnik, claims Ann had a bad position. He says she's sure to be a great racehorse when she gets a few breaks. George purchased Ann after she recovered from a cough and virus.

His mother-in-law, Claire Robertson, named the filly Ann Landers because she loves your column. I hope you're not insulted. You have a great many fans in Canada and we wouldn't want to be disrespectful. Sincerely yours—Weasel's Circle

Dear Winner: Insulted? Not on your maple leaf, honey. I'm honored. Incidentally, you'll be glad to hear I've stopped coughing and they say I have a bright future.

Dear Ann Landers: May I pass on some information that might save a life?

I was having dinner at a restaurant and I swallowed a large slice of ham. I was unable to breathe and couldn't say a word. I began to panic, scared out of my wits.

My dinner companion shouted, "Stand up real tall! Reach for the ceiling! Try to take a deep breath, then bend over and touch the floor."

Sure enough, the chunk of ham fell out. So did my dentures.

Embarrassed? Not a bit. I'm glad to be alive.—Mrs. T.A.G. of L.A.

Dear Mrs. T.A.G.: Hundreds of people die every year because they don't know what to do when a piece of meat becomes lodged in the throat. My Harvard Medical School consultants say the best thing to do is turn the victim upside down and pound on his back. If the heart doesn't become dislodged promptly and the person begins to turn blue, a tracheotomy should be performed at once.

Dear Ann Landers: Our family has been invited to a large formal wedding. The bride and groom have been openly living together for over a year.

I have expressed my objection to this way of life many times and now I feel I would be condoning it if I attended the wedding. What should I say in declining the invitation? Should I send a wedding gift? The parents of both the bride and groom are fine people and longtime friends. —Caldwell Couple

Dear Con: I do not sanction pre-marital shacking up and have said so in print and from the speaker's platform. But I have attended the weddings of couples who lived together because their parents were friends of mine. The identity of the bride and groom is none of my business. I hope you will reconsider and not bite off your nose to spite your face.

Dear Ann Landers: I had to laugh when I read the beef from the Wife to the Other Woman who wrote, "I spend household money on the obstetrician while you vacation in Acapulco."

The reason I laughed is because I am the Other Woman who just returned from Acapulco where I also spent money on an obstetrician. The abortion cost me $500 plus plane fare from Des Moines. I wish I had never met the rat—Too Late Smart

'Change in the Church' Topic of Luncheon Speaker

By ALLISON STICKLE
Women's Editor

"Church is what YOU do — and what I do," noted Mrs. Patricia Clarke associate editor of the United Church Observer as she spoke to a capacity audience in Holloway Street United Church, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Clarke, speaking on the topic, "Facing change in the Church" directed her remarks specifically to United Church Women's groups and emphasized the fact that change is inevitable — but this does not necessarily mean it is wrong — many of these changes are for the good. As far as christianity and the church is concerned she stated that there have been many changes and no one can say that any one particular period in history that God's work was not performed. A number of cases in point were given, such as clerical attire and type of music in the church.

"Change is a sign of life— and the church is an institution devoted to life — not in the past," the speaker remarked. World changes inevitably affects the church and there are many reasons for this, mainly an affluent society with more money and less time. There are many options to join other groups and as a result the church does not get its share.

The speaker felt that many lay back and waited for others. It was the duty of UCW members to have some influence in change and to look for new things. "What is it we are called to do as a group?" she queried.

When people become disinterested it is time for a change. This is one of the leading symptoms today and something should be done. There are many important things still done by church groups, but the manner in which this is done must change with the times. As christians, one should care for others, but circumstances vary as to how this service can be given. The church can reach out in many ways.

In concluding, Mrs. Clarke told her listeners, numbering over 370 women representing city and area UCW groups, not to be discouraged if people are not coming out to UCW meetings or church. "There is only one person we can change and that is ourself."

Mrs. W. Ironside, president of Holloway Street UCW, who convened the program, welcomed the large gathering, after which a hymn sing was led by Rev. W. Lamb, who sang with Mrs. Lamb sang an appropriate duet. Miss Clara Adams, stewardship chairman of the Presbyterial introduced the guest speaker and Mrs. F. Holmes expressed thanks and presented her with a little memento.

A well organized dessert luncheon was enjoyed previous to the address when conveners in charge were Mrs. A. Campbell and Mrs. F. Wilson. Receiving guests at the door were Mrs. W. Lamb, Mrs. W. Ironside, Mrs. H. Outingbyke and Mrs. K. Parks.

Long buffet tables laden with an array of tasty dessert were located in the two tea rooms and the hostesses for these were Mrs. R. Robertson, Mrs. C. Hitchon, Mrs. T. Poste and Mrs. A. McMillen.

In charge of the tea room serving of tea and coffee were K. Dickens, M. Miller, J. Empey and H. Lewis assisted by a large number of members.

Kitchen duties and arranging tables were by H. McCorquodale, W. Reed, T. Bartlett and M. Phillips. Decor in the tea rooms including the attractive guest tables was arranged by W. Parks, J. Outingbyke, E. Dobbs, P. Globensat, A. Vader, C. Strawbridge and A. Vader with a number of others assisting.

Ticket sales conveners were P. Holmes and J. Hamelink.

25th Wedding Anniversary

ROSLIN — Recently, a surprise party was held in St. Paul's Anglican Hall in Roslin in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kincaid of Moira, more on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Roy Vance and Mrs. Frank Coulter. A beautifully decorated anniversary cake was made by their daughter, Elaine, and Mrs. James Sandford, sister-in-law of the bride. During the evening cards and a social time were enjoyed.

The guests of honor were presented with an electric tea kettle and a 25th anniversary cake plate with silver handle from their neighbors, and numerous gifts from relatives who were present from Toronto, Belleville, Gilmour and the surrounding community.

Mr. and Mrs. Kincaid (nee Ellen Sandford) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sandford were married on April 17, 1947 at the home of the bride's parents in Eldorado. The attendants were Mrs. Nora Phillips of Gilmour, now deceased, and Sam Stirk of Roslin who was present for the occasion. The ceremony was performed by Reverend Albert Redding, Anglican rector of Bannockburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Kincaid have three daughters — Ann, of Kenora, Ontario; Elaine, in training as a Lab Technologist at Belleville General Hospital, and Sharon, a student at Tweed - Hungerford Public School.

Convention for Blind in Kitchener

The April recreation and business meetings of the Quinte White Cane Club were held at the Recreation Centre. Vice-president, Floyd Reid presided and Mrs. Maude Rollins played the accompaniment for the opening songs.

At the recreation meeting, Wilma Morris announced the names of members observing April birthdays. The birthday song was sung and prizes distributed.

Several games were enjoyed after which the Kiwanis women served a tasty lunch. They were thanked by Herper McElwain.

At the business meeting, Mrs. Rollins read the correspondence. The Canadian Council of the Blind News-letter drew attention to the duties of a club delegate to a Division Conference.

Helen Warchaugh, club secretary, will be the official delegate to the OCB Division Conference to be held in Kitchener, May 9 to 11.

This year, the Eastern Ontario Blind Bowling Tournament will be held at the Bowl-O-Drome in Belleville on May 13. At 6.30 p.m. a dinner will be served at the Knights of Columbus Hall followed by the business meeting. There will be dancing to a live combo.

Credit-loosening Law Seen Threat to Farms

OTTAWA (CP) — Credit-loosening legislation for farmers was roundly criticized in the Commons Wednesday as another government step to destroy the family farm.

Two Saskatchewan farmers, Stanley Korchinski (PC—Macknezie) and Alf Gleave (NDP—Saskatoon-Biggar), said amendments to the Farm Credit Act that would allow the Farm Credit Corporation to make larger loans to more farmers would lead to an early takeover of small farms by big enterprises.

Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson said the bill is necessary to give the corporation power to administer government small farms development policy. This is a seven-year, $150-million program to help young farmers build up farms and help older, poorer farmers retire or move into other occupations.

Debate on the bill, which would raise to $100,000 from $40,000 the amount the credit corporation could lend individual farmers, while lowering to 18 from 21 the age limit on farmers eligible to borrow, began late Tuesday and will continue today.

Mr. Korchinski said the bill provides nothing new for farmers and no incentives for younger men to stay on the land.

Opposition reaction to the bill has been that it imperils one of the great institutions of agriculture—the family farm.

Mr. Korchinski moved an amendment that would have the effect of sending the bill back to the government for redrafting to include interest-free loans to some farmers, deferred-interest loans to other and an opportunity for farmers to increase borrowings without refinancing ex-isting debts.

This, he indicated, would help preserve the family farm.

Mr. Olson said such a move would simply kill the bill; Conservative MPs said it was needed to give the farmers a chance.

B.C. Liberal Head Quits

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Patrick McGeer resigned Wednesday as leader of the British Columbia Liberal party and appointed David Anderson, the ferry young MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, as his choice for successor.

Dr. McGeer, a 44-year-old medical specialist in brain research, leaves after four frustrating years at the helm of a political party that went no-where in B.C.'s Social Credit-dominated political scene.

The new Liberal leader will be chosen at a provincial convention May 20-22 in Penticton. And indications are that Mr. Anderson, 36, will be in for a fight despite Dr. McGeer's endorsation.

Mayor William Vander Zalm of Surrey said he will seek the leadership regardless of who else is in the running.

Snowmobiles Menace Planes

OTTAWA (CP) — Snowmobiles, the increasingly-popular machines that have been criticized by some as a menace to human life and to the environment, may also be a menace to airplanes.

The transport department recently announced its intention to draw up regulations "for the purpose of limiting the electromagnetic radiation from snowmobiles in order to prevent interference with air navigation electronic equipment, which interference may somewhat affect the safety of aircraft."

The official notice, published in the Canada Gazette, says snowmobile manufacturers and other interested parties may make representations to the transport department before June 15.

J. P. Vaillancourt, assistant director of the department's traffice safety branch, said in an interview today that he does not expect the regulations to require expensive modifications to snowmobiles.

CP Chairman Retires

MONTREAL (CP) — N. R. Crump has stepped down as chairman of Canadian Pacific Ltd. after serving 33 years with the company.

Selected as his successor was Ian D. Sinclair, president, who will retain his position as chief executive officer.

F. S. Burbidge, vice-president, was elected the new president at a board of directors' meeting which followed the company's 81st annual general meeting Wednesday.

During the meeting Mr. Crump, 67, told the shareholders "it has been generally known that I'll retire at the end of the meeting."

"It has been an exciting and very satisfying life," said Mr. Crump, who presided at his 19th annual meeting. He will continue to serve on the board of directors.

Mr. Sinclair said Mr. Crump's service to the business and community had the nation as a whole was recognized formally earlier this year when Governor-General Michener invested him with the insignia of a Companion of the Order of Canada — "for outstanding merit of the highest degree."

SPECIAL PLATE

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Prince Edward Island plans a special motor vehicle licence plate for 1973 when the island celebrates its centennial as a province of Canada. Irwin Jenkins, chairman of the P.E.I. centennial commission, will design the plate after getting suggestions from citizens.

Too Much Spent On Welfare

TORONTO (CP) — Too much money is being spent on welfare and not enough on coping with "the multitude of illnesses which could be prevented," said the 86-year-old general director of the Health League of Canada.

Dr. Gordon Bates said in an interview Wednesday there has been a loss of interest in preventive medicine in Canada—"the most disastrous thing that has ever happened."

Guaranteed Income Urged

EDMONTON (CP) — A guaranteed annual income for every Canadian would cost the same amount as the present welfare system, national Social Credit Leader Real Caouette said Wednesday.

"Instead of paying bureaucrats across the country to go into homes to see if husbands are sleeping with wives, or if conditions have changed in the home, there should be a guaranteed annual income for everyone," he told 170 people at a $25-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

He suggested an income of $1,200 a year for single persons 18 years and older and $2,500 for a married couple, plus $250 a year for each child.

When you buy Mother a KitchenAid for Mother's Day you not only have the satisfaction of giving the best dishwasher in the world, but it'll get you out of doing a lot of dishes. Happy Mother's Day, Dad.

KitchenAid has many features no other dishwasher offers. Read about them below.

Pots and pans are cleaned automatically. What a blessing. No other dishwasher has Soak Cycle.

Here's why Soak Cycle works as well. You put your pots and pans in the rack as the normal fashion. You push the Soak Cycle button. Automatically, the cold water, which is in the pipeline from your water heater, is purged and drained away. Then hot water, along with detergent, is vigorously flushed over the pots and pans.

Then the machine stops for twelve minutes while the detergent takes time to soften the food particles and loosen any other dirt. This is followed by two pre-rinses.

Finally, the KitchenAid runs through the regular washing cycle and three after-rinses to get your pots and pans cleaner than any other dishwasher does.

Five year warranty on big, tough Gold Seal Motor.

The KitchenAid motor, the heart of the dishwasher, is so strong and reliable that we give you a five year guarantee against it failing. If it should fail during the first year, we will have it repaired or replaced free. You'll be charged only for labour during the next four years.

With exclusive Flo-Thru Drying your dishes can't crack or crack. Guaranteed or your money back.

Some dishes askers have a rod-hot element right inside where your dishes are. KitchenAid does not. Instead, the air is heated outside the wash chamber. Then, this sanitized air is circulated by fan all through the wash chamber to carry off the moisture. So, concentrated heat can't wreck your dishes or melt and discolour your plastic dishes or salad bowls. KitchenAid's drying system works much like your hair dryer which dries your hair but doesn't burn your hair.

RINSED ONCE

KitchenAid has a memory.

A little light shines like a signal and tells you when you have put the dishes through the Rinse and Hold Cycle only and not a complete washing and drying cycle. It remembers to tell you when sometimes you forget.

More than 15 other features.

Why not pop into our store so we can show you all the features of the KitchenAid. Some of these are: the dish warmer, the adjustable racks, the new, large silverware basket, the ingenious detergent dispenser, the Sani-guard filter. There are many more, of course. Together, they will give you better washing and longer dishwasher life than any other machine can offer.

Not everyone has the same dishwashing needs, so Hobart builds a wide range of Kitchenaid models to serve different purposes. For apartments and small homes, there are the top and front loading portables. You can also buy a convertible portable—it's a portable today and a built-in tomorrow. There are several built-in models as well.

$350,000 Question

What Do Young Hikers Eat?

OTTAWA (CP) — As thousands of kids shoulder knapsacks and take off this summer to see Canada coast-to-coast, their mothers will probably worry: "Are they eating right?"

The same question is concerning Dr. Z. I. Sabry, national coordinator of Nutrition Canada, which is nearing the end of a two-year survey of the eating habits of Canadians.

To find out, survey officials have asked for an additional $300,000 from the treasury board to set up special areas where they can talk to young people during what has become an annual summer migration across the nation, Dr. Sabry said in an interview Wednesday.

The money will help provide a counselling service for the transient youth on how to eat properly on the road, he said.

In exchange for the counselling, Dr. Sabry and his team hope to learn about the special problems of transient youth directly from the young people.

"Anyone working for Nutrition Canada during the busy travelling periods of the last 18 months knows the problems of trying to get a proper diet," he said. "And that's even when you have some money and can afford to eat in restaurants."

Youth Program to Be Extended

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is working on plans to extend its youth employment program in response to criticism that its present program—Opportunities for Youth—primarily reaches only middle- and upper-class young people.

State Secretary Gerard Pelletier said in an interview Wednesday he hopes to have new measures to announce before the summer.

He had said in the Commons in response to questions from Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield that his department is studying various ideas. The result would "be put forward in good time to reach those youth not reached by Opportunities for Youth."

Mr. Stanfield had reiterated a complaint made in late March by a government study group last week by Dal Broadhead, executive director of the Company of Young Canadians.

That complaint said youth from under privileged backgrounds do not generally have the savoir-faire to get together and draft applications for OFY and Local Initiative Program grants, and that these are the very youth most in need of such programs.

Birchites See Red Plot in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — The John Birch Society is convinced there is a Communist conspiracy in Canada, says its public relations director.

Rex Westerfield of Belmont, Mass., visiting Toronto to explain why the society has appointed its first full-time co-ordinator in Canada, said the move was a "response to an existing growth pattern."

As evidence of growing Communist influence, he cited the Front de Liberation du Quebec "war emergency," which he said was Communist-inspired because it allowed Prime Minister Trudeau to create a dictatorship. In addition, he said, Mr. Trudeau was socializing medicine.

Mr. Westerfield said the society had received inquiries after it printed an article by freelance writer Alan Stang which noted the presence of drugs and "wispy Ho Chi Minh beards" at Rochdale College and the decision by "Premier 'Red Mike' Pearson" to admit draft dodgers and deserters from the United States.

He said the society will not engage in direct political activity in Canada but expects its members to express their opposition to the United Nations or

Carnival Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — A downtown church's carnival has resulted in truancy, thefts of money by children from their parents and, in one instance, a carnival worker exposing himself to a teacher.

Nancy Mallett, vice-principal of Duke of York public school, appeared before the city executive committee Wednesday to request that the carnival, sponsored annually by businessmen, not be permitted.

Lakes Dangerous

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — A scientific study has revealed that the Great Lakes are more dangerous than previously believed.

Secret Maps

LONDON (AP) — The British defence ministry ordered an investigation Wednesday to determine how secret U.S. Air Force maps came to be used as wrapping paper by a London furniture company.

An defence ministry spokesman said the maps came here from Germany but he had no idea how.

Oppose Smoking

OTTAWA (CP) — The national health department has more than doubled its funds for anti-smoking programs in the current year, the Commons was told Wednesday.

Red Tape

BRANTFORD (CP) — The federal government's handling of the two-price wheat payment program in Ontario has become a monumental exercise in red tape, farm and wheat board officials say.

New Policemen

VICTORIA (CP) — Seven University of Victoria students, including one girl, Karen Nordlinger, were sworn in as summertime constables at the Victoria police headquarters Wednesday.

Report Ready

SARNIA (CP) — The first of three phases of the St. Clair regional development study, encompassing the southwestern Ontario counties of Lambton, Essex and Kent will be released June 21 or 22, provincial treasurer Darcy McKeough said Wednesday.

Justice Bumbling Says Judge

CALGARY (CP) — Justice had its troubles in court Tuesday and Judge L. A. Justason wasn't happy.

The judge, who said last month that justice is "fumbling and bumbling along" in Calgary provincial courts, clashed with Crown prosecutor Dan Abbott who was unable to proceed with a case.

The prosecutor couldn't proceed with a preliminary hearing against two men accused of possession of stolen property because the investigating officer who was responsible for the subpoena of witnesses was away on a course.

Said Judge Justason: "You (Abbott) gal here and suffer the embarrassment because the investigating officer decided it would be a nice day to go to Mexico or somewhere."

The prosecutor said: "He's not in Mexico, sir. He's on a course."

Judge Justason: "On a course. . . . So what? If you need an order to bring him back from Timbuktu I will be pleased to do anything I can to help."

He said the Crown should be "in the driver's seat" when it comes to issuing subpoenas, not the investigating officer.

He ordered the preliminary hearing to proceed next Monday.

British Boroughs Inspected By Ontario Council Members

LONDON (CP) — A group of 60 mayors, reeves and councillors from Ontario spread out through the London boroughs of Wandsworth, Croydon and Barnet Wednesday as part of a tour of Britain designed to give them insights into the workings of local government in this country.

The Canadian municipal representatives later gathered at Ontario House for a reception by Ward Cornell, newly appointed agent general.

This initial leg of their British visit is serving mainly to inform them about how local government in Britain functions in relation to the central government.

Some of the delegates suggested that in London there doesn't seem to be as much direct accessibility to local councils for ordinary citizens as would be the case in Ontario.

But the visitors were quick to add that this was the situation in one of the world's most densely populated areas, with more than the population of Ontario as a whole and thus saddled with procedural problems virtually unknown to local councils in the Canadian province.

LIP Called Success

OTTAWA (CP) — The government local initiatives program, which financed community works projects last winter, was an overwhelming success and should be continued permanently, Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey said Wednesday.

He told the Commons manpower committee the $152-million grant program, similar in concept to the summer opportunities for youth scheme, was superior to traditional winter works programs because it was faster in putting money in the hands of "those wielding the pick and shovel."

He said the old winter works concept involved too much government planning and bureaucratic expense.

He said he was speaking personally, not as a government spokesman, when he said the grant system should be maintained year-round.

"It takes money to make money. If your property is saleable we'll advertise it at our expense until we sell it."

Italians Here Urged to Back Fascists

MONTREAL (CP) — This city's Italian population is in an uproar because its members are being deluged with election literature exhorting them to vote in the May 7 Italian general election.

Italy's neo-fascist party, the Movimento Sociale Italiano, has set up headquarters here and is blitzing Montreal's 250,000 Italian-Canadians with literature from an office in the city's north end.

Italians everywhere in Canada are being asked by MSI either to return to Italy for the general election or to write to friends and relatives there, urging them to vote for the neo-fascist party.

Under the auspices of a group called Tricolor committee for the worldwide Italian community, a flood of paid advertisements, locally printed literature and television spots has caused a lot of bad feeling among Italians here.

"It is against our Italian constitution to rehabilitate Mussolini's regime and it is an insult to the Canadian people," says Camille Carli, editor-in-chief of La Tribuna, a monthly publication serving Italians in this city.

The party's literature calls for "a return of the honor and the greatness of our fatherland," in a form letter which Italian-Canadians are asked to mail to relatives in Italy.

The form letter is supposed to be copied and personalized by the sender. It says the Italian people have become despised for weakness and corruption and that only the election of the MSI party will help rectify the matter.

Steam Kills Seven People

NEW YORK (AP) — With a screaming blast and a climactic rumble, a steam pipe exploded on the 28th floor of a skyscraper Wednesday, venting a deadly cloud of superheated vapor that killed seven persons.

Following the blast, about 4,000 workers were evacuated from the building in Manhattan's financial district, some of them stumbling into the street in panic. Thousands of others swarmed into the block on their lunch hour, drawn by the tumult of rescue and fire fighting apparatus.

On the scene, Chief Medical Examiner Milton Helpern reported that the victims were trapped in escaping steam with a temperature of 500 degrees, more than twice the boiling point of water.

"Death occurred almost instantaneously, from a combination of blast and steam under high temperature," Helpern said.

An early arrival on the scene, a fire department official, said, "It was a very grey sight. They were all scalded to death. They were stiff. They looked like clothes dummies."

Buildings commissioner Joseph Stein said the explosion was caused by failure of an expansion joint in the pipe, a joint designed to allow for contraction and expansion of the metal.

UAW Asks Action Against DISC Use

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian director of the United Auto Workers, concerned over reports that some United States auto companies are shipping exports to Canada under the DISC program, has appealed to Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin to take action against the companies.

Dennis McDermott, Canadian director of the union, asked Mr. Pepin Wednesday to stop using the DISC program to circumvent provisions of the Canada-U.S. auto pact.

"The future of the Canada-U.S. automotive trade agreement is obviously at stake here and something of the honor of Canada," Mr. McDermott said.

It was revealed last week that some U.S. firms have already started shipping exports to Canada under DISC—domestic international sales corporations that get tax breaks under President Nixon's economic policies laid down last Aug. 15. The tax breaks are considered unfair by Canada.

Mr. McDermott said the disclosure that the U.S. auto companies are using the program to export cars to Canada is all the more reason why Canada must hold on to the production-ratio safeguards in the auto pact.

Only force will keep the auto companies from using the DISC program in violation of the auto pact, Mr. McDermott said.

Hazard Studied

TORONTO (CP) — The city is preparing a report on possible health hazards and other damage resulting from the 25-day strike by garbagemen and other outside workers.

With no indication of a break in the strike, civic spokesmen estimated there is more than 80,000 tons of garbage piled in parks in Metropolitan Toronto.

Year After Slide

QUEBEC (CP) — St. Jean Vianney is all but gone.

Only about a dozen deserted buildings remain in what was once a village of 1,200 on a Saguenay Valley bluff 115 miles north of here.

Our year ago today a landslide swept 31 persons to their deaths as 40 homes tumbled into a gaping hole a quarter-mile long and 300 feet across.

A big chunk of the bluff caved in following an underground "flow" of unstable marine clay and about 15 million cubic yards

Highest Paid

TORONTO (CP) — The city's 1,325 firemen became the highest paid firefighters in Ontario Wednesday night as they ratified a two-year contract giving them a 13.38-per-cent wage increase.

William Goldson, president of the Toronto local of the International Association of Firefighters, said the contract, giving a first-class fireman a salary of $11,310 this year and $12,124 next, passed by a good majority.

Rats Are Threat

TORONTO (CP) — Rats, feeding on garbage heaped around St. Raymond's Roman Catholic School because of the strike by nearly 4,000 civic outside workers, are keeping children home from school.

One mother said baseball bats have become the standard weapon to chase the rodents off.

Mrs. Michaud said that because of the garbage and the rats she is keeping her children home from school until the situation is cleaned up.

CFRB Worried

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Radio station CFRB in nearby Toronto may be forced out of business if Mississauga does not restrict the height of apartment buildings proposed for the town's southwest corner, CFRB's president and general manager said Wednesday.

Donald Hartford said in a brief to town council that the height of buildings proposed for the part of the town within a half-mile of the station's Carleton transmitter would require CFRB to reduce or even eliminate broadcasts.

Parks Planned

VICTORIA (CP) — The British Columbia government announced plans Wednesday to create two major parks, totalling 850,000 acres, in northwestern B.C.

Conservation Minister Ken Kiermen said the larger park will be south of Telegraph Creek and west of the Stewart-Cassiar Road. It will encompass 600,000 acres and is tentatively being called Mount Edziza Volcanic Park.

Davis Seeks Action

MONTREAL (CP) — Environment Minister Jack Davis pressed the province of Quebec Wednesday night for action on severe pollution of the St. Lawrence River.

"British Columbia has actually financed more sewage collection and treatment facilities than Quebec has," he told La Federation des Associations Canadiennes de l'environment, an anti-pollution group meeting here.

"It will be interesting to see whether la belle province, with a population more than three times that of our western-most province, will begin to catch up in this area in the 1970s."

Figures in his speech said Montreal treats only 8.4 per cent of its waste water—the rest flows into the St. Lawrence as raw sewage—and Quebec City none.

No Cottages

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Beware when buying "open cottage land" north of Sault Ste. Marie—a cottage may not be allowed on it—the Sault area planning board warns.

Staff planner Joe Snierek said if roads to cottage properties were not public roads and unable to maintain a traffic flow, the board "will be obliged not to approve building permits on these subject lands."

Pollution Control

Giant stainless steel evaporators, up to 50 feet long and weighing about 30 tons each, sit in skeleton of building that will house them following their recent installation at the Ontario Paper Company at Thorold, Ont. The pollution abatement system, costing $6.6 million, will treat liquid waste from the paper plant by evaporating water and burning the concentrated residue in a giant reactor which is at the right. (CP Photo)

St. Lawrence Needs Help

MONTREAL (CP) — A suburban Laval chemist criticized Environment Minister Victor Goldbloom Wednesday for saying there is still time to save the polluted St. Lawrence River.

Claude Dagenais, chief chemist for Chem-Spec, a private laster-testing firm, told 600 delegates to a national conference on the environment that "when you start talking about saving a body of water, it must be very bad."

"In fact, it may have reached an irreversible state."

Mr. Dagenais acknowledged there is still enough "good" left in the St. Lawrence to save, but "the big question is when do you start saving it?"

If the natural cycle in the water has been destroyed, you can compare the situation with a case of terminal cancer, he said.

Earlier this week, Dr. Alain Sourcy told the conference studies show the river has lost its natural ability to clean itself.

Mackasey for Lenient Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Bryce Mackasey said Wednesday that immigration policy will be administered as openly and leniently as possible during his tenure over the department.

He told the Commons immigration committee he has rejected calls for strict interpretation and enforcement of the Immigration Act.

If the full selective and restrictive powers of the act always had been enforced, he said, "the only bona fide member of Parliament would be Leo Maychand."

United Church Magazine Called Anti-Semitic

SASKATOON (CP) — The official magazine of the United Church, the United Church Observer, and officials of the church were accused of anti-Semitism Wednesday by Jewish theologian Emil L. Fackenheim.

Dr. Fackenheim, a rabbi and professor of philosophy at the University of Toronto, made the charges while addressing the convocation at St. Andrew's College in Saskatoon, where he received an honorary doctorate of divinity.

"The United Church Observer has shown an ever-increasing anti-Jewish bias," Dr. Fackenheim said, "and United Church officials, while taking refuge behind the editor's freedom of speech, have either themselves kept silent, or else used their freedom of speech only to defend the policies of the editor, or even to attack, often vociferously, those who opposed these policies.

"The extraordinary and irrational views of the editor of the Observer have long since ceased to amaze the Jewish community. What causes continued amazement and pain is the silence and even active complicity of officialdom.

"No wonder the Canadian Jewish community thinks the United Church of Canada is monolithically anti-Jewish. How could it think otherwise?"

Dr. Fackenheim said he agreed to accept the honorary degree from a United Church college because he regarded the invitation to speak as a republication of the policies of the church's official magazine.

He said The Observer had emphasized the plight of Arab refugees to the neglect of Jewish refugees in the Middle East.

Rev. A. C. Forrest, editor of The Observer, said in Toronto he was concerned about the plight of all refugees.

"But world Jewry has taken care of Jewish refugees. It's for Palestinian refugees that the churches have been raising money.

Lakers Outrun Knicks

NEW YORK (AP) — "We played like we did all year in that third quarter," said Jerry West of Los Angeles Lakers. "We ran."

The Lakers literally ran away from New York Knicks in that period, then shut down a fourth-quarter Knicks rally to post a 107-86 victory Wednesday night and run up a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association final.

"When we came to New York," West said, "we were hoping for a split of the two games here. Now, of course, we're looking for a sweep."

The fourth game is set for Friday night in Madison Square Garden, then the championship series shifts to Los Angeles Sunday for game No. 5.

The Knicks led 38-33 after one period but, thanks to a less-than-classic Los Angeles defence, fell behind by five at the half.

Then the Lakers really went to work, outgunning the Knicks 36-5 in the first six minutes of the third quarter to take a 72-52 lead. They went on by as many as 22 points before New York closed the gap to 80-65 going into the final 12 minutes.

But West reached a plateau of his own. With 2:08 remaining, he caused a long jumper to become the first player in NBA history to pass the 4,000-point mark in playoff games. He has 4,061 points in 109 post-season contests.

The Knicks were led by Walt Frazier with 25 points and Jerry Lucas with 23. But Dave DeBusschere, who played 39 minutes, all in the first half, despite a pulled muscle in his right side above the hip, went scoreless.

Shark Signed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Nickamp, a defenceman with Tidewater Wings of the American Hockey League last season, has signed a three-year contract to play for Los Angeles Sharks of the World Hockey Association.

Nickamp, 26, is a native of Detroit who played in 34 games with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League in the 1970-71 season.

Schmalz Predicts Quebec Leaving

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP) — Clarence (Tubby) Schmalz, past president of the Ontario Hockey Association, predicts that Quebec will pull out of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in the next few years.

He said that although the CAHA will never cut its ties with Quebec it is possible Quebec will pull out of the association.

"I can see it happening. I can see it quite clearly, possibly in the next few years. It would Rouyn-Noranda back. . . ."

He explained that the Quebec association is attempting to force Rouyn-Noranda out of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

"Rouyn-Noranda wants to regain with the NOHA. They indicated this when I met with them. They are determined to play in the NOHA. We are quite prepared to give teams in that area the choice whether they want to play but Quebec wants to force teams to play in its branch."

He said Quebec is "not only trying to take that section we belongs to the Northern Ontario Hockey Association but also has forced the Montreal Junior Canadiens out of our league."

"I can see problems with Quebec, large problems. . . . Quebec is attempting to revamp the CAHA constitution and in fact, wants to change the name to the Confederation of Hockey with no reference to Canada."

On other matters, Schmalz predicted that within two years Canada will be back in the world hockey championships. He said the scheduled series between an unrestricted Canadian team and the Russians would be the start of Canada's return to world class hockey competition.

"Anyone who has been in Europe, and I speak from experience, knows the drawing power of the Canadians as compared to the Russians, Czechs and Swedes. Everywhere Canadians play they fill the rink. They are needed if tournaments are going to be a success."

Schmalz said the Canada-Russia clash should be no contest. He predicts a "four or five goal" Canadian victory in each game.

Totems Change at Top

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League had a new coach today.

Sources close to the parent Vancouver Canucks said the man to be named at a noon news conference today would be Phil Maloney, a Vancouver scout and veteran centre for the Canucks before they moved up to the National Hockey League.

Maloney, 44, who ranks fourth on the WHL's all-time scoring list with 923 points, coached the Canucks in 1961-62.

Charlie Holmes, coach last season when the Totems won only 12 of 72 games, is expected to be given a scouting job with the Canucks.

Clippers Didn't Seem to Miss Goalie

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Shaw, who missed Baltimore's last playoff game because of a stomach ailment, didn't have much more to do when he returned to action Wednesday night.

With the Clippers' defence playing a superb checking game, Shaw had to turn aside only 14 shots to blank Nova Scotia Voyageurs 2-0 in the opener of the American Hockey League's Calder Cup finals.

Meanwhile, Nova Scotia goalie Michel Plasse, who permitted only 11 goals in nine previous post-season games, was peppered with 39 shots.

He blocked all but a first period slap shot by Jean Gauthier and a close-in goal by Hilliard Graves in the second period.

"They bottled us up in our own end," said coach Al Mac-Neil of the Voyageurs. "They took our game away from us."

Baltimore coach Terry Reardon also hailed the defence and credited Shaw with making some key saves, "especially one in the first period that he kicked out."

"I think maybe we took them a little by surprise," Reardon said. "we jumped on top of them and never let up.

"They'll be a lot tougher club on Friday. They are a very good team. Did you see those shots they were taking? They were all like bullets."

Nova Scotia, the AHL's top scoring team during the regular season, hadn't played for a week since knocking off Boston in four straight in the Eastern Division finals.

But MacNeil said he had no alibi about the long layoff. "They just played better hockey than we did tonight."

During the season, Nova Scotia held a 2-1-2 edge over Baltimore's Western Division champions.

Bob Rivard, who topped the Clippers with nine goals and 14 assists in the first four playoff series, was sidelined with a bruised right shoulder late in the first period.

Rivard was replaced by veteran Jimmy Bartlett, and x-rays of the shoulder proved negative.

Stitch in Time

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Dennis Nelly collected an assist, a goal and an eight-stitch cut on his forehead Wednesday night as he led Guelph CMCs to a 2-1 victory over Red Deer Rustlers.

The win gives the CMCs a 3-0 lead in the Centennial Cup final. Action in the best-of-seven series resumes here Friday.

Nelly's injury occurred when he clashed with Rustlers' goalie Graham Parsons after slamming home the winning goal with only 11 seconds remaining in regulation time.

Both benches cleared as the two players tangled but no fight broke out and no penalties were assessed. Other than a charging minor to Guelph's Bill Kestell.

Parsons suffered a scratched eye in the scuffle and was taken to hospital after the game.

"It was a hell of a hockey game and it's unfortunate that it had to end in a scrap because it wasn't a rough game until that point," commented Guelph coach Bill Taylor.

Rangers Hurt in Third

NEW YORK (CP) — For-New York Rangers, third-period terrors in the Stanley Cup playoffs, the final 20 minutes suddenly has taken on nightmarish qualities.

In 11 playoff starts, Rangers have outscored Montreal, Chicago and Boston 16-8 in the third period in winning eight games and losing four. The figures indicate that the Rangers are in great condition and have depth of personnel, enabling them to close with a rush.

Yet the Rangers are in an unenviable position as they go into tonight's third game of the best-of-seven final against the Bruins following two one-goal losses in Boston. In both games they yielded the winning goal in the third period.

"We could have won both games," Emile Francis, Rangers general manager-coach said Wednesday. "We should have come out with at least a split. If we had only got the go-ahead goal. . . ."

"I can't complain about the way we've played," Francis added, discussing the 6-5 and 2-1 Ranger losses in Boston.

Nevertheless he plans to make lineup changes for tonight's game here (8:30 p.m. EDT). The fourth game also will be in New York, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

PHIL GOYETTE

"I can tell you I'll be dressing both Ab DeMarco and Phil Goyette," the Ranger boss said.

DeMarco, a 25-year-old defenceman, has a powerful shot which makes him a good point man. He was dressed for one game against Canadiens and two against the Black Hawks but saw only spot duty. He had two shots on goal and one assist against Chicago.

Goyette, a 35-year-old centre, was lured out of retirement in Montreal two months ago when the Rangers ran into injuries. He has not been used against Boston, but was centre on the Ranger power plays throughout the Montreal and Chicago preliminaries. Against Canadiens he had eight shots on goal and two assists in six games; against the Black Hawks three shots, one goal and one assist in four contests.

DeMarco is likely to replace Gary Doak, whose penalties have been costly in the Boston series. Goyette probably will replace Steve Andrascik, a rookie forward who saw no action Tuesday. Andrascik was dressed to replace Ron Stewart in a Boston hospital with a painful jaw fracture suffered in the first Boston game.

In the first playoff round, the Rangers outscored the defending champion Canadiens 19-14 overall and 8-3 in the third period in winning four of six games. In the semi-final, the Rangers swept the Black Hawks four straight, outscoring them 17-9 over-all and 5-3 in the third period.

And in losing the first two games of the final, the New Yorkers have outscored Boston 3-2 in the third period while being outscored 8-6 over-all.

Regardless of extenuating circumstances which have been cited by the New York coach, Boston's victories were earned. The Bruins didn't fold in the face of the last-ditch Ranger rush. They looked every bit as fresh at the finish as did the losers. In fitness there seemed to be no difference between the teams.

The question remains then whether the Rangers, who have been rebuilding steadily, have caught up with the Bruins in talent, in particular, have they enough talent to conquer a team that starts out with superstars Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr, the men who placed one-two in the regular-season scoring derby with 133 and 117 points respectively.

Francis said he plans to give more ice time to Jean Ratelle, used principally on the power play in the first two games of his comeback from a fractured ankle. Ratelle will take regular turns with Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert, on a line which smashed Ranger regular-season scoring records.

In addition, said Francis Gene Carr will be back on left wing with Walt Tkaczuk and Bill Fairbairn. The 3-year-old rookie had only one good turn on the ice Tuesday. Hard-checking Glen Sather replaced him on the Tkaczuk line.

One man the Rangers will have to stop is Ken Hodge, who has four goals in two games, including Tuesday's game winner. In 11 Boston playoff games, Hodge has a scoring percentage of 30.8—from eight goals on 26 shots. His regular-season scoring percentage was 11.4—from 15 goals on 140 shots.

Spurs Stingy

DENVER (AP) — Fran Huck and Brian Glenwright scored two goals each and goalie Bob Johnson closed the gate permanently on Portland Buckaroos Wednesday night as Denver Spurs notched a 6-0 Western Hockey League victory to win the Lester Patrick Cup.

Denver's victory gave the Spurs a 4-1 mark in the best-of-seven playoff series and set a defensive mark.

The Spurs allowed only 11 goals in nine playoff games, shattering the mark set by Vancouver Canucks in 1969, when they allowed 12 goals in eight games.

Pirates' Bullpen Finally Breaks Ice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Any resemblance between the Pittsburgh Pirates of 1972 and the world champions of 1971 has been purely coincidental until Wednesday night.

After their pitching staff was battered in six straight games, all losses, the Pirates snapped out of their doldrums with a 3-2 victory over Houston Astros on the all-hit hurling of Dock Ellis and Bruce Kison and Rennie Stennett's two-run triple.

"Just because you win one game doesn't take any heat off," said freshman manager Bill Virdon, "but it's always nice to break the ice."

Elsewhere in the National League, New York Mets tied the Mets. Tommie Agee led the New York attack with two doubles and a run-scoring single while Jim Fregosi and Ted Martinez each tripled.

Rookie Jon Matlack won his third game in a row but was outlayed in a three-run eighth, featuring Dave Kingman's two-run triple.

Fergie Jenkins hurled a six-hitter to even his record at 2-2 but complained that the Cubs' new jerseys affected his style.

"I was missing a lot of pitches I don't usually miss," he said, "but these new double-knit jerseys seem to grab me under the arm and restrict my delivery. I'm going to ask them to make the holes bigger on the right sleeve."

Leron Lee greeted reliever Denny Lemaster with a run-scoring single in the 14th inning, giving San Diego its win over Montreal. Lemaster relieved Tom Walker after Enzo Hernandez stole second, but Lee subtled home the winning run.

Clay Kirby, the San Diego starter, pitched six hitless innings before Ron Hunt doubled leading off the seventh.

Lolich Out to Prove Point

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mickey Lolich is out to prove this year that he is no Mickey Mouse.

The Detroit Tigers pitcher, who thought he should have been the Cy Young Award winner last season instead of Oakland Athletics' Vida Blue, is making a case for himself in 1972.

"I've developed great confidence," Lolich said Wednesday night after winning his fourth game in five decisions by beating Kansas City Royals 6-1.

"His arm never wears out," said Detroit pitching coach Art Fowler, one of Lolich's prime boosters. "He's amazing, really amazing. I still think he should have won the Cy Young Award last year and everyone knows that he should have won it."

That included Lolich himself, who claimed that Blue won the award as the American League's top pitcher because of an unusual amount of publicity.

Blue, who just signed his contract with Oakland after a long holdout, is already behind Lolich's early-season credentials that include 43 and 1-3 innings, the most innings pitched in the American League. The Tiger southpaw has 31 strikeouts and four complete games in his five starts this year, too.

In Wednesday night's other American League games, Minnesota Twins stopped Milwaukee Brewers 7-0 and Cleveland Indians defeated Texas Rangers 5-1. Rain washed out three games: California at New York, Chicago at Baltimore and Oakland at Boston.

Lolich, although not over-powering, had enough Wednesday night to pitch his fifth straight complete game against Kansas City.

"My breaking ball wasn't breaking much and my slider tonight was totally useless," said Lolich. "That's the pitch I usually get strikeouts with."

Rookie sensation Bob Darwin drove in four runs, three on his sixth home run of the year, and Bert Blyleven pitched a four-hitter as Minnesota drubbed Milwaukee. Darwin hit his home run off relief pitcher Jim Colborn in the eighth inning after singles by Rod Carew and Harmon Killebrew.

Milt Wilcox pitched a five-hitter and Cleveland scored unearned runs in the second and sixth innings to defeat Texas.

Brown Recalls Bruins

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

In a couple of months, Wayne "Weiner" Brown will be scouring eastern Ontario with other members of the Belleville Quinte Sports Foundation trying to produce a more formidable city contender for the Ontario Hockey Association's Section A group.

But for the next week, Brown, who assumed coaching duties of the Quintes partway through last season and has accepted the job again for the coming year, must be amused for fostering another hockey loyalty.

"Yes, I'm a Boston fan," the affable "Weiner" says when discussing the current Bruin-New York Stanley Cup final. "But they've been pretty lucky so far," he analyzed Boston's 2-0 lead, both wins by one-goal margins.

"The main difference has been that Boston's penalty killing has been weakened and they've been scoring when the Rangers have penalties.

"But I think the series will go the limit."

Brown's loyalties go back 18 years ago this spring, when he was called up by the Bruins after a 49-goal season with the Western Hockey League's Seattle Bombers.

The Bruins, fourth-place finishers in the regular season, had earned the somewhat dubious distinction of a playoff pairing with Montreal Canadiens, "the Habs, with Maurice Richard at his zenith, were defending Stanley Cup champions and in the process of smoothing the team that would start a string of five straight Cup wins two years later.

The Bruins had home flashy names — Milt Schmidt and Woody Dumart, sometimes with Dumart and Fielder Googlies Western League standout Guyle). Brown recalls. "They beat us in four straight."

WAYNE BROWN

Woody Dumart — but both were in the twilight of their careers and would retire a year later. Otherwise, Boston was pitting the likes of Ed Sanford, Johnny Peirson, Dave Creighton, and Joe Klukay against The Rocket, Bernie Geoffrion, Dickie Moore, Doug Harvey, and a rookie by the name of Beliveau.

"I played in all our games — sometimes with Schmidt and Dumart, sometimes with Creighton and Klukay. I don't remember who played where."

The Canadiens didn't have as much luck against Detroit, who beat them in a seven-game final to win their second-last Stanley Cup. They also would win in the following 1954-55 season.

That was Weiner Brown's big moment in hockey, until he climaxed a high - scoring senior career with the World Champion Belleville Macs in 1958.

He admits that shiftwork may keep him from some of his coaching commitments this coming year. "I told the directors that but they still said they wanted me," Brown says.

One Quintes Foundation director, Lionel Bolly, who has played on many teams with Brown, indicated some reasoning behind the coaching selection.

"Sure, we might be able to get a guy that could be at every game but he might not know as much hockey as Wayne either. And nobody can get along with players like Weiner does."

Brown is as optimistic as the foundation directors about prospects for the coming season. "It looks like we've got some new guys coming in — we'll be making trips to Oshawa and I know a couple of players with Junior A experience at Little Britain's Intermediate team."

Would the 41 - year - old Brown's duties be strictly confined to coaching?

"This time, there's no doubt about it," he said.

Last Step A Big One

Gerrard Farrell strides across the finish line Wednesday after winning the 2Sth running of the Ken Colling Memorial race. The Quinte Secondary School topped a field of 65 runners who competed in the four-and-a-half mile event.

TED WAITE

Rollins Sign Waite

Rollins' best defence could be a pretty fair offence as well. The defending Commercial Softball League champion signed Ted Waite to bolster their pitching staff but the fourth - year performer isn't exactly going to damage the team's offensive output.

While Waite had a less-than-spectacular pitching year last season, he managed to blossom into one of the league's top batsmen. His .413 average was second only to Larry Mavety's .454 mark. The pair will wind up as battery mates this season.

Playing with the rookie-studded Ellis Juniors last year Waite could manage only a 4-9 record, but Rollins are confident that he can regain his 1970 form which saw him lead the league with a 10-2 mark. That year he helped hurt the Juniors to the league championship, compiling a 2.10 earned-run average en route.

Farrell First In Saint Parade

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

Gerrard Farrell wasn't just in the number as the Saints came marching in. He was number one.

The grade 12 Quinte Secondary student out-distanced a field of 65 in the 29th annual Ken Colling Memorial Run held Wednesday. Farrell's performance highlighted a strong showing by the Quinte Quad distance runners, who swept four of the five top spots and placed ten contestants in the top 2.

It was almost a complete reversal for Farrell from last year when he dogged Paul Cory's footsteps for much of the four - and - a - half mile route before dropping back in the closing stages. This time he held the lead for almost all of the race, although challenged strongly by Trenton's Bart Bourassa during the first half.

"I didn't bother me setting the pace, but the wind was pretty strong in some spots", noted the first-time winner. He admitted that Bourassa, who finished second in the event, had been his main concern before the race. "Bart stayed right with me until Parrot drive, before I could open up a lead." Farrell finished the race with a 300-yard lead on his Trenton rival.

His winning time of 22:29.4 was just over a half-minute slower than Cory's 1970 record-setting mark of 21:44.4. Bourassa finished the race in 23:15.8 while Quinte's Ron Bell was third in 23:38.0.

Holding down fourth and fifth spots were Roger and Barry Ray of Quinte, while Trenton's Bruce Lowrey finished sixth. Rounding out the top ten runners were Ian Hayman (Quinte), Dave Irwin (Campbellford), Ivan Roblin (Quinte) and Lloyd Buchanan (Brighton).

Race organizer Brian MacKenzie estimated that 38 runners out of a starting field of 65 finished the race.

"What grade are you in? I don't want to have to have to shell out for another trophy too soon", bidded Cleo Colling as he presented a new trophy to Farrell. Cory necessitated a trophy purchase last year by gaining permanent possession of the award for his third consecutive win.

The race honors the late Ken Colling, former Intelligencer Sports Editor. The top 30 entries also received crests.

Travellers Overhaul Transport

Whitley Travellers managed to overhaul Quinte Transport to earn a 3-1 split in a Bay of Quinte exhibition soccer match Wednesday.

Quinte appeared to be in command of the game as they took a 3-0 lead at half-time. However, the Travellers completely reversed the trend in the second half with three unanswered goals. Both teams were comprised of a high percentage of minor soccer and high school soccer graduates.

Ed Hartnick, Ed Penley and Ian Forbes scored for the Transporters with Henry Senneveld getting two goals and Hubert Muyer one for Whitley.

BCI Sets Stage for Key Game

It will be a question of who wins the battle, as well as the war, when BCI and Moira clash in Bay of Quinte COSSA lacrosse Monday.

In addition to the fight between the two teams for first place, the individual goal scoring championship could be on the line.

BCI moved into sole possession of first place last night by trouncing Quinte 9-1. The win leaves Moira two points back of the leaders but with a game in hand.

Andy Bickette counted twice for the Collegians to vault him into a first - place tie with Moira's Dan Coulson in the goal scoring department. Both forwards have counted 10 times this year.

Other two-goal men for BCI were Steve Maracle and Steve Cowan, while Bob Page, Rob Turner and Neil Turner had one each. The lone Quinte goal was scored by Roger Chapman.

Spokane Again Allan Cup Threat

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Hockey may be the national sport of Canada, but for the second time in three years Americans are trying to steal the Allan Cup.

Spokane Jets became the first U.S.-based team to capture the cup when they won the Canadian senior hockey title two years ago. The Jets will be trying to regain the cup in a best-of-seven showdown with Barrie Flyers beginning this weekend.

All games will be played in the 5,000-seat Spokane Coliseum.

Spokane is not a newcomer to Canadian amateur hockey. The 1957 Spokane Flyers, the first American team ever to play for the Allan Cup, were defeated by Whitby Dunlops in four games in Toronto.

Spokane was long a member of the Western International Hockey League before taking five years out at the end of the 1950s and the start of the 1960s for a fling in the pro Western League. The city returned to the WIHL nine seasons back.

Now the league, which also includes the British Columbia cities of Trail, Cranbrook, Kimberley and Nelson, is regarded as the last stronghold of senior hockey in Western Canada.

The Jets are an experienced, well-prepared team and basically the same group which defeated Orillia Terriers in six games two years ago.

The Jets compiled a 33-13-2 record in breezing to the WIHL title this year. In the playoffs, they won 17 of 20 games, although one win in the first round of the WIHL Savage Cup final was later reversed in an off-ice protest.

The Jets needed the maximum seven games to get past Cranbrook in that series, but took care of league runner-up, Nelson, in five games in the cup final and breezed through Edmonton and then St. Boniface, Man., in the minimum eight games to capture the Western Canada Patton Cup. In the process they have won their last nine starts, four of which were on the road.

While Spokane is pretty much the same club it was in Allan Cup play two years ago, there have been some major additions.

It is the coach. Norm Johnson, the former Western League all-star centre, has replaced Al Rollins who took over the head coaching job of the WHL Salt Lake City Golden Eagles.

Most noteworthy additions have been forwards Ron Buxton, Brian Harper and Bob Trembecky, defencemen Dwight Carruthers and goalie Russ Gilday.

In the playoffs, Huston, Harper and pickup Ted Hargreaves, the former Canadian national team member who coached Nelson this season, have formed the Jets' most awesome line. They've scored 21 of Spokane's 43 goals in the last eight games. Harper has 17 goals in the playoffs, Huston has 14, plus 23 assists.

Suggests Pro Sports be Subject to Antitrust Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — All professional sports should be subject to antitrust law, "and let nature take its course," Wallace Byers told a Senate subcommittee Wednesday.

Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, said Congress could then "consider on the merits . . . specific practices" which could be exempt from the antitrust laws.

"The public-be-damned attitude so often attributed to professional sports is a direct result of its freedom from many basic restraints imposed by the antitrust laws," he said.

Byers was joined by two economists in calling for the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee to vote against a pending bill which would allow the American Basketball Association and the National Basketball Association to merge.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., (D-N.C.), subcommittee chairman, suggested the proposed bill be set aside pending the outcome of several disputes, including:

The Curt Flood baseball case now before the Supreme Court, the ABA's $200 million antitrust lawsuit against the NBA and NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy's investigation of Empries Corp. owner of the Cincinnati Royals.

B.C. and MDs at Odds

VICTORIA (CP) — British Columbia doctors appear to be heading for a crunch in their prolonged battle with the provincial government for a revised medical care schedule.

When a similar confrontation occurred in 1970, the fee-for-service doctors defused the situation by declaring a one-year moratorium on increases. The moratorium expired Jan. 1, 1972.

Now, after more than a year of off-and-on negotiations with the Social Credit administration, the province's 3,300 physicians seem determined to force the issue. But their chances of squeezing rate increases from a cost-conscious government seem remote.

Some doctors are calling for a demonstration of "doctor power" while others speak of opting out of the provincial medical care plan or compromising with a system of "balance billing."

It would appear the doctors have one of three choices: to accept the situation, adopt a system of balance billing or opt out of the medical care plan.

Under the Medical Services Act, a doctor who undertakes balance billing must first notify patients he intends to charge above the medical care plan schedule, and they must acknowledge and agree to the arrangement.

As the negotiations with the government drag on, some doctors appear to be growing restless, as evidenced by a recent call for unity by Dr. David Bishop of Vancouver, president-elect of the association.

In the same issue, another doctor said in a letter to the editor, "I would suggest that if the issue is freedom, the weapon is doctor power and the time is now."

One big public relations hammer the B.C. government has used during fee negotiations has been publication by the B.C. medical commission of the "blue book"—showing medical care payments for the fiscal year to doctors and medical clinics.

Some doctors are shown making gross earnings for the year of nearly $100,000.

Unity Loses

LONDON (AP) — Church of England clergymen and laity failed to approve Wednesday night proposals for ending 25-year wrangle over unity with the Methodists.

The church's general synod gave the plan a 65.M-per-cent majority—short of the 75 per cent needed.

Just before the vote Dr. Michael Ramsey, the Archbishop of Canterbury, urged the synod to support the unity plan.

The voting figures showed that 85 per cent of the bishops were in favor, 65.2 per cent of the clergy and 52.82 per cent of the laity. The motion also failed to get the necessary two-thirds majority of the clergy.

Action Deplored

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia appeal court judge said Wednesday two policemen "sank to a deplorable depth" by posing as a justice of the peace and a bail bondsman to get evidence against a bank robbery suspect.

Mr. Justice Angelo Branca condemned the actions of RCMP Sgt. Allen James Richards and Constable J. D. Kruse as "a new concept in police trickery."

Second Home

QUEENSTON, Ont. (CP) — The restored homestead from which Laura Secord slipped in warn British forces of an impending American attack in 1813 is to be opened to the public June 2. Premier William Davis will officiate at the dedication ceremonies.

Attends Funeral

OTTAWA (CP) — RCMP Commissioner W. L. Higgitt will attend the funeral of FBI director J. Edgar Hoover in Washington, the RCMP said Wednesday. A representative of the Canadian embassy in Washington also will be present.

Quebec Tops

OTTAWA (CP) — Of the $58 million allocated to training-on-the-job programs by the federal power department, Quebec received the biggest amount—$16,850,000—and the Yukon the smallest—$40,000. Ontario received $13,500,000.

Prison Project

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer flies to British Columbia today for a three-day visit during which he will inaugurate Canada's first minimum-wage work project for prisoners. The project at William Head Institution near Victoria will pay prisoners $1.75 an hour for construction of a penitentiary building.

Abortions Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Almost three times as many therapeutic abortions were performed in Canadian hospitals in 1971 as in 1970, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday. The number increased to 30,949 in 1971 from 11,132.

Minto

MINTO — Miss Edna Tasker, Clare and George and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Glassird and children of Sudbury were Sunday visitors of Mrs. Edith Edwards and Janice of Stirling.

Mrs. Lorne Hagerman spent a few days with Mrs. Esther Easton of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Courtney of Ottawa were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Courtney on Monday.

PM Seeking Quick Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau says the government would like quick parliamentary approval—"we would like to pass it in one day"—of legislation to provide for cabinet screening of foreign takeover bids.

He indicated to the Commons Wednesday there are no plans for any interim measures pending passage of the legislation.

One report Tuesday night said that the government's proposals could come up for second-reading debate as early as Friday.

Mr. Trudeau said he would consider a suggestion by Max Saltzman (NDP—Waterloo) that the Corporations Act be amended to insist on financial disclosures by firms with assets of $200,000, as opposed to the present $300,000.

George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) asked what the government intended to do about encouraging Canadians to invest in their own country.

Mr. Gray said the government will continue with policies designed to achieve this.

The same meaningless gobbledegook ... " said Mr. Hees.

Wrong Direction: Galt Firm

GALT (CP) — The federal foreign ownership policy drew brickbats from some spokesmen Wednesday in this city of 39,000 where industry is largely American-dominated.

"It is one more move in the wrong direction," said Keith Rapsey, president of Allen-Bradley Canada Ltd., a Canadian subsidiary of a Milwaukee manufacturer of electrical switches and motor controls.

Mr. Rapsey, the only Canadian among the five trustees of Allen-Bradley's U.S. and Canadian operations, said:

"Our Canadian chauvinists want us to believe that foreign businessmen think first of their home countries' political advantage rather than of making good business decisions. This may be true enough in the case of Russia, Cuba and China, but not in free countries.

"These our chauvinists talk of the millions of dollars drained from the Canadian economy. Actually, the national outward flow of dividends is about one-half of one per cent of our gross national product.

"That's money rent for all the development money that has been poured into Canada over the years. The whole issue has been blown up far beyond its legitimate proportions."

This city has been one of the beneficiaries of foreign development capital. Its work force is about 10,000. The degree of foreign domination of its industry has been estimated at 65 to 85 per cent.

James Chaplin, president of Canadian General-Tower Ltd., a manufacturer of vinyl products which is 25-per-cent U.S.-owned through Dow Chemical, said politicians forget "we cannot operate economically in a vacuum."

Potter on Health Costs

Kindly Doctor Seen as Menace

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's health minister sees the kindly, sympathetic family doctor as the biggest potential contributor to abuse of provincially - supported nursing homes.

Dr. Richard Potter said in an interview he believes that some doctors will lie to get their patients certified for nursing home care under the extended program which became effective April 1.

Dr. Potter, a general practitioner for 25 years in Beamsville before being elected to the legislature, said he personally has seen at least one example of such abuse.

A doctor had submitted a report to the health department on the condition of his patient. The patient was turned down as being "too healthy" to qualify for nursing home care assistance.

Then, said Dr. Potter, the physician submitted a second report "considerably different from the first," stating the patient was disabled to such an extent as to qualify.

"We've got to stamp out this kind of foolishness," Dr. Potter said.

The health minister is of two minds about the new extended nursing care program, under which the province pays 39 of the standard $12.50-a-day rate for care in any of Ontario's 462 nursing homes.

"During my 25 years of practice in Belleville, I've seen many people financially crippled and ruined because of the high costs of caring for a chronically ill spouse or relative. Hopefully, as the program develops, this will become a thing of the past."

But he says he worries that some persons in good health will abuse the new program by "retiring" in nursing homes, taking up beds that should be used for those who legitimately require nursing care—and pushing up the already high costs of the program.

Dr. Potter said it will cost Ontario $134 million to bring nursing home expenses under the provincial health insurance commission. That includes $38 million for extended care, including drugs, $54 million for welfare patients and $52 million for regular care of the elderly.

The net cost to the province, after deducting the money saved by removing some patients to nursing homes from hospitals and other government-care institutions, is $31 million, he said.

Dr. Potter believes one way to keep costs down is to limit rigidly the number of nursing homes in the province. He said he is adamant about granting licences for nursing homes solely on the basis of need.

"One thing is for sure, if we allow more homes to be built, they'll be filled as soon as they're up."

The health department, he said, will consider granting a permit for a new nursing home only if it can be demonstrated that a need exists for more accommodation in a given area.

Reeve Questions Validity Of School Wrecking Vote

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

Picton reeve Albert Piroth has questioned the validity of the deciding vote for the demolition of the former Mary Street school, basing his objection on what he feels could be a misinterpretation of a section of the Municipal Act.

He said Monday night in seeking a 24-hour postponement of the demolition to afford his solicitor time to examine the Act and ensure council is not "moving forward a hasty decision."

Reeve Piroth, claimed section 196 of the Municipal Act indicates that when a tie vote exists and no mayor votes last, the vote should be negative.

He added the Act implied, in his opinion, that if four councillors support a resolution or a motion and four oppose it then the mayor's vote should be considered negative.

"If this interpretation is correct, then the motion was lost," he said. The motion calling for demolition of the school building split council in a four-four recorded tie vote after councillor's approved a two-year lease of the cells at the former county jail at a rental of $300 a month.

Mayor Ackerman's "yes" vote broke the tie and when asked by reeve Piroth when demolition would begin she replied "at the crack of dawn."

"Where you have an issue such as this involving renovations to Mary Street school versus demolition and 97 per cent of the council favor having the plan reviewed by a town engineer for the possibility of adapting the building for town offices and police offices and 50 per cent of the council are for immediate demolition, it would seem prudent to me that the mayor, who is placed in the invidious position of having to cast deciding vote, would vote against the motion because it should be abundantly clear that the majority of council feel strong herself, is not in favor of the motion," said Mr. Piroth yesterday.

"If given time, I feel that precedents must have been set in this regard and therefore I have asked my solicitor to look into this matter and so advise," explained the reeve.

He noted "it would seem prudent" to review the demolition tender accepted by council to ascertain if the wrecker is still willing to do the job at the price originally submitted.

Reeve Piroth said this year's budget holds no funds for demolition costs and questioned a suggestion made in council by Mayor Ackerman that money from the parking meter fund could be spent for the project.

The paved area surrounding the school building has been in use for several years as a free public parking lot and Mayor Ackerman implied the demolition could be described as an improvement to the lot.

Reeve Piroth said he did not feel that money from the parking meter fund could be used to demolish a building which is approximately 35 years old and holds an equity of more than $35,000.

Town clerk Andrew Jarvis studied council yesterday, however, that the paved area surrounding the former school is by bylaw, a parking lot and said improvements can be made to it from the parking meter fund which now holds a $8,000 reserve. He commented he already had directed a letter to the wrecker who was to have demolished the school last summer informing him that council has approved the razing of the building.

Reeve Piroth remarked yesterday that he was advised that a renovation of the school would have received "favorable consideration" as a winter works program and said he had urged this last year but was told an architect or a consulting engineering firm must approve the plans before the project would be considered.

"I find this rather difficult to accept because I can assure you we didn't have an architect or firm of consulting engineers to draw up plans on the renovations of St. Mary Magdalene Church into a museum. We had a local contractor who volunteered his services gratis to the county to supervise the renovations to this building and he drew up the necessary plans. This was submitted to government and the county was most fortunate in receiving assistance of over $4,000 and to the best of my knowledge the county cost was something like $15,000," said reeve Piroth.

"So here you've got two situations that are diametrically opposed," he commented.

Reeve Piroth said council should avoid "rushing into decisions" and explore possible alternatives such as renovation of the school building under a winter works program.

He observed if the building is torn down the value of the site must be restored to use through grading and surfacing.

"If we need additional parking space you can put approximately 50 cars in the area behind the school and overlooking the park and that is already surfaced, so from a parking point of view you have the site," he asserted.

The parking lot, he now seldom used, is vacant in reeve Piroth's opinion because it lies in an unmanned area where vandalism is likely.

If town offices and a police office were built at the site he said he felt confident shoppers would park there.

Reeve Piroth said he had no quarrel with any argument that the front of the old school is "an unsightly mess" but added estimates were obtained from two contractors to replace the front of the building. One estimate totalled $5,500 and the other $8,000.

He said the front could have been replaced with an attractive veneer for these figures and would have blended well with its surroundings.

"I would like the people in the town of Picton to see what this building could look like if we were to spend approximately $15,000 of the taxpayers' money, assuming a grant of approximately $4,000 in a winter works program," he declared. "I am sure when all is said and done this is the route they would wish us to take," he stressed.

Reeve Piroth said he would rather see the old school leased to any of the local service clubs or organizations for a dollar a year than watch it razed.

He felt council should investigate the renovation costs of the building before it back up cells, since this item represented a major expense in the original plans.

A petition circulated among ratepayers last summer urging a cost comparison of renovation of the school with other alternatives, gained more than 1,100 signatures and more than $5,000 was pledged for the construction of a new front wall.

Mr. Piroth said he assumed ratepayers would still honor these pledges and said this money, coupled with possible grants under a winter works program, would permit the town to have new offices for "just a few thousand dollars."

He added renovation of the school would create employment this winter and emphasized 18 men were sought to help in the project before it was scrapped, if council is eager to work instead of accepting welfare.

"Let's renovate this building of ours and have it as a monument to the future," he urged.

Labor Committee Wants School Left

PICTON (Staff) — The Picton and district labor committee has directed a resolution to town council urging reconsideration of the demolition of the former Mary St. School.

The newly formed labor group met for the second time last night at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute and in its resolution to be forwarded to council, observed it "deplores" the decision to raze the school building in view of the petition which gained such wide support for renovation of the building when circulated last summer.

Members of the labor committee agreed the school might be renovated under a winter works program creating employment for persons now receiving welfare, "One spokesman for the committee said several members had seen the petition, spearheaded by a citizens' committee suggesting renovation of the school building as a possible alternative to its demolition.

Among other issues discussed at the meeting were quarrying at the Sandbanks and pollution of Picton bay. It was observed that controlled mining of the sand should be continued and no action taken to jeopardize the existance of the cement plant. Concern was expressed for pollution of Picton Bay and members asked if any remedial action is being taken.

A labor committee spokesman added that apparently nothing is being done to correct the problem.

Charlie's Production Steals London Show

LONDON (AP) — A spectacular musical version of Gone With the Wind opened to ovations in London Wednesday night and Rhett Butler's phrase made it truly memorable.

As the burning of Atlanta got under way, Charlie the horse suffered a large-scale attack of first-night nerves which they had to clear up in the interval.

"My God," said a spokesman for Drury Lane Theatre, "Charlie has been rehearsing for four months without ever showing signs of stage fright. "It was his big chance, and he blew it."

The first night audience overcame giggles at Charlie's discomfiture, however, and erupted in cheers and applause for Joe Layton's production of the Margaret Mitchell epic of the American Civil War.

Charlie has an understudy named Nellie ready to step into the breach if his weakness persists.

As for the reviewers, the musical met a tribunale of a bore, depending on which newspaper critics you read.

But it's spectacular, they all agreed, and should be in for a long run.

What the Stars Say

By JEANNE DIXON
Friday, May 5

Aries (March 21-April 19): Wind up your workweek by bringing together those people who have promised to help. A long-term activity may be near a final stage.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Old investments can be converted to current resources. Plan to clear up any past errors; dispose of useless possessions.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Learning is more than its own reward; you attract favorable notice with this effort. Be careful; short shows all, make your best appearance.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Follow your intuition through this complex and busy day of adverse activities. Most of what is settled now stays that way.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23): Personal affairs compete with work responsibilities for time and attention. Avoid getting involved in the venture of relatives or friends.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Where you care about what is happening, do what you can while you have the chance. There's a time limit on nearly everything.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Younger people are the center of attention. Cheer up and live happily thru a busy but normal day.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Unexpected expenses occurs for one-time-only reasons. Make the most of an excellent day for home and family here are happy surprises.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Find a different course of alternatives to your regular habits. Catch up on correspondence and neglected friendships.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you are going to rearrange funds or settle financial deals, get those things done early. Speculation and last-minute ideas are not favored.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be practical today, giving most consideration to finishing what you have started. Fresh starts need further planning.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): It's a long and confusing day. Quiet investigation produces heavier results. Romantic interest sparkles with surprise.

To Your Good Health

Air Is Warmed By Nose-breathing

By G. C. THOSTESON MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I know it's a little late to ask for this year, but for next winter: We hear about walking for good health. Is there any danger in brisk walks from inhaling when the temperature is below freezing?—A.B.S.

Depends on whether you mean breathing through your nose or your mouth.

When you breathe through the nose, the air is warmed by a remarkable set of "air conditioners" called turbinates.

These are bony structures, three on each side of the nose, and covered by a membrane which has a rich blood supply. Air passes past the turbinates to be warmed.

If, in the midst of strenuous activity, you do a little breathing through the mouth, that isn't likely to be harmful. However, too much mouth breathing can do some mischief.

For one thing, cold air can cause spasm of the bronchial tubes and make breathing more difficult. It can make the throat dry, too. Indirectly, with some individuals, this can provoke an anginal pain; chest pain, that is.

Breathing cold air is ultimately warmed in the lungs but too much of it can be uncomfortable.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My little boy loves eggs but his daddy won't let him eat them more than once a week. Are eggs too fattening or dangerous? How bad is it for a person to eat eggs?—Mrs. T.C.

Eggs are a fine source of protein, and I do only under the most unusual circumstances that anyone gets too much protein. Eggs, however, are high in cholesterol. Well, the yolk is high in it, but in my opinion the many about eggs and cholesterol has been overemphasized all out of proportion. It is valid principally in older people who might have high levels of cholesterol in the first place and I see no reason why the average healthy young person shouldn't eat eggs.

Controlling one's cholesterol is one thing; jumping to the conclusion that you shouldn't eat eggs whether that's once a week is carrying the idea a bit too far.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any possible danger of formation of kidney stones from the oxalic acids in such greens as kale, collards, turnip tops, mustard greens, etc.? I eat these often and drink the pot liquor which has a laxative effect for me. Do you consider it unwise to eat such greens once or twice a week?—E.A.L.

If you are not a "stone former," I see no objection to eating the greens once or twice a week. If you have had kidney stones before, that's different. Some stones are oxalates, others are uratses. If you have or have had an oxalate stone, avoid the greens.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 18 and have been using tampons for over a year. What I'd like to know is whether it is safe to wear tampons when expecting your period in a day or two, to be sure that I won't get caught on a date in case the period comes early?—S.F.

Yes. It's safe.

Spokesman Denies Ford Tried to Placate WCB

TORONTO (CP) — The Ford Motor Co. Ltd. did not pull out of a committee of industries critical of the Workmen's Compensation Board in an effort to curry favor with the board, a company executive said Wednesday.

John Carter told a legislative committee investigating the WCB that he and the company agreed with criticisms in a brief prepared in March of 1970, but "I was surprised at the language used."

He also denied that the company was influenced by an appeal it had launched against a $280,000 WCB levy for violation of safety standards. The company subsequently won the appeal.

Mr. Carter said he was involved in both the preparation of the appeal and the decision not to participate in the committee brief but said those two facts were coincidental.

In October, 1969, the Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd., International Harvester, General Motors, Ford, Burlington Steel, Chrysler of Canada Ltd., American Motors Ltd. and the Steel Co. of Canada decided to prepare a brief outlining common problems and recommendations and present it to the minister of labor.

In March, 1970, after a draft of the brief was prepared, it was accepted by four of the group, Alcan dropped out saying the questions did not affect it, General Motors vetoed the draft and Ford also wished the brief revised.

The brief said the board had "become so concerned with improving its image in the area of initial adjudication that accuracy of adjudication has suffered."

Kenneth Gerrard of Stelco, who chaired the manufacturers' meetings, said that instead of submitting the brief to the minister of labor, the group decided to submit it to the Canadian Manufacturers Association. He told the inquiry most of the members of the CMA who studied it thought it was "too tough."

Hospital, MD Negligent

TORONTO (CP) — A man injured in a motorcycle accident in March, 1969, has been awarded $41,945.62 and costs against York County Hospital Corp. and Dr. William J. Vail, a surgeon who practises in Newmarket and is on the hospital staff.

Mr. Justice G. A. Addy found Dr. Vail guilty of serious breaches of his duty as a physician toward David William MacDonald, 20, who underwent three amputations after gangrene developed in his left leg.

"I further find that his (Dr. Vail's) negligence was the cause of the gangrene which led to the amputations," Mr. Justice Addy said.

Mr. Justice Addy said the failure of the nurses employed at the hospital to notify a doctor of radical changes that took place in Mr. MacDonald's condition constitutes negligence for which the hospital is responsible. He found Dr. Vail and the hospital equally at fault.

OSSTF Can't Discipline Critic

TORONTO (CP) — The relations and discipline committee of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation may hold a hearing on the professional conduct of a teacher who criticized the federation's general secretary but may not discipline him, the Divisional Court ruled Wednesday.

It was the first decision handed down by the three-member court, established to hear appeals from the decisions of administrative bodies.

The court was told Toronto teacher Craig Anderson sent a letter to Premier William Davis telling him he did not agree with OSSTF general secretary Donald Fisher, who sent the premier a congratulatory telegram after Mr. Davis' October election victory.

Giving judgment for the Divisional Court, Mr. Justice Frank Donnelly said the OSSTF committee cannot discipline Mr. Anderson and can only report its findings at the annual meeting of the federation.

He reassured Vincent Kelly, counsel for Mr. Anderson, that the committee does not have the power to recommend the cancellation of Mr. Anderson's teaching certificate.

Fraud Trial Opens

A tangled web of events was unwound in provincial court yesterday, as the conspiracy trial of four area youths opened before Judge H. B. Hunter of Cardinal, Ont.

James Sheldon Zebedee, 21, Robert Thomas Hunter, 18, and William James Bowers, 22, all of RR 5, Trenton, and Rabdal Gary Tritten, 20, of 11A Mill St., Stirling, are charged with conspiracy to commit fraud.

Bowers also faces a charge of uttering a forged document.

First witness John Graham of Quinte Sanitation Services Ltd. testified a quantity of payroll cheques and a cheque writing machine had been stolen from the company's Dundas Street offices last year, during a break-in.

Witnesses from area banks described how youths, identified in court as Bowers and Hunter, opened accounts in the amount of $1.

Assistant Crown Attorney Glen Deline introduced 19 bank pass books, issued by banks in Belleville and Trenton. Two witnesses, in whose names these accounts were opened, testified they had no knowledge of these accounts. Both admitted loss of identification before the accounts were opened.

Colin Cook, accountant at the Quinte Mall branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, testified he personally opened one of these accounts on Dec. 11. Another account was opened by another youth the same morning. Both said they were employees of Quinte Sanitation.

Employees of several banks testified they were alerted to be on the lookout for certain Quinte Sanitation payroll cheques . . . that they had been reported stolen.

Mr. Cook told the court when a youth whom he identified as Bowers returned to the bank several days later with a Quinte Sanitation payroll cheque for $126.61, he instructed tellers to stall him while police were called.

The youth became excited and had to be subdued. "He made several violent threats against myself and two of my staff," Mr. Cook told the court.

The bank accountant also said he observed two youths, whom he identified as Zebedee and Hunter and two others, observing the transactions. They left when the scuffle ensued.

Zebedee, also identified by North Front Street Bank of Montreal manager Anthony Porter as the driver of a car Bowers entered after opening an account, was arrested, along with Hunter and Tritten, in the Quinte Mall washrooms. The youths were followed by a Bank of Nova Scotia teller and pointed out to Belleville city police Constable Harry Cox, who made the arrest.

Trial will resume June 21.

Defence attorneys are Douglas Boyle, Louis Marsakas and Robert Temple.

Mr. Deline said before trial commenced, he expected to call more than 20 witnesses. Most are employees of banks and one trust company in the Belleville and Trenton area.

Dentist Injured

A Belleville dentist suffered minor injuries yesterday, when the car he was driving, went off the road near the Station Street CNR freight yards, slipped down an embankment and came to rest on the tracks.

Dr. Ray Miles Ward, 78, of 329 Foster Avenue, is in Belleville General Hospital recovering from scalp lacerations.

Watching the Final Act

Construction Safety Inspector Alex J. Beaudrie of Belleville and Harold Westendorp of Harold's Demolition, Kingston, watch crane crews rapidly demolish the Ritchie Memorial. The former nurses' residence, built in 1926, went under the wrecker's hammer early yesterday as part of a Belleville General Hospital improvement program. A second hall, the Mary Ritchie Residence, fell April 4.

Stirling Budget Holds the Line

STIRLING (Staff) — Despite a sharply increased demand for educational purposes, Stirling village council has been able to hold the tax line for 1972.

Village clerk treasurer W. L. Pollock stated this morning that the mill rate struck Tuesday night by council was no little changed from last year that it was "hardly worth mentioning."

The total commercial rate for Stirling this year is 24.75 mills as compared with 24.60 last year, while the residential rate is down slightly at 22.45 mills as compared with 22.50 mills in 1972.

A breakdown of the mill rate shows the levy for municipal purposes will be 8.95 mills for commercial as compared with 10.80 mills last year, and 7.55 mills for residential as compared with 9.40 mills in 1971.

The levy for education will be 8.95 mills for commercial as compared with 7.70 mills last year, and 8.95 for residential as compared with an even 7 mills last year.

The county rate for both commercial and residential is 5.82 mills as compared with 6.1 mills last year.

Mr. Pollock said the village council was able to use a surplus built up over the years to offset the increased levy for education and thus hold the tax line.

"The council deserves credit in being able to hold the tax line," Mr. Pollock said.

The village's bill for education this year is up $18,000 over that of last year, according to the clerk-treasurer.

The year's tax levy is based on an assessment of $7,554,494. Property in Stirling is assessed at full value.

No costly municipal construction works are planned for the village this year, although an addition to Stirling's sewage lagoon system could get under way this fall.

Quinte Rotarians Want Nothing But Best for Conventioneers

By ERIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

What happens when a city of 35,000 plays host to 1,000 conventioneers who have been pampered by Canada's finest hotels?

It begins by calling on its neighbors to supply manpower and resources. Then it looks at larger convention sites to determine what can be feasibly duplicated. Finally, and most important, it places emphasis on its own distinctive characteristics, attendant hazards notwithstanding.

When Belleville was selected as the locale for Rotary's annual district conference — only the second time the affair has moved out of Toronto's Royal York Hotel — panic set in. Chairman Albert Ward of Trenton warned his cohorts:

"We're going to make goofs, some of them dillies."

But, he added, "Let's make them genuine, not because of lack of attention. Let's try to make our mistakes humorous."

With this theme in mind, 250 Rotarians from five local clubs set out to stage Belleville's first, large - scale convention, opening today and rounding through Sunday.

Committees headed by perhaps 50 key persons were appointed to deal with various aspects of planning, covering such areas as accommodations, meals, transportation, assorted convention events and hospitality.

They enlisted the co-operation of the city's four major hotels — the Four Seasons, the Sun Valley, the Black Hawk and the Park Lane — blocking 350 rooms for visitors who would be coming from as far away as Guelph.

Quinte merchants were approached to lend support in whatever way they could, whether by making contributions or by granting privileges.

Anyone else who could help out was readily encouraged, with the result that Loyalist College, Belleville parks board and many others are all contributing time and effort to make the convention a success.

Rotarians registering at their hotels will be presented with small attache cases filled with information brochures, maps, key chains, a list of their hosts' names and addresses — even a pack of golf tees. And somewhere in the case will be a can of that pre-

Last Minute Primping

The Royal Canadian Legion building on Pinnacle Street will be housing many events of the International Rotary convention. A canopy has been added to the entrance and a Rotary sign has been hoisted high on the front surface of the building overlooking the street. Al Dursnd, manager of the building, makes some last minute touches to flowers surrounding the hall.

Strike Talks Stall

TORONTO (CP) — Optimism engendered by the first face-to-face talks for a week faded today as civic officials and negotiators for striking outside workers talked through the night with no immediate sign of a breakthrough.

Early in the morning W. H. Dickie, assistant deputy minister of labor, said there was some discussion but not, as yet, "any movement."

Meanwhile, the city's medical officer of health, G. F. Moss, said the emergency garbage dumps established in parks have become a "touch-and-go" proposition.

Dr. Moss said the dumps are starting to deteriorate and said he doesn't "want to see any more garbage in the parks."

Four Municipalities Move to Pull Out

By IAN ROBERTSON, Staff Reporter

After more than a year of precarious existence the future of Quinte Planning Board is highly in question as a result of overnight developments.

Charges of interference by Queen's Park representatives, and a local member of the legislature were made last night following notice that the strength of the board may be reduced from eight member municipalities to four. The board was originally composed of nine municipal bodies.

Last night, the town of Trenton, village of Brighton and townships of Brighton and Murray, formally withdrew their support from the board. No representatives of the four were present.

One source said the four municipalities held a closed-door meeting 10 days ago in Trenton.

Four letters, all identical except for the names of the municipalities concerned were received in a collective package delivered from Trenton's town offices.

Two were dated April 24, one April 27 and Trenton's on May 1.

A fifth blow to the future of the board came yesterday afternoon when official word was received from Toronto, that the village of Stirling's bid to get out of membership on the board, had been approved by provincial department of municipal affairs minister Darcy McKeough.

In the wake of last night's developments, the board appointed a delegation consisting of remaining municipality heads, to contact Quinte MPP Dr. R. F. Potter, to arrange a meeting with Darcy McKeough. These delegates are planning board chairman and Sidney Township Reeve Jack M. Bain, Belleville Mayor J. Russell Scott, Thurlow Township Reeve Horace Casey and Frankford Reeve W. F. Rose.

At last night's meeting the remaining four municipalities three of which made up the former Belleville and Suburban Planning Board, voted to carry on the functions of the area board.

As well, representatives felt it would be in their advantage to continue offering assistance to the towns of Trenton, Brighton, as well as Murray and Brighton Townships.

Belleville Alderman Arnold Orr said if such support were withdrawn before an official stand was taken by Queen's Park, such a move might provide just the ammunition needed to label the QPB uncooperative.

"Don't give them any excuse or alibi," board's co-chairman warned.

Although board officials say they are prepared to carry on at the reduced rate, they can neither approve leasing of office space, autos, or staff hiring plans, until the status of the board is announced by Queen's Park.

News Briefs

Seven Segregated

KINGSSTON (CP) — Seven prisoners at Millhaven institution have been placed in segregated cells following a protest Wednesday night in which an estimated $4,000 damage was done. The men, whose names have not been released, were protesting what they called lack of psychiatric care for another prisoner. Millhaven director D. J. Clark issued a statement Thursday saying the prisoner had been seen frequently by psychiatrists.

Referee Penalized

RECIFE, Brazil (Reuter) — Referee Jose Machado, who lost his shorts during a soccer match near here last Sunday, was arrested for "outrage against modesty and lack of decorum." Machado were no underpants but when his belt broke at a moment that might have led to a goal, he had to "choose between modesty and football laws and chose the latter," he told reporters.

Wallace Wins Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — George C. Wallace got the springboard he sought in his Tennessee presidential primary but the light voter turnout raised questions about how far it will carry him. The Alabama governor won 68 per cent of the popular vote.

21 Girls Drown

KHANIA, Crete (AP) — A fishing boat that capsized Thursday, sending 21 high school girls to their deaths, did not have a permit to carry passengers, authorities said today.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A high-pressure system covers most of the province this morning, bringing prospects of sunshine today. Early - morning temperatures ranged from low 20s up north to near 40 in southern Ontario. Afternoon readings should reach the 60 mark in southwestern Ontario and mostly 50s in the northern regions. On Saturday, two disturbances coming far from Manitoba and Kansas will likely link, causing unsettled weather later in the day.

Takeover Law No Aid Says Davis

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis criticized Ottawa's new foreign investment policies Thursday, saying the federal approach is negative and will do nothing substantially to correct the problem.

In his first detailed comment on the draft federal legislation, Mr. Davis told the legislature there "is much that is not covered by the new policy" and they control "only a minor source of the growth of foreign investment in Canada."

Mr. Davis said the policy does "nothing to expand the opportunities for Canadians to participate in their economy, as managers, entrepreneurs and owners." Established United States-controlled organizations "will be allowed to expand by any route they desire, except by takeover."

Labor Chiefs Leave Court Because Riot Squad Present

QUEBEC (CP) — Three leaders of the union common front in last month's public service strike said delays and the presence of riot police caused them to walk out of a court hearing Thursday before arguments were heard on contempt citations against them.

Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor, likened the atmosphere in the court to that of a "banana republic."

"We're not going to stand trial before that damned squad," he told reporters outside the court, referring to a dozen riot-equipped provincial policemen. At a later news conference all three leaders categorically refused to defend themselves in a court where a riot squad assures order.

The courtroom was crowded with more than 100 supporters of the labor leaders, intermittently cheering, singing and chanting "On lache pas"—We won't give up.

But they became silent when Mr. Laberge told them "no demonstrations" because authorities would use the slightest reason to expel them.

Provinces Propose Pollution Penalties

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's legislatures are moving toward costly penalties for industries that pollute the environment. But jobs may be at stake.

A bill providing for penalties ranging from $5,000 to $10,000 for every day or part of a day on which an offence occurs was given second reading, approval in principle, in the Nova Scotia house Thursday.

It established a department of the environment with powers to protect nature, develop policy and programs and co-ordinate programs of other departments.

It came a day after Saskatchewan introduced a bill to set up a similar department with fines of up to $5,000 plus $500 a day for polluters and with powers to force a production halt at any plant that causes pollution.

Meanwhile, in New Brunswick, where some pulp and paper mills say costly anti-pollution measures may force the closedown of the lumber leaders, internationally cheering, singing and chanting "On lache pas"—We won't give up.

But they became silent when Mr. Leberge told them "no demonstrations" because authorities would use the slightest reason to expel them.

No More Slingeing!

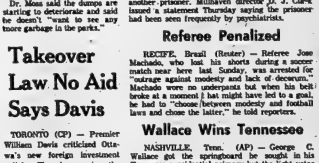
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — "They're not going to slinge any more out of the Newfoundland people," Finance Minister John C. Crosbie said Thursday night in asking the legislature to approve the provincial government's proposed purchase of a giant linerboard mill and budget operation.

Mr. Crosbie used several Newfoundland expressions in explaining how the government would pay companies headed by industrial promoter John C. Doyle, up to $5 million for the mill under construction at Stephenville, and the Southern Labrador logging enterprise.



During a three-hour speech, launching second reading of a bill to authorize the government to complete the deal, Mr. Crosbie made frequent use of the wordword "slinge."

The word, thought to be a variation of slinch, meaning to sneak away, also is used here to describe a shady deal or someone adept at making a profit without investment.

War's Legacy

South Vietnamese youths at Hue stand behind bicycle recently, awaiting transportation south to DaNang where they hope to be placed in former American facilities.

Jets Try to Block Drive to Hue

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese jet fighters blew up 16 North Vietnamese tanks and three heavy 130-millimetre field guns being moved south towards Hue in an apparent build-up for a drive on the former imperial capital, military sources here said today.

The sources said that pilots flying the jets also reported knocking out four anti-aircraft guns and killing more than 70 North Vietnamese troops in strikes around mid-day Thursday, about 23 miles northwest of Hue.

U.S. B-52s, each capable of carrying 30 tons of bombs, hit the same area during the night, the U.S. command said. Three B-52 missions also were flown against North Vietnamese troop concentrations in the mountains 13 and 15 miles west and southwest of Hue.

The sighting of tanks and heavy guns down across the salt flats beside Hue-Quang Tri One between the captured far north city of Quang Tri and Hue gave the first indication of what weapons the North Vietnamese plan using against the old city.

Intelligence experts here predict the offensive on Hue could come next week but until now they have been saying it would be limited to artillery barrages.

In the mountains west and southwest of Hue, the North Vietnamese have overrun two key fire bases in the course of their five-week offensive into South Vietnam. They regularly shell three other bases, presumably to divert attention from preparations for a push out of the mountains in co-ordination with the expected attack on Hue from the north.

In Hue, itself, morale was gradually improving as defence lines were made firm and the new and highly popular commanding general, Lt.-Gen. Ngo Quang Truong, ordered civil servants to be back at their desks in the city by Saturday at the latest.

Camp Becomes Classroom

While school boards create multi-million dollar buildings to teach students is, students last week, went out of their way to leave the building and take advantage of outdoor education.

You couldn't do it all year round, but in the warmer weather, Camp Maxinaw, near Bon Echo Park and Cloyne, is offering opportunities to get into nature instead of getting into a nature text.

The Moira students, 15 boys and two teacher staff, stayed at the camp from Monday afternoon until Thursday morning, experiencing science and history.

While there, the boys were shown some of the 350 acres of the camp, with attention paid to a sugar bush, the Indian paintings on Bon Echo Rock and an old dam and saw mill.

The trio responsible for the camp has been changing its philosophy to some extent.

For 30 years, the camp was used exclusively as a summer camp for boys, and lay dormant during spring and fall.

Younger administration has taken over the camp and now the site is being used year-round.

The company, called Wilderness Educational Resources Limited, stretches along the Maxinaw lakeshore, offers a wide variety of educational areas.

A spokesman for the camp said, "we have a brochure that can be made available to the teacher before the class comes up, and from it areas of interest can be chosen. That way everything can be arranged and be ready to go as soon as the class arrives."

Canoeing and hiking take a great part of the time with the boys cooking their own meals.

Supervision is always near, but the lion's share of responsibility is placed on the shoulders of the boys.

Two senior students were placed in charge of the cabins housing the group.

"It is a complete learning experience," said a camp spokesman. "Responsibility goes hand in hand with learning here."

During the evenings, "rap sessions" and group discussions filled the dark hours before turning in. On the final night folk singing brought to a close their final night at Camp Maxinaw.

This was the third expedition for Moira students.

The first was held last year at the same time and last September the student council from the school visited the camp for three days.

The plan is catching on. Outdoor education is becoming a reality for the staff of the camp.

Bookings from schools as far off as Toronto are keeping the camp busy for every available week until June.

With June comes the opening of the summer camp for boys.

Board Pull-outs Well Kept Secret

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — In the works for two to three years, the controversial blitzkrieg by Trenton, Murray Township, Brighton and Brighton Township to get out of Quinte Planning Board ranks as a first. It had the quartet of municipalities to establish their own planning area.

In conversation April 26 a representative of one of the municipalities hinted at last night's action, saying "Trenton and her friends are planning a big surprise for Quinte Planning Board." Stirling, at that time, apparently was drafting its pull-out plan too.

Present for detail on the "surprise" (planned as a surprise even for planning board chairman Jack Bush) replies were given that it would be a secret. Participants (Trenton and friends) were sworn to secrecy.

About the same time representatives of the four municipalities gathered in secrecy to discuss their planning futures. Trenton was the leading force with Brighton village and township and Murray township were included in the QPB framework. Mayor McDonald said it is partially a question of services being extended out from Trenton to the hinterland. Such an extension would include Sidney Township.

Councillor Ted Parker said the municipalities for the only reasons he would be against QPB, although he refused to support the withdrawal decision, would be the tendering procedures and "strong arm tactics."

He mentioned the feeling here that "maybe only trade the swamp Trenton (and the others) . . . they all the shots." He said QPB prefers change within QPB rather than a withdrawal from it.

The councillor said the argument that Trenton's growth to the west is not a consideration in part because Brighton village and township and Murray township were not even considered a the four municipalities decision-making session.

The role of Mayor McDonald marks an about-face for him. He said today the reason for the withdrawal is that "Trenton wants to work with her neighbors". He claimed that Trenton's growth is to the west and the town will be able to develop faster "with less expense by establishment of a four-municipality planning area.

He expressed intention to work for a Trenton-Murray-Brighton and Brighton Township planning unit. He said "we would have to have a staff the way they (QPB) do," anticipating hiring of one planner and one draftsman.

Last night's action was taken without definition of an alternative by the municipalities. However, all have indicated the establishment of the QPB levies in their 1972 budgets regardless of where the planning will take place.

That Trenton's growth is to the west is not a new concept — it is the leading reason why Brighton village and township and Murray township were included in the QPB framework. Mayor McDonald said it is partially a question of services being extended out from Trenton to the hinterland. Such an extension would include Sidney Township.

Councillor Ted Parker said the only reasons he would be against QPB, although he refused to support the withdrawal decision, would be the tendering procedures and "strong arm tactics."

School Days?

Camp Maxinaw might not, on the surface, come across as much of a classroom, but for Moira Secondary School students and dozens of other schools throughout the province, that is what it is. Responsibility and learning go hand in hand in the nature classroom, where students explore and find for themselves. Fifteen Moira students toured the park for three days this week.

Shulman Charges Bay Is 'Grossly Polluted'

The Bay of Quinte is "grossly polluted" with industrial wastes and the arsenic in Moira Lake is causing a higher than average incidence of stomach cancer in the area, Dr. Morton Shulman charged last week.

The NDP member of the Ontario legislature raised the question of pollution at the April 24 meeting of the standing committee on supply while the ministry of the environment estimates were being debated.

Ontario Water Resources Commission tests of the Bay of Quinte taken over a recent 90-day period show the coliform count (an indicator of bacterial contamination) to be 5,000 times the safe count, Dr. Shulman said.

He cited a photograph in The Intelligencer as evidence that industrial wastes from an optical company is pouring into the bay through a creek south of the Four Seasons Hotel.

And he did the case rate in the Madoc area is "still considerably higher than anywhere else in the province" as a result of arsenic leaching into the river from the pile of tailings left at the site of the former Delora-Stellite mine at Delora.

Hon. James Auld, minister of the environment, admitted that the 1971 arsenic level in Moira Lake was .08 parts per million "which is still slightly in excess of the drinking water quality objective of .05.

"But there are 300 parts per million at the bottom of that lake - and anyone who happens to dive in and take one gulp of that is dead. It is as simple as that," said Dr. Shulman.

Officials of the department said the old arsenic residues on the mine property at Delora have been "successfully sealed" and streams flowing through the property diverted to prevent leaching.

Dr. Shulman said the stream is still passing through the property and the deposits are to be encapsulated because they are so deep the arsenic is seeping into the ground water.

Dr. Shulman cited the Hastings general hospital cancer as a major source of Bay of Quinte pollution. He was told that a waste treatment plant will be completed at the industrial site in 1973.

The red water from the optical plant was probably the result of accidental spills because of breakdown of equipment, Mr. Auld told the committee.

And the pollution at Union Carbide has improved by 90 per cent since a dissolved oxygen was installed last November, Dr. Shulman was told.

Mr. Auld said that Ontario is 15 years ahead of every other jurisdiction, in coping with water pollution.

"If everybody else is 15 years behind us, God help us all," replied Dr. Shulman.

"I think it is very clear to anyone who has been down to Belleville that the Ontario Water Resources Commission just isn't taking it seriously down there," he added.

He has also served on many Canadian boards, relating to farm economies.

Scarborough College, to which Prof. Campbell has been appointed head, is a constituent college of the University of Toronto. Its nearly 2,000 students are in Arts and Science.

Rink Gets Grant

A community centres grant in the amount of $20,000 for the Dick Ellis Rink in West Belleville has been mailed from Toronto, according to Dr. Richard T. Potter, member for Quinte riding.

The grant, made available through the Community Centres Branch of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food, was approved prior to construction of the rink.

Queen's Park Interference Is Charged

Members of the Quinte Planning Board have charged interference by Queen's Park representatives and a local member of parliament in a move they feel will inevitably establish regional government in the area.

Last night's meeting of the board was charged with tension that prompted a series of vehement charges, when board chairman Reeve Jack M. Bush officially announced the desire of four member municipalities to opt out of the board.

Many of the municipal representatives present for the meeting at Sidney Township's hall, were aware that something crucial was going to be announced. Planning staff had received four letters at 4 p.m. Thursday, four hours before the board meeting was scheduled.

Half an hour later, over Radio station CJBQ, a story was aired that credited Hastings MPP Clarke T. Rollins with an announcement on a fifth member municipality's status on the board. The office of Edward McGeough, minister of municipal affairs, had apparently been told to join the Hastings County Planning Board, and withdraw their support from QPB.

For the past several months, Stirling has neither paid its monthly levies, nor sent either Reeve Robert Anderson or alternate McGeough, municipal treasurer Fred Rodgers, to any of the board's monthly meetings.

The chairman related a statement made by the Hastings MPP to Belleville City Council, last week that he wouldn't support regional government in Hastings area.

"I think possibly Mr. Rollins had a few words with the Stirling crowe," as any politico is, "and the opinion that the main reason Stirling got out of the planning area is through the pressure of Mr. Rollins.

"Belleville has kicked the first football off toward establishing regional government in this area. They've given Mr. McGeough the first foot at the door to say we haven't co-operated," he charged.

Reeve Bush was also emphatically stated he was "not interested in regional government. This is an alibi, I've always been in favor of area planning board" and the city of Belleville working together."

Returning to the stand by the four western municipalities, Mr. Bush said he was "most disappointed in the manner this was handled."

After the meeting, he said "none of the councillors who voted against the board had ever attended any of the open meetings in the past. The problems such as the Board's decision to lease a new office space during the building rather than a renovated car wash on Trenton, had appeared solved.

Alderman Paul Russell, of Belleville said he was "somewhat vehement in his denunciation of the action which preceded receipt of the letters, lays much of the blame at the doorstep of intergovernmental minister Darcy McKeough.

Recommendations, presented by Reeve Bush, that this dissolution be effected by the first move toward regional government, Ald. Russell said: "I'm not concerned about the regional government. The Ontario government, under the ministry of McKeough has already imposed regional government in central areas. It is my understanding that this is not working out."

Forecast Accurate

Loyalist College's crystal ball is proving to give a fairly accurate reflection of enrolments for next September.

Both its five-year projection and its estimates based on applications received up to May 4 indicate that the college will have about 845 students next year.

About 100 new students are expected in addition to 100 department of national defence students enrolling in a pilot project.

The DND students are referring members of the armed forces, who will enrol as day students in technology courses.

They will receive college credits for skills they have picked up on the job over the years, so that they may earn a diploma in one year.

Dean of Faculty Paul Ring said that about 50 per cent of those applying in the technology department will be accepted and will register in September .The figure for business is 49 per cent and for applied arts is 46 per cent.

West Hill Girls Now Prepared

Responding to a problem, parents in the west hill have come up with a solution for their children that they hope will never have to be used.

In conjunction with residents of the community and the Belleville Family YMCA, Bob. Howell has undertaken the chore of teaching girls how to handle themselves in case of an emergency.

Numerous incidents of exhibitionism and attacks have provoked the parents to fight back.

Taught basics in judo and not - so - basic steps in self defence, young girls attending the weekly class are gaining confidence.

"I was really scared to walk down a street at night," said one youngster after throwing 180 - pound Howell over her back. "I still am, but I can walk down the sidewalk now and have some kind of chance of helping myself."

When the need arises, the girls have been taught how to take a man (any size) off his feet in such a way that he will stay down for a while.

"They have the surprise element, they know key striking points and they have the youth to run while their would-be attacker is recovering," said Mr. Howell.

It is all business as the girls practise on each other. Choking, grabbing and molesting is done by one partner while the other employs some of the methods of escape and immobilization taught in the class.

"The class could not go without the co-operation of the parents here," said Mr. Howell. "There is one father that has never missed a class. They don't just come, they get right into the act."

The girls, whose average age is 13, have the expertise at this time to break a wrist before the attacker can react.

"One thing that is impressed upon the girls is what is an attacker," assured Mr. Howell.

The girls will tell you, "he is not a school chum, borsing around. He is someone who is trying to hurt you."

Picton Police Week Planned

PICTON (Staff) — The Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police will hold police week here from Sunday, May 14 through Saturday May 20 with many displays of general interest to the public featured in the program.

Among the displays on May 14 will be the police boat and scuba diving gear, radar, the identification unit including photographs and fingerprinting by a member of the Belleville OPP detachment, a canine team, local communications and safety exhibits and an OPP motorcycle.

These displays can be seen Sunday, May 14 from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. The offices of the Picton detachment of the OPP will remain open for public inspection from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. during police week.

The girls know that the course is not a game.

A mother, watching intently as her daughter breaks away from a variety of holds, told The Intelligencer, "it has done some good in quelling my fears of her walking home alone at night. There have been some bad things happen in this community and I feel better that my daughter is at least a little prepared."

They aren't now, but soon the girls will be reacting instinctively to a dangerous situation.

"We have only been going for seven weeks," said Mr. Howell and self defence takes a long time to master. "In six months these girls shouldn't have a fear in the world."

They are among the 20 girls enrolled in the course, sponsored by the Belleville Family YMCA. There is no cost for the class.

Sandbanks Suit Filed

The controversial removal of sand by a Picton cement company from dunes neighboring Sandbanks Provincial Park now faces the Ontario government with a possible law suit.

Notice Thursday was served on the Attorney General's Department in which the Environmental Law Association alleges that the provincial government has committed a breach of public trust.

The 60-day notice of claim — required in any suit against the government — was filed on behalf of two clients: Larry Green of Pollution Probe at the University of Toronto and the National and Provincial Parks Association.

In Belleville, Douglas Sword, chairman of People Against a Contaminated Environment, which has been waging a local crusade against the quarrying operations, said the move may bring action "that will be in the best interests of everybody.

The notice alleges that the government, in permitting Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. to excavate sand dunes near the park, committed a breach of the Provincial Parks Act. It says the government has a duty under the act to maintain the park for the benefit of future generations.

The notice also claims because no licence was issued to the company under the Beach Removal Act, the removal of the sand is illegal.

The legal move against the government is the latest action in a controversy blowing around the Sandbanks beach for nearly a year, involving politicians, conservationists, labor and company spokesmen.

In March, Resources Minister Leo Bernier placed Hallowell township — where the Sandbanks are located — under regulations of the Pits and Quarries Control Act. At the same time he expressed fears the provincial government in less than three months would take over the dunes, now leased by the company — a takeover which was being delayed, he said, while an alternative quarry site was found for Lake Ontario Cement.

Union spokesmen at the cement company have been outspokenly worried about the effect on plant employment, by the controversy.

PACE chairman Sword said he had taken both Pollution Probe and Environmental Law Association representatives to the quarry site about six weeks ago. He said a request had been made that the claim also be issued on behalf of a local client.

PACE was still concerned over the job situation involved in the issue.

Mr. Sword earlier this year wrote the provincial government, seeking information on legal technicalities which might be involved by removal of trees at the quarry. Not satisfied with the answers, he contacted the Environmental Law Association — which provides legal advice on environmental issues.

He said PACE had nothing to do with instigating the issuance of claim against the government and this morning was still awaiting full details on the move.

While concern existed for jobs of workers at the plant, "we still feel the company is not being entirely open about the quarry issue," he claimed.

PACE feels the company held options on other sites when it first located at Picton in the 1950s.

"They couldn't have come here with the sole idea of using the sandbanks," he said.

Rotary Conference

Rotary has come a long way since its establishment on an informal basis in 1905 by a group of Chicago businessmen. Since then it has developed into an international organization which combines fellowship with a great deal of work on behalf of the local community.

Rotary International is the active symbol of the service club's work around the world. For Belleville this world-wide affiliation achieved tangible form this year in the initiation by the local club of an exchange program which brought two South African schoolgirls here in January for a year's study. Two Belleville boys in turn will go to South Africa this year.

Belleville, together with the Trenton club, is also reaching out this weekend as the venue for Rotary District 707 conference which has attracted a large influx of members and their wives from out of town, principally the Toronto area. For district governor Wilfred Wilkinson of Trenton it is a notable occasion, as it is for clubs in this area.

Mr. Wilkinson has said the change of scene for the conference is aimed in part at stimulating a friendlier atmosphere that will help members get to know each other better. Certainly Belleville as "The Friendly City" has the potential for this objective.

The community stands to gain in other ways too: in addition to business contacts that could benefit us, knowledge of the Quinte area will be further enhanced; tourism comes to mind.

Let us hope the city will be looking its best, for our visitors may have time for a quick look around in addition to their conference duties. We hope their stay here will be a pleasant one and that we will see many of them return at some future date.

Color Us Grey-

If there is one thing this country and its people need it is a touch of the exotic. Everything is so low-key, stable, middle-of-the-road. Color them grey, we have heard it said about Canadians and the national character. And it seems to extend through every level of society and our institutions with some notable exceptions such as the Mounties, our airline stewardesses and the musical groups like Feux Follets. Canada's postage stamps for instance are uninspiring — and all the more so compared with the colorful and ever-changing formats exhibited by other countries. For some time now our principal 15-cent stamp has shown a far northern cliffside scene in a dirty brown shade, with CANADA in bold type along the side. It is fairly typical Canadian in its pose, but what about giving us something new, something with a bit of life to it: children at play, or in school, or some other representative activity. Meanwhile for World Health Day, could the post office people not have come up with anything better than the anaemic looking 8-cent stamp now going the rounds — a bloodless-looking heart in the centre flanked by an equally insipid motif in English and French about World Health Day. Let's get a bit of pzazz into our stamps!

Who Is Boss?

It is one of the anomalies of our society that the wife and mother holds the purse strings in many households yet here we have Ontario Minister of Industry and Tourism John White telling a Toronto audience it is difficult to find women who want to be bothered taking on the board of say, the Ontario Development Corporation, and to find women who have the financial and business expertise.

"Women," he said, "should have a greater role in decision-making. I think they are acquiring more power, although it is slow in coming."

It is true that in public and in government men hold virtually all the power and make all the decisions; yet as we say, the decisions on spending and the balance of power in the home are often weighted the other way.

Election May Bring Changes

Communists Still Excluded From Italian Cabinet

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The forthcoming general election in Italy is being held at a time when the country is undergoing profound social and economic changes.

It is not certain whether the results of the election will reflect in any large way the nature of this gradual transformation, which involves a continuing flow of southern Italians into highly-industrialized North and a movement of workers generally from farms to factories.

Ever since the Second World War, the Christian Democrats have been Italy's main governing party, with support in many instances from the Roman Catholic Church and from the economic and social establishment.

However, Communist party has been consistently excluded from power even though it amassed more than 25 per cent of the vote at the 1968 general election and has held for 20 years in the 630-member lower house.

The Christian Democrats ended up with 39 per cent of the vote and 266 seats.

However, they are by no means free from internal friction and, in any event, the exclusion of the Communists from the various coalition cabinets during the years has left many Italians feeling that parliamentary politics—replete with constant cabinet crises—are almost an irrelevancy. This inevitably reduces mass interest in the current election.

Meanwhile, recent years have seen the growth of a vocal neo-Fascist movement, feeding in part on right-wing Christian Democratic dissatisfaction over the dominant party's co-operation with Socialist elements.

But, the neo-Fascist development also is attributable, at least indirectly, to the broader changes affecting Italian society.

The migration northwards of agrarian workers from the chronically under-developed south has given new opportunities for fruitful agitation to the revolutionaries who abound in as major industrial cities such as Milan and Turin.

Much of this agitation originates with the student generation, imbued with the same radical ideas as stirred turmoil elsewhere in Western Europe during that now-legendary year of turmoil, 1968.

Italy's unrest reached crisis proportions in 1969, when a vast variety of strikes and disorders occurred.

The young revolutionaries, members of small left-wing groups separate from the official Communist party, found a ready audience in the newly-arrived workers from the countryside, perplexed and aggrieved as these were at many of the features of modern industrial life.

Lately the strikes, at least in the North, have been wildcat affairs, with the official Communist and Socialist trade unions playing a subordinate role.

The violent death under mysterious circumstances of a left-wing gunpowder expert, Giangiacomo Feltrinelli intensified the hatred between the radicals he had supported and the neo-Fascists, who exposed in part a conspiracy among some Italians for the supposed orderliness of society under the late dictator Benito Mussolini.

If nothing else, the elections scheduled for May 7 and 8 should show whether the neo-Fascist phenomenon is actually cutting into the strength of the Christian Democrats.

But what the official Communists will probably be seeking is an increase in votes and seats to buttress in a decisive way their presence in cabinet-level voice in government.

There are even some observers who suggest that such an involvement of the Communists in active national administration will be the only way for Italian parliamentary democracy to make a start on dealing decisively with the immense problems which confront the country.

The Fine Political Art of Evasion

By DON O'HEARN
From The Ivory Tower
Queen's Park Bureau

One-time premier after politician Col. Tom Kennedy had one skill in which he never has been topped.

A fundamental technique for every politician who wants to get anywhere is to be able to evade questions, to not get trapped.

Nobody here in recent times has ever excelled Col. Kennedy in this.

Somebody would ask him a question, say, whether the government was going to subsidize milk.

He would start to reply in a manner of complete frankness:

"That's a good question and I'll tell you what we feel about it."

He then would mention the question of a subsidy once or twice. And that was the last you would hear about it.

He would move to the cost of cows, the quality of the grass, the high prices of plowshare for farmers and possibly end up with a few words about the fate of the wheat crop in Russia.

This was all delivered in a tone of complete sincerity and deep interest, also affability. His audience would listen intently. And not until some time later would they realize he had never answered the question. Newspaper men who had to report him were well aware of this, of course.

Col. Kennedy was the senior of Premier Davis. And daily Mr. Davis is showing he learned his lessons well, particularly in this technique of evading.

There was talk in the house, for example, of the land the government is assembling for a new town of Cedarwood as part of the new Toronto airport.

The question, put by former NDP leader Donald MacDonald, was would the government be selling this land at cost or at the going rate. And further, in view of the soaring cost of land and the inflation that is bred in housing prices, was it the set government policy to sell land it assembled at market or to try and control this inflation by making it available at cost?

The premier replied at fair length. He pointed out that the opposition parties had been pressing the government to assemble more land.

Then he noted that the buying cost was not the actual cost at time of selling in the meantime there would have been the expense of carrying the interest on the land, road and sewage costs, etc. And he made other non-points.

But he never did get to the question he had been asked: Whether it was and would be government policy to sell at cost (which, of course, would include development and interest charges).

It could have been Col. Kennedy talking. Except that, perhaps because this was an embarrassing question, the premier's usual affability was tempered considerably with indignation.

His mentor seldom, if ever, let his indignation show.

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I have checked with our Belleville police dept. to ascertain the rules regarding bicycle licensing because I had been told it was permissable on the sidewalks.

It is not permitted and can be punished by a fine. Single or reported. The reason for me writing is the fact that I was almost knocked down on the main street corner of Bridge St. E. and Front St. in front of the Bank of Montreal, in consequence of which, I have a large bruise on my left knee.

The culprit was a teen-age girl who should have realized the danger to pedestrians of any age, when she whizzed around that corner at such a high speed.

Understandably, one of the greatest adjustments the child must make is being away from home, and possibly the first evidence try to make the break less painful. They take the children to school on their first day to see they are properly enrolled; they maintain communications with the teachers so they are aware of any problems the child may have; attend parent-teacher days.

And I remember how they just dealing with one child from any particular reserve. In one example we have 66 children here from one reserve and they know each other. We have families of children too, and try to keep them together as much as possible.

Finances Of The 'Y'

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

May I assure your correspondent Mrs. M. Hall that we have frequently consulted with the "Y" regarding their financial affairs, and, along with others, made constructive suggestions toward improving their situation.

Having been an active member of the "Y" with a youngster that learned to swim under one of their programs I am fully conversant with many aspects of their syllabus and like yourself I am very interested in projects.

It is my interest in people that provokes my criticism of many of the "Y"'s attitudes toward the spending of public money. After all tax money is collected from everyone, rich and poor alike, and whether or not you choose to believe it, Belleville has more than its fair share of senior citizens living on fixed incomes who just cannot afford to see their tax money thrown in a "general fund".

I would have no objection to the "Y" receiving a grant from city funds if such grant was to be laid against a specific program that our elected council had stated that the dollar for dollar accounting made in the proper manner. In fact cannot accept the yearly hand over of taxpayers money to an organization that seems to be a completely irresponsible attitude to the expenditure of public money.

Has the city of Belleville been provided with specific details as to exactly how and where the "Y" intends to spend the $15,000 they are asking for this year? Has our city council been presented with a resume of the past years activities of the dollar for dollar accounting as to how the money was spent? If they have, it will be the first time it has happened.

It is wrong for an organization to ask for such large sums of money on such a casual basis and it is equally wrong for our council to hand it over in such a cavalier fashion. Money given for specific programs has no right being lumped in the "general fund".

Difficult Time for Teenagers

Life in A Residential School For Young Indians

The Ontario Churchman

"PRINCE ALBERT, SASK. — One of the difficulties faced by the northern Indian is that of educating his children. Because a reserve might lack all elementary or high school, because there is no residence on the reserve for boys and girls whose parents spend a winter on the trap line, many Indian children are sent to live in towns and take their schooling there.

The largest Indian residence in Canada, located on the outskirts of Prince Albert, has 350 such children. They range in age from six to 16, and come from reserves as close as 30 miles and as far as 300 miles away from the town.

Originally, an army camp, and until three years ago an Anglican residential school, the residence operates through the federal Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development under the direction of administrator David Lawson.

Lawson tries to run the residence as a family home, making it seem as little like an institution as he can. There are 14 to a family unit, resembling large modern suburban houses with each accommodating 24 boys and girls cuitivens ages. Each cottage has a dining and living room, large kitchen and basement recreation room, 12 cubicle bedrooms with bunk beds, and laundry facilities. Here the children sleep, play, and eat all their meals.

In addition, there are six dormitories, huts left over from the army camp days. Children use these large, barn-like buildings for sleeping and recreation, but take all meals in the main dining room of the residence. Eventually, Lawson hopes, the huts will be replaced by cottages.

To complete the family picture each cottage and dormitory is run by a married couple—white or Indian—who take on a parental role. Lawson tries to ensure that the wife is a child care worker; in some cases the husband too is employed by the residence.

Running an Indian residence requires patience and understanding, and Lawson stresses that there must be adjustments on both sides.

should be looked at by the reserve for the first time in order to avoid problems.

"They go into grade seven or eight and have to get used to a new town, make one teacher, and scheduling, and changing classes. I think that age are already forming into groups and it's very hard for them.

"The children may stay at the residence until they enter high school, after they go into a boarding program in which they live with white families in the town.

Lawson hopes to begin a program whereby children would be moved into the boarding homes for the last three months of public school. This would help them — and their foster parents to feel more at ease when the child returned in September.

Potter Defines His Health Care Goals

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

More home care has become the only possible answer to the tremendous cost of maintaining and paying for all the health services required by the public.

This was stated Thursday by Quinte riding member Hon. Richard T. Potter, Ontario Minister of Health as he spoke to the Ontario Hospital District No. 10 Association meeting at Sault Ste. Marie.

Dr. Potter told association members that as long as he could remember, health care, had been hospital-oriented.

But there was a time when the reverse was true, and with the rapidly rising costs of hospital operation, Dr. Potter said home care would become increasingly important.

"Far too many of our active (hospital) treatment beds are occupied by people who are not acutely ill," he said.

Dr. Potter said that Ontario had pioneered in the health insurance field and had produced a health care scheme that has yet to be rivalled, with doctors disciplining themselves and very little overuse or abuse of the plan.

"Unfortunately," he said, "our federal government decided to bamble into the field, thrusting upon us our present 'wring and cowring gum' structure which they expect to be financed from provincial coffers.

Several new types of accommodation are being experimented with, such as self-care units and rehabilitation units which would reduce costs considerably.

"We are attempting to incorporate the progressive patient care concept with our present system and we expect this approach to eliminate the use of active treatment facilities for anything but active treatment."

Dr. Potter said that if present active treatment hospital beds are used properly, and specifically, he was convinced that there will be no need to build more in the foreseeable future.

"Certainly, we will need more convalescent beds, and some chronic beds as well, but these can be provided at a fraction of the cost of active treatment beds. The cost of maintenance will be correspondingly lower as well."

There programs must be extended to the less advisable parts of the province and must include increased use of paramedical personnel in the less populated areas.

"We will need to expand our home care program and use our nursing homes for patients who really need the degree of care offered there."

Speaking specifically of the hospitals, Dr. Potter said their insistence on providing all types of facilities regardless of availability of similar facilities in the immediate area can be no longer accepted.

Where there are several hospitals in one municipality, there need not be duplication of services. Transportation fa-

Swim Program Again Offered

In preparation for the large number of people heading for Canada's waterways, the Belleville Y is beginning a crash program to get vaccinees into the safe swim.

Beginning Monday, May 29, a five-week course, consisting of 10 lessons will be offered to people with the fundamentals of water safety.

"The course is a fast one so it will not infringe on vacation time," said Enid Rowe, acquatics instructor for the Y.

The course will help people get over fears of the water to make them more comfortable on or near it, she said.

"It is a good course for anyone going near the water," said Mrs. Rowe.

Cost of the course will vary according to age of the applicant.

Information on the course is available by calling the Belleville Family YMCA at 962-9231.

cilities today make any such arrangement both outmoded and necessary.

"A careful examination of our present program has revealed much overlapping of services, duplication, prioritics neglected or out of order and a great deal of waste.

"This must be corrected," said Dr. Potter.

But the health minister warned that while the total program was being upgraded, care must be taken not to lose sight of objectives.

"Our customary high standards of service must be maintained. We must ensure that every change is made in the interests of the public.

"The quality of health care, can and will be improved. But if we go about it in the way we have in the past, we'll wind up bankrupt."

The objective, he said, could be reached only through co-operation between the public, the medical profession, the institutions . . . in short, everyone in the system, including the government itself.

Dr. Potter said the Ministry of Health was now preparing a new health act which would spell out the training and qualifications required for the various health disciplines.

Under this new legislation, the College of Physicians and Surgeons, the College of Dental Surgeons, the College of Pharmacy, the College of Nurses and the Board of Ophthalmic Dispensers will continue to licence and regulate the practice of their particular professions, but also they will be expected to assume a more forceful role than in the past.

They will be asked to assure that their members are not only providing a high quality of care but that facilities provided at the taxpayers' expense will be used to the best advantage and in the public interest.

"Hospital beds are not provided as a convenience for either the patient or the doctor. They are provided for necessary active treatment.

"Both these words are important — treatment must be necessary and it must be active," stressed Dr. Potter.

Water Situation Holds Up Housing

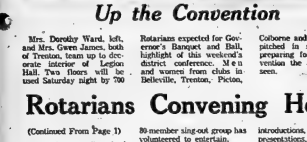
DESERONTO — Senior citizens' housing in Deseronto will be delayed until the drinking water situation in the village is improved.

Council has received a letter from L. Deane, property chairman of the Ontario Housing Corporation, saying that OHC will have to delay plans for housing because of pollution and the inadequate supply of drinking water in the village.

Deseronto has been under a boil water mandate from the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit for the last 10 years. Its water is chlorinated, but the village has no filtration plant.

OHC said housing plans will be shelved until three contaminants are made by the village.

They are:



That OHC receive a copy of a resolution from the town requesting the Ontario Water Resources Commission to provide an adequate water purification system.

Town clerk S. E. Knapp said the town has already met this requirement, sending a letter April 18 requesting OWRC to prepare a report (estimate).

That a copy of a letter from OWRC be sent to OHC, agreeing to complete the system and giving a completion date.

That a copy of a letter from the Ontario Municipal Board be sent OHC, agreeing to support the financial arrangements for the installation of the system.

Up the Convention

Mrs. Dorothy Ward, left, and Mrs. Gwen James, both of Trenton, team up to decorate interior of Legion Hall. Two floors will be used Saturday night by 700 Rotarians expected for Governor's Banquet and Ball, highlight of this weekend's district conference. Men and women from clubs in Belleville, Trenton, Picton, Colborne and Cobourg have pitched in since January preparing for largest convention the area has ever seen.

Should anyone require assistance, a special hot line will be permanently manned by a knowledgable Rotarian. In addition, 10 local club members and high schools students are on hand at hotel desks to guide and inform guests should problems arise.

This being apple country, fresh McIntoshes will be in evidence all weekend.

Two Belleville beauty parlors and a dry-cleaning establishment are providing special service all day Saturday in case anyone requires last minute touch-ups.

One local drug store will supply medical essentials at any time.

Grant Rathbun of Trenton is contributing small buses to shuttle delegates back and forth between events. He'll transport visitors from specially-established parking lots on Zwick's Island to their hotels should regular parking facilities become congested.

The Trenton citizen's band will greet persons attending the Four Seasons wine and cheese party tonight and an 80-member sing-out group has volunteered to entertain.

Saturday night's Governor's Ball, highlight of the three-day affair, should be unique if all goes well. Staged on two floors of the Legion building, it already is accommodating 300 couples and last minute arrivals are fully expected.

To bring the parties together, Loyalist College has set up television cameras and monitors on both floors. Students will televise head table introductions, speeches and presentations, all meticulously timed to avoid overlapping and duplication.

As one weary convention worker put it, "We have to make these people feel at home. We have to extend the glad-hand to replace the entertainment of the big city."

A convention Quinte-style may lack some of the instant conveniences of a large hotel but in sincerity and consideration, it's second to none.

Social And Personal

Miss Gertrude Simmons and Mrs. Hazel Eshbaugh held a dinner party at the Four Seasons Hotel in honor of their mother, Mrs. Mary Simmons, who celebrated her 98th birthday on April 26. Gordon Hach of Toronto, nephew of Mrs. Simmons, proposed a toast which she replied to and all would be together to celebrate her 100th birthday. Relatives and friends spent a pleasant evening at the home of Mrs. Eshbaugh. Mrs. Simmons received many beautiful flowers and cards.

A rehearsal party was held for Mr. and Mrs. James Blaine Aldridge (nee Brenda Ann Ehler) at the Four Seasons Hotel, Friday evening previous to their recent marriage. The bridegroom's parents Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Aldridge, West Indies, arranged the buffet dinner for the wedding party. A community shower was held in Point Anne and another shower was given by Mrs. Fran Hill.

MR. AND MRS. BRIAN L. LOBB

Lobb – Moore

The recent wedding ceremony was solemnized in Ebenezer Baptist Church, Quebec when Lois Anne Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith of Avoca, became the bride of Cpl. Brian Lynn Lobb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore, Belleville. Rev. David Reman assisted by Dr. Howard Day, the bride's uncle performed the ceremony. Mrs. Doris MacCallum rendered organ music and accompanied the soloist Dr. Lester MacCallum.

The bride entered the church with her father wearing a floor length gown of Swiss embroidered organdy trimmed with guipure lace and a matching train. Her veil was held in place with a headdress of lace and pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Patti Johnson was the bride's only attendant who wore a floor length dress of blue embroidered gossamer over taffeta matching the bride's dress. She carried a basket of pink and white daisies.

Robert McCoy of L'Amable, a lifelong friend attended the bridegroom. Ushers were Mark Wilson and Kelly Smith of Avoca.

Following the signing of the register Mr. and Mrs. Lobb received congratulations to the guests in attendance before leaving the church.

A reception was held in Harrington School for a large number of relatives and friends, after which the couple left on a honeymoon trip to the Ontario district visiting the bride's grandmother Mrs. Jean Smith and brother Danny who were unable to attend the ceremony.

For travelling the couple left Uplands Base by plane for Lahr, Germany where Mr. (Cpl.) Lobb is stationed.

'MCPs'-Rebuked By Woman MP.

By DAN TURNER

OTTAWA (CP) — Some MPs listened and some "MCPs" didn't Thursday as Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey gave the Commons a progress report on how the government has reacted to demands for an improvement in the status of Canadian women.

MCP stands for "male chauvinist pig" in the lexicon of women's liberation, and Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) used the shortened version to describe some of her male counterpeaps who tittered and talked when Mr. Mackasey's statement was being discussed in the House. She is the only woman MP.

WIDE-OPEN MARKET

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hong Kong, the world's second-largest exporter of wearing apparel, is a wide-open market for Canadian-made women's clothing, an official of a Hong Kong trade mission said here. Robert S. Sun, project manager of a 19-member mission which is touring Canada, said: "Only Italy exports more clothing than Hong Kong. But people are funny. They still like to wear foreign - made clothing themselves."

Community Holds Shower

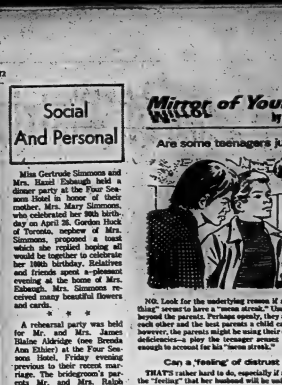
STIRLING — On Wednesday evening April 26, a community shower party was held at R. River Valley Institute centre in honor of the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Uzman.

Jack Bush was master of ceremonies and welcomed the bride, the former Edith Elaine Teal of Campbellford.



The orchestra composed of Norman Hossebush, Ernest Rosebush, Kenneth Morrow, and Mrs. Philip Conley provided music during the program and later for dancing.

Miss Alice Hennigan gave a humorous selection and Mrs. Francis Sager contributed a piano number. Doug Kane read an address on behalf of the chairman group and a presentation was made of patio furniture.

Mrs. Ernest Carr read an address on behalf of the River Valley Community and several items of living room furniture were given to the honored couple. They expressed thanks for all their gifts.

Mrs. Jack Bush conducted a game and the committee - in - charge served refreshments.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Teal of Campbellford, parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morrow of Frankford, grandparents of the bridegroom.

NO. Look for the underlying reason if a teenager with "everything" seems to have a "mean streak." Usually no one has to look beyond the parents. Perhaps apparently, they are the ideal couple for each other and the best parents a child can have. Unconsciously, however, the parents might be using their child to compensate for deficiencies—a ploy the teenager senses and, naturally, resents enough to account for his "mean streak."

Can a 'feeling' of distrust be ignored?

THAT'S rather hard to do, especially if a wife, for instance, has the "feeling" that her husband will be unfaithful the first chance he gets—if he doesn't have an extramarital affair going already. Yet if she would let her love express itself, a wife could put that feeling to the test and, in the process, find out all. Perhaps it is because she simply because she doesn't want to admit her husband can function when he is away from her.

Is a bit spititude test of any value?

CERTAINLY, perhaps a job aptitude test is the best indicator of an applicant's potential—a feeling that can be of more value to him or her than to an employer. On top of that, a worldly wise applicant generally believes he can't "fool" the test because it has so many built-in factors to compensate for any "slight deviations in the truth." So he goes ahead and answers each question as fairly and as honestly as possible.

Successful Living

She Misses Affection So She Eats

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My problem is eating out of habit. At 18, I am five-foot-four and 138 pounds. I have a boy friend who is in the army and is stationed over 2,000 miles away. I only see him for a month every two to six months.

I know I love him very much and we plan to be engaged this summer, when he is on 30. My parents are divorced and I live with my grandmother who is not the affectionate type.

My biggest problem is depression. With my boy friend away all the time I have nothing to do but EAT (at night especially), read, watch TV, study and go for walks. I have no real friends.

He plans to be home this summer and for the first time in three years I'd like to be able to wear a bathing suit—allenly, I have to overcome the habit of eating.

I am also self-conscious about my large bust line. Some have tried to tell me I should be proud of it, but I try to hide it. If I did lose some weight, would I also lose from my bust? — Sad Tubby

Dear Tubby: Walk out of the kitchen and back into circulation, your depression will give up that far away soldier-boy friend.

But 16 is far too young to think seriously enough of marriage to have committed yourself. The young carefree years are short enough.

Of course you long for affection; but eating is the way you do — only adds to your problem.

Find ways of mixing with other girls and boys your own age; and perhaps to do this by joining a club for overweights might kill two birds with one stone.

Dear Doris: The letter signed, "Keep Up The Good Work" refers to looking into the future, as regards Lianne Dixon and others. I should like to refer her to a very good book entitled "Angels of Light?" by Hobert E. Freeman. We all are aware that there is a "supernatural" as regards evil — as well as regards good (God). Sometimes because it seems so convincing, "one assumes everything supernatural to be of God; which is very wrong.

Many psychic mediums and clairvoyants are finding increasing acceptance from every quarter by the multitudes who are clamoring for their help and guidance." — That's My View.

Dear That's: Your letter is thoughtful. Truly we have been deceived many time by operators who exploit a gullible public. Yet there are specially gifted persons with revelations beyond reproach, and use such gifts in an unselfish desire to be helpful.

Used this way, a person with a psychic gift can help to support the observer's faith in God and in a benevolent universe. I agree that we should not become preoccupied with such matters, to the exclusion of dealing realistically and positively with the life which is ours right now.

Dear Doris: Some time ago I saw an item in the column from a lady who was worried about her mother's sight deteriorating. You told her about large print books, but I thought you would also like to know about a mother's answer is the Canadian Home Bible League, Box 524, Weston, Ontario, with or without payment.

What they especially desire is that anyone who wants and will read it, should have a Bible, or portion of one, either ordinary or large print. It is their ministry.

Please pardon the errors, my dear — I am in my 90's so find this writing not too easy. — Very Sincerely.

Dear Sincerely: Thank you. Many readers will be grateful for the trouble you have taken to send us this information. And they will use it.

Ann Landers

Ann's Advice and Time Mend A Broken Heart

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed Mood Indigo brought back some heartbreaking memories. I went through the same agony two years ago.

When my girlfriend and I split up I felt as if the whole world was coming apart at the seams. The emptiness was so big I was sure nothing could fill it. Like Mood Indigo I wrote to you for advice. You gave me the same routine: "Put your the old love letters. Ditch her pictures. Get back into circulation. Stop moaning. Don't look back. Look ahead."

It didn't work.

Every time I took out a new girl I found myself making comparisons. Whenever I'd hear our favorite song I'd get a lump in my throat the size of a tennis ball. Then I noticed a strange thing was happening. The lump kept getting smaller and smaller. I was comparing less and less and making more original associations.

It wasn't your advice that saved me, Ann: it was time. Your advice merely kept me from killing myself. You told me that one day I would stop hurting and the world would look good again. You said at the end of your letter "You'll recover, I promise." And your were right.

Thanks for being there when I needed you. —Getting It All Together

Dear Getting There: Your letter will help those whose lumps are still the size of tennis balls. It's a great source of strength to know that someone who was "there" in your shoes made it back. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Somewhere there is a young mother who, about this time, was offered her infant child for adoption. I would like that woman to know that her child is like a gift from God to us.

Her beautiful baby has brought immeasurable joy and endless love to a childless couple. A home has become alive with love, laughter, plans for the future, thanks to a young person who had the wisdom and courage to give up her precious baby.

We feel privileged and honored to have your child in our family. God bless you darling. We thank you every day of our lives.—Happy Grandparents

Dear Grandparents: Here's your letter, with no hint to reveal the origin. Thousands of mothers may think the letter is intended for them. They are sure to find comfort in your beautiful expression of love and gratitude.

Dear Ann: That poem from the Wife to the Other Woman was fascinating. I'm afraid she's been reading too many junky novels. Any resemblance to real life and the picture she has in her mind is purely ridiculous.

I'm the Other Woman and there are plenty more like me.

My bench smell of detergent, just like a wife's. I wash my own dishes. I also wear flannel nightgowns — a corduroy bathrobe. I've never been to Acapulco and wouldn't know how to act if I got there. My married sweetheart can't afford it. I'm, much less a plane ticket.

I change my own flat tires and work a full-time job. I have no fur coat and the suggestion that I am being plied with luxuries is a joke. More often than not, I'm giving him an extra ten or twenty. Who do you think bought your husband's birthday present, dearie?

Question my quality if you with but I wasn't looking for your husband. Love made me that way, pal. — Sorry You Were First

Dear Sorry: Thanks for a realistic portrayal of Other Woman. The picture is mostly a figment of the wife's imagination. The role is as you pointed out, pretty crummy and full of heartaches.

Olive Oil A Natural Health Food

By ALICE DENBOFF

It's spring, time to wake up your taste buds with fresh flavors. Wild staple items and spices, you can come up with some excellent dishes.

So here are some recipes for right now. Canada's secret could be imported olive oil, high in flavor, and good enrichment for the skin milk and yogurt used in these recipes.

An excellent and nourishing salad made with a variety of beans is:

THREE BEAN SALAD

- ½ cup sliced stuffed olives
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 2 cups sliced celery
- 1 can (1 pound) kidney beans, drained
- 1 can (1 pound) chick peas drained
- 1 can (15½ ounces) cut green beans, drained
- ⅓ cup olive oil
- ⅓ cup red wine vinegar
- ¼ teaspoon crumbled oregano
- ¼ teaspoon crumbled basil
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Bite-size salad greens
- Whole Wheat Muffins (recipe follows)

Combine first six ingredients; chill.

When ready to serve, combine olive oil, vinegar, oregano, basil, sugar, paprika, salt and pepper. Heat until thick. Pour over salad; toss to blend well. Spoon salad into bowl lined with salad greens.

Serve with:

GOOD HEALTH WHOLE WHEAT MUFFINS

- 1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 cup unsifted whole wheat flour
- ½ cup of wheat germ or sesame seed
- 5 tablespoons baking powder
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 egg whites
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 cup skim milk

Combine first six ingredients; stir to blend. Combine remaining ingredients and beat well. Stir liquid into dry ingredients all at once. Mix only until dry particles are moistened.

Spoon quickly into well oiled muffin pans. Bake at 425 degrees F. for 15 minutes or until brown.

Serve hot with bean salad for a well-rounded meatless main course. Recipe is for 12 muffins to go with the six servings of the bean salad.

Now for a fine, nourishing, low cholesterol main course:

HOT TUNA RING WITH DILLED CAULIFLOWER BEANS AND CHEESE SAUCE

- 3 cans (7 ounces each) water pack tuna, drained and flaked
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 3 cups soft bread crumbs
- 3 egg whites
- 1 cup skim milk
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 small onion, chopped
- ½ cup flour
- 1½ cups skim milk
- 1 cup (8 ounces) skim-milk cottage cheese
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- Dash Tabasco
- Salt and pepper
- 2 packages (9 ounces each) frozen cut green beans, cooked and drained
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 2 teaspoons crumbled dill weed OR 2 tablespoons chopped fresh dill

Mix first four ingredients. Beat egg whites with milk and mix into tuna mixture. Spoon mixture into heavily oiled six-cup ring mold. Bake at 350 degrees F. for one hour or until firm.

While fish is baking, prepare rice. Heat olive oil and saute onions until golden. Salt flour. Gradually stir in skim milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sauce bubbles and thickens.

Stir in stxt three ingredients and salt and pepper to taste.

Loosen edges of ring, using a sharp knife. Invert on a platter. Mix cooked green beans with olive oil and dill and spoon into centre of ring. Spoon hot sauce over each of six servings.

SALMON REMOULADE SALAD

- 2 cups cooked flaked salmon
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 2 cups diced cooked potatoes
- 1 cup (½ pint) plain yogurt
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 tablespoons yellow mustard
- ½ cup chopped pickles
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons drained capers
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 teaspoon anchovy paste
- ¼ teaspoon tarragon
- ½ teaspoon chervil
- Dash garlic powder
- Salt and pepper to taste

Combine salmon, celery and potatoes.

Mix remaining ingredients. Pour over salmon mixture; toss to moisten all particles. Spoon into bowl lined with bite-size pieces of salad greens. Chill until ready to serve. Serves six.

FULL-FLAVORED olive oil is the important ingredient in the Whole Wheat Muffins and dressing for Three Bean Salad.

TV Series Leads to Degree

NEW YORK (AP) — The Flying Nun, a bit of comedy fluff that soared through four ABC seasons during the fantasy vogue, is earning a bachelor's degree and has already built a house for one of its Canadian born co-stars.

Madeleine Sherwood, formerly of Montreal, the Methodist minister's granddaughter who played a dry, permissive mother superior in the series, will be opening next week in Joseph Papp's off-Broadway production, Older People. But her television experience opened avenues to new experiences and gave her financial security.

The Flying Nun, after its network run, moved into syndication where it is shown on independent stations. Under current actors, contracts, performers share in rerun profits of television series, payments called residuals.

"It is around $18,000 a year," said Miss Sherwood. "When I was working on the show, I was putting most of my money into building a home on family land, in the mountains and on a lake about 40 miles north of Montreal. Now I hope to build a theatre in human relations there and make it the nucleus of a workshop."

"People kept telling me that a television series for an actor was like an annuity, but I never quite believed it. By the second year of the series—I was in the hayseed night months of the year working—I was beginning to feel self-crazy, in the house and living in a hotel. I went to Easter Seals in Rig Gap for a weekend, and that was the beginning."

She continued to attend Eastern workshops, studying the humanist psychology movement, taking encounter groups. Since her return to New York she has been studying full time at the G.R.O.W. Institute and will soon receive her B.A. degree in human relations from Indiana Northern University of which G.R.O.W. is an affiliate.

The actress hopes to be certified soon as a group counselor and be able to work, under a doctor's supervision, in hospitals and schools. Meanwhile, those Flying Nun residuals give her that rare privilege for a performer: to work only in roles that challenge and interest her.

She was in Edward Albee's All Over recently and now is fulfilling a long-time ambition to work with producer Joseph Papp.

Miss Sherwood was raised in Montreal. Her father, Dr. Laurence Thornton, a Montreal dentist, died in 1961.

Her maternal grandfather, Dr. Paul Villard, a doctor and former professor of French at McGill, also was a minister who preached before congregations ranging from Salvation Army meetings to Jewish synagogues.

Moral: ruin was the fate he prophesied for Madeleine in a theatrical career but this changed. When she performed in a soap opera opposite Christopher Plummer, Dr. Paul became an unpaid and unorthodox publicity agent.

The old gentleman took to waiting for Madeleine outside the Montreal studios and when she appeared he would shout to passersby: "This is my granddaughter!"

Interested in acting since childhood, Miss Sherwood started by church plays and the Montreal Repertory Theatre.

Pay TV Gets Closer

OTTAWA (CP) — Several Canadian cable television companies are polishing techniques to bring pay-TV in Canada as soon as the Canadian Radio-Television Commission approves it.

In a Montreal speech in March Robert Short, president of the Canadian Cable Television Association, said:

"Subscription television series ... will become available to cable subscribers in a number of cities this year with an extra fee for special programming.

"Users will have access to first-run movies, concert series, sports series, special educational programs for updating professionals including doctors, lawyers and accountants."

Mr. Short said in an interview that the system expects subscription television to succeed where a previous pay-TV experiment in Toronto failed. That experiment, about 10 years ago, was psychologically ahead of its time, he said.

The new plan was to supply special series of programs or new services such as burglar alarm systems on expanded cable systems at an extra fee to the subscriber.

Vancouver, Victoria and Toronto are likely to be the first cities in which subscription TV will be introduced.

Cable operators must first obtain approval from the CRTC for their plans.

It is understood the CRTC believes it has jurisdiction over some additional services. There would be included under the commission's licensing authority over cable.

As Mr. Short suggested in his Montreal speech, the first services offered probably will be special-sports and educational programs and first-run movies. There should be little difficulty in getting CRTC approval as such programs are related to normal broadcasting.

Premier Cabiveron in Vancouver plans to supply the home games of the Vancouver Canucks hockey team to subscribers willing to pay an extra fee for the service.

The new services will be received as a scrambled picture on a cable channel. The picture can be unscrambled only by inserting a perforated plastic card in a little black box attached to the TV set.

The new equipment will be tested in Victoria or Vancouver next fall and may be in wide-scale operation in Premier systems late this year.

One of the major obstacles in these subscription TV services has been the limited number of channels available on cable systems.

The conventional cable system has, at the most, 12 channels. In such cities as Toronto and Montreal these channels are taken up by U.S. and Canadian TV stations.

But special converters are being developed in the U.S. to expand the capacity of cable systems to 20 or more channels.

City Scheme Brings Out Local Artists

By HARRY MULBALL
Staff Reporter

A new cultural concept is currently being etched, painted and sketched in Belleville — with the impetus centered out of the businesslike environment of city hall.

Belleville's local government is encouraging artistic enterprise, providing pay for out-of-work local artists.

Belleville's local government is: Encouraging artistic local enterprise; providing a paying project for out-of-work local artists and providing itself with a small store of original local art.

And it's not costing Belleville a penny in local taxes.

The project was originally conceived earlier in the year when city hall officials discovered money was available for cultural purposes under provincial government works incentive programs.

They got approval to spend $2,600 on a workable concept.

Alderman Jean Smith, a committee of one appointed to head the project, says it was decided to employ artists of acknowledged talent to depict local landmarks.

Members of the Belleville Art Association were called in to approve the final choice of the team — six in all, some of them young people who are currently out of work, hired through Canada Manpower.

Each is required to submit three local scenes — all of their choice, in a medium of their own choosing.

While the project runs out May 31, the artists mainly had to wait for fine weather and blave now been busy creating their conceptions of various landmarks in oils, water colors, and pen.

In other communities, such enterprise's well established.

In Vancouver, for instance, says Ald. Smith, under a similar grant, minstrels have been entertaining in public parks.

Ald. Smith believes the project a reasonable one, and cultural pursuits extend beyond the range of hobby-craft and athletic pursuits, already well established community recreation concepts in most municipalities.

"People who think only athletes should be sponsored don't look very far," she says. "If you're a good hockey player, it is a talent. If you're a good artist, that is also a talent.

"I certainly think we should encourage local artists; we should encourage everything like that — if we can afford it. And we just happened to get this windfall," she says.

Gerry Stapley, 22, who says he is currently out of work, and will earn $100 a week for three weeks under the program, agrees the project is a "good thing" and encouragement for local artists like himself. He exhibits work with the Belleville association and the East - Central Art Association).

Lindsay Hallam, 23, whose background includes four years at the Ontario College of Art, teaching graphic arts at city high schools, for the recreation department, the Family Y, and Loyalist College, has an even more effervescent reaction:

"I was overwhelmed last year should realize we (local artists) are part of the community and that we need community support."

For herself, personally, such response could mean she would be able to stay and work in Belleville, a community of preference.

Such public programs are justified as "tports or anything else," she says.

If rich cultural grants are available next year from senior governments, Ald. Smith believes the city could again should apply.

And she's not certain that artists again need be the single choice for benefit. Such grants could be used "in any sort of cultural endeavor," she says.

Meantime, once the current works are completed they will be framed and deposited at city hall.

There, says the aldermaid, they might be hung if the present collection of artists' Victoriana from the Coaldery collection, bequeathed the city, is replaced.

Dr. Ald. Smith conjectures, they could also be used as presentation mementoes — with an original local touch — to official visitors on civic occasions.

Thefts Reported

A theft of four shotguns from the Hrycke's Point home of Donald Mattis is under OPP investigation following a report that the house had been entered. Value of the guns was estimated at approximately $275.

A Scarborough resident David Francey last week reported his Prince Edward summer home had been entered this winter and several items removed.

Stolen was a stereo cabinet containing an AM FM radio valued at $600, a tape recorder valued at $200 and a mantel radio worth $50. Constable Ronald Jeffrey is investigating the incident.

Moira Landscape

The Moira at full flood was a popular subject for 18 senior art students who participated in a joint project of Quinte Arts Council and Corby Distilleries last month. G. C. MacDonald, vice-president and general manager of the plant lobbied the students for their outdoor sketching.

Education Becoming Governed By Economics, Speaker Says

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

DEMORESTVILLE — Education is caught in a downward spiral likely to continue for the next five years a teachers' faces career demands "to produce as professionals," according to Dr. Barry Thorne, an associate professor at Queen's University, Kingston.

Dr. Thorne, addressing the annual dinner meeting of the Women Teachers' Association of Prince Edward during held here last night, said the public will eventually regard schools as another social service such as the Children's Aid Society. Teachers will be expected to function as social workers and will be confronted with problems.

The speaker compared today's education budgets with "Solomon's gifts" and said where controversies surrounding salaries and the budget seems to be cut in halves.

"Economic considerations are once more a dominant priority over others of an educational nature," said Dr. Thorne.

He suggested all persons involved in education today "are in trouble" and remarked the provincial government has discovered there is no need for direct control of curriculum if there is a tight control on budget and grant structure.

He referred to a recent suggestion by ex-Engstrac trustee urging teachers be rated and paid according to merit and said if this system was adopted, taxes possibly would be lowered. Similarly a second proposal advocating the legal age for leaving school should be reduced to 14 years offers an opportunity to save taxes.

"Both are entirely economic," observed Dr. Thorne discussing the proposals. He added taxpayers today frequently refer to the '60s as the first decade of education owing to "the incredible expansion and improvement of the education system."

In the 1960s teacher outcries of low salaries and an insufficient budget found a sympathetic car.

In 1972 the situation has reversed, according to Dr. Thorne, who claimed "by and large teachers have lost the sympathy of the community."

"Despite all reassurances of the former minister of education, cut-back is the name of the game," said the new columnist.

He said he had received one letter from Mr. Welch which referred to a deceleration in increased spending, not a cut-back.

Cut-backs do occur without being named, as exemplified by the termination of 37 teachers' contracts by one county school board. The board intends to hire only four of five new teachers but the staff decrease will not be termed a cut-back.

Dr. Thorne said in Toronto predictions of cut-backs have reached an estimated figure of 2,000 teachers.

He said it has been indicated that fewer than 20 per cent of the graduates of MacArthur College have jobs now.

He recalled that John Deutsch of Queen's University remarked the official opening of MacArthur College was rushed because a teacher shortage was anticipated but when it was completed a surplus existed instead.

Dr. Thorne said the "baby boom" now is over and the average age of school teachers is remarkably lower today and these persons could remain in the profession for many years to come. Development plans based on enrolment growth will become irrelevant because they will be obsolete.

Dr. Thorne commented the days of student activism vanished with the sixties but added today's students frequently believe the educational system is set up to provide them with jobs.

The opportunity for jobs has "decreased pretty seriously" and for these students the relevancy of education also has decreased. Few see any point in remaining in school without jobs in sight.

Dr. Thorne predicted an increased student dropout at 16 years of age will lead to a lower enrolment in secondary schools and universities.

Today's educational system produces "flate bloomers", in Dr. Thorne's opinion and in grades 7 and 8 problems of maturation are overt in conflict and in lack of direction.

Although elementary school seems better suited to girls than to boys "the sex and drug scene" has filtered down to many precocious girls in the higher elementary grades.

Dr. Thorne stressed the need for direction and diversity and said the exercise "is not easily forthcoming."

The onus for incidental guidance counselling lies largely with the teachers who must attempt to cope with additional demands and pressures in their profession alism.

Dr. Thorne outlined the conflict which exists between elementary and secondary school teachers and added elementary teachers have been treated as "the niggers of the system" because many of them once did not hold degrees.

He said he sensed "a conservative backlash" building among taxpayers who now are looking nostalgically backward to the '40s and more talk of the three Rs is heard.

He said he feels the elementary schools will receive this backlash as scapegoats.

Dr. Thorne recommended a closer liaison between elementary and secondary teachers and suggested a grade 8 teacher might occasionally teach grade 9 or vice-versa for extra insights.

He spoke of curriculum planning and said high schools in Ontario were given too much autonomy too soon in this direction.

A certain degree of duplication of subject material is taking place in grades 6, 7, and 8 as well as in secondary schools.

Dr. Thorne predicted county administrations in the province soon will curb secondary school curricula planning and increase the continuity in and between schools because of the tight economic situation.

Competition Sponsored By Corby's Distillery

Corby Distilleries Ltd. has become a patron of the arts.

The company's excursion into the field of painting and drawing was prompted by Quinte Arts Council. Always on the lookout for means of encouraging local cultural activity, the council persuaded the company to sponsor a field trip for 18 senior art students from five county high schools.

The results will be unveiled today when the students turn in their works executed in oils, acrylic or pen and ink. Sunday, the paintings will be judged and later next week Corby's is expected to present awards to the winners.

"Our aim was to encourage local art students, and to encourage local businesses and industries to take an interest in artists," said Murray Irwin of the Arts Council.

He anticipates another bonanza — an increased interest in their community on the part of the young people involved in the project.

Corby's footed the bill for the student's day-long sketching assignment at its Corbyville plant April 18, for the feel for an independent judgment for the prizes.

If the company is satisfied with the calibre of the student works, it will display the paintings in the plant and perhaps across Canada.

It is Mr. Irwin's hope that Corby's initiative will spur other industries into joining and expanding the program.

The judge, young Toronto artist Harold Norrington, will be at Centennial Secondary School this Sunday to pick the winners and talk to the students about their work.

Five schools, Centennial, Quinte, Moira, Trenton and Centre Hastings, participated, with art teachers selecting the students. They made a preliminary tour of Corby's plant to become familiar with its industrial processes, then returned the next day to sketch. They had until today to finish their paintings.

The paintings will be displayed locally at a later date to give Quinte district residents an opportunity to see what their talented young people can do when teamed up with concerned industrialists.

Arthritis Remains Pressing Problem

TRENTON (Staff) — In terms of disability and loss of work days, Dr. H. G. Kelly of Kingston told a public forum here Thursday arthritis "may be even greater than heart disease."

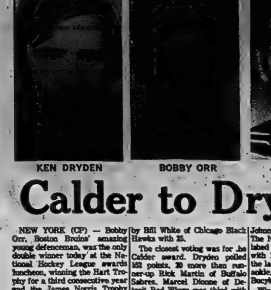
Dr. Kelly and Dr. M. Simurda of the Queen's Rheumatic Disease Unit joined Mrs. Hillary Davis, Trenton Memorial Hospital's senior physiotherapist in a public discussion of arthritis and rheumatism that drew an audience of 125 here.

During the free - wheeling session, Dr. Simgrda told one elderly man enquiring about what he believed to be his rheumatoid arthritis condition "I don't think you have rheumatoid arthritis at all." In an instant analysis from the podium he said "I think you have disc problems and bursitis."

Dr. Simurda seriously questioned the view that taking arthritics to Arizona is an answer. He said there are as many arthritics there as here, however, he said there may be some psychological relief and the constancy of barometric pressure brings more consistancy to the condition.

On the subject of copper bracelets for relieving arthritis, Dr. Kelly told the gathering at Trenton hospital, if they worked he would have gone into the handicraft business and made them.

Both specialists outlined medical treatments available for arthritis but said there had been nothing new "on the therapeutic horizon." The gathering was told that the mildest drug—aspirin — available for treatment may create hearing problems in prolonged doses to the elderly, digestive problems, too. Likewise, the strongest — cortisone — may bring side-effects, including stomach ulcers. The doctors indicated personal favor for injections of cortisone to arthritic joints.



They said breakthroughs have taken place in the last few years in the medical science of replacing joints with artificial ones.

Dr. Kelly told the audience "we see a lot more gout now." He said medications used to arrest heart conditions bring it on but it is controllable.

Art Meets Industry

A group of art students from five Hastings county schools waigh a cooper at Corby Distilleries during the day-long sketching trip they made to the Corbyville plant. The young artist's finished works will be presented for judging today. Later they will go on display at the distilleries and may have national exposure if the company decides the oils acrylics and pen and ink sketches are suitable. A toronto artist will judge the works at Centennial Secondary School Sunday.

KEN DRYDEN BOBBY ORR JEAN RATELLE

Calder to Dryden

NEW YORK (CP) — Bobby Orr, Boston Bruins' amazing young defenceman, was the only double winner today at the National Hockey League awards luncheon, winning the Hart Trophy for a third consecutive year and the James Norris Trophy for the fifth consecutive season, both records.

The Hart Trophy goes to the player "adjudged to be the most valuable to his team" and the Norris "to the defence player who demonstrates throughout the regular season the greatest all-round ability in that position."

Other award winners, selected by members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in the 14 NHL cities, were:

—Ken Dryden, Montreal Canadiens goaltender, the Calder Memorial Trophy as the league's outstanding rookie;

—Jean Ratelle, New York Rangers, the Lady Byng Trophy as the player exhibiting the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability."

Orr's Boston team-mate, centre Phil Esposito, earlier won the Art Ross Trophy as the league's leading scorer with 133 points. It was the third time in four years Esposito had won the award. He scored 76 goals and 152 points in 1970-71.

Esposito's brother, Tony, and Gary Smith collected the Vezina Trophy as the league's leading goaltenders. The Chicago Black Hawks tandem allowed a total of only 168 goals for a 2.12 average. Tony Esposito won the Vezina alone in 1969-70 when he also won Rookie-of-the-Year honors.

The two trophies for Orr, a 24-year-old native of Parry Sound, Ont., brings to 11 the number of individual awards he has amassed in six seasons with the Bruins. Runner-up in the scoring race to Esposito the last two seasons, he is the only NHL defenceman ever to win the scoring title with 120 points in 1969-70.

Dryden's selection as the top rookie was unique in that he had already won a rookie award, the Conn Smythe Trophy as the outstanding performer in last year's Stanley Cup playoff.

Called on by the Canadiens with only nine previous NHL games under his belt, the lanky goaltender came up first from his law studies at McGill University, to appear in a record 28 post-season games en route to the cup championship.

Although Rangers had not had a Lady Byng winner since the 1957-58 season when Camile Henry turned the trick, Ratelle's selection was the 12th in club history, led by Frank Boucher's seven trophies.

No other team has had as many Lady Byng winners.

Orr's selection in the Norris Trophy balloting was the closest to being unanimous among the voters. He collected 304 of a possible 310 points, with 3 each based on five for a first-place choice, three for second and one for third.

Brad Park of New York was a distant second with 117, followed by Bill White of Chicago Black Hawks with 25.

The closest voting was for the Calder award. Dryden polled 103 points, 30 more than runner-up Rick Martin of Buffalo Sabres. Marcel Dionne of Detroit Red Wings was third with 62 points. Only two others received votes.

The widest gap between winner and runner-up was Ratelle's margin over last year's winner, Johnny Bucyk of the Bruins. The New York centre, who finished third in league scoring with 109 points despite missing the last 16 games with a broken ankle, pulled 132 voting points to Bucyk's 53.

Winners of the four individual awards at today's luncheon received $150, $750 going to the runners-up.

Orr picks up $3,000 to go with the $750 he earned as runner-up to Esposito in the scoring race.

Dryden won $1,500 in Calder Trophy money, and third highest voting second to Orr in the Hart Trophy voting.

In addition to his $1,500 prize money, Ratelle also earned $250 as the leading scorer at the half-way mark in the schedule.

During the season, Orr scored 37 goals—qualifying for the Norris defencemen set in 1970-71—and 117 points, the third highest total of his career. His standard for defencemen, 139 points, was also set last year.

Following are the complete voting results for each of the four awards:

Hart Memorial: Orr, Boston 126; Dryden, Montreal 86; Esposito, Boston 57; Ratelle, New York 30; Gerry Cheevers, New York 16; Tony Esposito, Chicago 12; Bobby Hull, Chicago 9; Bobby Clarke, Philadelphia 5; Park, New York 4; Gilbert Perreault, Buffalo 3.

Lady Byng: Ratelle, New York 198; Bucyk, Boston 52; Bobby Hull, Chicago 36; Fred Stanfield, Boston 30; Yvan Cournoyer, Montreal 16; Dave Keon, Toronto 12; Dennis Hull, Chicago 11; Marcel Dionne, Detroit 6; Murray Oliver, Minnesota 6; Dryden, Montreal 4; Perreault, Buffalo 3; Jean Pronovost, Pittsburgh 3; J. C. Tremblay, Montreal 3; Charlie Burns, Atlanta 3; Gordon Berenson, Detroit 3; Pit Martin, Chicago 2; Ed Westfall, Boston 1; Norm Ullman, Toronto 1; Bill Goldsworthy, Minnesota 1; Bill White, Chicago 1; Alex Delvecchio, Detroit 1; Paul Henderson, Toronto 1; Butch Goring, Los Angeles 1; Rod Gilbert, New York 1.

Calder: Dryden, Montreal 102; Martin, Buffalo 132; Dionne, Detroit 81; Chris Oddleifson, California 1; Dave Burrows, Pittsburgh 1.

Blair Biggest Salesman

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — When Blair recalls spending many evenings in Bobby Orr's home at Parry Sound, Ont., talking hockey and baking his sales pitch.

Blair, then a Boston scout who was convincing Orr, now a National Hockey League superstar, to sign a Junior A amateur card that would "obligate him to the Bruins' organization.

"I pretty near moved into Mr. Orr residence for two years," recalled Blair, now general manager of Minnesota North Stars. "Bobby was 14, I signed him to Junior A card to play for Oshawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

"In those days it was strictly salesmanship," said Blair. "Scouts were like insurance salesmen.

"We all had a policy to sell with almost the same dividends. It was wherever could talk in the living room the best."

Blair is still making a persuasive sales pitch with the North Stars, already he has signed all but three of his NHL players for next season, virtually shutting out the new World Hockey Association's chances at acquiring a Minnesota player.

"That doesn't mean the other three aren't signed, either," said Blair.

"I think any other NHL team is even close to the number of players I signed," said Blair, who has signed a new three-year contract himself.

Blair said he started his selections with goaltender Ivy Wilson as early as last December, even when he lay in a hospital bed recuperating from lung surgery.

Blair admits that players are becoming more difficult to sign—"they either have an outside influence (WHA) or think they have. We offered not only money but gave them longer-term contracts."

Blair said he did not mention there could be long court fights if the players did jump.

Seats Sell Selves

OTTAWA (CP) — Without spending a nickel on advertising so far, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has sold roughly 5,000 seats for each of the four games to be played next week in the Memorial Cup finals.

"We'll start advertising Friday," said Gordon Juckes, the CAHA's executive manager in an interview.

The Ottawa rink can seat about 10,000.

For the first time the junior championship will feature winners of Ontario, Quebec and Western Canada leagues in a three-game round-robin. The games will be played Monday, Wednesday and Friday next week.

The two top clubs of the round-robin meet Sunday, May 14, for the cup.

A Memorial Cup committee, established some time ago with the idea of giving the week-long finals a sort of Grey Cup touch, has yet to cause even a ripple of excitement in Ottawa.

The promoters also lost a natural drawing card when Ottawa 67s were eliminated in the OHA finals. The 67s had a playing capacity crowds here.

Aside from the annual Memorial Cup luncheon next Tuesday and a government of Ontario reception Thursday, and Juckes' gatherings have been unspectacular.

It is planned to have players from all three leagues introduced at the Grey Cup ceremonies, however.

Ticket distribution has been just about ruled out. The strike by the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians cooled CBC interest; the CTV network has its schedule filled with Stanley Cup play.

There is talk of CBC taping the junior games and showing the possibility of closed-circuit showing in Quebec.

Cornwall Crowned

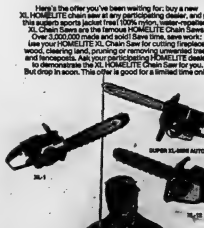
CORNWALL (CP) — Cornwall Royals erupted for three unanswered second period goals and went on to defeat Quebec Remparts 4-1 to win their best-of-seven Eddy Cup championship.

The Royals, only Ontario based team in the 10-team Junior A playoffs, ended the final series by defeating the defending Memorial Cup champions four games to two with one tie.

They now journey to Ottawa to play Peterborough Petes in the Ontario Hockey Association final, the winner of the Western Canada Junior series between Edmonton Oil Kings and Regina Pats in a round-robin championship tournament for the Memorial Cup, emblematic of Canadian junior hockey supremacy.



Cornwall, first-place finishers in the OJAHL regular season, outshot their opponents 50-31.

Allan Cup Teams Resolve Differences

SPOKANE, Wash. (CP) — Spokane Jets and Barrie Flyers have resolved their differences over the dates and site of this year's Allan Cup final for the Canadian senior amateur hockey championship.

The Jets will start a seven-game series with Barrie Flyers at Spokane Saturday night.

The Allan Cup finals of senior series would begin in Spokane Saturday, with the next two games here Sunday and Tuesday. The two clubs will then be idle until May 15, when the fourth game will be played in Spokane. The fifth and sixth games, if necessary, will be played in Spokane May 16 and 17, with the seventh game either in Spokane or back at unspecified British Columbia city.

The problem over dates and sites arose because the Spokane arena had been booked for another attraction May 10-14.

The Flyers protested to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, saying they were unwilling to play games for a six-day period without playing a game.

Gordon Juckes, executive director of the CAHA, announced earlier Thursday a compromise had been reached in which the teams would play their first three games in Spokane, switch to Kimberley, B.C. for the fourth and fifth games and then back to Spokane for the sixth and seventh games, if necessary.

The Spokane spokesman, however, said this compromise plan was not acceptable to the Jets. He said the Jets would forfeit the series rather than play the two games in Kimberley, where only about 1,800 fans could be accommodated. The Spokane

Verdun Folding

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) — A spokesman for the Quebec Junior A Hockey League said Thursday night the league will operate with only nine teams next year, one less than it had this year.

Jacques Marcotte, president of Shawinigan Bruins, said league directors met here Thursday and announced that Montreal Junior Canadiens, formerly of the Ontario Hockey Association, had received their formal acceptance in the league.

He said that the QJAHL directors had also decided to take over the franchise of Verdun Maple Leafs. There will be no Verdun team this year, he said, adding that he did not know what would become of the players in the city.

"We'll probably have a draft," he said.

Another team, St. Jerome Alouettes, was taken over by the league at an earlier meeting.

The league turned down franchise bids by groups from Granby and Hull.

"We were really impressed with their presentations," Mr. Marcotte said, "but we want to operate with only nine teams so that the league will become stronger."

Teams in the league for the 1972-73 season are Cornwall Royals, the only Ontario entry, Quebec Remparts, Sorel Black Hawks, Laval Nationals, Drummondville Rangers, Sherbrooke Beavers, Trois-Rivieres Ducs, Chicoutimi and the Junior Canadiens.

Kings Winning West

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings moved to within one victory of a berth in the Memorial Cup by defeating Regina Pats 4-1 Thursday night. The Oil Kings lead the best-of-seven Western Canada Hockey League final 3-1.

After a scoreless first period, the Oil Kings took a 2-1 second period lead and had little difficulty in clinching the win.

John Rogers, Terry McDonald, Terry Smith and Darcy Rota scored for Edmonton.

Dennis Sobchuk ruined the shutout bid of Larry Hendrick on a breakaway at 11:47 of the second period.

Edmonton did not want to remain in Spokane for the six days between the third and fourth games.

Ball Crowds Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball has been damaged by the first general strike in its history, a fact reflected by a decrease in attendance and a corresponding lowering of the esteem in which the players are held by the fans who foot the bill.

Did any complete analysis of the effect of the strike on the sport awaits two dates:

The first is the beginning of June, when baseball weather is guaranteed and post-season playoffs in other sports have ended, enabling all involved to get a closer look at the reasons behind a drop in major league attendance of more than 300,000.

The second date probably will come after the World Series, but could come earlier, depending on when new negotiations begin on both the sticky pension issue that provoked the strike and the entire general agreement.

The decline in attendance and player esteem plus the question of what happens in the future were the major points coming out of an Associated Press study of the effects of the strike on the game, its players and its backers.

That study showed:

1. Major league attendance is down 318,725 compared with the same number of playing dates last year. It is down more than that in the American League alone, with the National showing a slight increase.

2. The attendance fall possibly could affect the future of three clubs: St. Louis, San Diego and Texas.

3. There has been a call, by Minnesota owner Cal Griffith, for an earlier beginning of contract negotiations, possibly as early as June, so that the issue isn't reached as quickly as it was this year.

4. There has been a call, by Oakland owner Charles O. Finley, to offset any damage to the game by the strike with the installation of changes to make the sport more interesting and entertaining.

That the fans have found the players off base, whether rightly or wrongly, seems evident from several incidents, such as the booing of popular Brooks Robinson at Baltimore and the Reds in Cincinnati.

Frank Cashen, general manager of the Orioles, said some fans had even cancelled season tickets.

"Those who cancelled," he explained, "indicated they did so because the players were greedy and that's the right word —and they didn't choose to continue supporting the sport."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players' association, sees fan response as a natural reaction to the owners' propaganda during the strike.

The average player makes $29,000 a year, not more in one year than the average working American makes in a lifetime, and the players' pension plan is supported, not by gate receipts, but by a share of national television money, he said.

"I think the time is ripe now to make plans for 1973 for steps to improve the game," Finley said.

Finley's methods include inter-league play between American and National leagues and the use of a pinch-hitter for the pitcher without his being taken out of the game.

Tolan's Bat, Tony's Glove Save Reds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Thank God for Bobby Tolan," Sparky Anderson said, but the Cincinnati Reds manager also owed a debt of gratitude to Tony Perez' glove.

Tolan's line-drive triple cemented a 9-5 Reds' triumph Thursday over the troubled St. Louis Cardinals after Perez, a former all-star third baseman playing first base, kept them in the game.

Chicago Cubs downed Atlanta Braves 8-5 in the only other National League game.

The only scheduled American League game between Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles was postponed by rain.

St. Louis had battled to a 4-4 tie in the seventh when Perez made his move.

A shot off Matty Alou's bat seemingly headed for the right field corner was instead speared by the 6-foot-3 Perez and Alou was held to a single.

The bases were jammed as consequences, but sinker-ballist Clay Carroll came on to fan Joe Torre on four pitches and turn the tide.

Tolan's three hits notwithstanding, the Reds' manager took time out to salute the Perez glove.

"Perez's play," said Anderson, "that's a double and they score two runs if he hadn't gotten to the ball, it was some play."

Getting back to the torrid Tolan, Anderson added:

"I was just telling the guys on the bench, 'Thank God for Bobby Tolan. He's leading in doubles, he's leading in triples and he's leading in most hits.'"

Tolan, whose hits boosted his major league-leading average to .426, struck his most telling blow as the Reds exploded for five runs in the eighth.

Milt Pappas pitched a six-hitter and Dick Monday, Jose Cardenal and Jim Hickman supplied the offence as the Cubs defeated the Braves.

Monday tripled home two runs in a four-run rally in the fourth inning while Cardenal drove in two runs with a double and a single. Hickman stroked three singles and scored twice.

Pappas boosted his record to 3-2 while Tom Kelley of Atlanta lost his second game in three decisions.

The three-game sweep over the Braves gave the Cubs a four-game winning streak with five victories in their last six games.

Blue Fan From Happy

OAKLAND (AP) — "Chan Ho Finley has soured my stomach for baseball," says Vida Blue, the Oakland Athletics' pitcher who ended his contract holdout earlier this week.

"I'm not happy but I signed," Blue said.

"If I go out there (to pitch) the first time and don't give 100 per cent, because my attitude has changed, that might be the last game I pitch," said Blue, who expects to make his first mound appearance within three weeks.

Blue signed in Boston for $63,000. He had a $14,750 salary last season, when he was 24-8 and won the American League's Cy Young and most valuable player awards.

Park's Point Shots Revise Bruin Thinking

NEW YORK (CP) — Tom Johnson is going to have to revise his thinking based on the old adage that you can't teach an old dog new tricks.

Johnson's Boston Bruins found Thursday night they had a lot to learn about covering New York's point men as the Rangers crushed them 5-2 to narrow Boston's margin in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final 3-2.

Game No. 4 goes at Madison Square Garden Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. EDT with a fifth game back in Boston Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

"We gave their point men too many wide-open opportunities," said Johnson, taking note of the two power-play goals in the first period by Ranger defenceman Brad Park. "They were bombing us from the point."

"We're just going to have to give more consideration to practising our work on their point men," added the Boston coach, speaking of an obvious weak point in the Boston machine that had seven straight games with the New Yorkers and ended the club's playoff streak of nine victories going into the contest.

Park scored the first National Hockey League defence-man to score two power-play goals in one period of playoff hockey. Camille Consolair of Toronto Maple Leafs set the standard on March 28, 1936, against Boston and it has since been equalled by 34 other forwards.

The young Ranger defenceman also racked up two assists and his four points in the game equalled a team playoff record started by Frank Boucher in 1931 and matched by three other Rangers besides Park.

The outcome never was in doubt after the Rangers had opened up a three-goal lead by 13:36 of the first period, capitalizing on only three times they had a manpower advantage.

Park, Rod Gilbert and Park again sent the Bruins staggering. Mike Walton and Bobby Orr narrowed the gap to 3-2 before Gilbert and Vic Stenkowski finished the scoring in the second period.

After the New Yorkers romped into their early lead, Derek Sanderson, Bruins' penalty-killing ace, saw little vicetime.

"He was involved in their first three power-play goals so I had to make changes," said Johnson of his decision to insert Don Marcotte and Ron Stewart killing out with Ed Westfall.

Johnson didn't fault goaltender Gerry Cheevers as the Rangers quale—"We gave their point men too many wide-open opportunities", said Ed Johnston, who has a 5-0 playoff mark this season to Cheevers' 9-2, will start Sunday's game.

It was an unusually disconsolate Boston dressing room as the Bruins prepared to leave for Boston almost immediately after the game.

BRAD PARK

"It isn't all over," lamented Phil Esposito, the Art Ross Trophy winner as the league's leading scorer over the regular schedule with 133 points. He has been a target for the Rangers whenever he moved into the slot in front of the New York goal.

The victorious Rangers also were suffering.

Veteran defenceman Jim Neilson missed half the game with a strained knee and his replacement, rookie Ab DeMarco, fell on Boston centre Garnet Ratley's skate in the third period and suffered a deep gash on the back of his left thigh. Both men were taken to hospital, where DeMarco underwent surgery which will keep him out of the rest of the series.

That left three defencemen — Park, Rod Seiling and Dale Rolfe — to finish up the blueline chores and they did a masterful job as they had throughout the game.

Emile Francis, New York's general manager-coach, still has Garry Doak and Jim Dorey available to dress. But Doak picked up some unnecessary penalties in the opening two games of 5-0 and 3-1 losses, which portended his benching for Thursday's game. And Dorey, coming back from a shoulder separation, still is not ready.

Seiling, who was an important cog in the Ranger machine, smothering several dangerous shots before they reached goal-tender Eddie Giacomin, said it was most of the Rangers: "Tonight we got the breaks—they didn't."

And one of the breaks in this bedamn game shortly after DeMarco's injury when Boston's Wayne Cashman jammed the puck between Giacomin's pads and into the net only to have referee John Ashley wave it off with a quick whistle.

Esposito Still on Top

Phil Esposito failed to get a point Thursday as New York Rangers defeated Boston Bruins 5-2, but the Boston centre maintained a one-point lead over team-mate Bobby Orr in the Stanley Cup scoring race. Orr scored one goal to bring his total to 18 points on two goals and 17 assists.

| The leaders: | G | A | Pts. |

Whipper Concedes

TORONTO (CP) — After the longest, most gruelling battle of his 31-year-old career, Whipper Billy Watson finally conceded defeat Thursday.

"I now realize that I will not wrestle again," he said as he prepared to enter hospital in nearby Newmarket for a third operation on his left leg.

The 55-year-old wrestler, one of Canada's most popular athletes, was crushed by a skidding automobile against the trunk of his car on last November. Lacerations and muscles in his left leg were damaged and five bones in his right leg were chipped.

Even before feeling returned to his legs, he was optimistic.

"The doctors say they can get one back on my feet," he said from his hospital bed shortly after the accident. "If they can get me walking, then I'll be wrestling."

He plans to continue his work as a director of the Ontario Society of Crippled Children.

Walk Golf's Asset

MONTREAL (CP) — Alex Wright, physical education director of Montreal's central YMCA, has some bad news for the weekend golfer who chooses his favorite game as a means of physical fitness.

"You've got to do something other than play golf to get fit," Wright told a meeting of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association.

"Golf just doesn't use up much energy."

And Wright produced surveys and detailed physiological studies to back up his theory—a theory that runs counter to the golfer's ethic that "it's my one chance to keep in shape."

A three-hour round of golf uses up only about 700 calories, Wright's studies showed. And the average 11 holes is broken down into these percentages of time per activity:

—Standing around—35 per cent;

—Putting—30 per cent;

—Making shots—nine per cent.

—Walking—36 per cent.

"But it's this 36-per-cent walking that uses up 60 per cent of the calories," Wright said. "So you can see it's the walking, not the game, that takes the energy."

By Wright's calculations golf ranks low in comparison to other sports in calories expended. Another study showed that golf takes approximately 225 calories each hour compared with 335 for just walking, 600 for cycling and 699 for jogging.

What, then, must the average golfer do to get a better workout on the course?

"Well, one thing, try going without a caddie," Wright said. "Also, try jogging between your shots—or at least walk fast."

Wright would like to see, for the exercise benefits, longer golf courses.

"And as for golf carts, that's just stupid," Wright adds. "We've already shown that only 10 per cent of your calories and time are used making shots. With a cart, that means you use only 70 calories each round.

"You could get more exercise by walking around inside your house."

And one last word of advice:

"Avoid the 19th hole. Go swimming instead — often there's a pool nearby."

Action like this will begin for real Wednesday when the Bay of Quinte Soccer league opens the regular schedule. The local senior league will have seven entries for the upcoming season with Parsons and United representing Belleville. Teams have been working on conditioning this winter and holding outdoor practices for the past two weeks.

Soccer Involving More Homebrews

"It used to be, that if you wanted to form a soccer team, you checked the immigration lists to see who had moved into the area from the old country. Now you watch the older divisions of minor soccer and junior players to see who might be able to help you," advises Bay of Quinte soccer president Peter Crowle.

While players who learned their soccer skills in England, Italy, Scotland or Germany still dominate the local league, the recent boom in minor soccer is beginning to be felt in the Quinte league.

"Canadian players are becoming more and more prevalent," notes Crowle, "the standard of soccer has fallen off a bit, I'll admit, but we're moving in the right direction. We're just beginning to get a feedthrough from high school and minor soccer graduates."

The minor soccer explosion that has made possible this trend is pointed out by the Trenton Minor Soccer Association which has registered 400 boys for this season. Last year the figure was 280, while in 1970 only 160 boys participated in the sport.

The Bay of Quinte league will operate as a seven-team unit this year, comprised of Belleville United, Whitby Travellers, CFB Trenton, Belleville Parsons, Quinte Transport, Warkworth Penitentiary and Bata Braves.

Each team will play a home - and - home series with the other league entries, while exhibition games with Picton, Cobourg and possibly another Belleville team will be arranged on a regular basis.

Regular league games will be played Wednesday and Thursday nights with the opener set for next Wednesday when Whitby Travellers meet CFB Trenton in a 6:30 p.m. bout at Centennial Park.

Top players in the area will have something to aim for besides helping their teams in the league. An all-star tournament has been arranged for mid - September with the best players from Ottawa, Smiths Falls, Oshawa, Peterborough and the Quinte league meeting in Belleville for a two - day tournament.

Members of the Ontario Soccer Association selection committee will be on hand to scout prospective members for the provincial team.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Riva Ridge, a winner of many important stakes and more than $500,000, will oppose 15 other three-year-olds in the Kentucky Derby Saturday, including Dr. Neale, which has run in four races and earned $6,347.

Riva Ridge, Meadow Stud's 1971 two-year-old champion, is the early favorite while Dr. Neale, owned and trained by Chuck Nicholas, was put in the mutuel field after being entered Thursday for the 98th running of the Derby at Churchill Downs.

If there are no scratches, the derby will gross $182,800, making it second only to last year's $186,000 renewal as the richest derby ever. Saturday's winner's share will be $140,300.

Thurlow township will be attempting to take a page from the Tweed Hockey Association's book next winter.

An attempt is being made to form a Thurlow Minor Hockey Association for the 1972-73 season. Last year Thurlow teams had participated in the Belleville house leagues.

A second meeting to help organize the proposed league has been scheduled for Wednesday, May 10 in the Thurlow Township Hall in Canniffton after a recent organizational meeting resulted in too small a turnout.

Badminton Sits Tight

The Central Ontario Badminton club plans to maintain the status quo next season.

The league was split into two divisions this year with Peterborough, Oshawa, Whitby and Cobourg making up the western section while Kingston, Trenton, Belleville and Napanee comprise the eastern half.

Oshawa managed to win the association championship before finishing second in a tournament with the Toronto and Ottawa district winners. The COBA plans to continue the two-division format next season.

New Law To Stop Strikes

TORONTO (CP) — Deadlocked labor disputes for 54,000 Ontario civil servants and Crown agency employees will go automatically to binding arbitration instead of resulting in strikes, under a bill introduced Thursday in the legislature.

The tradition of compulsory arbitration has developed over the years in civil service negotiations and this bill formalizes the procedure.

In November, 1970 the government introduced a bill to formalize collective bargaining for Crown employees. But both labor and management said it was inflexible so it never got past first reading.

Charles MacNaughton, chairman of the cabinet's management board, told the legislature Thursday this bill, called an Act to Provide for Collective Bargaining for Crown Employees, contains five major differences from the 1970 bill:

—The cabinet loses the right to exclude any matter or classification from collective bargaining;

—Matters which can be taken to the bargaining table are widened;

—Penalties for contravening the act will apply to the employer as well as the employee;

—A union gaining 50 per cent of votes cast, instead of 50 per cent of the eligible votes, wins the right to represent the employees;

—The Ontario Provincial Police and employees of colleges of applied arts and technology are excluded. Their bargaining will be covered under other bills.

Farm Bill Hits Flak

OTTAWA (CP) — The latest Liberal farm legislation ran into sustained opposition flak in the Commons Thursday, with Conservatives and New Democrats moving to shoot down the whole proposal.

And a Social Credit MP renewed an old request for separate agriculture departments for Eastern and Western Canada.

The bill—an amendment to the Farm Credit Act—contains two main provisions:

—It would increase the lending powers of the Farm Credit Corp., a Crown corporation which makes loans to farmers;

—It would empower the corporation to administer the government small-farms program —announced last year—permitting it to buy unproductive farmland from owners going out of business and to sell the land to young farmers.

But in two days of debate, opposition MPs have complained that the legislation will not improve the prospects of farmers.

Shoddy Work To Be Checked

OTTAWA (CP) — Protection for new home owners against shoddy workmanship is under discussion by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. and contractors, Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford said Thursday.

Mr. Basford, appearing before a Commons committee, said he is particularly concerned about low-income families. They are "virtually defenceless" when problems arise in construction of homes, he declared.

Immigration Laws to Change

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation to replace Canada's loophole-ridden Immigration Act will be brought before Parliament next fall, Immigration Minister Bryce Mackasey said Thursday.

He said in an interview following a meeting of the Commons immigration committee that the bill will not end the right of visitors to apply for landed immigrant status but procedures will be introduced to reduce the huge number of appeals clogging the immigration appeal board.

Budget Pause

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons will have its customary two-day break to digest the government's budget prior to parliamentary debate, Government House Leader Allan MacEachen said Thursday.

Eight Resign

OTTAWA (CP) — State Secretary Gerard Pelletier told the Commons Thursday that eight Quebec staff members of Opportunities for Youth have resigned, claiming political interference with project selections.

Name to Change

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau hinted Thursday that the government will introduce a bill shortly to rename Dominion Day as Canada Day.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, May 6

Aries (March 21-April 19): Long-term emotional commitments now prove stringent and austere, but worthwhile. Hobbies and pastimes offer satisfying activity.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): New information includes some items that upset your plans but is, in general, constructive and in time for corrective moves.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You are more on your own than usual; use the chance for all you can squeeze into the hours of the day. Self-improvement has top priority.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Go back to old associates, for reassurance, something to measure your growth. You can be of great service to someone who needs help.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Everything opens before you according to your good-humored appearance. An early start helps.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may have to supply most of the incentive and energy to get things done. Select your targets carefully; give specific items precedence.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): Tidy up! You can improve your resources with judicious minor changes. Begin early and keep moving.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): Make sure nobody has a wrong schedule set for cooperative efforts. Choose light-hearted diversions once the routines are done.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Special treatment is not your lot this time around. Intellectual activities thrive but no favors are available now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Concentrate on completing what you have started. Asking advice may generate side issues, interference. Short trips are favored.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): It may take some doing but it's worth the effort to obtain real understanding today. Go after the things you really want.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): This seems more like a "private world" sort of day, to be devoted to purely personal concerns and your own favorite territory.

Wrestler Loses Too Much Weight

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our 16-year-old son joined his high school wrestling team. I think it is a fine sport but one thing bugs me.

He was a well-built lad, not overweight, always having pretty correct eats and food. He trained hard but his coach is a fanatic on weight and the boy had to lose several pounds.

This was not done with a proper diet but by going hungry and in any way possible to get down a few pounds.

He is not doing well and he looks pale with red eyelids. I hate to do it but my better judgment tells me to pull him out before he runs into real trouble.

Some of the boys on the team go for a couple of days without eating a thing in order to qualify for a match. Would you please make some public comment on this.—W.F.

Is this public enough?

I think wrestling is a good sport, too, but not at the expense of proper nutrition. A low-calorie diet with ample protein will give him strength and slow weight loss.

In my experience, most coaches have a keen regard for the health of their boys but when a fanatic starves his boys as this one is doing, he has lost perspective on what life and coaching are all about.

I fervently hope that he developed some sense immediately.

If not, if it were my son, I would insist that he either ignore the coach's commands and directions or quit the team—and most certainly inform the school authorities why.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 72. Lately after driving about 30 miles I get a pain in the back of my upper right thigh and the leg gets a little numbness. Left leg not affected.

If I stop and walk around the car a couple of times the pain is gone. Would the tension of holding the right foot on the accelerator cause a strain on the sciatic nerve?—CEP

Your tension idea is probably correct. Two suggestions: Adjust the seat to lessen stretching of the leg or consider a small support for your lower back.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The time is after dark, the place a concrete-walled basement, outdoor temperatures 40 degrees, inside 70, humidity very high.

In the group present is a lightly-oiled baby, less than half-oiled, sleeping in a shallow seat. I suggested a lightweight cover for the sleeping baby and I want my opinion the baby might not have the medium to offset the conditions in the basement.

Was my suggestion one of merit or of ignorance?—E.W.

Merit. While a baby's metabolism is rather high, all body processes, metabolism, pulse rate, blood pressure) decrease with sleep.

At 70 degrees, the youngster could be cold unless given some lightweight cover.

Dear Doctor: Would you please tell me why the person who drinks a lot has such an extension of the stomach?—N.N.

Not stomach, belly. Well, alcohol represents a lot of calories as the steady drinker sometimes gets fat. And sometimes the liver develops cirrhosis and there's swelling due to an accumulation of excess fluid as a result. And sometimes the chronic elbow-bender just doesn't get much general exercise.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

Bidding Quiz

Partner bids One Notrump, next player passes, both sides vulnerable. What would you respond with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠4 ♥AJ976 ♦J83 ♣J98
2. ♠KJ3 ♥QJ8 ♦AJ976 ♣Q62
3. ♠AJ8 ♥KJ9 ♦KJ9 ♣AQJ10

1. There hearts. There should be no doubt about trying for game opposite a 16 to 18 point notrump, and you can accomplish his by either jumping to three hearts, forcing partner to bid again, or by going directly to four hearts.

Some players, unfamiliar with point count, bid 1 ♥ hearts with this hand and—either partner passes this non-forcing response and then make 10 or three tricks — whereupon the opener did not bid again. They don't realize that they would probably bid two hearts if their hand were to ♠4 ♥2975 ♦2 ♣9862—♠962. There.

There is a world of difference between a jump to game and a response of two hearts with each of them would not begin to reflect the disparity between them.

2. Three notrump. With 10 high-card points and a good five-card suit facing a notrump, there is very little doubt that the best response is three notrump. It is idle to worry about the lack, of strength in spades and hearts; partner is likely to have both these suits well controlled. An eleven-trick game in a minor suit should be dismissed from serious consideration.

3. Three diamonds. Holding 11 high-card points, game must certainly be undertaken, but whether the best contract lies in notrump or a suit is at this point unclear. Accordingly, you jump to three diamonds, suggesting a distaste for notrump and hoping that partner will clarify the nature of his hand more precisely. If his rebid is three notrump, you should accept his judgment and pass.

4. Six notrump. There is no need to shilly-shally when you know that the combined point count comes to either 33, 34 or 35 points and there is no particularly good reason to seek a suit contract rather than notrump.

The vast majority of hands where the combined assets total 28 high - card points is playable at a slam, and, when the total may come to even more than that, there is a proportionately increased chance of success. Of course, a grand slam is out of the question, for the magic number in that case is 37.

Tomorrow: A big swing.

Take Off Fat With Home Recipe Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonfuls twice a day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly fat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Heath Expects Canada to Benefit

LONDON (Reuter) — Prime Minister Edward Heath said in Parliament Thursday he believed Canada considered it would have greater trade opportunities with an enlarged European Common Market.

Indians Not Exempted From Registering Guns

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — Provincial Judge R. B. Baxter ruled Thursday that a 1923 treaty with the king of England does not exempt Canadian Indians from provisions of the Criminal Code relating to the carrying of unregistered, restricted firearms.

He made the ruling in sentencing Kenneth Marsden, former chief of the Mississauga Indians at Alderville, Ont., to a one-year suspended sentence.

Marsden was charged in February, 1971, with having a 22-calibre revolver in his possession.

During the trial last August, the defence argued that the 1923 treaty permitted hunting on reserves and did not require Indians to register weapons used in hunting.

Marsden said he carried the gun as protection against wild animals and for finishing off game caught on his trap lines.

"To say, or even suggest for a minute, that members of a reservation are not protected by provisions of the Criminal Code is absurd," said the judge.

"However, I believe Mr. Marsden probably felt he was not breaking the law and had the right to carry this gun under the treaty. Therefore, I feel this matter can be dealt with by a one-year suspended sentence with no probation."

Church Denies Anti-Semitism

TORONTO (CP) — The executive of the general council of the United Church of Canada has denied a anti-Semitism among church leaders and expressed deep concern at the church's alienation from Canadian Jews.

The executive acts for the general council, which is the church's highest court. Its statement came Thursday after Jewish theologian Emil L. Fackenheim said:

"This executive is deeply concerned about the indications of a climate of alienation and mistrust between the United Church of Canada and a large portion of the Canadian Jewish community. We cannot absolve ourselves as a church from our share in the heavy responsibility for allowing this deterioration of Jewish-Christian brotherhood to take place."

The statement said the church was mindful of the long history of Christian persecution of the Jews and continued:

"We disavow the allegation that the leadership of the United Church of Canada is, or has been, anti-Jewish. We realize that we live in a society where racism, including anti-Semitism, permeates much of our common life and we reaffirm our determination to purge ourselves and our society of coercions and unconscious racism and to be guided by that principle in all our efforts to press for a just and durable peace in the Middle East."

Airport May Close

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The city attorney says that unless the Los Angeles International Airport is protected against anti-noise lawsuits, it should close. Roger Arneberg told officials Wednesday that $4 billion in such suits are pending against the airport and unless the airlines or federal government guarantees to pay any such suits lost, "then we should close the airport within 30 days."

Arneberg is accused the church and the church's official magazine, the United Church Observer, of anti-Semitism during a speech in Saskatoon Wednesday.

The United Church statement said:

Lots of Smoke

OTTAWA (CP) — Slightly more than 52 billion cigarettes and 633.7 million cigars were produced in Canada last year, Statistics Canada reports.

Search Illegal

TORONTO (CP) — A 24-year-old man found with a bag of marijuana inside his underpants had a narcotics possession charge against him dismissed after Provincial Judge Hugh Foster ruled the man's nervousness did not give police "a reasonable grounds to search him.

The case against Robert Loggie, of Toronto, was heard April 7. The federal justice department, which prosecuted him, has not filed an appeal.

Plant Ready Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian-assisted nuclear power plant in Pakistan, plagued by a variety of troubles since work began six years ago, is expected to be completed this summer.

A spokesman for Canadian General Electric, which built the plant, said Wednesday it will be officially turned over to the Pakistani at the end of July. This would put it about a year behind schedule.

Grant Possible

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government might be prepared to advance capital for a garbage recycling program in Kingston but does not want to get involved in the operation of the plant, Environment Minister James Auld said Thursday.

He said he discussed the project with two faculty members from Queen's University in February and then talked it over with federal and municipal representatives.

Inspection Likely

TORONTO (CP) — Annual safety inspections may be required for all cars in Ontario within three years, a provincial environment department engineer said Thursday.

Libel Award

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Supreme Court judge has found the Vancouver Sun libelled the two sons of Premier W. A. C. Bennett and has awarded damages of $16,000.

Police Absolved

BRAMPTON (CP) — A coroner's jury shrugged police of blame Thursday in the Feb. 22 shooting death of a former psychiatric patient.

An inquest into the death of William Gibbins, 22, was told that a policeman shot and killed him after he swung a knife at two Brampton police officers.

Students Plan Trips Abroad

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian students will visit Germany, Japan and the Soviet Union under travel grants announced Wednesday by the secretary of state's department.

The grants include $9,000 to the Canadian-Generan Academic Exchange Association, Windsor, for a summer trip to Germany by 243 students from across Canada; $5,975 to the Ontario Modern Language Teachers' Association for a summer visit to the USSR by 25 students; and $1,085 to the Cadets of Ville Emard, Montreal for a May visit by 71 persons to take part in the St. Catharines folk arts council.

Duties Imposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Preliminary anti-dumping duties have been imposed on certain steel products from Japan, Sweden, and Austria, the revenue department said Thursday.

The department's preliminary finding of dumping applies to stainless flat rolled steels from Japan and Sweden, plus some alloy tool steel bars from Sweden and Austria. The latter category does not include certain high-speed mould steel and die blocks.

Dumping occurs when goods are sold in Canada at prices below their normal value in the country of export.

If a full investigation by the anti-dumping tribunal finds that the dumping does not hurt Canadian manufacturers, the duties will be refunded.

Legion Staff of 150 Works Round the Clock to Feed Rotarians

By COLIN BEDUE
Staff Reporter

It took over 1,000 scrambled eggs this morning to ease some of the breakfast pangs of some 500 Rotarian delegates who attended an early bird breakfast at the Legion Hall.

Bid for Chef Perry Davidson and his assembled crew of 150 staff members it was only the start of a hectic weekend which will see them place a total of 22,500 plates before hungry diners.

We have been running around in circles for the past weeks trying to get our hands on the necessary equipment to feed a convention of this size, says the Legion's resident chef.

A wine and cheese party at the Four Seasons Hotel last night, sponsored by the Picton Rotary, was the first test of the local conference, as over 1,000 delegates and wives registered and met local representatives.

The general comment was the atmosphere of the conference was great.

"You get to know people much more quickly than you would at the conference held in Toronto," said a delegate from Preston.

This is only the second time in some 50 years that the district conference has not been held in the Royal York Hotel.

The people here are depending on themselves rather than on the facilities available to really make the conference a success," said Wilfred Wilkinson, district Rotary Governor.

Sing-songs and entertainment provided by the Trenton Citizens' Band and CFB Trenton Sing Out group kept the pace going while delegates filled the hotel.

All yesterday, members of the Legion ladies auxiliary set tables for this morning's breakfast.

Once the people have finished, the work will begin of clearing the tables, setting head tables and preparing for the big-bird of the weekend, the governor's banquet.

To cope with the quantity of food to be cooked, the mammal kitchen staff of three has been boosted to 12, with an additional three cooks, to assist Mr. Davidson.

The Legion was approached by the Belleville Rotary Club last September, and ever since that time has been working behind the scenes to prepare for the three-day event.

"We should have spent more time assessing the capabilities of the cooking facilities," said Mr. Davidson. "We will make out but the kitchen, after all, is designed to handle a banquet of about 250. Not the 700 who will be dining this weekend."

Dinner preparations will include cooking 600 pounds of wine-marinated beef, and 200 pounds of carrots and beans.

This is in addition to the 60 pounds of shrimp that must be cleaned and prepared for cocktails.

"It is driving us up a wall right now, but we will make it," said the chef.

Meter Loss Amount Differs

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Picton mayor Margaret Ackerman and John Mason chairman of the Picton Police Commission yesterday denied that more than $2,300 had been removed from town parking meters in recent months, contradicting a figure quoted in council by Picton reeve Albert Fresh.

Both the mayor and Mr. Mason agreed that a $1,000 "shortage" occurred last year and claimed an additional $30 to $40 drop in revenue was recorded in April of this year.

In a special report to council last Monday, town clerk Andrew Jarvis stated locks on the meters had been changed at a cost of approximately $300 and mentioned that the coin cans in all parking meters on the Market Square adjacent to the police station were empty on April 19 when the meter attendant made her daily inspection.

Reeve Fresh told council that approximately $2,300 had been taken from the meters last year and said the April shortage totalled $300 to $400, according to statements made at a public works committee meeting.

Mayor Ackerman yesterday claimed Mr. Fresh's figures were "not accurate at all" and when asked why she failed to challenge them during the council meeting, said she had not heard what the reeve stated.

Police Commission chairman Mason admitted yesterday he used the figures quoted by reeve Fresh were "out of proportion" and suggested the shortage in meter monies could easily be attributed to the heavy snow storms last year which prevented meter attendants from depositing coins in the parking meters.

He said if they had counted the parking meters at the Market Square and discovered there were only $1,000 instead of the eight hours of parking for 40 cents.

The daily revenue from each of the meters could therefore total $7.20 and it would be impossible for a single theft to net the culprit the sum of $300 to $400 mentioned by reeve Fresh.

Mr. Mason further remarked revenue from the parking meter itself could be lowered slightly because of the parking meter attendant's courtesy in stopping into shops where she

Delegates Walked in While Band Played On

Rotary governor Wilfred Wilkinson is all smiles while he chats with Ted Snider, conductor of the Trenton Citizens Band. The band was at the front door of the Four Seasons Hotel last night, livening the pace as delegates filed into the hotel for the three-day conference. This gathering will represent the largest of its kind to enter the city and is proving a good test for the accommodation and cooking facilities. Business meetings were scheduled for the men during the afternoon while wives attended luncheons and a reception at the Sun Valley, home of the Belleville Rotary Club. Weekend activities will end with a Sunday luncheon.

Hijack Pair Reach Goal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two gunmen, one seeking money and parachutes and the other seeking United States withdrawal from Indochina and passage to a Communist country, took over two U.S. airliners Friday in separate marathon hijackings.

The first hijacker bailed out of an Eastern Air Lines jetliner over a remote Mexican jungle today while the second man forced a Western Airlines jetliner with 61 persons aboard to Cuba.

One hijack began Friday morning aboard an Eastern Air Lines 727 jetliner shortly after it left Allentown, Pa. After two stops at Washington's Dulles Airport and one in New Orleans, the plane headed for Belize, British Honduras.

However, the sky pirate jumped from the airliner near Yoro, a village along the border between Mexico and British Honduras. The aircraft earlier had flown to Belize but headed back to Mexico without landing.

It was presumed the skyjacker jumped with the $$$1,000 in ransom which he took during a stop in Washington.

The hijacker was given the money and six parachutes in return for releasing the 44 passengers and one stewardess among seven crew members, but he returned to Dulles to exchange his ransom for one in bills of larger denomination.

The other hijack began Friday afternoon shortly after a Western Airlines 737 jet left Salt Lake City for Los Angeles. In Los Angeles, the hijacker released four children and seven adult passengers and had he wanted to be flown to Hanoi, North Vietnam; but decided instead on Cuba.

The Federal Aviation Administration in Washington said the plane landed at Havana Airport at 7:37 a.m. EDT.

"We have no details," an FAA spokesman said. "All we know is that it is on the ground in Havana."

Torpedo Ambulance Attempted

KELLOGG, Idaho (Reuter) — Miners with respirator packs searching through the smoke-filled Sunshine silver mine late Friday night found three more bodies to bring the death toll in Tuesday's fire to 35.

Mine manager Marvin Chase said heroes are still held for the 27 still missing, believed to be crushed. A second correspondent for Reuters said he saw rescue workers carry the bodies of two miners to the surface in air valves a mile deep in the mine.

But with new experienced rescue teams arriving from British Columbia and neighboring states Tuesday, a second approach from the west through the heart of the middle-level fire area was opened Friday.

A third, more unusual rescue attempt by a hastily-constructed man-carrying torpedo down a 2,000-foot ventilator shaft was being planned for late today if the smoke continues to hamper the conventional rescue.

Experts from the federal bureau of mines were to be lowered down in the torpedo which would then be hauled into an ambulance to haul out any survivors one by one.

Marmora Man Gives Rare Blood

A Marmora man's blood was among the five units sent to Charleston, South Carolina to help a woman from possible death during an operation.

Glen Hamilton was one of five donors thanked by the city of Charleston today for his donation of rare Lutheran-B-negative blood.

Gloria Reid, 47, mother of three sons, had a non-malignant tumor removed at the Medical University Hospital, Charleston, Friday. She is in satisfactory condition. An appeal for the rare blood for the operation went out last week and five Ontario donors responded.

Tip From Top

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — The man responsible for the increased provincial sales tax on liquor has told how to get around it.

All you have to do is buy 48-ounce bottles instead of 25-ounces—the savings on the bigger bottle is more than offset the increased sales tax—Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough told local members of the Purchasing Management Association of Canada here Wednesday.

Troops Harrassed

BELFAST (AP) — Guerrilla snipers harassed British troops in Northern Ireland today in a wave of hit-and-run raids.

Troops said they were fired on in Londonderry, Lurgan and Coalisland by gunmen who fled after a few quick rounds and then fled.

There were no army casualties and soldiers returned the fire only once.

Kashmir Fighting Serious

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — Heavy fighting between the Indian and Pakistan armies raged throughout the night in Kashmir in the most serious violation of the ceasefire since the Indo-Pakistan war ended in December.

Informed sources said casualty figures in the fighting, in which artillery was used, were heavy and there could be more than 100 killed and injured.

The fighting came only a week after emissaries of the two countries met in Pakistan to lay the groundwork for a summit conference late this month or early next month between President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India.

Jetliner Crash Kills 115

PALERMO, Sicily (Reuter) — An Alitalia DC-8 jetliner carrying 115 persons smashed into a mountain during the night while coming in to land here in bad weather, exploding in a ball of flames and setting surrounding woods on fire.

All 108 passengers, mostly Italians, and the seven crew members were feared to have died in the blazing wreckage scattered over a wide area of the 2,250-foot-high Montagna Longa Longa Mountain.

Several hours after the crash late Friday night, rescue teams, sailing under floodlights dragged up the mountainside, said they had found most of the bodies.

All were charred and badly mutilated and strewn over the steep, wood-covered slopes near the peak of the Montagna Longa, part of a chain of mountains ringing Palermo's Punta Raisi Airport.

Election Platform Taking Shape as Ministers Present Goodies

OTTAWA (CP) — They're coming a sliver a a time, but the Liberals have been busy lately hammering together the pieces of what could emerge as the government's election platform of accomplishments.

The Commons has spent the week hearing government pronouncements based at an array of voter groups.

For everybody, there was the Policy on foreign ownership.

The Budget-I

While the political impact of that is still unclear, it evoked shouts of relief from businessmen.

For the unemployed, there was the announcement Friday of a $30-million addition to the winter employment program, turning part of it into a summer employment program.

For the young, there was the strong lift from State Secretary Gerard Pelletier that more money is in the offing to complement the Opportunities for Youth summer work programs.

For women, there was a proudly-read list of the good things the federal government has done for them, duly applauded the next day by a Liberal party study group on women.

For farmers, there was debate on a bill to loosen the lending regulations of the Farm Credit Corp.

What could be the two largest vote-getters are yet to come. Finance Minister John Turner will bring down a budget Monday that might bring juicy tax cuts. And farther off is a new housing policy—promised for this spring —aimed at making it easier and cheaper to get mortgages.

Smaller pre-election tidbits have also been offered this week in the Commons.

Otto Lang, minister responsible for the Canadian Wheat board, told the Commons that grain hoarded in the port of Vancouver reached record levels in April—good news for prairie farmers who have been dogged this winter by rail and harbor tie-ups.

'Bad Joke'

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Friday night the new federal policy on foreign investment is a "bad joke . . . a fraud and a deception."

And Veterans Affairs Minister Arthur Laing hinted Friday that veterans' pensions may be increased sooner than next year.

Outside the House, Prime Minister Trudeau met westerners' hurrahs when he told a northern Alberta audience last weekend of government policies for a highway to the Arctic.

The Budget-II

Hard Times May Be Ending

OTTAWA (CP) — When Finance Minister John Turner presents his budget to the Commons Monday, it could mark the end of the years during which Canada was hit by recession, inflation and unemployment.

Liberal spokesmen have been saying that the economy is already well on its way to recovery, but that the budget will be the need to give it a boost through tax incentives and cancellation of orders to replace the RCMP pistols with Police ton cars and offices of the force.

Margaret Meister Bryce Mackasey had two gifts for voters in the Commons Friday.

First, he told the Commons that about 1,200 of the 2,000 men under the federal Local Initiatives Program would get $30 million to continue until Sept. 30. He said they were chosen because of their contribution to their communities and the quality of life.

Other projects under the 4,000-man LIP are to end May 31, but some have been approved to run to Dec. 16. About $2,000 jobs were created under the program, the government says.

greater government spending.

Some economists are say cuts in corporate income tax rates may be made to stimulate the business sector. Others look for tax changes to reflect Britain's entry into the Common Market.

Mr. Turner has to decide whether the economy needs further stimulation, and if so whether it should go primarily to the business sector or to the consumers. Alternatively if inflation is about to return, he could stand pat or even begin easing the brakes on.

His options are enhanced by the reported availability of an extra $900 million in government accounts, the result of higher-than-expected tax revenues since the new tax system came into effect Jan. 1. The "found money" could finance tax cuts without producing a heavy and inflationary deficit for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Meter Loss Disputed

Reeve Pirolli maintained yesterday his figures are correct and said he was "appalled to learn the matter is using a figure of $1,500" in view of a letter dated January 31 and signed and addressed to all members of council.

He read the letter signed by town clerk Andrew Jarvis explaining that it stated "in comparing the revenues from parking meter collections for the period from January 1, 1971 to July 1, 1970, with the same period in 1971 there appears to be a loss of revenue of some $2,300.

The letter added the short age was not reported to council earlier because the total of the occurrences warranted restricted publication to extend to the chief of police the best possible opportunity to investigate the occurrences and provide responsible information to the person or persons responsible."

Reeve Pirolli requested a full report of the meter fund shortages for town council but was told by police commissioner that police chief George Pitt refuses to only to the police commission.

The reeve then asked for the police commission's report of the matter and was told in council that the report was not ready but that he could see no reason why it could not be made.

Yesterday reeve Piroth told the press he is dissatisfied with the police commission's report, he will "exercise his rights" and demand a full investigation.

A and P Food Stores this week introduced their WEO—Where Economy Originates campaign to the Quinte region resulting in the lowest prices this area has seen in two years.

Dominion and Miracle Food Mart have been mounting a price - cut campaign for the past month, but with A and P's move Monday, the battle has become a day-to-day affair with only the consumer winning.

A and P launched its promotion with a four-page home flyer proclaiming "Don't bother comparing prices. We've already done it for you."

The Intelligencer decided to do its own price survey, based on 16 items advertised in the flyer. Comparative costs revealed Miracle to be the current leader at $6.35, Dominion second at $6.41 and A and P a close third at $6.66. Food City and Loblaws, which so far have refused to enter the war, were far behind at $7.84 and $8.25, although both stores offer bargains on other brand names.

While the actual figures could be haggled to produce slightly different results, the trend is clear. Miracle and Dominion don't want to be left behind.

When A and P came out with a 19 cent bargain eggs, Miracle went one better with a nine cent campaign. Dominion was advertising two-roll packs of toilet tissue at 34 cents Wednesday, only to drop the price by two cents when A and P came out with a lower price.

Some examples show the savings now available: 24 can cases of coca-cola, $2.89 a month ago, are only $2.14 at Miracle. One-pound bags of Dare's chocolate chip cookies, regularly 59 cents, now go for 39 cents at Dominion.

Butter is 69 cents through out the area and Maritime potatoes are down to 34 cents for 10-pound bags.

Robert McGrall, manager of Miracle Food Mart on the Quinte Mall, predicts the price war will continue for another five weeks:

"That's the campaign is like Dominion's two years ago. It takes about two months for results of something like this to show and since A and P is a corporation, it has to publish every two months."

A and P inaugurated the campaign in Southern Ontario several weeks ago.

Mr. McGrall added that he expects prices to remain fairly stable until A and P terminates their promotion. No extra staff has been hired at Miracle to meet the increased business.

So the message seems clear to all consumers: Eat up!

College Salaries Raised

Staff members of Ontario community colleges were awarded a salary hike of seven per cent in a decision handed down by Judge J. C. Anderson, chairman of the Ontario Arbitration Board.

Teachers at the 20 colleges, including Loyalist staff here, will receive a seven per cent, 9 per cent retroactive to September 1971. In September 1972, they will receive a further increase of 5½ per cent.

In addition, every teacher who has been with the colleges for two or more years will be granted a lump sum of $225 to cover the period back to 1968.

This is a contract we can live with" said Loyalist president Herbert Young, in announcing Judge Anderson's award. Full details will be available to the colleges within two weeks.

Judge Anderson resigned from the board of governors to take the chairmanship of the arbitration board. He was the first chairman of Loyalist's board.

His award also specifies teaching loads for college faculties.

Teachers of academic post-secondary courses are expected to teach from 16 to 22 hours a week, with an average over a 10-month period of about 19 hours.

Teachers of crafts, skills and academic upgrading at the elementary and secondary school level are expected to teach 22 to 27 hours a week, averaging out to 25 hours over a 10 month period.

The school year has been set at 10 months, and no member of the faculty can take on other employment during the school year without permission from the college.

Governor Resigns

Donald Hodgins of Tweed has resigned from the Board of Governors of Loyalist College after 4½ years with the group. He gave "responsibilities of business expansion" as the reason for his withdrawal. The Council of Regents, governing body for all Ontario's community colleges, is expected to appoint someone to fill his position within three or four months.

Wright to Speak

Dr. Douglas Wright, chairman of the Wright Commission on post-secondary education in Ontario, will be the speaker at the annual Loyalist College graduation June 9.

Norman Steen, chairman of the Council of Regents, will also be a guest at the ceremonies and will be presented with an honorary degree from the college. Health Minister Dr. R. F. Potter was invited but the pressure of his cabinet work will prevent his attendance.

Trail on TV

CKWS-TV Kingston, channel 11, will carry a 10-minute color release Saturday at 6:50 p.m. on the Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail. Featured will be a section of the trail north of Belleville in the Oak Hills region.

Commentary is provided by project administrator Grant Harvey and by Roger Dichelo supervisor of the trail's central section.

PACE Seeks Funds

Clarence Young, pollution fighter and chairman of the executive of the anti-pollution group PACE, is raising money for water tests of the bay of Quinte.

Mr. Young is seeking funds to pay for chemical analysis of the waters. The Ontario Water Resources Commission runs water tests for coliform count only. Mr. Young is pursuing chemical contamination of the bay, which he says is caused by untreated industrial wastes being channeled into the water by local plants.

Mr. Young has found a private laboratory, acceptable to the Ontario government, to do the analyses for about $65 each. He believes about three or four chemical analyses of the water will be required.

Buildings to be Named

Buildings at Loyalist College will soon get an edge in exchange for the letters that have designated them so far.

Donald M. Sautter of the board of governors suggested that the buildings and wings be named, and the matter was referred to the management committee for action.

A member of the faculty had suggested the buildings be named for historical figures from the Quinte area, and had enclosed a list of suitable selections.

What Good Does A Funeral Do . . . Really

Let's face it. In this age of change and challenge, it's one of the things some people are wondering about.

They point out, quite rightly, that beyond providing the dignity of a proper burial, the funeral can do nothing for the person whose life is ended.

However, leaders in medicine, psychology, sociology, and religion are more convinced today than ever that a funeral does a great deal for those whose life goes on. For the bereaved family; their friends; their close circle in the community.

One thing it does is help those who grieve accept the reality of death. They know it happened. But a part of their mind rejects it, runs away from it.

The funeral service takes them gently by the shoulders and turns them to face it. And having faced it, having viewed it, things cease to be easier.

Things continue to be easier (though it may not seem so at the time) as the arrangements have been talking with your pathetic friends at the visitation.

Unburdening ourselves seems to make room for courage. As surely as anything lye-ryeases joy. Expressing and sharing grief lightens grief.

That's why even those without deep religious convictions adjust more quickly to life when they have observed the funeral rites.

To the religious family, of course, the liturgical ceremony, presided over by their clergyman, is not only a personal but a public profession of faith. In its sharing with others, it is a source of strength that passes understanding. For the family . . . for friends . . . for society.

Late Spring Slows Crops

A five degree lower mean temperature for April as compared with the normal reading for the month, spells out the reason for the lateness of spring growing weather this year.

The monthly report of the Trenton Climatological Station — the last one for G. K. Fraser, who retired from his unpaid job — shows that the mean temperature for the past month was 37.04 degrees. The normal, mean reading for the month is 43.19 degrees.

In one brief show promising warmer weather to come, the thermometer did get up to 71 degrees on the last day of the month. On the other hand a new record low for April of one degree above was set on the 7th.

There was only 1.32 inch of precipitation as compared with a normal of 2.74 inches and the dry weather meant an early start for the usual rush of grass fires.

Stirling Clerk Gets New Task

STIRLING (Special) — As a result of action taken at this village's council meeting this week, the village clerk could become the new issuer of motor vehicle licences in Stirling June 1.

With the present office at Stirling Lumber to be closed on May 31, the council was approached to take over the issuing.

In discussing the work, it was felt that for the balance of the year, with two people on duty part of the time, the clerk and deputy clerk, there would be no problem. Council also felt that the estimated profit of $2,800 a year would pay a secretary's salary at least part time and this help has been needed in the past.

The location now has to be approved by the department of transport.

Loyalist Board Protests Restriction by Regents

The Council of Regents, governing body for Ontario's community colleges, is operating contrary to the spirit of the basic document initiating the colleges, Loyalist governors charged Thursday.

Rev. Henry Maloney of Bancroft directed the college president to write the regents "pointing out, with respect, that we consider their attitude contrary to the spirit of the basic document."

He was referring to the council's continued refusal to allow colleges to accept all applications for the early childhood education course.

"Every college is flooded with applications," said Loyalist president Herbert Young of the course, most popular of all offered at community colleges.

Loyalist has 120 applications and is restricted by the Council of Regents to accepting 36 students this September.

"The council is sticking to the figure it set; they will not budge," said Mr. Young. "Their reason: They say there will not be sufficient jobs for these people when they graduate."

Donald M. Soutter, who raised the issue, said the attitude of the council is "completely contrary to the philosophy of education in Ontario.

"These applicants have every right to take the course if they fully understand that there may be no jobs waiting at the end," he said. "What is the role of a community college if not to provide the courses people want?"

Mr. Soutter suggested the college write once more to the council, outlining its new position to the regents' stand. He was unanimously supported by the members of Loyalist's board.

Many of the students applying for the course are "young potential mothers" who have no employment objectives on graduation," Dean of Faculty Paul King told the board.

"The Wright Commission on Post-Secondary Education fully supports our stand and has protested to the government about this course," he said.

Mr. King said the college would enrol 40 to 50 students in September without requiring more staff.

"If it's a question of employability," noted Gerald Wishart, "all those people who enrolled in university arts courses shouldn't be there."

Mohawks' Church Historical Site

TYENDINAGA RESERVE—The Bay of Quinte Mohawk's Christ Church — an edifice of historic significance in Canada — now has been officially recognized as such.

The Archaeological and Historical Sites Board of Ontario has made it a historical site. A plaque noting the fact will be unveiled May 21 — the day the Mohawks stage their annual re-enactment of their nearby 1784 Bay of Quinte landing.

Rev. Cyril Betts, chaplain to the Quinte Mohawks, said last night the plaque was a "step in the right direction" in formally recognizing the church's historical importance.

He believes it could be only one of two Chapels Royal outside Britain — the other being at the Mohawk Six Nations Reserve near Brantford. Chapels Royal are churches which once were built and endowed by royal funds.

The connection goes back to days of Mohawk alliance with British colonists in the Mohawk Valley, and the link to the British throne always has been an underlying fact with the Mohawks ever since. They joined British immigrants to Canada after the American Revolution, eventually settling at Tyendinaga and near Brantford.

Christ Church was built at the east end of the reserve in 1843, to replace a wooden structure built shortly after their arrival by the Mohawks — who not only were the first imperial settlers in the Quinte district but the first to introduce Christianity in the area.

Its royal endowments — still extant — include a silver communion service from Queen Anne in 1714, a bell, triptych and royal crest from George III and its bible from Queen Victoria presented in 1862.

Planning Hiatus

The village of Stirling's defection from the Quinte Planning Board has set off a chain reaction with plans by four other municipalities to follow suit.

Brighton village and Brighton township, along with Murray township and the town of Trenton are now seeking to cast adrift, perhaps to link up with Northumberland and Durham. Stirling's withdrawal and link up with Hastings county planning board had already acquired Ontario Municipal Board sanction — a factor which no doubt precipitated the other defections.

There are other reasons low of course, both geographical and philosophical, not to mention political. The fact that the four municipalities intimated at one and the same time their intention to quit the planning board is indicative enough of unanimity of thought in this matter.

The action seems to stem from several factors, principally the unwieldy nature of the board comprising initially nine municipalities and a sense of frustration that the individual interests of each were not being met. Meetings of the board were frequently marked by discussion and progress was retarded. It was felt by many that Belleville as the largest municipality was getting the most emphasis and efforts to bring official plans to fruition have been at long last realized.

It seems clear that the whole concept of planning in the region will have to be reviewed and defined anew. Certainly it is difficult to contemplate the nine municipalities continuing to function as before. The split is too deep, too much of a fait accompli to permit of planning reconciliation.

CBC Line-up

Looking at the CBC's lineup of correspondents there have been some changes of late. What has become, for example, of Michael Maclear, the tall rangy commentator who was one of the few westerners to get into Hanoi?

For the most part Maclear was based in London; from there he would move when occasion demanded to Belfast, perhaps Brussels and Common Market matters, and we seem to recall he was with Prime Minister Trudeau in Australia.

Then there was Bill Cunningham who after years in the Far East was sent to London where he too would fly off to such grim locales as Belfast's ghetto areas.

Anyway we have neither seen nor heard this pair for some time now. Mike McCourt who normally covers Vancouver and the West is currently in Saigon and Ab Douglas, the CBC's former Moscow correspondent, was discoursing the other day on a threatened garbage strike in Vancouver.

Peter Kirby we hear the pleasant British tones of Diane Willman and the more we listen to her the more we get the feeling she is from "down under."

Occasionally the CBC presents one or two other lady correspondents, notably Gail Scott in Ottawa but the network still retains largely a man's world in this regard. At night, around news time, a woman's voice can be heard stating "this is the CBC television service," but there is never any sign of her. For all we know she might have her hair in curlers when she says it typically North American but quite unsuitable for screening to the multitudes!

Another voice we used to enjoy was that of the young woman on-the-radio advertisement for a film company. A choral group identified as "The Travellers" would sing a rousing piece, then the woman's voice would be heard with a follow-up pitch about the time. Sometimes a man would do this part and now, with a slightly newer version of it on the air waves, it is again a male voice all the time. Let's have the young lady again too; she did a good job before. Why not now? Heard too often; the male voices on advertising generally can sound ingratiatingly cosy. There is many an ad's moreover, which has any impact it may have had through endless repetition: they have had enough, the same voice, the same music . . . ugh.

Moral Decline?

RCMP Commissioner W. L. Higgett reports that drug use has risen sharply in Canada since 1967. So also, we note from another source, has the number of therapeutic abortions. And was it the police chief of St. Catharines who was reported as saying that "moral decline" at the family level was at the root of an increase in crime in the Niagara peninsula? The trend is not encouraging and it is hard to know where it will end, or how it will stop.

Ottawa Then – And Now

Ghosts Of Canada's Greats Share Out From The Hill

By HENRY F. HEALD
from The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Sir Wilfred Laurier stands quietly in the midst of a colorful patch of crocuses looking impassively at the Ottawa scene. To the whole complex of buildings on Parliament Hill is at his back and he faces his heroic Confederation Square and the National War Memorial. Just beyond the Centre and the National Defence headquarters.

Did I see him shake his head at those square, unimpressive blots on the landscape, or was it at the streams of cars, buses and trucks pouring around the square? It must have been my imagination.

Behind the East Block that other great Liberal prime minister Mackenzie King stands stolidly in less interesting surroundings. There is still snow in the shade, the trees are barren and his view is partly blocked by the gray stones of the East Block.

Within that block is the office not across the corridor many class as the third most newsworthy prime minister, Pierre Trudeau.

Sir John A. Macdonald faces better. The country's first prime minister stands on an imposing pedestal (not as imposing as the one supporting Queen Victoria) beside the Centre Block looking out across the expansive lawn between the Peace Tower and the Centennial Flame. The lawn is immaculately kept and green due to the washing it got by

Shades of Summer

There are not too many barriers in our society and the one in the picture is benign: it straddles The Outlet beach from late fall

A Summer Vote Would Not Be Popular

By FARMER TISSINGTON

OTTAWA — I'm afraid I can't work up much sympathy for those advocates of a federal election in the summer months, now that Finance Minister John Turner has thrown his budget sneaky wrench into a June vote.

It may come as a surprise to some in government, but not all Canadians take their holidays in Florida, the Caribbean or Spain during the winter months. Despite our affluent society, there are still more who depend on July and August to get away from it all than there are those who flaunt their tans in February or March.

Let's face it, the Canadian climate is a pretty unreliable affair, as most people will attest around here this spring, with promising three to four weeks delayed by one of the longest winters in memory. July and August are the only two months that can be counted on to provide good, hot weather. Add to that the fact these are the only months when schools are closed and families can travel or go to the cottage together.

The popularity of summer elections seems obvious because we have had only two in our history, in 1930 and 1953. I can't remember much about the 1930 vote, but I recall I felt a sense of resentment when Prime Minister St. Laurent called the 1953 election for August 10. I would be willing to bet a lot of Canadians will feel the same way if a vote is called for our good-weather months.

But there are more pragmatic objections to a summer vote. J. M. Hamel, the chief electoral officer, has put one of the major problems in enumerating voters if that process has to take place in July or August.

"If we had to enumerate after June 28 it would not be an impossible task, but it would certainly make the job a lot more difficult," he explains. "Many urban enumerators would find houses empty because families were away on a trip or at the cottage. They might call back two or three times with the same result."

What complicates a summer enumeration is the rule which does not allow voters to be enumerated at their summer residence. They must be enumerated at their principal place of residence. This could lead to many being enumerated illegally and result in some bitter arguments among party representatives.

Granted, anyone who finds he has not been included on the list of electors can appeal to a court added if he qualifies. These of revision and have his name courts sit for only three days. If through winter, and if no official eye is watching a spry soul may skip over its top in winter. In fall those who are slim of girth may wriggle underneath and sneak a quick off-season swim. It may even be-spue now, for we are virtually into the season for visiting the beach. The picture was taken by staff reporter Colin Bruce.

City Planning Raises Issues

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The chickens are coming home to roost. The lack of coordinated growth and lack of proper planning in Belleville and the environs began with the acceptance of the inadequate zoning by-law of 1956 to continue destroying the environment in many areas in Belleville.

The only rights homeowners seem to have is to pay the rest for the destruction of their neighborhood. The citizens of Belleville will pay a heavy price, not only in dollars, but in death and injuries to children and residents alike, unless there have been quite a few in the past years.

Apparently the citizens of the West Hill committed the unpardonable sin of requesting City Council to retain the Wellington Crescent playground for the benefit of present and future generations — a playground area described as ideal for this purpose by Park Board and Planning Board officials. But some Members of City Council have decided that the price was too high for this playground, the only one in this part of the city for children to play on in safety. The cost would have been approximately the price of two homes at today's market value. It looks as if this playground will be sacrificed to developers; once it is destroyed it will be gone forever. The children will have to compete with vehicle traffic increasing every day on our city streets. Safe and sooner or later it will result in tragedy.

The residents of Belleville have paid thousands of dollars to undertake and complete the find out that they are unable to get any water/sewage/hardsurface construction material, rough fill placed on or over underdrains or some construction sites forces citizens to walk on the roads to get by these sites. Tenants who live in apartments which are built in almost every conceivable locations, with inadequate parking areas have been forced to park on sidewalks this past winter and spring.

On the Bay Bridge Road there is a sign which reads, Street Parking Prohibited between A and 4 & AM on Belleville. Cars are parked on both sides of Sidney Street and Leland Dr. while the Bridge is closed for the highrise development are being completed. With Sir Mackenzie School on Leland Drive, with children using the streets every day, it seems intolerable that people should be exposed to such hazardous conditions as exists in this area, for the benefit of private profit.

Belleville has become a developers' paradise and a nightmare for many Homeowners because of inadequate zoning by-law. If the recommendations of Planning Board Director Bert Kenny had been accepted in 1971, many of the conditions we are faced with today would have been avoided. So I am asking Mayor J. D. Reid and some members of City Council, please don't let Belleville be destroyed for short term benefits. Action taken now could well decide the kind of city we have in future: — A city for people or just a place to hang our hats.

KENNETH B. PEOPLES.

Sports Foundation

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The most exciting proposal offered citizens of the Quinte region for years is the concession of The Belleville Quinte's Sports Foundation.

As a corporation without share capital the steering committee states the "aims and objectives are to promote interest in and to perpetuate amateur sports in the City of Belleville and vicinity."

The intention is to form a Board of Directors from "all walks of life" with emphasis on individuals having a common interest in the objectives of the foundation. This approach reflects a realistic attitude to the problem likely to be encountered and augurs well for the ultimate success of the venture.

Belleville reached its zenith in the g e a l m of amateur sports when Belleville McFarlands brought the world hockey crown to the city.

Of late interim, amateur sportmen and women have continued to bring honor to the city in the fore. The consistently successful weightlifters of the Apollo Barbell Club and queen of the local archers, Carol Armstrong, come readily to mind. Frequently, these dedicated men and women have all but been preserved, of from competing in national or international competitions because of lack of funds or lack of interest.

The foundation intimates the formation of the group was precipitated by the probable loss of Senior 'A' Hockey to Belleville, as they point out, this is an "excellent brand of competitive sport" with much in its favor.

With present team members agreeable to carry on next season with no guarantee of remuneration, it is fitting that the foundation give their full support to the players in order to establish a firm basis upon which to build a successful team. Once this goal is achieved, the ultimate aim is to involve "the entire spectrum of sports enthusiasts".

The organization of amateur sport in Belleville is somewhat fragmented, and in many cases fails to reward those in the active competitive participation for those living in outlying and rural areas. Belleville Quinte's Sports Foundation is an imaginative and interesting concept, which, if given enthusiastic support by the citizens of the area, has unlimited potential.

I agree recent years have seen the introduction of many conflicting attractions" but there are none that will match the civic involvement in sport and athletic activities in moulding our citizens of the future. so it is up to us all to support the endeavors of the Belleville Quinte's Sports Foundation in providing a viable alternative to some of the problems that afflict our society today.

Even the East Germans Recognize Willy Brandt As Best Hope of Compromise

Montreal Gazette

Although Chancellor Willy Brandt survived a serious non-confidence vote in the West German parliament this week, the acid test of his grip on the government is yet to come.

The way the Bonn Republic's parliamentary system works, the opposition Christian Democratic Union (CDU) needed to muster an absolute minimum of 249 votes in the Bundestag, not a simple majority of members present and voting, in order to bring the Brandt coalition government down. Aided by defections from the other side, it fell short by only two votes.

Most members of Mr. Brandt's Social Democratic party (SPD) did not participate in the non-confidence vote. In fact, the chancellor asked them to refrain from voting so that he would be sure to pinpoint defectors and waverers.

When the Ostpolitik treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland come up for ratification by parliament in the West German parliament this week, the acid test of his grip on the government is yet to come.

Scoop For Use In Stores

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

I am greatly interested in the "archaic" Spad-scoop, which was shown in April 28. Issue

The use of this combined tool of spad and scoop would have been by the store-keepers to facilitate the removal of such material as salt, sugar, and sulphur. from the oaken casks in which shipment was made, which would likely be by water, during those pioneer times.

New Day Is Dawning

By The Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

A Member of Parliament was good enough to send me a copy of the speech of Roy Bonisteel at the National Prayer Breakfast, April 14, right after Easter, in the Confederation Chamber, Ottawa. Mr. Bonisteel, as you may know, is host of the CBC television show, "Man Alive." That has one of the highest listener reactions of any Canadian public affairs program.

He spoke to his distinguished audience of the new ecumenical climate. He spoke of the passing of the political hero. He spoke of the growing involvement on the part of individuals in the decision-making process. He spoke of the essentially competitive basis of society as grossly immoral in the eyes of youth. He spoke of a lot of ecclesiastical chaff being blown away, and of man exploring his religious dimension as never before.

Mr. Bonisteel told members of the Senate and Commons that a new day is dawning in Canada, a day of openness. In this regard he referred to the kind of heroes who are appealing to young people. They are men and women who believe in idealism rather than human dignity. They are indifferent to publicity.

I quote! "They are personified in the Sister Teresas of Calcutta, the Albert Schweitzers of France, the Robert McClures in Borneo, the Cardinal Legers in Cameroon. They have the power that comes from inner serenity. They are rich beyond measure in satisfaction. Their influence affects the lives of millions. They are the heroes we really should follow. We won't be big heroes. We may be unpopular. But remember, if you will, another who went that same way. Look at Him. He was a flop at 33."

But was he? Calvary could not even produce a memorial society that would have kept any record. The disciples took their heels. The precious memoirs called Gospels were gradually gathered by the early Church that might well have been referred to as "the Community of the Resurrection."

Moreover, whence the source of the "power that comes from inner serenity", exemplified by the Sister Teresas, Jean Vaniers, Robert McClures, Cardinal Legers of our own day and generation? Dynamic Christian leaders deserves a more profound explanation than the Golden Rule!

Those of you who have a Bible handy should read the story in Luke's Gospel about Cleopas and a companion walking home from Jerusalem to Emmaus and inevitably talking about the Cross. Their minds were so utterly preoccupied with the recent collapse of their hopes and dreams that they did not recognize the stranger of the third party who joined them. When they reached their destination, however, they pressed him to have supper with them.

All the time they had been walking and talking with him, their despair must have been melting and their faith in God's Christ mysteriously returning. The psychological moment came when, relaxed at a friendly table, a familiar gesture really opened their eyes and "they knew him." "No one makes up a story like this," wrote J. B. Phillips, the eminent New Testament scholar. This rings true: this certainly happened."

It also happened to Malcolm Muggeridge, ex the Rector of Edinburgh University he was speaking to the student body, just a few years ago. He was speaking to young people to accept life's deepest satisfactions in terms of the highest incentive for service is found.

This was Muggeridge's concluding testimony. He said, "I finished off my filming in the Holy Land by taking with a friend the road to Emmaus. As my friend and I walked along like Cleopas and his friend, we recalled as they did the events of the Crucifixion and its aftermath in the light of our utterly different and yet similar world.

"Now it is a fancy that we too were joined by a third person. And I tell you that wherever they walk, and whoever the wayfarers, there is always this third presence ready to emerge from the shadows and fall in step along the dusty, stony way."

The sense of justice, compassion and humanitarianism, at its best, in our Canadian young people can only be interpreted, in depth, when it is heard as a cry of their own souls that, once for all, God may enter their lives and fulfil them.

Thus there is a tremendous finality in the last words of Robert Browning's poem, "Saul." The youth from the hills has fought to the distraught king the voice of nature. He has brought the voice of humanity. Neither is enough. The titanic truth of God's entrance into human life strikes him. Man alive! Now he can exclaim, "See the Christ stand!"

A LETTER FROM MEXICO (Continued)

"This is a country of inexplicable contrast." — Wilcock and Foreman.

We continue with excerpts from Miss Leona Riggs' interesting letter concerning her winter visit in Mexico.

From Mexico City she and two women companions engaged a car and driver to go to Acapulco. Going and coming they stayed overnight at Taxco, where, continues Miss Riggs:

"Our hotel was almost on the main square, and had balconies from which one could watch that entertaining passing parade, when one was not being part of it. The Square had its band stand, trees and benches — a beautiful carved pink cathedral, and flocks of vendors of all ages, to ward off.

"Sweet-tempered, lean dogs everywhere. Their nightly serenade by dogs, and tethered: 'The Taxco Symphony'. I heard them echoing one another, far and near, briefly, before sleep.

"I liked our Inn. . excellent meals, and a sweet voiced native tenor with a guitar, to entertain us in the dining room. My friends kept talking about the burro ride I was going to have. I smelt a slight rat. I thought, but I wasn't sure and enquired whether my pink coat was suitable attire for this post-dated adventure — to the amusement of all. Our driver, Henry, said he thought it was O.K., and we ended up climbing aboard the tiny local bus, named 'Electric', which gave us a lovely, bumpy circular tour with all it's twinkle in the darkness. I repeated the next morning, and found the route alive with jacaranda trees; those lovely lavender things! Any village from then on, provided them."

In Acapulco:

"Acapulco! Beautiful spot, being spoiled by the inevitable high-rise. However, it's still an enjoyable place to visit, and I'm glad I didn't miss it. Perfect climate right now. Had two rides on the harbor: one in a small glass-bottomed boat, and the other, a cruise of several hours, which finished with a fine sunset.

"One of the tourist things is watching a spectacularly high dive by a slip of a native boy all over rocks, into a narrow chasm. And we did that, too. A swim at a little public beach (a lot of town (one advantage of having a guide) surrounded by local color; the usual vendors, this time mostly 9 and 10 year-old girls, carrying their wares skillfully on their heads. Many—little colored sulls. A cat chasing a squawking hen beneath my beach chair!

On return to Mexico City:

"A welcome stop another night and morning on the way home in Taxco. A quick look around Guernavaca, where we had refreshments at a lovely garden restaurant, stocked with performing parrots and other beautiful looking and horrible sounding long-legged birds. Varieties in the trees made much more musical sounds, but made us very nervous, as we were seated beneath a double allee of jacarandas one which kept plopping its blossoms on our persons.

"And here I bid you, 'Adios'."

And thank you Leona Riggs for a most bright, sunny and delightful glimpse of that romantic country to the south of us - Mexico.

Vision Hampers Learning

CALGARY (CP) — If a child with normal intelligence seems bored, frustrated or unable to cope with his school work, the problem may be a visual disability, says Dr. John Pierce of the University of Alabama.

About three per cent of the population suffer from refractive impairment — nearsightedness, farsightedness or astigmatism — and these problems can be easily corrected, he said.

Dr. Pierce is director of the vision research and function laboratory at the university's centre for diagnosis and treatment of learning disabilities. He spoke to a convention of the Alberta Optometric Association.

The disability, which is easily diagnosed and treated with lenses, often is picked up by teachers, he said. However, they often recognize it more by "an educated hunch" than by recognizing what is wrong.

In cases where the eye itself is free from refractive impairment, the problem may be some form of eye function, abnormality, such as an inability to focus properly or an inability to interpret visual clues to adjust focus.

Another problem is that of binocular co-ordination, the inability to aim both eyes at precisely the same point. If the child's eyes see two different images, the information received by the brain is confused.

Often a child with this type of impairment will appear clumsy or awkward for his age, Dr. Pierce said.

For example, if a child is receiving confused images of a ball bouncing toward him he will be unlikely to catch it, partly because he doesn't know where to reach for it and partly because the confusion frightens him.

The school environment can be cruel for a child with a visual impairment, Dr. Pierce said. If he needs four times as long to be able to focus his eyes on a word, he can feel the scorn of his classmates when he is forced to stand up and read.

And when it takes time to focus and recognize each word, the child "goes so laboriously through the parts that he never gets to the whole." His comprehension is nearly nil.

The effects of such learning experiences are cumulative and the fragmentary bits of knowledge a child picks up don't help him to adjust.

Dr. Pierce said teachers could be trained to recognize visual disabilities. The symptoms most readily noticeable include:

—Tears, reddening, granules or eyes.

—Headaches, nausea, blurred vision or burning eyes.

—Gross head movements while reading, using the finger as a marker, skipping words or lines while reading and writing uphill or downhill.

—Short attention span.

—Unnatural reading posture.

"TWEED — The spring wedding was solemnized in Stirling Public Church, Saturday recently when Jaclyn Margaret Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Andrews, Stirlyville, exchanged marriage vows with Charles James Gunning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gunning, RR1, Tweed.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roy Huntley, with the church organist supplying traditional wedding selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white brocaded satin with sleeves coming to points over the wrists. The stand-up collar was trimmed with seed pearls, as was the bridal head piece of the finger tip veil. The bride carried a white Bible with white streamers, crested by a single mauve orchid.

The maid of honor, Miss Sharon Andrews, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaid, Mrs. Lynda Akey, sister of the bridegroom, wore identical floor - length gowns of patterned lilac sheer over matching satin, wide brimmed white hats with lilac trim and carried bouquets of white shasta mums. Little Melanie Hallwell as flower girl, was demure in her matching gown, and carrying a basket of white shasta mums.

At the wedding dinner, held in the Church Hall, the guests were greeted and received by the bride's mother, wearing a hooded pink lace pant suit, with beige accessories, and a corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a long - sleeved turquoise dress of crimplene with matching braid trim and sleeveless full - length vest. Her accessories were navy with a white carnation corsage.

Robert Fisher, of Tweed was master of ceremonies. Following the dinner, the happy couple left for a short honeymoon in the United States. # Another Way to Sponsor A Child

Dear Doris: Sally Sixteen wondered about becoming a foster parent. CANSAVE, too, has a sponsor-a-child plan. Ours cost $24 a year, or $7 a month. Part of the reason for the striking difference in fee is that CANSAVE is also a child welfare development agency.

Thus, we are able to use our other services to supplement help provided. Also, we employ indigenous staff, or work through a local agency, a fellow member of the International Union for Child Welfare. In this way, we avoid the high cost of maintaining Canadian staff abroad. (And it's not only costly, but unnecessary.)

I might also point out that CANSAVE is the only autonomous Canadian agency offering sponsorships, although we recognize the importance of cooperating internationally. . . .

Dear Doris: Would you kindly send me your Simple Reducing Diet as mentioned in today's paper?

I read an article concerning the opening of an obesity clinic in the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton. I wonder if Belleville would like to start one here. I wish we had one.

I will let you know how I make out with the diet, as I diet constantly just to maintain the "status quo". Would like to lose 10 pounds. — Still Fighting.

Fighter Still: One robust lass (of 50) tells me the only way she can drop a single ounce of that unwelcome overweight is by starving herself. Fact is, we need fewer calories — means less food — as we grow older. If we keep the habits we have had in our earlier life and eat what simply melted away before, we are likely to store some of it as fat.

Obesity clinics are a fine idea and are being set up because we know how, for sure, that our skinny friends live longest. . . .

How about clipping the article and sending it to the editor of your local paper? Add a paragraph suggesting that this sort of thing would make its own contribution to the health of PIETER MARITZBURG South Africa (AP) — A couple announced their second set of twins had arrived "in time for our first wedding anniversary." The parents noted they were married Feb. 29, 1968, and had to wait four years for another Leap Year to celebrate their first anniversary.

your local public. Send a copy of your letter to the medical director of the general hospital.

Things get started because citizens get stirred up about them. Could you find 10 people who would make a delegation with you to City Hall, on the subject?

Dear Doris: Regarding the woman asking for information re her parents' diamond wedding anniversary, I hope your booklet advises her to contact her member of the legislature for provincial officials' congratulations, and to contact her M.P. for congratulations from the Queen and Ottawa officials.

The Queen sends them for 60 years or more and likes about two months' notice. — Member's Wife.

Dear Member's Wife: We have given this information in individual letters to folk inquiring, and in our leaflet, but I am glad to publish your message here. Doubtless many readers will be glad to know it.

Origin Uncertain; Message Clear

Dear Ann: A piece appeared in The Beth El Youth Tempics that might be of interest to your readers. No one knows whether it was written by Rabbi M.H. Elovitz of Baltimore, Md., or some teen who asked that his identity not be revealed. The authorship is not important but the message is.

The Man I Wanted To Be
Or The Bad I Got Basted

Man, it's a bad scene, a real bummer. Who would've thought it could happen to me? I mean, like it was scrambled and to do. Just part of the scene. So some kids experiment. So what! Besides, It'll be legal in a few years anyway. Damn the establishment. You'd think the kid was born with sirens in their heads and "do-good" stamped on their bottoms. Hell, weren't they ever kids?

It could've been you. You just lucked out. Anyway, getting busted was really gross. All that fingerprinting jazz. I called my old man and was he ever ticked off. He had to hire a lawyer to get me out. He's got influence. I thought I'd get off with a reprimand, maybe grounded for a while and that would be the end of it. It wasn't.

They booked me and I've got a record. I was going to law school but now that's screwed up. Medical school won't accept me either when the time comes. Why should I suffer? Look at all the kids who do dope and never get a slow look at 'em.

You should have seen my mom's face. Even all that makeup couldn't cover up her shame. You'd think I had committed a crime. It was weird. It's not like I didn't know it was illegal. It's just that everybody's doing it and I was the one who got nailed. Besides, I was holding it for a buddy—only took a couple of drags.

There must be some way to clean up this mess. I'm sure as hell not a criminal. I just got mixed up with a little illegal fun. Funny, somehow I don't think the dean of admissions will buy it. Oh well, I can always be a plumber or run my dad's business. On second thought, I wonder if my dad would hire me.—Origin Uncertain

Dear Friend: Maybe the origin is uncertain but the message is clear. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: People write to you about things that bother them. May I add my complaint, please?

Whenever I find myself at a place where women gather, the first thing that happens is out comes the pictures from the purses.

"This is my daughter and her four children," Or, "We have new pictures of our grandchildren. Here is Louise, next to Richard. The one in front is Lester. Doesn't he look like his father?"

It's bad enough when I know the family but when a stranger corners me with snapshots I could scream. Why would a person you've never seen before, and will probably never see again show another stranger pictures of her family?

Before I leave on a cruise this fall I'm going to take a picture of the dogs and cats in the neighborhood and carry them in self defence. When a woman hands me pictures of her grandchildren I'm going to hand her mine. Would this be wrong?—Pittsburgh Reader

Dear Pitt: Wrong? No. But don't be surprised if you get some compliments. People love to shown me pictures of their pets with the same pride a parent has in his child and I've had to say, "How cute!"

Naturalists Hear Talk On Resources

Approximately 100 members and guests were present at the Quinte Field Naturalists' annual dinner meeting which was held in Eastminster United Church. All were welcomed by the president, Wayne David.

After dinner, a lively singsong was followed by a brief business meeting. The program convener, Mr. I. Knight, announced that two field trips would be held in May: one to Point Traverse on May 6 and 7, and one to Presqu'ile on the holiday weekend.

Terry Sprague introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Jim Ives of the Department of Natural Resources in Prince Edward County.

Mr. Ives showed slides pertaining to his work, which is both varied and entails long hours, checking hunters and fishermen and keeping records on fish and game populations. There is also the problem of orphaned and dead and dying animals.

Slides were shown of coyotes killed by snowmobilers; also of ducks black with oil and frozen into the ice along Prince Edward County shores. With a plea for continuing interest and more education, Mr. Ives showed pictures of the more pleasant aspect of his work and showed pictures of wild flowers, nesting birds and examples of natural camouflage.

Thanks to the speaker were tendered by Miss F. Fitzgerald.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Can an aggressive person find love?

YES, although love may come as a surprise to the aggressive individual and may even reduce his or her drive to conquer in every endeavor. A girl, for example, who consciously and unconsciously plots and schemes to defeat all real and fancied rivals emotionally plots and schemes to defeat all real and fancied rivals may one day wake up with the revelation that she is in love and someone loves her. She may find that she was aggressive simply because she had feared she would never be in love.

Are consumers influenced by ads?

YES; but buyers are not swayed in their decisions for the same reasons that they or the sellers believe they are. Say someone wants to buy a stereo set; in all likelihood he has already made up his mind as to what model he is going to buy. Precisely why he has decided, he can't tell you, nor does he know himself. After he studies the ads, though, he finds reason to justify the "feelings" he had about the set he wants.

Do some children hate to grow up?

NOT the ones who are happiest in childhood, at any rate. Although they are enjoying their youthful years, happy children know what to expect at each stage of development and they are eager to move, as they say in other contexts, "right on." Unhappy children, on the other hand, may be reluctant to grow up. Generally deprived of love, they inherently lack confidence that they will achieve happiness as adults.

AN EXPOSE CONCERNING THE REMARKABLY RUTHLESS EXERCISE OF EXTRAORDINARY POWERS CONFERRED BY STATUTE ON A PRIVATE PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATION, WHICH HAS ENABLED MEMBERS OF THE ONTARIO DENTAL ASSOCIATION TO PERPETUATE A MONOPOLY OVER THE PROVISION OF ALL TYPES OF DENTAL SERVICES TO THE PUBLIC.

FOURTH IN A SERIES OF OPEN LETTERS TO THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO CONCERNING AN ONEROUS AND RESTRICTIVE LAW THAT DENIES YOU FREEDOM OF CHOICE WITH RESPECT TO DENTURE SERVICES.

Paid agents acting on instructions of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons are conducting raids against denture clinics throughout the Province. To date, nine clinics operated by members of the Denturist Society have been forcibly entered by these dental hirelings who have confiscated records, supplies and materials in attempts to facilitate prosecutions for alleged contraventions of the Ontario Dentistry Act.

Authority for such raids is found in Section 23, subsection 10 of the Ontario Dentistry Act.

> "Upon information on oath by a duly authorized agent of the College that he has reasonable cause to believe that there is in a building or premises any dental equipment that is being, has been or is likely to be used contrary to this Act, or that any prosthetic denture bridge, appliance or thing is being, has been or is likely to be made, produced, reproduced, fitted, constructed, furnished, supplied, altered or repaired, contrary to this Act, it is lawful for any justice of the peace, by warrant under his hand to authorize and empower such agent or any other person named therein to enter and search the building or premises or any part thereof, or any closet, cupboard, box or any receptacle therein that might contain any such dental equipment, prosthetic denture, bridge, appliance or thing."

It must be readily admitted that the powers described above are extraordinary. Even more incredible, however, is the fact that such power has been conferred on a private professional organization who have established their own police force comprised of private detectives who are assigned one role and one role only — that of maintaining the vested economic interest of their dental employers.

Denturists throughout Ontario have experienced the full brunt of this power when being brought before the courts where they have been convicted and fined for challenging the propriety of the existing dental monopoly. More raids and prosecutions are anticipated in the very near future. Indeed, a persistent rumour has been circulating that the dental association is making a concerted effort to revise their act to provide for far higher fines than those currently levied against denturists for defying the dental Act.

Regardless of the continuing raids and prosecutions, however, denturists have prospered and there are several compelling reasons why they will continue to prosper in spite of adverse laws.

1. The determination of the denturists to gain for themselves a rightful place in a respected profession or calling within society.
2. The continuing and expanding public demand for the services which can be provided by denturists.
3. The conviction on the part of denturists and a large segment of the population that in spite of the admitted illegality of their actions, the activities of denturists are morally proper, and constitute a forward step in providing adequate dental services to the people of Ontario.

This conviction of denturists is reflected in the fact that there are now more than sixty denture clinics established throughout Ontario to serve a pressing public need. These clinics are owned and operated exclusively by denturists who are members of the Denturist Society of Ontario.

WHOSE INTERESTS ARE TO BE SERVED ?

It is not enough, however, for denturists to insist that their services should be recognized under law. Nor is any answer provided by dentists insisting that the services of denturists should not be granted legislative recognition. Clearly there is something much more important at stake than merely the interests of dentists or denturists. The public interest must be held paramount and unless it can be demonstrated that the activities of denturists constitute a public health hazard in the limited areas in which they function, then it is immediately seen that the arguments raised by dentists against enabling legislation are specious.

It should be clearly stated, however, that denturists are prepared at any time to co-operate with members of the dental profession in efforts to provide more and better dental services to the public. Such co-operation will not be achieved however, by legislating denturists under the control of dentists. Experience has taught us that no reduction in costs for dental care occurs through the creation of dental auxiliaries or ancillary bodies, when such persons and the services they perform are controlled exclusively by the profession and developed mainly for the purpose of providing an additional financial arm to enhance the income of the professional practitioner.

WHO SHOULD BE GRANTED CONTROL ?

The dental profession insists that they alone should have responsibilty for all types of dental care and they alone should have the power to decide who may provide such dental treatment.

This concept of all-embracing control by private organizations is not endorsed by enlightened persons. Indeed, the Royal Commission Inquiry into Civil Rights Report No. 1, Volume 3, Page 1163, points up the very obvious dangers which can and do occur as a consequence to such control:

> "The power of self-government is essentially the power to decide who shall be permitted to earn his living by the pursuit of a particular calling. As pointed out by Professor Geilhorn, the basic civil right involved in professional self-government is "the right to make a living" in the calling of one's choice. Since the power must be exercised only for the protection of the public, the real question is by whom and in what manner should it be exercised. It can be strongly argued and to some extent, it has been recognized in Ontario that a power which so circumscribes the freedom of the individual to earn his livelihood by any lawful means should not be exercised except under government control."

A further case in point is the manner in which dental hygienists came into being and recent proposals by the dental profession to create another ancillary body known as "dental prosthetic therapists", who have not as yet emerged and will likely never emerge. Former Ontario Chief Justice McRuer, in the report of The Royal Commission Inquiry into Civil Rights, made the following comments respecting the creation of dental hygienists on page 1167 of the aforesaid report:

> "Under the Dentistry Act no power is provided to make regulations. However, the Board of Directors of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario may pass by-laws. It is clear from the matters covered in the by-laws that these are intended to serve the same purpose as regulations. Non-administrative matters (e.g. the prescribing of admission standards which the Board is empowered to do) should be dealt with in statutory regulations.
> "Although the Board is authorized subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, to pass by-laws providing for the establishment, development and regulation of an ancillary body (dental hygienists) such provision has in fact been made by regulation. NOT ONLY DOES THE BOARD HAVE THE ANOMALOUS POWER TO GOVERN THE PRACTITIONERS OF A SEPARATE OCCUPATION, BUT THE POWER HAS BEEN EXERCISED BY MAKING REGULATIONS FOR WHICH THERE IS NO STATUTORY AUTHORITY".

WHAT CAN THE PUBLIC DO ?

Over the last few months, in previous open letters to the public, we have appealed to the people of Ontario to write or contact their Member of the Provincial Parliament and express their support for the passage of legislation which will allow denturists to practise freely without fear of prosecution and fines. Many persons throughout the Province have responded to our appeal for assistance and have contacted their Member of the Legislative Assembly. Support for our efforts is increasing day by day since every day hundreds of persons throughout the Province are availing themselves of the services of denturists — many after years of discomfort and pain caused by ill-fitting dental appliances. More and more denturists are convinced on the basis of the results they have obtained with these unfortunate persons, that they have a vital role to play in providing much-needed denture services to the public. It is public support for our efforts, however, that will determine the outcome in our continuing struggle with the dental profession. Whether or not we will be forced out of business by harrassment and excessive fines, only time will tell. If it is your wish to have denturists recognized under appropriate legislation, then we urge you again to continue your fine efforts on our behalf.

Karate No Soft Touch Despite Pulling Punches

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

Just because these fellows pull their punches, don't get the idea that karate isn't a hard-hitting sport.

If the same amount of contact went into a karate competition as, say, a heavyweight boxing match, the judging panel would likely consist of three bone-grafting surgeons and a mortician.

Karate, which means literally "open hand" is a scientific method of breaking boards, bricks or bones with nothing more than your well - conditioned anatomy.

Actually, karate experts stress their sport as just that — a sport, rather than a means of turning loose hardened brick-busters on an unsuspecting victim. "If we hear of any of our members starting trouble, he's automatically out of the club," says instructor Enis Merritt of the Belleville Tsuruoka Karate Dojos. "Holders of white belts don't even get to spar and if we see that someone is really keen on mixing it up then we'll hold him back. If you want to blow off steam, you can come in here and do it."

How then, is the winner of a karate match determined? "You have to come within about a quarter or an eighth of an inch of your opponent with a thrust, or kick and your limb must still be bent enough that you could have followed through if you wanted to make contact," explains Merritt.

Blows aimed at crucial points such as the bridge of the nose, solar plexus or groin count a full point if executed properly. These blows which the judges rule would have landed but not disabled the opponent, are given a half-point. Matches generally last two or three minutes.

Despite the fact that contact in the vulnerable areas is strictly forbidden accidents do occur. "That's why it is difficult for people trying to hold down a job to enter Karate competitions. Even though your opponent is disqualified it doesn't help you if you're going to be laid up for weeks," notes the Belleville instructor.

For this reason the local club enters few competitive matches, concentrating instead on the recreational and conditioning aspects of the sport. It currently numbers about 30 members who meet twice a week in the BCI gymnasium (Tuesdays and Thursdays) as part of the program sponsored by the Belleville Recreation Committee.

Merritt, who has been with the club since its inception three-and-a-half years ago, earned his first degree black belt this March. The black belt or shodan as it is properly known, is awarded by Tsuruoka Dojos in Toronto by a panel of eight experts.

Before switching to karate, the Belleville fireman had been holder of a brown belt in judo. How does he compare the two sports? "I think that the conditioning in karate is tougher. Also there are no throws or holds. It's all kicking, punching and blocks. In judo when two opponents are of equal ability and size and strength have some bearing but karate is almost exclusively technique and speed."

This fact is ably borne out by diminutive Ken Dunoo, a third-degree black belt holder. While he has been in the city only one-and-a-half years Ken is the sensei (supreme instructor) of the Belleville club. Other instructors include brown belt holder Frank Mandeville as well as Ron Harris, Dale Beckwith and Rick Keil, all holders of the blue belt.

Despite his small size Dunoo is perfectly capable of demonstrating his proficiency, at the sport by splitting three, ¾" pine boards with his hands, feet or elbows.

Merritt pointed out that a impressive feats such as board or brick-breaking "aren't part of the sport. They're just sidelines that some people like up. I, personally don't like brick-breaking because it makes your hands too calloused."

A Real Blockbuster

Enis Merritt of the Belleville Tsuruoka Karate Dojos demonstrates the force that can be mustered by proficient karate participant as he smashes two, three-quarter inch pine boards with his bare hand. Merritt, who recently attained his black belt, is one of the Belleville club's instructors. The 30-member group meets Tuesdays and Thursdays in the BCI gymnasium. It has been active in this city for just under four years.

Mays May Be Traded to Mets

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Willie Mays wasn't counting his birthday candles today. Instead, he was counting the days he might have left with San Francisco Giants.

The Giants are thinking about trading Mays, who was 41 years old today, to New York Mets.

"Maybe we'll talk when we get to New York," Horace Stoneham, Giants president, said Friday. "We'll discuss the possibility. We need pitchers."

The talks have been so secrets that Stoneham admitted telling the Mets they had to promise to find a place for Mays in their organization, as the Giants have, when the outfielder decides to retire.

Mays learned about the secret Giants-Mets negotiations Friday in his hotel room over the telephone from a reporter. He wasn't upset about the possibility of being traded, but was visibly annoyed about not being informed.

Only 6 days left to enter.

Orr Feels That Finals 'Will Be A Long Series'

NEW YORK (CP) — There's nothing unusual in the pattern of play employed by the two teams involved in the Stanley Cup finals.

Bobby Orr, Boston Bruins' Hart and Norris trophies winner, was set to encounter Friday on the style of game against New York Rangers in which the action has swung from wide-open, to tight-checking, to free-skating games.

"If you go back over the season," replied the young defensive superstar, "you'll see this is the pattern of game we've had with New York."

Boston took the first two games of the best-of-seven series to decide the 1971-72 National Hockey League title at home, 6-4 and 2-1, and lost the third game here Thursday night, 5-2.

The two teams meet here again Sunday at 2 p.m. EDT.

"I'm a bit surprised at the style of play in the games so far," Orr said. "I've felt all along it was going to be a long series and I don't have any reason to change my opinion now."

Surprising so far in the series has been the lack of bodily contact in a post-game round that was expected to produce much solid hitting, a game conducive to the success of both teams.

The three games to date have produced a lot of chippy play by both clubs, but no major infractions.

BOBBY ORR

Emile Francis, New York's general manager-coach, said Friday the Ranger success in the third game was Boston's inability to solve the home team's power play.

"New York ice is longer than Boston (Garden) and the corners are deeper," Francis said. "This gives players on our power play more room to manoeuvre and get the puck back to the point man.

"Because of its larger size (10 feet longer than Boston Garden) and the players' familiarity with the ice surface, this makes the Ranger power play work," Francis added by way of explaining the three early goals in Thursday's game when the Rangers scored with a man-power advantage.

Rangers Jean Ratelle, awarded the Lady Byng Trophy as the NHL's player best combining ability and sportsmanship at Friday's annual award's luncheon here, was used sparingly by Francis after the first period after the New Yorkers gained a 1-1 lead.

"The early lead enabled us to rest Ratelle more than I intended. But, there's no sense pushing him when he wasn't needed."

Ratelle broke his ankle in a game March 1 and hasn't since played only in the three games against Boston. Francis has been spotting his all-star centre almost exclusively on the power play between Jean Ratelle and Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert.

Earlier in the season Ratelle also saw duty on the Rangers' fourth line but the New York coach was forced to abandon that scheme when veteran Ron Stewart was knocked out of the playoffs with a broken jaw in the opening game.

Stewart's loss leaves Francis in a quandary. Two of Rangers' defensive corps were injured in Thursday's game.

Veteran Jim Neilson's status is questionable with a bone-bruised ligaments. Rookie Ab DeMarco is more optimistic. Junion centre Garnet Bailey's skate inflicted a deep wound in DeMarco's left thigh when the two fell along the boards and the Ranger New York player will miss the rest of the series.

That reduced the healthy New York blueline brigade to three players for the final 10 minutes of the game.

"I told (Glen Sather to get ready," Francis recalled during Friday's luncheon. "He has about 10 games experience (on defence) in pro hockey.

"The man I'd normally drop back in a case like that would be Stewart. But he's out.

Francis was still pondering what action to take if DeMarco is unable to dress Sunday. He has several possibilities to consider, one of which leaves him with a slowing sense of security.

He has Larry Cahan, who dressed as the fifth defenceman in the first two games at Boston but whose glingy muscles proved costly to the Rangers.

He has Jim Dorey, a Boston veteran who played but one game after being acquired from Toronto Maple Leafs in February before suffering a dislocated shoulder. Doctors would prefer that Dorey give the shoulder more time to mend.

Then there's Barry Wilkins, rugged performer who collected a record 405 penalty minutes while performing with New York's Central Hockey League franchise, Omaha Knights.

Orr Only NHL'er To Make Two Trips

NEW YORK (CP) — Bobby Orr made the short trek from the head of the table to the stage three times Friday at the National League's annual awards luncheon—twice for himself and once out of sympathy for team-mate Phil Esposito.

Orr, the acknowledged premier defenceman in the NHL, continued his streak of having won at least one individual award in each of his six seasons by winning both the Hart and Norris trophies.

Esposito, who won the Art Ross Trophy as the league's leading scorer for the third time in four years—the string was interrupted by Ver two years ago—was unable to attend.

One of Orr's devastating blueline blasts Thursday night caught the Boston centre on the knee as he skated by and he will return home with the rest of the Bruins for medical treatment immediately after the season ends to New York Rangers.

The Bruins, however, hold a 2-1 edge in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final and Esposito is expected to be back in New York for Game No. 4 Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. EDT.

"I know I should have kept the shot lower," Orr admitted in an interview at the luncheon. "It would be terrible if Phil wasn't able to play."

In winning the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player for the third straight year and the James Norris Trophy as the outstanding defence-man for the second season, Orr established records for consistency in both categories.

The 24-year-old native of Parry Sound, Ont., who has revived the status of a defence-man since he blossomed as a fledgling NHLer at the age of 18, has been plagued with leg injuries throughout his career and is currently hobbled by a recurring knee injury.

The Norris Trophy was presented to Orr by the last man to have his name inscribed on it before the young Bruin began his string, veteran Harry Howell.

"I said at the time that I was happy to win it that year because in the next 10 years it would be known as the Bobby Orr Trophy," Howell recalled. "Now, we're half-way there."

Orr accepted the Art Ross Trophy on Esposito's behalf from Bernard (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, one-time team-mate with Montreal Canadiens, a former coach of New York and currently on scouting assignments for the Rangers.

The Hart Trophy presentation was made by another former Canadien, Jean Beliveau, two-time winner of the award.

The other three trophies awarded at the luncheon included the Calder Trophy, to Montreal goaltender Ken Dryden as the NHL's outstanding rookie; the Lady Byng Trophy, to Rangers' Jean Ratelle as the player best exhibiting sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct and the Vezina Trophy, to Tony Esposito and Gilles Villemure of Chicago Black Hawks as the goaltending tandem allowing the fewest goals during the season.

Junior A Franchise For Sudbury

SUDBURY (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association formally presented Sudbury Wolves with their OHA Junior A franchise Friday which team president Ralph Connor said cost more than $250,000 to acquire.

Connor, general manager of Cambrian Broadcasting, which acquired the Niagara Falls OHA Junior A franchise from owner Hap Emms, said it was "a big gamble but an expensive one," detailing with Emms.

The franchise was presented to Connor by OHA president Frank Doherty. The Wolves previously operated in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

Other team executives with Connor are Dr. John Mali, vice-president and team physician; Bud Burke, secretary-treasurer; Barry MacKenzie, coach, and Ted Boyer, general manager.

Burke and MacKenzie, a former member of Canada's national hockey team, are also part owners in the new club.

The Wolves acquire 11 members of last year's Niagara Falls team and may also retain some of their NOHA players for the next OHA season.

Full House For Allan Cup Finals

SPOKANE, Wash. (CP) — Harrie Flyers and Spokane Jets can generate half the excitement on the ice that their enthusiastic fans will display in the telephones, tonight's opening game of the Allan Cup hockey final should be one to remember.

Between 5,200 and 6,000 fans are expected in the 5,000-seat Spokane Arena to watch the Jets in pursuit of their second Canadian Amateur Hockey crown in three years.

It was the three Jets fans that the Washington state club insisted on having the first six games of the series played in Spokane, even if it meant paying air fare to fly the Barrie team home and back during a five-day period when the Spokane Arena won't be available.

The fiery phone calls back and forth across the continent and the Canada-U.S. border resulted from Barrie's insistence that the Flyers would not wait around Spokane for five days between the third and fourth games.

Thursday night, the Jets announced that all had been cleared up as a result of the air-fare offer but president Lou Bruce Bigelow of the Flyers said Friday the offer had not been accepted.

The clubs are agreed on the first three games of the best-of-seven final. They will be here tonight, Sunday and Tuesday.

From there on come the differences of opinion, with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruling to settle things amicably.

Spokane wants the fourth game here May 15 and the fifth and sixth, if necessary, here May 18 and 17. A seventh game, if required, would be either in Spokane or an unspecified British Columbia city.

Barrie wants to get the fourth and fifth consecutive out of the way in Kimberley, B.C., May 12 and 13, going back to Spokane for the sixth and seventh, if necessary.

The Jets don't want to use the Kimberley arena because it seats only about 1,800, which would leave out a lot of Spokane fans, while the Flyers want to finish the series as early as possible so their players, some of them school teachers, can get back to their jobs.

The club managers were to tackle the problem again today while the players were working out the kinks in preparation for what could be a bitterly-fought first game tonight.

Both teams have lineups composed of that special blend that makes senior A winners—some former professionals, some young legs, and some outstanding amateurs.

Eacll also blasts a former member of Canada's national hockey team. For the Flyers it's captain Corby Adams while for the Jets its Ted Hargreaves, picked up from Nelson, B.C., Maple Leafs of the Western International Hockey League, dominated all season by Spokane.

Lakers One Step Away From First NBA Title

NEW YORK (AP) — "If New York had won, everybody would have been talking about what a great game Bill Bradley played," said Gail Goodrich of the Los Angeles Lakers.

"But they didn't," he said, pausing to savor the moment, "knocking on wood."

And by beating the Knicks 116-111 in overtime Friday night in Madison Square Garden, the Lakers, long frustrated trying for supremacy in the National Basketball Association, moved within a step of finally earning the crown that has slipped from their grasp since 1954.

That was the year they last won the championship—only back then they were known as Minneapolis Lakers. In 1960 they moved to Los Angeles. Seven times since then they have made it to the finals. And seven times they have been thwarted, the last time in 1970 by the Knicks.

This time, however, they appear destined to win it all. They lead the best-of-seven series 3-1. "I'm not ready to celebrate yet," said Jim McMillian, who scored 23 points Friday night, including six on a trio of jump shots that had New York playing catch-up virtually throughout the overtime.

And Jerry West, who left 22 in his old scorers, added: "I'm anxious to play that next game."

Bradley scored 26 to top the Knicks. Two of his baskets, a 12-25 set by Jerry Lucas with 2:25 to span, pulled New York into regulation 111-111 tie with 1:25 remaining in overtime.

But 22 seconds later, West's jump from there put the Lakers on top for good. then they wrapped it up as Goodrich sank a field goal and free throw.

Goodrich also added 21 points — most of them on his patented hooks from beyond the top of the key—and Wilt Frazier scored 24 for the Knicks, including a tip-in of Dave DeBusschere's shot with three seconds to go that sent the game into overtime.

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of the Canadian Football League and the CFL Players Association spent Friday in a meeting Friday satisfied there is no threat of a player strike.

"That word didn't even come up," said CFL secretary Gerry Fulton when asked about reports of a strike threat.

"We don't compare us with the baseball players," said Patterson.

"Mutual understanding was reached on a number of items," he said. "And negotiations will be continued at a meeting in Vancouver on May 17."

Derby Longshots May Pay Off

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Some of America's greatest thoroughbreds have won the Kentucky Derby, which had its 98th running today, but some of the most memorable moments belong to the underdog.

Citation, the last of racing's eight Triple Crown winners, is very much a part of Derby history but so are Dauntless Jim, Count Turf and Lucky Debonair.

Entered in today's $125,000-added, 1¼-mile Derby at Churchill Downs were a field of 16 3-year-olds that included Riva Ridge, the 1971 2-year-old champion, and a rank outsider, named Dr. Neale.

Post time was 5:40 p.m., EDT.

In the 1933 Derby, a jockey called Roscoe Goose rode Dodsworth to a one-half-length victory over Ten Point in what stung contest payoff of $184.20.

This is still the biggest payoff in Derby history.

Last Bachelor Streak, Knight Counter, Jr's Arrowhead, Fourrella and Saigon Warrior, members of the mutuel field, finished in the last five places. But the other field horse was Canonero II who not only won but made a run at the Triple Crown by also winning the Preakness before finishing fourth in the Belmont Stakes.

A Mutuel field is made up by the track oddsmaker to keep the limit of 15 separate betting interests allowed by Churchill Downs. The field horses are considered outsiders.

In 1919, Johnny Loftus rode a colt who had no previous wins to a five-length victory in the Derby. The horse was Canadian-owned Sir Barton, who became the first winner of the Triple Crown.

Brokers Tip did not win the Triple Crown. In fact, the only time he won in 16 career starts was the 1933 Derby highlighted by the whipping duel between his jockey, Don Meade, and Herb Fisher, the rider of runner-up Head Play.

Despite the fact they had never won before the Derby, neither Sir Barton nor Brokers Tip paid real big prices. Sir Barton paid $7.20 as part of an entry while Brokers Tip returned $19.86.

After longshot winners of the Derby included Dark Star, who paid $51.80 after handing Native Dancer his only defeat a 1953; Gallahadion, $72.40 in 1940, and Proud Clarion, $62.80 in 1967.

"Does this mean you want to cancel tomorrow's game too, Harry?"

Dock Ellis Barred From Park

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dock Ellis, pitcher with the Pittsburgh Pirates, was sprayed with the chemical mace by Riverfront Stadium policeman at the Players' gate Friday night.

The policeman signed a warrant charging Ellis with disorderly conduct. Ellis was to appear in Hamilton County Municipal Court here today.

Ellis, whose eyes were puffed by the Mace, was finally permitted to enter and dressed for the Pirates game against the Cincinnati Reds.

Captain Norbert Evans of the Cincinnati private police said Patrolman David Hatter sprayed the chemical on Ellis when the player would not produce proper identification and tried to force his way into the stadium by making a gesture toward Hatter with a bottle in a bag.

"Maybe I looked too wild to be a ballplayer," Ellis told photographers while asking them not to take pictures of him. "I just had my hair blown out (after rain). This is beautiful. It makes me hate better."

One O'Clock Wonders

Working 'at one in the morning had its rewards for 6th Richardson and Bea Hunt as they won Friday night bowling tournaments. Both tourneys finished at 1 a.m., but the overtime was worth it as Bea Hunt captured her fourth consecutive "Mrs. Bowling" title, while Richardson was selecting the "Under 235 Average" tournament as Hunt averaged 238.8 for the 10-game tournament to easily best Trenton's Lorraine Cassidy who finished with a 219.6 mark. Kay Wilson of Belleville finished third and Shirley's Earla Crossman was fourth in the field of 39 women bowlers. Richardson managed a 240.9 mark to top the Reid of H bowlers, while second place in this event went to Larry Woodcock with a 227.2 average.

Sports On All Front

BALTIMORE (AP) — After suffering their second straight defeat to Baltimore Clippers Friday night, Nova Scotia Voyageurs will be looking for their first win in the best-of-seven series for the American League's Calder Cup as the finals move to Halifax tonight.

The hero of Friday night's defensive-minded game was Pete LaFrambroise who scored the winning goal at 12:42 of the overtime period for a 2-1 Clipper victory. He was set up by Wally Chevrier who stole the puck from a Nova Scotia defenseman and fed centre Joe Szura, who also assisted on the play.

The game had been scoreless until the closing minutes when the Clippers tallied with 3:23 remaining when Red Armstrong fired a backhander past Michel Plasse. Jim Bartlett earned an assist.

With their backs to the wall, the Voyageurs pulled Plasse in order to have an extra skater with a minute and a half left to play. The gambled worked when Fred Comeau tied the game with 42 seconds remaining, with Randy Rota assisting.

Another hero was Clipper goalie Jim Shaw, who has only allowed the Voyageurs one goal in the first two games of the series.

REGINA (CP) — A goal by Fred Comrie at 6:02 of a sudden-death overtime gave Edmonton Oil Kings a 3-2 victory over Regina Pats and their second-consecutive Western Canada Hockey League championship.

Oil Kings now join Peterborough Petes and Cornwall Royals in a round-robin series for the Memorial Cup, starting Tuesday in Ottawa.

Edmonton won the best-of-seven series four games to one.

Marcel Comeau gave Edmonton a 1-0 lead midway through the second period, but rookie Mike Wanchuk sent the game into overtime when he scored for Regina at 4:23 of the third period.

In overtime, the winning goal was disputed. Regina claimed the puck didn't enter the net but hit a post. Referee Joe Cassidy of Calgary spent three minutes in consultation with the goal judge before declaring the puck had entered the goal.

Regina goalie Bernie Geoffrion made 32 Edmonton shots. Oil King's goalie Larry Hendrick faced the same number. There were 11 minor penalties, six to Edmonton.

GROSSINGERS, N.Y. (Reuter) — Chess master Bobby Fischer agreed Friday to play world champion Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union for the title in Reykjavik, Iceland, Fischer's representative said.

Paul Marshall, Fischer's representative, said in an interview that Fischer had agreed to play Spassky "in Iceland or anywhere in the free world."

Spassky has already agreed to the venue and to a proposal to begin the 24-game series June 2.

Bottom Baseball Teams Turning Things Around

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Dead End Kids of the National League East have discovered roses at the top.

And the new-found euphoria is catching for Philadelphia Phillies and Montreal Expos.

"I and Ken Reed purchased the Phillies," said Philadelphia manager Frank Lucchesi. "Some surprising Phillies are in second place after turning back San Francisco Giants 5-3 Friday night.

"It's a team effort all the way down the line," said Montreal manager Gene Mauch, explaining the giddy atmosphere of the 1972 Expos who are in third place after beating Los Angeles Dodgers 3-1.

The longtime also-runs have literally turned the East race upside down. The Phillies finished last and the Expos were second fifth last season and neither was given a chance to move any higher this year.

St. Louis Cardinals, a team that is one of the so-called preseason contenders, is holding up the division, 5½ games off the pace, after losing in Atlanta Braves 2-1. The defending World Champion Pittsburgh Pirates, meanwhile, have dropped to fifth with a poor early-season start and continued to spin Friday night when nipped 5-4 in 10 innings by Cincinnati Reds.

Houston Astros, a surprising team in the National League West, defeated Chicago Cubs 3-0 and San Diego Padres, who are surprising no one this year, beat New York Mets 6-0 in the other National League games.

The Phillies' victory, their 12th in 18 games, was fashioned by one of the "kids" who is part of Lucchesi's youth movement. Mike Anderson limited Baltimore Don Money from first base with none out in the bottom of the ninth to end the triumph against rookie Jean Marichal.

The 24-year-old Anderson was slump-ridden, batting a frustrating .148 before game time.

The game-winning hit gave the victory to room-mate Billy Champion, who gave up a pair of first-inning runs, then blanked the Giants the rest of the way to begin the 36-game series June 2.

The Giants, last year's West Division champions, stayed in last place with the loss. It was their 12th defeat in 14 games and Marichal's fourth in five decisions.

Montreal moved up in the East standings, one game behind New York and Philadelphia, with what Mauch called a "sweet" victory.

"Nothing is sweeter than beating the Dodgers," said Mauch. "And it looks even better when you beat them at their own game-defense, running and pitching."

Bill Stoneman scattered seven hits and Ron Hunt produced the winning runs with a two-run single in the Montreal third.

Stoneman pitched out of several jams by "going with my curve balls and sliders for most of the early going."

"I didn't have a good feel on my fastballs," said Stoneman.

"Everytime I went to throw it inside, it went outside—and everytime I went to throw it outside, it went inside."

Hank Aaron drifted a two-run homer, his 664th career blast, and Phil Niekro spaced seven hits as Atlanta halted a three-game losing streak and added to St. Louis' miseries this year. The Cardinals have lost 11 games in 17.

Aaron's home run was the second by his off St. Louis nemesis Jim Ellis this year and tagged him with his fourth defeat in as many decisions, another unmarked this spring.

Tony Perez' tie-breaking single with the bases loaded in the fifth inning gave Cincinnati its victory over Pittsburgh, which lost its 18th contest in 26 outings.

Houston, which finished tied for sixth in the West last year, held on to first place by a game over Los Angeles with Friday night's triumph. Jim Wynn hammered a two-run homer and Larry Dierker pitched a five-hit-ter for Houston.

Steve Arlin pitched a six-hit-ter and Nate Colbert ripped a two-run homer and Derrel Thomas a three-run double as San Diego bombed New York. The Padres remained tied for fourth in the West Division despite the victory.

Ryan Finds Control Secret

Ryan's Express seems to be picking up steam even though the engineer isn't going all out on the throttle.

"I've decided I can throw exactly as hard as needed," said Ryan of California Angels said before railroading Milwaukee Brewers 4-2 Friday night on three hits and 14 strikeouts.

Ryan turned in more brilliant performances in several frustrating seasons with New York Mets. Like the little girl with the curl, when he was good he was very, very good but when he was bad he was horrid.

The problem was that he didn't always know where his supercharged fast ball was headed.

"Ryan still wants to strike out all on the first pitch," said Angels manager Del Rice after the cranky right-hander broke into the American League with a four-hit shutout of Minnesota Twins but only lasted a total of 4 1-3 innings in his next two starts.

Elsewhere, Baltimore Orioles edged Kansas City Royals 3-2, Texas Rangers nipped Detroit Tigers 3-1, Minnesota whipped Boston Red Sox 5-2, Oakland Athletics downed New York Yankees 3-1 and Chicago White Sox shaded Cleveland Indians 2-1.

Ryan fireballer fanned the Brewers in the second and seventh innings and struck out at least one batter in every inning but the fifth.

The Angels scored twice in the second on Andy Kosco's single, a triple by Leo Cardenas and Ken Berry's wild pitch and added two more in the third on singles by Ryan and Sandy Alomar and sacrifice flies by Jim Berry and Vada Pinson.

The Orioles rallied for three runs in the bottom of the eighth to beat Kansas City after Ed Kirkpatrick's two-run homer in the top of the inning snapped a scoreless struggle.

Singles by Mark Belanger and pinch hitter Terry Crowley started the counter-attack and chased starter Mike Hedlund. Dave Pollard greeted reliever Tom Burgmeier with a bant single and Belanger scored when pinch hitter Paul Schaal's throw sailed past first base. Merv Rettenmund slugged home the tying run and Boog Powell's sacrifice fly delivered the winning run.

Passion Is Bach's Masterwork

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

When Johann Sebastian Bach set out to compose the St. Matthew Passion in 1729, he could hardly have been aware of the precedent he was setting.

To create such a profound, valved masterpiece as this orchestral story of Christ's life was one accomplishment, but to anticipate the advent of stereo by more than 200 years was quite another.

Not that innovations were such a rarety with Herr Bach. He was the ultimate eclectic, searching constantly for new musical modes from which to draw and expand.

But a novelty of the Passion especially pertinent in this electronic era was his use of antiphonal choirs and instruments, pitted opposite one another to dramatize dialogue and accentuate harmonic themes.

As a result, few conductors have had the courage to attempt this massive work, so complex in its structure and staging.

Belleville is fortunate in having an adventuresome musicologist, however, and the fruition of his efforts can be heard Monday, May 15, at Bridge Street United Church.

Robert Reid is well known throughout eastern Ontario for his leadership in directing The Messiah and Elijah, two other grand oratorios previously performed by the augmented Bridge Street choir. He admits that this year's production is probably the most ambitious cultural undertaking yet attempted in Belleville.

"We did The Messiah three times and Elijah last year, always to full houses," he said. "I have wanted to do the St. Matthew for years but didn't feel we were experienced enough or had sufficient numbers. It may well rate as the greatest oratorio ever written."

A man of high standards, Mr. Reid has inspired the choristers to increase the choir's strength to 186. In addition, 15 teen - aged voices will provide harmony from the balconies on either side of the expanded stage.

Working with the singers, who divide evenly into two independent choirs, are two musicians of professional calibre borrowed for the evening from points distant and local. They, too, will be split evenly to enhance the stereo effect.

Totally there is the investigatia organist S." Alec Gordon, about whom Mr. Reid facetiously comments, "He's scared to death." Even for Mr. Gordon, the Passion is a first.

Mr. Reid would like May 15 to be more than just an evening's entertainment. He wants the St. Matthew Passion to become an experience.

"We want this to become a vital part of religious life in Belleville, to have people identify with the situation.

"Two things are required for a religious experience — knowledge and an emotional response. Music provides a good medium.

"If this magnificent oratorio could bring those individuals attending one small, personal step closer to understanding the meaning of those events, and the Power which governs our lives, then we will have achieved more than we dare hope."

St. Matthew Passion adheres faithfully to the first gospel of the New Testament except for several reflective arias inserted by a librettist-contemporary of Bach. As in the past, listeners will be provided with texts to help them follow.

Trimmed by Mr. Reid to two hours, the original version ran four and a half hours as it recounted Christ's life from birth to the moment of His death. The conductor praised Bach's handling of such a resounding event:

"He tried to keep it in the context of Christ's death. Elijah used tympani and trebles during the scenes when but Bach achieved the same effect by having the voices come together, superimposed and intermingling."

If past experience is any indication, the 1,300 seats in Bridge Street Church will be spoken for long before May 15. Those interested in sharing the evening's occasion can obtain tickets from James Trotts, Leslie's Shoe Store and from members of the choir.

Pianists Judged At Festival

STIRLING (Special) — Piano classes dominated Thursday evening's competitions at the 22nd annual St. Paul's United Church Festival of Sacred Praise.

In the piano solo for grade eight, Janet Bastedo of Frankford placed first with 87 while Beth Taylor from Stirling was second with 85.

Robin Ormsby of Trenton placed first with 89 marks in the Bach piano class for 16 years and under.

In the piano duet, Anne Marie and Thomas Aquino from Batawa placed first with 87.

Carolyn Pogana of Trenton placed first with 87 in the contemporary piano classes. She chose the Vision Fugitives as her selection.

Robin Ormsby of Trenton was first with 88 in the piano classes for 15 years and under while Ursula Berger from Frankford was second with 86. They played Beethoven's opus 49 number 1.

In the open piano solo, Carolyn Pogana from Trenton was first with 87 while Karen Clare from Foboro was second with 85.

In the organ class for grade 10, William McArton from Stirling was first with 88. In the organ hymn playing class, he was first with 87 marks. His selection was Praise My Soul.

St. John's United Church of Tweed scored first with 87 in the girls' double trio accompanied for 13 to 18 years old. Their selection was Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen.

The grand finale to the festival will be held Saturday evening in St. Paul's United Church with the Stars of the Festival. The program of stars will begin at 8 p.m.

Boaters' Graduation Tonight

The annual graduation dinner and change of watch of the Belleville Power Squadron will be held at Bay of Quinte Yacht Club Saturday night, starting at 7 p.m.

Nine of the 18 graduates of the Canadian Power Squadron's piloting course are cadets from Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Quinte, who were instructed by Reg Morry. The cadets will get presented with their diplomas with the rest of their class.

Five seamanship certificates, two advanced piloting and one junior navigation will be presented.

District executive officer Simon Taylor will conduct the change of watch when the new bridge for the coming year is sworn in.

Late Spring Slows Crops

Late disappearance of winter's snow together with continuing cool weather and little warming sunshine have all contributed to a later than usual start at spring cultivation by Hastings county farmers.

Wayne Martin, county agricultural officer at Stirling, estimates that the start of spring work is at least a week behind normal.

"There is still just the occasional farmer getting started — there is not much doing yet," he said.

The exception is on higher, well-drained land where farmers have been able to get to work sooner on light soils.

In addition to delaying spring cultivation, the late and relatively cool weather has meant that so far there has been but little growth. Grass is just starting while fall grains have also been held back by the cool weather.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON
Sunday, May 7

Aries (March 21-April 19): Do your accustomed share in the community. Avoid any tendency to a personal holiday of the rest of it but include prayer and meditation.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): If you are not staying home, seek out relative strangers for an impersonally short sort of day. Reflect on recent events.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Don't get upset on household chores; do not fit in others' plans; make your own; rely on your own resources. You have a lot to do.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Use the country opportunity to commune with yourself, explore mixed feelings, conflicts. You may be able to avoid future difficulty.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23): Your pride is on the surface and likely to be careless about money. Getting anything done is, of course, strictly up to you.

Virgo (Aug. 24-Sept. 23): Keep yourself visible to those you care about, as communication tends to snags in this otherwise calm Sunday.

Libra (Sept. 24-Oct. 23): Declutter your own mind and work on conditions first. Under present conditions, you can benefit from a reasonable prescription.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22): Romance gleams, promises surprises. In spreading good humor, you will be amazed by how much of its beneficial effects reflect back to your well-being.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Bring your problems into any surrounding social situation and let others try to find answers with you. The easy word does it.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Creative whims or habit patterns are inclined to succeed promptly, according to your determination. Express your feelings toward your loved ones.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Interpreting a hard nose, you are egged on to inconclusive enough to keep you out of making a big new one. Social activities are important.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): You're off to a lively start with an idea that stirs humor and co-operation. Remember that your personal goals must come first.

To Your Good Health

Glands Sometimes Fail to Function

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Doctor; I have a daughter who is 28 and who has never had a period.

She has been examined by a doctor who says she can live a married life.

Can she get pregnant—Mrs. R.S.

Whether or not she can, as you say, lead a married life is a question that's subject to many factors that I can't predict but I would say that if her doctor has told her this, he has good reason.

As to a possible pregnancy, this is very unlikely in amenorrhea, the medical term for absence of menstruation. Since she has never had a period, the amazement in your daughter's case is undoubtedly what is called "primary" as opposed to "secondary" in the following types, menstruation stops after it has begun.

It is rather uncommon but there are other women who have never menstruated.

The cause is usually underfunctioning of the glandular system—the pituitary, thyroid, ovaries, or all of them.

At her age, I'd say the pituitary and the ovarian reserve itself are very minimal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the best way to check if my husband and I are 70 and 82, that all the shots but still get the flu so bad. So why should we have them if we get the flu? Were we given too much a shot, or what?—Mrs. L.A.

Nobody has ever claimed that flu vaccine was 100 per cent effective but if it prevents or moderates three cases out of four, it is still doing a lot of good. The vaccine can make the difference in the attack, causing it to be mild.

It is recommended primarily for "high risk" people, which include some over, especially the elderly, who have chronic ailments (lungs, heart, etc.) and need what protection is possible against a case of flu which by them would be particularly hazardous.

One problem is that flu exists in various strains, so the flu vaccine is produced with several strains represented in it. If a few strain appears, then the vaccine has to be modified, as has happened.

Finally, the intensity of exposure to the germs has a bearing. The vaccine may protect fully against light exposure but not against intense exposure. At your age, this protection should be taken annually.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 17 and my face looks like a disaster. My eyebrows are very terribly bushy and grow across the bridge of my nose. It's beginning to look like one long eyebrow.

I've thought of plucking them but have heard that plucking only stimulates more growth.

My mom won't let me go to a doctor and get the hairs permanently removed. Is there any solution that I could use at home which would be fairly permanent?—J.R.S.

Plucking doesn't stimulate growth. True, the hairs will grow in again in time, but they can be plucked again. I don't know of any permanent method of removal except electrolysis, which, by the way, isn't done by doctors but by trained electrologists. If mom relents and permits that, be sure to go to a registered electrologist. Your doctor probably can refer you to a reliable one.

Note to F.P.: Best guide to finding a plastic surgeon is to consult your personal physician and ask him to refer you to one with whose work he is familiar.

Contract Bridge

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♥ | Dbl. | 3 ♥ | 3 ♠ |
| 4 ♥ | Dbl. | Pass | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

Opening lead—ace of spades.

From a team of four match comes this deal where, at the first table, the bidding went as shown. In jumping to five spades, East followed the principle that if you decide to pre-empt in a given situation you should at once bid as high as you are willing to eventually go—and let partner do the rest.

Certainly it is hard to fault West for doubling at hearts, even though South made the slam for a score of 1,680 points.

He naturally thought that even if his ace of spades was not a trick, South was likely to have the ace of hearts. With both possibilities going up in smoke, West had to pay off to the slam.

At the second table, the bidding went quite differently:
INSERT CUE HERE

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♥ | 1 ♠ | 3 ♥ | 3 ♠ |
| 4 ♠ | Dbl. | Pass | 4 ♠ |
| 5 ♥ | Dbl. | Pass | Pass |
| Dbl. | Pass | Pass | |

Here East adopted an entirely different approach by bidding only three spades at his first opportunity. He elected to take his bid-and-raise and crawl into a spade contract by slow and easy steps.

Ultimately he got doubled at five spades and — when North chose the ace of hearts as his opening lead — West had no trouble making the contract, thus adding a further 650 points to his teammates' huge score at the first table.

Declarer ruffed the heart lead in dummy, crossed to the ace of spades, discarded dummy's two diamonds on the K-Q of hearts, and exited with the ten of clubs. South won, but could not prevent West from scoring eleven tricks on a crossruff.

Land Bank Bill Said Communism

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cries of "communism" have greeted one of two land programs in two Prairie legislatures.

The complaints came from the 15-member Liberal Opposition in Saskatchewan as the major piece of legislation, a land bank, was brought in during a spring session which prorogued Friday with the New Democratic Party government putting through a record 158 bills, many of a housekeeping nature.

Premier Allan Blakeney's 45 NDP members set up the bank which permits farmers to sell their land to the government. The house was told the measure would give young farmers a chance to get into agriculture and others a chance to expand, while allowing older men to sell and retire.

Basically, it permits the government to rent the purchased land with an option to buy after five years.

At Edmonton, a bill featuring a $58-million development fund which Alberta hopes to co-ordinate with the federal government's proposed small farms program was given first reading Friday.

Mr. Pepin, questioned in the Commons, said the law would not be retroactive "but I expect that people who intend to proceed to important takeovers in the interim period will keep me informed."

Asked outside the Commons after he expected any foreign company would feel it necessary to notify him before buying a Canadian company before the law came in, the minister said: "Prudence."

Takeover Prudence Suggested by Pepin

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin issued an indirect warning Friday to foreign companies which might be considering takeovers of major Canadian firms before government legislation governing such takeovers passes Parliament.

The legislation was given routine first reading in the Commons Thursday. But even if a general election isn't called in the near future it could still be months before Parliament passes the bill.

Duke's Affair Results in Grant

OTTAWA (CP) — The fact that Queen Victoria's father, the Duke of Kent, had a French-Canadian mistress is bringing $4,950 to Halifax this summer in the form of an Opportunities for Youth grant.

The money will be used to provide salaries and scrub brushes to students who will clean up historic Heart Pond, a memorial to the duke's love for his Canadian paramour.

The people of the Scarlet-wood community of Toronto apparently have some quality — perhaps macabre — that is bringing them a $15,288 grant to produce a full-length motion picture to be called "The Shadow of Dracula." Residents will do the acting.

And before this story goes any further, is should be noted that students in Mississauga, Ont., will receive a $7,975 grant for a project called "The Story of Non-News: Inside Investigation of media to determine what non-news is."

But there are a few off-beat projects worth special note.

In Saskatchewan an effort will be made to bring culture to communities such as Gull Lake under an $8,987 grant to take classical music concerts to rural areas.

In Vancouver, $11,725 will be spent on a project called "Letter-Pool," which will do "computer-matting" for car pools in the downtown area to provide interested commuters with the names of other commuters travelling the same routes at the same times.

More than 19,000 applications have been received.

Premier Opens Convention

Premier William Davis chats with Dr. Harry Burns, Belleville Rotary Club, and Douglas Whitley of Trenton's Club before addressing the delegates at the beginning of the annual district 707 conference in Toronto Friday. The conference shifted to Belleville Friday afternoon and will continue all weekend here.

Powers Sought For Board

HAMILTON (CP) — Dr. Douglas Wright, who heads Ontario's commission on post-secondary education, says his commission voted for the strongest possible form of decentralization when it suggested the creation of a co-ordinating board to aid government decision-making.

Dr. Wright defended his commission's suggestion Friday at a panel discussion of the Ontario Confederation of Faculty Associations' convention here, and rejected ideas that the board would merely advise government and not be an effective independent force.

"We proposed a board with executive powers in those areas in which we perceived central decisions to be established and unavoidable. We felt that this, with the continuation of block grants, would provide most effectively for the maximum degree of independence on a stable, long-term basis."

He said that "although the commission has not been given much credit for it, it opted for the strongest possible form of decentralization that we thought practicable," adding that the commission looked at a number of recommendations to strengthen local boards.

If local boards of governors had been stronger in recent years many problems would have been solved at the local level.

In the panel discussion of state control of universities, he said the commission looked for a structure that provided "state control only over critical public interest issues that individual institutions are unable to cope with unilaterally."

Six Authors Awarded Prizes

OTTAWA (CP) — Six Canadian authors were presented with Governor General's literary awards Friday, although only four were actually on hand to receive their presentations.

Pierre Berton, selected for his history of the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, The Last Spike; John Glassco, chosen for his Selected Poems; Gerard Bessette, author of the novel Le Cycle; and Gerald Fortin, who wrote La Fin d'Un Regne, a collection of essays, all accepted their awards and cash prizes of $2,500 from Gov. Gen. Roland Michener.

The cash grants are from the Canada Council, which selected the winning books from over 200 Canadian titles.

Also named for awards were a Mordecai Richler, for his novel St. Urbain's Horseman, and Paul-Marie Lapointe for Le Reel Absolu, a book of poetry.

CP News Roundup

Water Centre 'Best in World'

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — The $23-million cost of the Canada Centre for Inland Waters is money well spent, federal Environment Minister Jack Davis said Friday as he officially opened its permanent buildings here.

"There are those who say it is too grand, perhaps too expensive, too beautiful for the job it does," he said.

"But it's the finest of its kind in North America, maybe in the world. Far better than anything the U.S. has on its side of the lakes . . . I think it's a good investment."

Canada, he said, has about 30 per cent of the world's fresh water supply and the quality of that water is a top priority.

At a news conference later, Mr. Davis said Canadians have had the way technically in researching ills and remedies for some pollution problems.

One reason was that many of the country's researchers were under one roof at Burlington, a suburb of Hamilton, and could co-ordinate their approach. Another was the fact that Great Lakes problems involved mainly one province, Ontario, while in the U.S., eight states were involved.

When the International Joint Commission was looking for advice and data for its report on the lower lakes, it was the staff at the centre who supplied much of it, Mr. Davis said. "In effect, they wrote the standards that are in the joint agreement."

Hellyer Attacks

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A Conservative speech by Paul Hellyer accusing the Trudeau government of taxing "destimized to destroy the Canadian middle class" was undelivered Friday night when the Ontario Canada leader had to leave a dinner meeting to return to Ottawa.

In the speech, to have been delivered in a conference of industrial management clubs, Mr. Hellyer lashed out at the recent extension of the Unemployment Insurance Act to middle-class persons.

Teachers Dropped

QUEBEC (CP) — About 1,000 of Quebec's 40,000 teaching will not be rehired for the next school year, Education Minister Francois Cloutier said Friday.

He told the Quebec national assembly an education department survey of school boards showed 851 teachers would not have their contracts renewed because of a teacher surplus. Another 312 were being rehired for reasons of incompetence or discipline.

Lab Purchased

TORONTO (CP) — The Connaught Medical Research Laboratories, owned by the University of Toronto, is to be the Canadian Development Corp.'s first purchase.

John Gerard, acting president of the university, said in an interview Friday the final price will not be determined until sale figures are known for the current fiscal year ending June 30.

For the past two or three years, he said sales of its biological products have remained constant at between $11 million and $12 million.

Union Calls Time

TORONTO (CP) — Union leaders took time out today to consider their position as bus negotiations reached an end to Toronto's strike of outside workers remained deadlocked.

Provincial mediator William Dinkie granted an adjournment Friday to 2 p.m. today at the request of Local 43, Canadian Union of Public Employees, which for 36 days has been on strike against the city and four of the five boroughs in Metropolitan Toronto.

Income Up

Statistics Canada reported Friday that after deduction of operating costs and allowance for changes in inventory, Canadian farmers had incomes last year totalling $1.87 billion, compared with $1.57 billion the year before.

Not Guilty

PETERSBOROUGH (CP) — Douglas Nicholas Trianios, 22, of Gores Landing, Ont., was found not guilty of non-capital murder Friday after an 11-man jury deliberated for nearly nine hours.

Trianios was charged in the Dec. 15 shooting of hotel manager Harold Green.

Garwood Fenton Jr., 24, of Port Hope was sentenced to life imprisonment earlier this year after pleading guilty to the same charge.

Convict Armed

Edward Thomas McCaffrey, 30, of Ottawa, ran from the hospital after eluding his guard escort, and commandeered a van.

McCaffrey is serving 20 years for manslaughter in connection with the August, 1970, slaying of Wayne Truczitte of Ottawa, who was shot three times, run over by a car and battered with a concrete block.

Wells Warning

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Thomas Wells told student teachers Friday that in order to get jobs after graduation they should be willing to travel and specialize.

He said students should enrol in teachers' colleges "with their eyes open as to their employment prospects upon graduation."

Baby Found

TORONTO (CP) — A 19-week-old boy, abducted when his mother left him outside an east-end store in his carriage, was found unhurt by police Friday night.

The baby, Bruce Charles Edwards, was missing for eight hours while his parents toured the neighborhood in a police cruiser hoping to spot the carriage.

A 41-year-old woman was held for questioning.

Three Hanged

ANKARA (Reuter) — Three confessed members of the underground left-wing Turkish People's Liberation Army were hanged early today at the central civilian prison here.

The three, convicted by a military court of attempting to overthrow the constitutional government by force, were the first to be executed in Turkey since martial law was declared a year ago in a bid to curb extremist activity in the country.

Shares Rationed

LONDON (Reuter) — The demand for shares in the British company planning to dig a tunnel under the English Channel became so great that dozens on the London stock market suspended sales Friday to a maximum of 100 shares to each client.

Although official circles do not expect a final decision before April next year, there was an immediate rush to buy the tunnel company's shares. This pushed up the price to about $11 from $5.

Garbagemen's Strike Settlement in Works

Formula Needs Strikers' OK

TORONTO (CP) — A formula to settle Toronto's prolonged garbage strike was accepted tentatively today by union negotiators and won quick approval from city council.

It then went to Metropolitan Toronto council, which met in closed session to discuss the proposal, worked out in weekend negotiations in which the Ontario government participated.

The strike of 3,800 outside workers raw is in its 29th day.

When the formula—a wage increase of eight per cent immediately and details for the second year of a two-year contract to be worked out later—was announced, President Stan Little of the Canadian Union of Public Employees emphasized that it must go to the union membership for ratification.

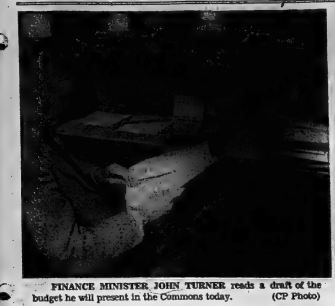
It was up to the 3,800 workers whether to take the last-minute agreement hammered out Sunday night as Labor Minister Fernand Guindon entered the talks with the threat of compulsory arbitration hanging over the bargaining table.

Mr. Little said the interim agreement calls for an immediate eight-per-cent increase for all outside workers in the city and four boroughs in the first year of a new contract.

If this is acceptable, then the wage increase for the second year, as well as other fringe matters, would be sent to arbitration.

But before the formula goes to membership, city council had to meet to discuss it and Metro council had to review it. If approved at the two levels of municipal government, it will go to the workers—maybe late today.

Mr. Guindon came into the talks as the crisis reached a critical stage. Metro Chairman Albert Campbell had warned he would ask for back-to-work legislation today if some agreement was not reached during the weekend.



Management's last official offer was six per cent in 1972 and five per cent for next year.

It was apparent during all-negotiation that Metro and the city would not be budged from their position that any settlement must fall short of the wage increases established by the wealthy Borough of Etobicoke—eight per cent for 1972 and seven per cent for 1973. The workers seek parity with Etobicoke.

Base wage for the workers, members of Local 43, CUPE, is $3.58 an hour.

Since it started, the strike has hit Toronto hard. All major parks in the city have been turned into emergency depots and rotting garbage has spread across the city. One school has complained of rats because of its proximity to an emergency dump.

Besides the garbagemen, the union local also encompasses street cleaners, sewage maintenance workers and park employes.

FINANCE MINISTER JOHN TURNER reads a draft of the budget he will present in the Commons today. (CP Photo)

Budget Due Tonight

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons has left-over legislation on its agenda this week, but attention is focussed on what tax and spending surprises Finance Minister John Turner may have in his budget tonight.

The budget, to be presented at 8 p.m. EDT by Mr. Turner, is his first since he took over from E. J. Benson as finance minister 10 weeks ago. The traditional six-day debate on the budget starts Thursday.

Two Children Perish in Fire

GALT (CP) — Two children died early today when fire damaged the living room of their apartment. They were alone at the time.

Dead are John Bennett, 11, and his two-year-old brother Jeff. They were the sons of Molly Bennett of Galt.

Mrs. Bennett was visiting friends at the time of the fire.

Patrick McCarty, who lives in an upstairs apartment in the two-storey house, said he returned home at 11:30 p.m. and went to bed. He said the boys were making a lot of noise at the time.

Mr. McCarty was aroused about an hour later by Constable Edward Kovach, who noticed smoke while on patrol and called the fire department.

News Briefs

Boy, 7, Throws Acid

BELFAST (Reuter) — A seven-year-old boy threw acid in a soldier's face during an incident in Belfast Sunday night, the army said. A spokesman said the boy lobbed an acid bomb at the crew of an armored car and some of the acid splashed into the commander's face, burning him. The spokesman added: "How can you hold a youngster of that age responsible for his actions?"

More Miners Missing

KELLOGG, Idaho (Reuter) — The number of miners missing in the Sunshine mine disaster rose to 34 today when the mine company announced there were 11 more miners down the smouldering silver mine than they previously had known about. Mine officials in the Idaho community said the confusion was caused by incomplete lists of workers prepared by foremen before the day shift last Tuesday which was hit by the disastrous fire. So far 35 bodies have been recovered.

Apollo Fuel Inhaled

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (Reuter) — Fifty-six persons were in hospital today after an explosion in pumping equipment removing hypergolic fuel from Casper, the Apollo 16 spacecraft. All 46 were reported in satisfactory condition. A space agency official said they were treated for possible inhalation of nitrogen tetraoxide, used with hydrogen to power the spacecraft's thruster jets.

Nixon Fights Abortion

NEW YORK (Reuter) — President Nixon, in an unusual entry into a state political issue, has allied himself with those seeking repeal of New York's liberal abortion law. In a letter Saturday to Terence Cardinal Cooke, Archbishop of New York, the president noted that the repeal movie, which faces a vote in the New York legislature this week, is a state decision outside federal jurisdiction. However, he said, "I would personally like to associate myself with the convictions you deeply feel and eloquently express."

Private Collection Halted

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver travel agent didn't get far during the weekend in a trip by truck through the garbagefilled alleys of back-alley Vancouver.

Sandy McDaniel, a 36-year-old travel agent, abandoned his private garbage collection venture Sunday night after several run-ins with striking civic workers.

"We rented a truck and hired 25 students," he said. "In the first block, cars of strikers blocked us in and we had to call the police."

Thirteen Homicides

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Thirteen persons were killed here during the weekend in what homicide investigators described as "one of the most violent weekends the city has ever had." Sgt. Edward Funk of the homicide division said the killings included nine shootings, one strangulation, one stabbing and two beatings. Six of the victims were youths.

Breakfast Is Late

KINGSTON (CP) — Prisoners at Collins Bay penitentiary are thankful for hours late this morning because 25 prisoners on the kitchen crew refused to leave their cells and report for duty. Warden John Meen was unavailable for comment but an aide indicated that the kitchen crew is staging a "general sit-down strike."

Pruners Imported

LAMBETH, Ont. (CP) — A Lambeth orchard owner says it cost him no more to fly in experienced apple-tree pruners from Holland and fly them home again than it would if he hired experienced Canadian help. "And besides," says Cor Verstegen, "they're more aggressive and don't take half-hour coffee breaks."

James Conway, of New York, representing the president of Rotary International, spoke to delegates and wives at the Governor's Ball Saturday night in the Legion Hall here. Over 700 people jammed into the two floors of the hall. For stories, see Page 3.

Ontario NDP Committee Wants to Oust Waffle

TORONTO (CP) — A three-man executive committee of the Ontario New Democratic Party has recommended that the party's Waffle group be dissolved as soon as possible.

In a report approved Saturday by the provincial executive and made public at a Sunday press conference, the committee says the Waffle group presents a threat to the structure and direction of the party as a whole.

The committee recommends that any member of the Waffle who does not voluntarily sever his relationship with that group should face disciplinary action and possible expulsion from the party.

Waffle leaders termed the recommendation an attempt to purge the party of group members and said they will "fight for our right" to remain in the NDP.

The report was prepared by Gordon Vichert, president of the Ontario NDP, Treasurer John Brewin and a third member of the provincial executive, Gerald Caplan.

Its recommendations will be presented to the provincial council meeting in Orillia June 23-25 for a vote by 238 to 30 delegates from the provincial executive, all ridings and the labor movement.

In presenting the report, Mr. Vichert said he hopes Waffle sympathizers will voluntarily agree to sever connections with the group, which strongly advocates economic nationalism and the nationalization of some key industries.

"What we are saying simply is that we cannot accept a group within a group," said Mr. Vichert.

Stephen Lewis, Ontario NDP leader, said he agrees with the report and the recommendations. He said the disbanding of the Waffle was considered the only solution to division within the party.

The committee was formed last March after the provincial NDP council, by a vote of 157 to 62, passed a resolution recognizing "the grave anxiety among our membership at the emergence of a distinct and separate group within the party."

Rural Craft Goes Mod

Country scenery is the right background for Jennifer Ireland of Cordova, to try on modern bikini produced by an old handicraft - - - crochet. Such crafts, which once occupied many rural households, are part of an undertaking by Jennifer's mother, Mrs. Teeny Ireland, aimed at encouraging local handicraft revival in countryside north of Marmora. ## Saigon Is City Of Eeerie Calm

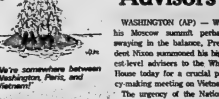
By PETER ARNETT and HORST FAAS

SAIGON (AP) — An eerie calm prevails in the bustling villages and market towns around Saigon.



Extensive visits to the half-dozen provinces surrounding the South Vietnamese capital indicate it is not an immediate target.

But for the first time in several years the North Vietnamese army has almost free rein over the Cambodian provinces to the west and the undisturbed jungles to the North that have traditionally been staging areas for attacks on Sigoin.

North Vietnamese intentions are just not known. All is guess work. Since the big reduction in American forces, there has been a great setback in the gathering of intelligence.

Whatever the timetable, American advisers and South Vietnamese officials in the protective belt of provinces around Saigon feel confident they can hold the enemy at bay. Harm the communists make their move.

"They won't score another surprise Tet offensive against us," commented an American in Binh Duong province who was here when American and Vietnamese forces found Communist bunkers outside their billets in Saigon on the morning of the Vietnamese new year in 1968.

"We're somewhere between Washington, Paris, and Vietnam!"

Hanoi Area Bombed

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes returned to the Hanoi area today for the first time in three weeks and bombed fuel and supply depots and other military targets on the edges of the North Vietnamese capital, reliable American sources reported.

The U.S. Navy planes from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf shot down several North Vietnamese MiG interceptors, the sources said.

Sources said the first raids on the Hanoi area since April 16 were ordered by President Nixon.

The United States is waging a concerted around-the-clock air campaign inside the southern panhandle of North Vietnam aimed at choking off war materials headed across the demilitarized zone, senior U.S. military sources revealed.

On the battlefronts in South Vietnam, North Vietnamese troops poured hundreds of shells into bases in the central highlands, and fighting erupted anew for control of Highway 14 between Pleiku and Kontum.

The northernmost defence line 20 miles north of Hue continued to hold.

One senior U.S. officer said the North Vietnamese were making "desperate, suicidal", attempts to move forward.

Nixon Calls Advisors

WASHINGTON (AP) — With his Moscow summit perhaps swaying in the balance, President Nixon summoned his highest-level advisers to the White House today for a crucial policy-making meeting on Vietnam.

The urgency of the National Security Council meeting was underscored by Nixon's orders for State Secretary William Rogers to interrupt his European tour to return to the United States for the session.

There was no official indication of whether the president had already made his decision, or whether he was still considering a set of options designed to blunt the North Vietnamese offensive and begin meaningful Vietnam peace talks.

The options range from a naval blockade of Haiphong Harbor to renewed bombing of military targets in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas to possible dispatch of U.S. marines now on navy ships in the China Sea to protect U.S. installations and troops in the beleaguered Hue region.

Cottage Crafts Revived

MARMORA (Staff)—Something's started near here this week that would make a pioneering grandmother blink.

Then, and with approval.

Homecrafts, that once helped past many an old time winter will enjoy a revival on a grander scale — if plans of Mrs. Tenny Ireland prove out.

Great - grandmother might give a heavily-drawn sigh and feel her once languid crochet is being used to make a bikini.

She'd approve that her craft is also in service producing a myriad of other hand-crocheted garments, colorfully keyed to designs of the season — dresses, ponchos, shawls, shirts.

Mrs. Ireland has opened a centre also in the middle of the countryside, eight miles from here, by which she hopes to encourage a revival of such crafts, including candle-making, woodwork, macrame, even home knitting.

She's doing much of the crocheting herself, as well as putting the work of local residents on display.

In doing so, she says, she's providing a useful public outlet for work that hitherto was strictly a hobby for friends and neighbors — one that might have eventually faded from existence.

Such crafts were once a mainstay of home life on the farm in early days. There are still a fair number still weaving them — but merely for personal satisfaction.

Mrs. Ireland says her operation is aimed along the lines of reviving the crafts as a local cottage industry while simultaneously producing items natively representative of the district — particularly, for example, home furnishings.

The display centre is in her home — on a side road off the Cordova Road, six exactly the most obvious centrestrip location.

But Mrs. Ireland isn't concerned. She regards the project as only a partial business undertaking.

"There's not that much of a profit. It's just a hobby with me and there are a lot of people that do crafts around here that never see it," she says.

Basic to sales will be the tourist trade — there are five lakes in the surrounding countryside, so the undertaking depends on visiting cottagers for its growth as a local heritage industry.

"And there is nothing to represent this area really to the tourist and visitor. They should know what the local people can do," she adds.

Lindley B. Calnan

Veteran Newsman Dies in Picton

PICTON (Staff) — Lindley Bell Calnan, 78, publisher and managing editor of the Picton Gazette for 51 years died Sunday in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital following a brief illness.

Mr. Calnan was attending a reception for veterans of World War I given in Ontario Aged 18 by Governor - General Roland Michener when he became ill and was taken to Ontario General Hospital. Seven days later he was transferred to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Calnan announced the sale of the newspaper and publishing business to Joseph Combal earlier this year but remained in the position of editor until his death.

His career in journalism began in 1910 when he joined his father, the late A. E. Calnan, on the Gazette payroll.

In the years that followed, Lindley Calnan served as a reporter, salesman, bookkeeper, proof reader, photographer and editorial writer.

At an annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in Vancouver last August, he accepted the 1971 Master Mariner Gold Quill Award, a framed plaque marking his 50 years as a newsman and editor.

A prominent citizen of Picton as Prince Edward County, Lindley Calnan recently published two special editions saluting the valor of county soldiers in both World Wars.

As a veteran of World War I, Mr. Calnan left the University of Toronto in 1917 to train for an officer's commission in the overseas training company of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps.

One of the highlights of his career in military service came when he witnessed the surrender of the German fleet in 1918.

He was repatriated to Canada shortly afterward and for a brief period was employed by Wood, Gundy and Company, a firm of Toronto investment bankers.

Mr. Calnan's record of community service is headlined by his many years as a member of Picton town council and as Secretary of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce.

It was the Picton Gazette, which under his direction garnered many contest leading to the name "Quinte's Isle" for the Prince Edward County area.

Mr. Calnan also travelled through Hastings County and published a booklet "Cradle of Hastings" for its tourist bureau.

He was secretary-treasurer of Class A Newspapers of Canada for six years and served as its president in 1951.

With the late Dr. Gerald Allison, Mr. Calnan organized the first veterans' group in Picton and was the its first president.

He was also a member of the Picton Rotary Club and the Trenyton Club.

Mr. Calnan is survived by his wife, the former Ellen Elizabeth, and two daughters, Elinor (Mrs. Walter Eberle) Toronto, and Patricia (Mrs. Dudley Parker) Picton.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from the Wallace Funeral Chapel, Mary Magdalene with Rev. R. H. Stewart officiating.

Active bearers were Picton Gazette staff members Claude Ferris, Harry Wolfe, Harry Walmsley, Hugh Nicholas, Pat Hodgson, and Joseph Combal.

Honorary bearers included George Hees, MP Prince Edward-Hastings, Mary Maglaire

Economics and Ethics Compete in Decisions

H. M. Griffith, chairman of the Steel Company of Canada, Hamilton, told the delegation of Rotarians Saturday morning "I believe circumstances frequently place business and professional men in situations where ethical and economic considerations vie with each other in a decision-making area.

"In such circumstances," he said, "it is difficult due to the fact that practical experiences relates to economic rather than ethical issues and decisions are difficult."

Mr. Griffith was the keynote speaker for the conference, dealing with the over - all theme "business ethics".

Touching lightly on the youth issues of disenchantment with the "materialistic mess," Mr. Griffith outlined his speech elaborating on three aspects of the conference theme.

These were 1) benefits our society has derived from the free enterprise system, 2) reasons why economic freedom has come to be regarded as a liability, 3) what can be done to preserve the free enterprise system.

Mr. Griffith claimed the most recognized benefit of the free enterprise system is the raised standard of living.

"Another major benefit of the system is the erosion of class boundaries," said the speaker. "For the first time in history we have allowed individuals to increase their positions within the framework of our society on the basis of their skills and effort."

"Some people suggest that we are not happier or better off because of our material achievements,' said Mr. Griffith. "A man who holds a firm conviction of a particular economic or political system is unlikely to reverse his position on the basis of someone else's logic."

Both a strength and weakness of the system is the absence of formal rules, said Mr. Griffith.

"Consequently, the evolution of ethics and practices has become a haphazard one," he said.

Because of instances of unethical conduct in the business community, the attitude of society toward the moral standards of the business community is one of skepticism.

"I believe the overall standards of today are far superior to those of businessmen prior to World War I," said Mr. Griffith.

Mr. Griffith outlined the reasons for this change saying, increased competition, speed and accuracy of administration and new methods have fostered better business.

"Some of the dog-eat-dog aspects of the system have mellowed," said Mr. Griffith, "and growth has become more stable."

A weakness of the system is covered in the social cost aspect.

This social cost being the payment made by society for a private decision to tear down public and historic buildings or companies adding to pollution.

"Increased legislation has done much to curb problems but I feel that most of the blame has been placed on the wrong doorstep," said Mr. Griffith.

"Human conditions of crime, racial discrimination, drugs and labor - management problems would still be here if we hadn't increased Canada's rate of economic activity," he said.

Irritating this problem, "is the apparent inability of private enterprise to allocate these costs efficiently as private costs and revenues," said Mr. Griffith.

One of the serious areas of responsibility to the business community in the need to act as a "parliamentary opposition, debating government policies and offering alternate solutions.

"In my view this has to be one of the most important roles of the business community," said Mr. Griffith.

"To shirk this responsibility would not only be bad business but bad ethics."

After the opening speech, members of the conference were broken into smaller groups and led off into rooms around the hotel to debate the address.

And Then There Was One

Marion Irwin of Toronto was one woman who decided that the real action of the conference would be in the plenary sessions held for the benefit of the men. "If I was cramping their style I would leave," said Mrs. Irwin as she sat, paid attention to speakers and carried on with her knitting. "If I were with the women, I would have to go through all the niceties but with the men, we can get down to the real problems and issues of the day." Attendance for the conference reached 1,400 over the weekend.

Petition Going to UN

Walter Davis of Willowdale in attendance at the Rotary Conference held in the city over the weekend, will be travelling to Stockholm, Sweden to represent Rotary at a United Nations Conference on Human Environment.

He will present a petition that outlines a number of recommendations to aid in the fight against pollution and population explosion.

By June 4, opening day of the conference, Mr. Davis will be representing Rotary members from the 15,000 clubs around the world.

The four recommendations made in the petition are 1) Developed countries must move to stabilize and then reduce their consumption of the world's raw materials and energy. 2) Regulation of population levels. 3) Recognize the first two recommendations so global population may be controlled. 4) Countries must cooperate to ensure a reasonable standard of living around the world.

Evangelistic Team

In town to-night with his evangelistic team is Rev. Rumbard who is known as "America's TV pastor." Mr. Rumbard could also be described as one of the big three mass-appeal religious speakers in North America today along with Billy Graham and Oral Roberts.

There is no doubt that Mr. Rumbard and others like him are important bearers of the Gospel message and at the same time a bulwark against the rising tide of permissiveness and family breakdown that are so increasing prevalent in our society today.

If the manifestations of religious fervor at these evangelistic gatherings seem a little overdone for some tastes, the presentation too dogmatic, there can be no doubt just the same that they have the power to restore doubters and waverers to the straight and narrow. They offer too, a sense of fellowship and community that many are seeking and have failed to discover in our frenetic society.

There must be many a parent also, not to mention members of the younger set, who seeing that program on television recently on Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Oklahoma, recognize in it the answer to some of the problems of the day. Mr. Roberts is the first to admit that attendance at the university he founded entails a degree of discipline not found at other institutions of learning; one young man said that when he found he would be going there he balked at the prospect, but later discovered the discipline was just what he inwardly knew he needed.

That there is no drug problem at the university, in fact it is apparently non-existent, is a measure of the discipline, combined with high ideals, of the Tulsa College. The fact that it attracts such students in the first place indicates also that there are plenty of young people around today who have no need of artificial props to see them through their formative or even later years.

Exodus From Ceylon

Large numbers of people are applying for passports in Ceylon and seeking entry to Canada and other countries as immigrants in the wake of last year's Communist-dominated uprising and, ironically, the growing authoritarianism of Prime Minister Bandaranaike's government.

There is almost a note of desperation in the letters of a tea planter acquaintance, a native of the country which has seen so much of colonial domination but has been independent since 1948. The government is proceeding with nationalization of foreign banks and industry and the time is coming, he says, when industries such as his own will be declared essential services and their employees denied permission to leave the country. Two generations of children, he adds, have turned out to be the "guinea pigs" of state-oriented education policies; many of them took part in last year's insurrection, along with labourers, university students and faculty members. Some 14,000 with Communist leanings remain in jail. Educational standards in the State schools are not only politically-tainted but the standards are poor, according to this would-be immigrant whose own children attend private church schools.

In his own case there is a sense of personal insecurity amid the isolation of the plantation he manages and amid hostile labor and threats of guerrilla action.

But what seems to have been the last straw for many were two drastic governmental measures, one of the Criminal Justice Bill, coinciding with the first anniversary of the rising and which has been denounced by jurists and christian groups alike; and establishment of a new Constitution this year prolonging the life of the present Parliament, dominated by the United Left Front, by six years for a total of eight years.

The political climate, according to our informant, is so tense and uncertain "that to people who value basic human rights, the point of no-return from Communism (practised under the guise of Democratic Socialism) is well passed. . ." A newspaper photograph accompanying his letter shows a crowded passport office in Colombo. Nearly 6,000 applications have been reported in the last three months.

Clipping Service...Transcripts

Information Canada Is Spreading Its Wings

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — Information Canada apparently is ready to launch a new electronic-driven news monitoring service that — for $34,000 a year — will supply clients with about 3,200 clippings a day.

There will also be less expensive services, at $9,000 and $18,000 a year.

An "internal working document," distributed by Information Canada to other government departments, outlines the new automated information monitoring service which will use "the most advanced methods in optical character reading, radio, television, magnetic recording, electrochemistry, microfilming, cybernetics, laser and related fields."

The program obviously is a far cry from the standard newspaper clipping services.

"Two hours after publication the summarized contents of almost all Canadian daily newspapers dealing with federal government affairs and other developments of national interest will be on microfilm," it says. A similar transmission a complete copy of any item included in the summary regularly supplied to clients will be available in 20 minutes from any field monitoring station.

"Audio facsimile of radio and TV reports can be re-transmitted to a client by telephone 20 minutes after a request has been received."

The working document says the automated information monitoring service, to be known as AIMS, will contain "an effective team of cross-country observers with an Ottawa-based staff of specialists to service members of Parliament and subscribing government departments, agencies, commissions and corporations with special-ized information in audio, video and print tailored to individual needs."

This apparently is the second phase of Information Canada's development. When it was founded two years ago, its announced plans were to tell Canadians about government activities and direct information from across Canada into the hands of government.

Information Canada officials now are meeting information officers of government departments to explain the proposed new monitoring service and to gather information on the exact needs of these prospective clients.

The working document says the objective of AIMS "is to systematically survey press, radio and TV for news content, editorial content, letters to the editor, special columns, and public affairs programs on topics of national interest or pertaining to federal government personality, policy, program or function."

There seems to be little that the AIMS program, with its central computer system, can't do.

Two hours after newspapers, TV and radio stations produce items, they will be in the national monitoring centre in Ottawa in abstract form. The program eventually will include all daily newspapers, along with weeklies and selected magazines.

Twice a day, Information Canada will furnish clients with an alphabetical compilation of all abstracted items, a list of all subjects covered and a statistical report on the main stories carried in that period. This statistical report will include the origin of news items, the frequency of play and the five major stories carried coast to coast.

Along with supplying audio reproductions of radio and TV programs, the service can also supply written transcripts.

AIMS will not interpret or comment upon news or other information being processed, says the working document.

"It will provide, in its first and second stages of development a fast and efficient monitoring coverage of 76 daily newspapers, 11 All radio stations and 64 television stations including the national networks. It will provide a unique service that will enable the policy-makers and administrators of Canada's federal government the better to tune into the moods of the nation."

This new program follows by several months the disclosure of an internal memo, written by H. Myles Moore, executive deputy director, which said that new projects must be developed if Information Canada is to justify its $8.4 million budget.

The memo was written to Jean-Louis Gagnon, Information Canada director-general who recently was appointed Canadian envoy to the United Nations Economic, Social and Cultural Organization in Paris.

Labor Unrest, Student Jobs and the Economy

Montreal La Presse: Marcel Pepin, president of the Confederation of Catholic Trade Unions, should have refrains to be satisfied with his recent public debate with the minister of public service, Jean-Paul L'Allier.

Even if the inter-union common front did not succeed this time in bringing the government over to its way of thinking, one of the principal objectives which it has been seking for months was exposed in clear terms to the public. The labor movement does not hide its desire to transform the industrial structure in Quebec and the traditional rules of private enterprise.

This is, however, an objective the union leaders and the more politicized groups have yet to get the population to accept.

Nothing is stopping the labor federations from continuing their work of making public opinion conscious of this end. They must continue to do it.

When they claim that workers should be given salaries allowing them to live decently, who will argue that the unions are pursuing a "revolutionary" objective?

Too many private businesses, especially those where workers are not unionized, sacrifice the welfare of their employees to the profit-making process. When the pot boils over, they are the first to be surprised. Other businesses, on a sort of short-term basis calculated to encourage initiative, increase in an unwarranted manner the gap between the highest and lowest salaries paid to their employees. . . .

The government itself must cease to set itself up as the protector of private enterprise and grant employees salaries and working conditions above average when this "average" does not permit a man to live without getting into debt. The effect of training systems in some private businesses is worth a hundred discourses on social justice.

If the debate between Mr. L'Allier and Mr. Pepin has clarified things, discussions between the common front and the government must continue immediately in order to regulate the public service conflict.

Following the injunctions and Bill 19, back-to-work legislation, some ministers, including the premier himself, want to open up a dialogue with the union leaders.

The coming days will tell us if they are successful or if the common front leaders will turn back to their members to continue the battle. One gains the impression that the climate is not as explosive as it was several weeks ago. This is a good omen.

Sherbrooke La Tribune: It might seem strange . . . at a time when unemployment is being used to strangle inflation, to launch an intensive campaign to promote student employment, but the project remains absolutely necessary if we really want to assure everyone an equal right to higher education.

Again this year the Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with Canada Manpower centres, has called upon the business and industrial sectors conscious of the problem of student employment. . . .

Some people object loudly when the necessity of creating seasonal employment for students is mentioned, on grounds that in the current situation those who are supporting families should not be deprived of revenues which they need. However, the jobs which are given to students are generally temporary and do not take any regular workers away from their regular jobs.

But more positive motives justify business leaders listening attentively to this campaign. The students need this money to live, to pay for their school fees and board during the school year, and by giving them the opportunity to work business leaders are assisting them to continue their studies.

The students also reap another advantage which cannot be overlooked—by working during the summer months they come together and live with people from another milieu, they learn more about working and business men, and this can contribute to building a society in which people from different backgrounds respect each other, despite the fact that they fill different professions and roles. . . .

The world can only be built with the co-operation and participation of all citizens. Students have something to contribute to society. It is only natural that this same society, and particularly the industrial leaders, should be concerned with facilitating the entry into society of these students who will build the universe of tomorrow.

The Coming Boom: A document called to the Commons by Finance Minister John Turner predicts an acceleration of the Canadian economy for the current year. This is excellent news, but it must be pointed out that the acceleration in question will not be the work of the government alone.

There will be an acceleration of the economy if, in the public sector as in the private sector, there are no strikes to hamper the efforts of the government. There will be an acceleration of the economy if businessmen — both financial and industrial become bolder and open up for-eign markets essential for the sale of Canadian products.

Canada for too long relied much to its own detriment has been content to play the role of an exporter of raw materials, which are often bought back at high prices after being manufactured in foreign countries. . . .

The Canadian export development corporation must not be the only one operating in this area. The support of the state for international exchanges is essential but it must not be exclusive. Private companies must also assume some risks.

The banks must do their part, at least as industrialists. Those who took part in the recent trade mission organized by Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin know from experience what assurance does and what smile the first time round, but they also know that it eventually comes.

Thanks to these trade missions it may be possible for Canadians to build a railway in the Congo, for example, or to sell dairy products to a country that hasn't any. Even if our sales to foreign countries are often financed by long-term no-interest loans, they are beneficial to Canada which can then make new jobs available.

Trois-Rivieres «Le Nouvelliste»: John Turner, federal finance minister, has presented . . . a series of predictions concerning the Canadian economic situation for the current year. In his document, Mr. Turner predicts that: 1972 will be a good year because the development of the Canadian economy will increase at a quicker rate in 1972 than in 1971 and that the number of available jobs will increase. "In a level which will absorb the total influx of new arrivals in the job market and reduce unemployment." . . .

Naturally this hopeful situation looks very good on the electoral setting being prepared here and there across the country. It is like cream that one puts on the cake so it will sell better. But this positive aspect of the situation which Mr. Turner's statement mentions becomes a little cloudy if one has the courage to read his document down to the last line. . . .

He hints that, parallel with a spurt in economic activity in the country, unemployment and inflation could again make their appearance in Canada. . . .

No one can ignore the fact that in fighting unemployment, the government risks creating a new inflationary crisis. The international trade in fact is trying to fight these two problems. Individually about a concerted basis, against both at the same time is what's needed.

If this is not done, the federal government will always be at loggerheads with the same problems. . . . It is a vicious circle. Past experiences prove it.

Mr. Turner does not impress us in any way with his economic predictions. They are only beautiful words with the purely electoral flavor. We feel that as long as the unemployment rate is 7.4 per cent it is useless to speak about a real economic spurt in this country. When everything has been done to bring this rate down to a decent level—the desirable rate is four per cent—there is no doubt he Canadian economy will do better.

Public Speaking: Is It A Disappearing Art?

Brockville Recorder and Times

There are not too many good public speakers today and thus it is a pleasure to hear and see one in action. Prime Minister Trudeau, we believe is a good public speaker. So too President Nixon and on his recent visit to Canada we couldn't help but observe that while Governor General Roberts never read his speech, the President expressed himself without the aid of a written text.

The noble art of public speaking has declined in many fields despite efforts on the part of schools and organizations to keep it alive. For, those interested in the subject the President provided a good study. He spoke for about 19 minutes when he arrived in Canada, expressing his personal thoughts clearly, without fault and with the interest of Canadians in mind. His remarks were in proper order and yet he spoke without prepared notes.

The need for good public speakers will always be with us. The old-style politicians used to be masters at the craft. If they couldn't speak they couldn't get elected. Today Canada has few politicians who can speak well "off the cuff" and those few Canada have never made a speech in public.

Public speaking is an art. Not all people can master it and the number who can seems to grow smaller every year. A course in the art would be a worthy adjunct to anyone's education.

Lack of Development Guide Worries Rodgers

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

MARMORA — A confrontation could be brewing between local governments and provincial agencies unless the senior government begins producing a code of standards for planning land development.

The warning, at a time when the hinterland of Hastings County is increasingly viewed as a choice area for recreational land expansion, comes from a man whose credentials are well backed by experience in public affairs and professional land sales experience.

Don Rodgers is now manager of the Marmora - area offices of Bowes and Cocks, the big Peterborough realty enterprise. He also is president of the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council, a former warden of Hastings and, for years, when reeve of his Sterling home town, known for his outspoken stands on a multiplicity of public issues.

The problem, says Mr. Rodgers, is this: In an era of unprecedented land development — matched by awareness of environmental and financial problems that can accrue — there is an absence of standard provincial guidelines on which local government planners can base decisions.

Thus, there is broad-based concern among municipalities as to whether local decisions, designed to protect the environment, will be acceptable to provincial authorities for implementation.

The situation is aggravated by what appears to be lack of communication between various provincial planning agencies. This may eventually be eradicated by the promised reorganization of Ontario government administration. In the meantime, says Mr. Rodgers, the local results often are frustration and aggravation.

As LORDC president, he says he has spoken to municipal politicians across the eight counties in the development council's region.

"I'm convinced that the local people are concerned about how they're going to get plans implemented to protect the things they want protected.

"And there's a real confrontation, I feel, developing between local representatives and the provincial people concerned with planning controls that I think somehow or other has to be resolved."

The situation may be even further complicated by varying government policies over the type of development best suited to the region that includes the Quinte district, he added.

For instance: Incentive funds have been available from one branch of provincial government to encourage industrialization.

But, a recent Ottawa conference presented by federal government tourism representatives suggested the area should not expect the flourishing industrial expansion pattern of western Ontario.

"It was suggested one of the greatest resources that we have . . . is the development of tourism," said Mr. Rodgers. "On the other hand, to capitalize on this in an orderly fashion-you have to have some orderly plan of development."

That fear for major government move has been extended by the lack of adequate controls to local councils (Rowes and Cocks' incidentally have the most dramatic subdivision development under way in the Quinte area — Shawano, in Marmora and Lake townships, a 31-million project involving more than 300 lots).

Without such controls impede development "they don't encourage it," claims Mr. Rodgers. Proper development not only is good economics for the municipality but the municipalities, he adds.

"Even the planning agencies of provincial departments haven't any plans completed . . . any aid or tools that might assist the local people."

And it sometimes appears that provincial departments are "little kingdoms unto themselves" with little interchange of communication.

However, he sees some hopeful signs in the promised restructuring of provincial administration, which should ease the problem to "a considerable degree".

"I've seen the design for some of this restructuring and I'd have to agree once it's implemented — in whatever time it takes to streamline — it should prove much more beneficial."

Yet the present absence of provincial guidelines to provide a context of reference still exists to plague local planners.

"One of the failures, one of the things that creates problems for local planning bodies is that there are no provincial plans as such," asserts Mr. Rodgers.

"This lack confuses everybody at the local level who must shoulder the localized frustrations and arguments on a proposed development before a conscious is reached. Then, after the issue . . . is locally resolved, it may be turned down by Queen's Park officials."

This can lead to a local backlash with "everyone up in arms".

"And this, in my opinion, is not the way to get orderly development in our country," he says.

He confesses he doesn't know the answer "right offhand".

But local spokesmen should play a role in developing the needed controls. "They would have more representative of local desires and wishes than probably those of somebody from Toronto . . . unfamiliar with an area.

"In this day and age most local representatives are mature enough to realize what is good and what is bad. I think they'd be happy to enact controls . . . if they had the opportunity, that would prevent undesirable things happening."

Mr. Rodgers believes there isn't a municipal representative that probably doesn't agree with some type of control.

Emphasizing the problem is such an area as the Hastings interior, where recreational land use has been inexorably advancing with the development of the Kawarthas and Haliburton.

In Hastings, there are "millions of acres they can develop — and as far as I'm concerned it won't hurt the environment any if it's done in an orderly fashion."

Yet, an unknown factor is the amount of development desirable for a waterbed — something to which "there's no answer at the present time."

"There's been a lot of ideas thrown out by different people but nobody has arrived at a consensus on a thing," says the LORDC president. "The province has no guidelines and nobody else has any guidelines.

"Now we all know if a waterbed is not populated in a certain way it's going to produce undesirable side effects. But what's the desirable way and how much development can a waterbed stand? There must be some criteria evolved that you can apply so that the local people know and the government bodies know."

But, is Mr. Rodgers speaking as a land - sales businessman, or a concerned apostolic public official. His answer to that one reflects a realization that both areas in this instance are mutual benefactors:

"I think most responsible developers would have to agree you need some type of control so that you have a desirable type of development. It not only enhances sales, it enhances the acceptability of the project by the local people. By and large, if people like it and it doesn't create problems, it also enhances the location of the municipalities. And this is the type of thing we need — that will create economy.

"If you get a reverse situation where a project produces undesirable effects, it puts a municipality in financial difficulties and consequently they can't even help the development. I know, by and large, most municipal councils are responsible and want to help some development because it means income."

For Hastings, he sees this possible development pattern:

(1) Much of its remaining, unexploited water frontages are that way because they are not accessible. This means creating access which likely can come through subdivisions by bigger developers able to raise the needed capital.

(2) Much of the Hastings interior is rough land — close to weekend cabins, with trips to a nearby lake or creek for fishing or swimming.

(3) Such development should be on wider acreages to dilute the likelihood of environmental problems.

"We can't have it both ways," says Mr. Rodgers. "If we get strip development (bulldozing on smaller land lots) we get environmental problems, probably pollution of springs and creeks and so on.

"I think people will have to accept the fact they will have to divide their lands into larger parcels that will not be as subject to pollution."

But, he adds, with a hint of wryness, even on that there is no agreed consensus on how much acreage might be required per building lot.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CORWELL

Are teenagers too idealistic?

NO. When the body is young and pain-free, when the mind is alive with ideas and imagination, when the heart is yearning for everything to be "right," it is only natural that hopes and idealism reach peak levels. But there are "flies in the ointment." Young people are young for such a short time; and too often their ambitions and drives subside them. More frustration, for instance, may masquerade as "eternal" love.

Is everyone a little neurotic?

NOT necessarily, though it would be a rare person who is so well adjusted at all times that he never suffers from some form of neurosis. If he isn't recovering from one, he usually is about to go into a neurotic condition. A neurosis, of course, is a mental manifestation of unresolved internal conflict that can present someone from functioning normally. Speaking of "normal," an individual can be neurotically anxious about acting "normally."

Would Russianes make good pitchers?

THEY'D be sensational; and probably Russian baseball pitching stars would become rich enough to be capitalistic. All they would have to do is to put into practice some of the claims that have been made for some of the Russian "mind control" experts. These are people who can control the movements of objects with "mind" — not body—English (if you'll pardon the expression). Imagine being mentally able to command a pitched ball to "dipsy-doodle" at home plate.

Canadian Girl Enjoys Travelling in S. Africa

PORT ELIZABETH (AP) — Ann Taggart, of London, Ont., is only 16. In February she landed in South Africa for a five-month tour of the country armed with only an address book and a return air fare.

So far she has stayed in Cape Town, Riversdale, Oudtshoorn and Port Elizabeth and does just about everything from trying to use a zoo-zebra tale phone by mistake to falling off an ostrich.

Ann's parents visited South Africa five years ago and people they stayed with invited them to send Ann to stay at their homes.

Although young, she has fixed ideas about what she has seen.

"South Africans are very well informed about other countries and things in general and they are not as behind as people would believe," she said.

As an example, she pointed out that South Africans often were told they were backward in clothing fashions.

"Just for that reason they are very advanced as anywhere else. They keep trying to be ahead— and they are."

Ann is not nervous about being alone in a foreign country but then she has travelled alone before, all over Canada and North America.

"Perhaps young people who don't have servants to do things for them, like you do here, tend to grow up a bit quicker and television helps to broaden one's perspective at a young age," she said.

South Africa has no TV yet.

Ann said she found it difficult to understand South African accents, English and Afrikaans.

"The only Afrikaans I know is "Ek het you liev" I love you and I'm not saying where I learned that," she said.

Ann has left for Grahamstown and then goes to Butterworth in the Transkei African reserve where she will work in a leading post owned by friends of her parents.

She is not sure when she will leave South Africa.

"I would be at least another two months but I am going on a two-week safari in Botswana first," she said.

Apples Tasty Fresh Or Baked

By ALICE DENHOFF

Our markets are still bright with Golden Delicious and Red Delicious apples.

While munching one of these delectable apples why not reflect on the idea of doing a delicious apple cake as a special treat? Here's one:

DELUXE DUTCH APPLE CAKE

3 cups Golden Delicious apples
2½ cups sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
1¼ teaspoons cinnamon
½ cup shortening
¾ cup sugar
3 eggs
1 cup milk
1¼ cups moist shredded coconut

DELICIOUS apples and coconut are baked into a three-layer cake spread with cinnamon-whipped cream and coconut.

1¼ cups heavy cream, beaten with ¼ teaspoon cinnamon and 1 tablespoon sugar

Pare, core and thinly slice apples.

Result flour with salt, baking powder and cinnamon. Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time; alternately add dry ingredients and milk to creamy mixture, mixing until smooth.

Fold in apple slices and coconut, reserving two tablespoons of coconut. Divide batter into three eight-inch layer cake pans, which have been greased and dusted with flour.

Bake in 350-degree F. oven 40 to 50 minutes.

Let cool completely. Frost between layers with cinnamon-flavored whipped cream. Chill for at least one hour. Just before serving, garnish top of cake with remaining coconut, and, if desired, several apple slices. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

COCONUT CRUMBLE APPLE PIE

4 to 5 Golden Delicious apples
1 cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup shortening
3 to 4 tablespoons cold water
1-3 cup sugar
¼ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 egg
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups flaked coconut

Pare, core and slice apples to measure four cups.

Sift together flour and salt; cut in shortening until particles are size of small peas. Sprinkle water over mixture, a little at a time. Stir and toss with fork until dough is moist enough to hold together.

Form dough into ball and flatten. Roll out on floured pastry cloth to a circle 1¼ inches larger than an eight-inch pie pan. Place pastry in the pie pan and fold edge to form a standing rim; flute.

Arrange apple slices in closely packed layers in pastry-lined pan.

Combine sugars, flour, cinnamon and nutmeg, sprinkle over apples. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Dot with butter. Cut aluminum foil circle to cover apple filling. Do not cover any of the pastry.

Bake at 375-degrees Fr. for 30 minutes. Remove from oven and discard foil.

Cover with topping which is made by beating the egg until light and fluffy and then stirring in sugar, milk, salt and coconut.

Spread the second topping evenly over filling and continue baking 25 to 30 minutes or until golden brown.

There's A Sunset Touch

By DORIS CLARK

Just when we are safest, there's a sunset touch, a fancy from a flower-bell, someone's death, a chorus-ending from Euripides, — and that's enough for 50 hopes and fears as old and new at once as nature's self, to rap and knock and enter in our soul, take hands and dance there, a fantastic ring, round the ancient idol, on his base again, — the grand Perhaps — Robert Browning.

This is the "grand Perhaps" that haunts the one who keeps on trying to be an agnostic.

Dear Doris: After a girl and boy decide to be engaged who makes the first move, the bride's parents or the groom's parents? I mean, if they don't know each other, even if they do.—Bumpkin.

Dear Bumpkin: If the boy's Mom and Dad don't make a move in the direction of the other parents, and pretty soon, too, it might just be taken that they don't think enough of his choice to go along with the whole thing.

You don't want that to happen. Usually, the boy's mother phones or writes the girl's mother, and invites both parents over for dinner or an evening.

The idea is, they all want to get acquainted and anticipate a lifetime of friendship (with all fingers crossed). But if the couples involved are not aware of this custom, the girl's set of parents may wait for an invitation which never comes.

In such a case, I'd say to the girl's mother, forget the etiquette and reach for the phone.

Dear Doris: I have been wishing for a miracle to happen. I have a son 18. His father and he never get along.

A younger sister got away with anything, and he would blame the boy for starting a fight. Even at the table the boy would be put away from the table. The father was an only child and sick mentally at times.

Now it has got to the time that my son won't go any place or talk to people at the house. He works. I should have done something a long time ago. Now my husband died three weeks ago.

I have to get a job but I can't leave him alone. — In It's Shell.

Dear In: You now have a full-blown emotional problem on your hands, the kind that will take skilled treatment from a specialist who knows how to help undo all the harm of the past 18 years.

How could you stand by and watch it happen?

Talk to your family doctor for a start, and get him to guide you.

Square Dancers' Graduation

FRANKFORD — Approximately 100 persons assembled in the Stirling Senior Public School for the Frankford Squares Graduation.

Before graduation, initiation was performed. One half of the grads had to dance blindfolded in each foot, with hoops of missing a cream pie placed in the centre of the square. The other half with paper bags on their heads and markers in hand had to draw a face on the bag as the features were called out, by Mrs. Doreen Dunbar (ie. left eye, chin, right ear, etc.). The graduation ceremony was performed by the caller, Mrs. Douglas Waddell and the grads received their mortar boards, after which diplomas were presented.

Receiving these honors were —Leonard and Lois Blanchard and Phyllis Brownson, Ron and Beverley Keller, Cornelius (Cor) and Trudy Fonyn, Charles and Mary Huffman, Margaret Parker, Kenneth and Isobel Jones, Irene Roberts, Harold and Ethel Vollmer, Ken and Barb Barbara Bamber, Dean and Marion Dafoe, Allyn and Muriel Finkle, Carl and Carol Hagerman, James Hamilton, Peter and Helen Jeffrey and John and Shirley Wilson.

This happy evening with a luncheon at 12 midnight was memorable and Campbellford ended with a potluck supper. The next was supervised by David and Doreen Dunbar and committee.

Letter Re Suicide Preys on Her Mind

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from "Hitler's Buddy" who works in a hospital emergency room and advocates giving anyone who attempts suicide "a double dose of whatever he took that brought him there." That letter crossed across my mind all day. I will not sleep tonight if I don't answer it.

For someone who works in a hospital emergency room, "Buddy" displays appalling ignorance. He should have learned by this time that most people who attempt suicide don't really want to die. Any reasonably intelligent person who wants to kill himself can find a fail-safe way to do it. A suicide attempt is the last, desperate cry for help from one who has been ignored too long.

Fortunately, when I attempted suicide, I was taken to a hospital emergency room staffed with wonderful, understanding people. They put me on the right track and helped me get the guidance I needed. I am now coping with what I thought were insurmountable problems.

I now work at a different job in a different state. I am not completely satisfied with my life but I know I can handle it, and I'm getting stronger all the time.

If "Buddy" had been in the emergency room when I was brought in I'm sure my fears and feelings of inadequacy would have been reinforced. I would have succeeded in killing myself the next time. — Been There

Dear Been There: I've received hundreds of letters from readers who said the same thing — but you said it best. Thanks for writing, and good luck to you, dear.

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of the current trend of rewarding youngsters for being honest? When I was growing up we were taught that honesty was expected of us. It wasn't considered extraordinary behavior.

I read a story in the Denver Post recently about four boys, ages 12 and 13, who found a tin box containing $28,761. They turned the box over to the police and were given $100 each. Apparently some mothers' club decided the boys should have more of a fuss made over them, so they put on a benefit show to raise "more reward money." I think this is nonsense. It distorts the basic concept of integrity. I believe kids should be taught that virtue is its own reward. What's your opinion of the benefit and the value of the foolishness? — Old School

Dear O.S.: I have no comment on the benefit, but I am most wrong with rewarding young people for doing the right thing. A useful lesson is learned early is that poor behavior usually leads to disaster and good behavior leads to reward.

Dear Ann Landers: How does one make the transition from friendship to romance? I have known this girl for four years. It started as a sister-brother relationship but now I find myself looking at her with different eyes. I'm afraid she might chase me down if I came right out and confessed that I am falling in love with her. It would kill me to be rejected and I'm sure it would destroy our friendship.

Please tell me what do to. — Sweet Awakening

Dear Sweetie: Faint heart never won fair maid — or anything else. Take a deep breath and tell her the friendship has become deeper and more meaningful and before you get in head-over-heels, you'd like to know if she could feel the same about you. And, don't be surprised if she says she already does.

Blisters Earn Over Million For Charities

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It will take weeks for thousands of Canadians to know exactly how much their blisters are worth.

But as unofficial reports filtered in Sunday night, an estimated $1.25 million had been raised by more than 100,000 persons in Miles for Millions walks from coast to coast during the weekend.

Toronto appeared to have the biggest walk, with about 70,000 persons raising an estimated $1 million over a 27.4-mile course in Prescott, Ont., one of the smaller groups—600 walkers—raised about $8,000.

And between the extremely people of all ages in groups of varied walks trekked over courses averaging 20 miles to raise funds for $13 miles for Millions agencies. The funds will be used for emergency relief and development in underdeveloped countries.

About 22,000 of Toronto's walkers managed to finish the course—2,000 more than last year. The overall walker, Lawrence Hyde, 82, had too many sponsors to know the final total. He won't have any next year.

"I know my limit and I think I've reached it. This will be the very last one."

The youngest Toronto walkers were about two years old and toddled a short distance but parents gave them a lift.

The quickest walker in Toronto was a runner — James Kariuki, 21, a student from Kenya, finished in three hours.

Former track star Bruce Kidd finished about an hour after winning all the way. Larry Fleet 22, of Port Credit, Ont., was the first of roller skaters to zip across the finish line at City Hall.

Leane Watson, 11, of Toronto was the first girl to finish the course—collecting 37 cents a mile for her efforts.

There were several casualties, including a man who suffered a heart attack, another who dropped out due to bleeding ulcers and two girls who collapsed at the finish line from exhaustion and shock.

Doctors and nurses were on duty along the Toronto route to treat minor casualties as they arrived. Rain drenched some but sooth aching feet pulled from shoes and socks.

Walking was the most common, but not the only way of raising money. Eleven-year-old Lisa Davies sold 1,461 cups of lemonade to passersby and collected $146.15 for the fund.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, head of the federal government department handling foreign aid, said he was glad to see private citizens participating in private aid to programs.

He followed up his praise with a $37.60 donation to the fund and worked at the finish line to congratulate some of the finishers.

There were rumors that the kids of Toronto outmarched the soldiers but the runners were quickly denied.

The details on how one of seven Canadian Armed Forces teams was disqualified are a military secret. An army spokesman agreed, however, that the most likely way to get ousted from the walk was to cut a corner or accept a lift. He would not say that either thing was done by the disqualified team, nor would he say which team it was.

The military men held a competition among themselves to see which four or five-man team could fetch from the walk. The winner was the No. 1 team of the Governor-General's Horse Guards, finishing in seven hours and 59 minutes. It received the Horse Guard's Shoe (a horse shoe, naturally) as its prize.

The last to straggle across the Toronto finish line were three young girls—greeted by equally tired officials at 1 a.m. Sunday.

Rain persisted throughout Ontario during the weekend.

It soaked Ontario Labor Minister Fernand Guindon as he joined 4,800 Cornwall, Ont., walkers and helped raise $21,000 over a 21-mile course.

It also dampened the 5,300 walkers in North Bay who trekked 23 miles to raise $46,000—$10,000 short of their goal.

Even thousand persons were still walking Vancouver's 25-mile course after dark Sunday with more than 1,000 had finished. The walkers earned an average of $175.52, raising about $300,000. Officials hope this will rise to $150,000.

Family Planning Needs Not Met

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial and municipal governments "have not done a good job" in meeting the needs of family planning in Canada, Dr. T. M. Roulston of Winnipeg said Sunday.

Dr. Roulston is president of the Family Planning Federation of Canada, host this week to 200 delegates from the Western Hemisphere region of the International Family Planning Federation.

He said in an interview only 25 per cent of family planning facilities in Canada are supported by government funds.

Provincial and municipal governments have not established sufficient or adequate facilities for family planning," he said. Canada is particularly deficient in making those services available to the native peoples and to young people.

Family planning services vary from province to province, but none are good, he said. Only recently took a backward step in refusing to participate in cost-sharing in new programs that include family planning services.

Canada has made some progress—perhaps quite a bit since it was only in 1969 that family planning legislation was enacted, Dr. Roulston said. Most of the impetus still comes from the federal government, which is undertaking the preparation of education and information materials, preparation of personnel and research.

However, health and education, both of which are involved in family planning services, come under provincial jurisdiction.

The Canadian organization is working in three main areas. Its greatest concern is that many Canadian hospitals won't permit sterilization operations on women.

"Sterilization is as ethical an operation as appendectomy, removal of the appendix," he said. The federation is asking provincial health ministers to establish guides for publically supported hospitals.

Also of great concern to the federation is the legislation involving the age of majority. Under present laws, which vary in the provinces, minors—under 18 or 19—cannot be given medical advice or prescriptions without the consent of their parents.

But many younger girls are in the highest pregnancy risk groups. And in some instances, "it may not be in the best interests for the parents to be involved if the girl needs and wants advice on family planning or contraception.

Dr. Roulston said statistics show that about 20 per cent of all induced abortions are girls 18 or under.

"And we believe in prevention as far as possible."

About 35,000 babies are delivered from unmarried women in Canada each year as well, he added.

The third concern of the federation is to increase the amount of sex education of family life education programs offered in schools, he said.

"The individual's responsibility in family planning is most important."

Wallace Now Tops Humphrey

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alabama Governor George Wallace, running in the North Carolina Democratic presidential primary moved him into second place in national delegate strength, taken on Senator Hubert Humphrey of West Virginia's presidential primary Tuesday.

Senator George McGovern, who has the largest number of national convention delegates, hopes to win in his native Midwest Tuesday in the Nebraska primary.

Wallace passed Humphrey in delegate strength after he defeated former North Carolina Governor Terry Sanford Saturday in Sanford's own state. It was the Alabama governor's second primary victory in three days.

Wallace bumped Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine from No. 3 spot in delegate strength with Thursday's lopsided victory in the Tennessee primary, where there were 11 candidates on the ballot but only Wallace and Chisholm of New York campaigned seriously.

Saturday's victory in North Carolina gave Wallace 37 more delegates for a total of 210 national convention votes committed to him. However, there were some doubt he could hold all of the 49 Tennessee delegates who are supposed to support him at the convention.

McGovern has 267½ delegates; Humphrey, 197. Neither was on the ballot in North Carolina. Muskie, who has quit the primary campaigns but says he is still a candidate, has 128½. Any other candidate has more than 15.

New Family Allowance Plan Is Hit

OTTAWA (CP) — David Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party, says the federal government's proposed changes in the family allowance program will frustrate some people and humiliate others.

In an article in the French-language newspaper Le Droit published in Ottawa, Lewis said the new system will require three or four times as many federal civil servants to administer as the current system does.

The NDP opposes the family allowance proposals, because it cannot accept the principle of taking family allowance cheques away from "a million Canadian families."

"The aspect of the bill which worries me most" is that the Trudeau government has renounced the principle of universality which has given substantiary results until now," he said.

"This means who doesn't get any family allowance cheques because he earns a little more or maybe has a house will be bitter, particularly when he notices that he pays a little more tax than his neighbor.

"It's the sort of thing which divides a society."

Student Editor Missing

CAPE TOWN (Reuter) — Interior Minister Theo Gerdener said Saturday that police are searching for Mark Douglas-Home, editor of a South African underground newspaper, who announced he was going into hiding.

Douglas-Home, 21-year-old nephew of Britain's foreign secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home, said Friday there had been a threats against him from anonymous callers. He added: "Things are getting too hot for me."

The Witwatersrand (Johannesburg) University student paper, Wits Student, of which he is editor, caused a uproar by carrying a front-page picture of a naked boy looking into a toilet bowl and saying: "Pardon me, are you the prime minister?"

Thousands in Chile Ousted by Floods

SANTIAGO (AP) — Thousands of Chileans were left homeless Sunday by driving rains that inundated shanty town settlements, flooded roads and disrupted electric and telephone

Auto for Privacy

OTTERVILLE, Ont. (CP) — North Americans consider the automobile as "the ultimate sense of privacy," says Marshall McLuhan, author and high priest of modern communications philosophy.

"Nowhere else in the world do they make cars for this purpose," the author said. "North Americans have always gone out to be alone and go home to be with people."

Italy Votes

ROME (AP) — Italian voters today were winding up the election of a new parliament with no indication yet of whether the Christian Democrats and protective allies in a centre coalition would achieve a majority.

The rains, caused by a cold front sweeping in from the Pacific Ocean, began Friday night and continued through Sunday. The rain was accompanied by near-freezing temperatures, chilling the advent of winter in this south of the equator country.

Hardest hit, as always during such storms, were residents of dozens of shanty towns built on vacant lots around the periphery of the capital.

These communities of wood and cardboard shacks are inhabited by people from the Chilean countryside who migrate to Santiago looking for work. Many of the shanty towns are run by political groups or extremist organizations.

The government estimated Saturday night that 12,000 were without houses, almost all from the shanty towns.

The government gave some homeless Chileans temporary shelter in schools and orphanages. Building materials and warm clothing were sent to other settlements.

Business-Government Links Cause Concern

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Big business links to the government power structure in Washington have become a matter of increasing voter concern and could blossom into a major issue in November's presidential election.

Not only is public opinion unhappy about the influence large corporations appear to have in government, but there is also a growing feeling that the companies are being allowed to avoid paying taxes at a time when individual wage earners have to dig deeper into their own pockets.

More fuel has been added to the fire building up around the corporations and the governmental establishment with newspaper pictures of cabinet officers, senators and others boarding private company executive planes to make what would be expensive trips if they took commercial flights.

Teachers Are Told To Imitate Students

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Education Association convention was told Saturday that teachers should imitate their students' social involvement and not increase the "narrowly academic view."

Walter Pitman, education critic and former New Democratic Party MPP, said Opportunities for Youth and the Local Initiatives Program are typical educational activities in social service, financed by "accessible" federal funds. He said teachers should also work in the community.

The concept of interrupted education has blown across the traditional system and there is an uneasiness both among teachers and students. Of such course, students have made their views clear. They are simply not stepping out, not because they see the advantage of being unemployed now rather than later, but because they see tendencies in the economic system which indicate they might be employed now and not later.

As well, they are realizing the importance of that chance to reassess their personal goals and values."

The school of the 1960s, Mr. Pitman said, resembled a "fascinating story with a flag-pole in front."

Pembroke Bridge Buckles

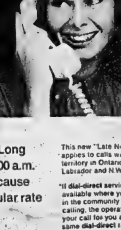
PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP) — More an inconvenience than a disaster, the sagging Petawawa River bridge on the Trans-Canada highway has caused a series of emergency manoeuvres.

The heavily-used bridge, built in the 1940s, joins Pembroke and Petawawa Village with CFB Petawawa and the Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. plant at Chalk River.

It began to sag Saturday and by Sunday had buckled and sunk about four feet with a break of about seven inches in the middle span.

With most married Camp Petawawa personnel and many of the AECL workers living either in Pembroke or Petawawa Village, the problem became mainly one of transport. About 2,000 military and AECL workers are involved.



The only highway link between the four points now is 80 miles of gravel side road, almost two hours of driving each way.

The army immediately started a shuttle ferry service, using assault boats, across the river.

But AECL immediately arranged with CP Rail to provide a rail shuttle of three connected self-propelled diesel passenger cars over the railroad bridge between Petawawa Village and a spur off the main trans-Canada line at the military camp.

Although the distance from the village to the AECL plant is about 12 miles, the distance the rail shuttle will travel is only five or six miles with AECL buses taking their workers the remaining distance.

Bruins Close to Cup

Orr's Ills Don't Show

NEW YORK (CP) — When Bobby Orr is going right he's very, very good.

More than 17,259 New York fans reluctantly agreed Sunday afternoon when Orr pulled all the strings in steering Boston Bruins to a 3-2 victory over the hometown Rangers.

The Bruins hold a 3-1 edge in the Stanley Cup final and will have home-ice advantage Tuesday night for the fifth game of the National Hockey League's best-of-seven final. Game time is 7:30 p.m. EDT.

But it may have been a costly victory. Orr, last season's most valuable player and outstanding defenceman, stopped a shot with his already-injured left knee early in the second period.

The knee began to swell immediately.

"I don't know whose shot it was," Orr said later in the dressing room. Someone else identified Pete Stemkowski as the Ranger who pulled the trigger. "I was just doing what a defenceman is supposed to do. I got in front of it," said Orr.

The young defenceman, plagued by injuries to the same knee through most of the season, wasn't hobbled by the ailing leg in the first period when he struck for two quick goals and engaged Rangers' Brad Park in a wrestling match.

"It was a misunderstanding," he said of the encounter, explaining the two "just rolled" and that "we didn't get in any punches."

Park, who scored two goals in the Rangers' 5-3 win here on Thursday, also shrugged the incident off as a "misunderstanding."

While Orr carried the early play, it was veteran Eddie Johnston who contributed the turning point in the game with the score 2-0 and Boston's Ken Hodge off for hooking Bill Fairbairn.

Peter Stemkowski, who picked up an assist on the two New York goals by Ted Irvine and Rod Selling, had an open net in front of Johnston when he pounced on the ice.

Stemkowski made the right move, lifting the puck over the sprawled figure in front of him. But the Boston goaltender, unbeaten in six post-season games this year, recovered to smother the shot.

Orr, who set Don Marcotte up for Boston's third goal in the second period with team-mate Mike Walton off for high sticking, was hesitant to talk of his own performance.

He preferred giving Johnston his just due.

So did Boston coach Tom Johnson who called the veteran goaltender's performance "great."

While Johnston was performing acrobatics against the Rangers, New York goalie Eddie Giacomin continued to show a weakness on close-in shots.

On Orr's first goal and the short-handed score by Marcotte, the veteran goaltender committed the sin of going down to cover the shots. In both cases, the players placed their drives high.

Giacomin had no chance on Orr's second goal, a 30-foot blazer that caromed off one of the crowd of skaters in front of the New York goal.

There was some doubt as to who was victimized by the low drive before it eluded the Ranger goalie. Giacomin said he believed the shot "bounced off Walt (Tkaczuk), but it was hard to tell."

Emile Francis, Rangers general manager-coach, credited Boston's checking game with pulling off the first away victory of the series.

"Their people in the first two periods did a great job of block-ING shots," Francis said of the Bruins. "Derek (Sanderson) was excellent on faceoffs all day."

Sanderson, who along with New York's Bobby Rousseau started a string of fighting infractions in the opening period, appeared settled away from his performance of three days before when he was on the ice for three Ranger power-play scores that opened a 3-0 New York lead.

Irvine, who also picked up an assist on Selling's goal, said the Bruins didn't allow New Yorkers to move out of their own zone as readily as they had in the previous game.

"And Orr was running the show in great style in the first period," he added. "The game in Boston will probably be rough.

"We have to get the first goal."

Giacomin concurred. "We're going to have to watch ourselves in the first period," said the Ranger goalie. "They're going to come out storming.

"We have to hold them down in the first period to give ourselves a chance. We appear to get stronger as each game goes on.

One of the biggest surprises of the playoff series has been Bruin centre Phil Esposito's inability to score.

The rangy scoring ace, who won the NHL scoring race for the third time in four years with 133 points, has yet to score a goal against New York.

Esposito, who cracked nine goals in the first two post-season series, has only four assists to show against New York.

Who'll Taste Champagne?

Boston Bruins' defenceman Bobby Orr shares the weight of the Stanley Cup with New York Rangers' Jean Ratelle, right, at a luncheon in New York Friday. Orr was awarded the Hart Trophy as the Most Valuable Player for the third straight year and his fifth consecutive Norris Trophy by a vote of the Professional Hockey Writers of America. Ratelle was named as the winner of the Lady Byng award. Both teams are battling for the big award, the Stanley Cup. (AP Wirephoto)

Memorial Cup Series Won't Be Televised

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite a number of set-backs, including no television coverage and too little time to plan side attractions, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is convinced its new-look Memorial Cup Canadian junior hockey playoffs opening here tonight will be a great success.

"I'm sure we are on the right track," said CAHA past-president Earl Dawson of the three-game round-robin series bringing together Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, Cornwall Royals of the Quebec Junior League and Edmonton Oil Kings of the Western Canada League. Peterborough and Cornwall open the series tonight at 8 p.m. EDT. The two top clubs of the series meet Sunday, May 14 for the championship of Canada.

Dawson, who heads the CAHA Memorial Cup committee this year, is philosophical about neither the CBC not the CTV television networks making serious bids to show the championship games.

"They'll be coming to us next year," Dawson predicted in an interview Sunday.

On the sunny side is the sell-out of the annual Memorial Cup luncheon scheduled Tuesday. Another bright spot is that advance ticket sales totalled 5,000 for each of the four games before the weekend when the CAHA began its advertising campaign.

More Junior A

MONTREAL (CP) — A junior A hockey league which will include at least 16 Quebec teams will be in operation for the next hockey season, it was announced Sunday.

Louis Bergeron, spokesman for a group organizing the league, said the league has been approved by the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

Mr. Bergeron says the teams will be divided into divisions, one in Montreal and one for teams elsewhere in Quebec.

The league will be distinct from the existing Quebec Junior A Hockey League.

Spokane Takes First Two

SPOKANE, Wash. (CP) — Spokane Jets, playing under a new coach but with veteran players, have taken a commanding lead over Barrie Flyers in their bid for their second Allan Cup in three years.

The Jets, who play in the Western International Hockey League with four Canadian teams, became the first American team to win the cup—emblematic of the Canadian senior amateur hockey championship—in 1960-70.

Sunday night the Jets thrashed Barrie 8-3 to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series. They shot out the Ontario Hockey Association champions 3-0 in the first game Saturday.

In both games, it was Jets' veterans who handled most of the scoring.

Ken Gustafson scored three goals Sunday, with single goals going to Brian Harper, Bob Trembecky, Bob Strimbicki, Dwight Carruthers, and Tom Randolph. Only Harper did not play for the Jets last season. He played for Denver Spurs of the Western Hockey League.

Saturday, Spokane veterans Gail Holden and Trembecky scored, with rookie Ron Hunter adding the other. Hunter played with Calgary Stampeders of the Alberta Senior Hockey League last season after several years with Cranbrook Royals of the Western International.

Voyageurs Win

HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia Voyageurs will be trying to pull even with Baltimore Clippers tonight when they meet in the fourth game of the American Hockey League Calder Cup playoffs.

The Voyageurs, after dropping the first two decisions to the Clippers in Baltimore last week, came back Saturday night for a 4-1 victory to narrow the Clippers' lead in the best-of-seven series to 2-1.

A crowd of 3,208 had plenty to cheer about Saturday as Chuck Arnason scored three times to lead the Voyageurs.

Send Complete Lines: Plante

JACQUES PLANTE

EDMONTON (CP) — Canada should not select an all-star unit to face Russia's national hockey team in an eight-game series next September, says goaltender Jacques Plante, one of the few National Hockey League players who have faced a Soviet hockey team.

"An all-star team like we have for the (NHL) all star game is no good," Plante said in an interview.

"They shoot select complete teams and at least one set of defencemen from teams and play them as a unit."

For the first time, Canada will be able to throw its best players against the Russians who have dominated world amateur hockey for the last dozen years.

Plante, seven times a winner of the Vezina trophy as the leading goalkeeper in the NHL, said an all-star player might be able to put the puck in the net, "but first he has to have teammates who can get the puck to him."

"That's why they must have players who have been together."

If the NHL provides its best lines to the Canadian team, he said, the Canadians will win all eight games.

The only problem might be the timing of the series—in the early fall.

"How can you be ready physically and mentally at that time of year."

Plante, goaltender on six Stanley Cup champion teams, said "nothing, absolutely nothing" compares with the pressure in an exhibition hockey game he played against the Russian team in 1967.

"I would never go through that again for anything," said Plante, in the city for a sports dinner.

"The pressure was too much. I never felt anything like it.

"You could tell it in the arena, by the way the people whispered, by the way they moved, by the way they cheered."

Plante came out of retirement to play goal for a team composed of six minor league professionals and members of the National Junior Canadians. The Canadiens won 2-1, one of the few times a Canadian team has defeated the Russians in the last decade.

Sutton's Best Not Enough

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Sutton's best was brilliant, but not quite good enough to beat Montreal Expos.

"It was the best game I ever pitched in professional ball, and that covers eight years," the Los Angeles right-hander said after he was beaten 1-0 on reliever Pete Richert's bases loaded error in the 10th.

DON SUTTON

Sunday after batting 16 innings of one-hit ball, only to have the Expos edge the Dodgers 1-0 on reliever Pete Richert's bases loaded error in the 10th.

Elsewhere, Steve Carlton became the National League's first five-game winner with a 13-strikeout performance as Philadelphia Phillies trounced San Francisco Giants 8-3, New York Mets rallied in the final three innings to beat San Diego Padres 8-6 in 11, Pittsburgh Pirates outslugged Cincinnati Reds 9-8 and St. Louis Cardinals scored three times in the last of the ninth to nip Atlanta Braves 5-4. Houston Astros and Chicago Cubs were postponed by cold weather in Chicago.

The only hit off Sutton, who walked four, struck out three and hit a batter, was Bob Bailey's clean single to right leading off the seventh.

"I've never pitched a no-hitter at any level of pro ball," Sutton said. "I'm disappointed that I didn't get it, but I think it would have been more if they had broken it up in the eighth or ninth."

After Sutton left, Jim Brewer followed with two hitless innings before Richard came on in the 10th to be greeted by John Boccabella's leadoff single. He second and Montreal hit. After Don Woods popped up attempting to sacrifice, Ron Hunt singled. Clyde Mashore was purposely passed after the runners moved up on Duke Sims' fanned ball.

Richert then bobbled Mike Jorgensen's bouncer back to the mound as Boccabella raced home.

The victory kept the surprising Expos one-half game behind New York and Philadelphia in the National League East. And while Sutton didn't get his fifth pitching triumph, Philadelphia's Carlton did.

The Phillies stoked the left-hander to a 4-0 lead in the third inning after loading the bases on Mike Anderson's double. Tommy Hutton's infield hit and a walk to Carlton. Larry Bowa hit a sacrifice fly for one run, Terry Harmon, who had four hits, singled for another and Carlton and Harmon also scored when the ball got through left fielder Garry Maddox.

Greg Luzinski hit a two-run homer for the Phils in the eighth and Bobby Bonds connected for the Giants in the ninth.

The Mets had only three hits off Fred Norman and trailed San Diego 6-0 after four innings on two home runs by John Mayer and one by Derrel Thomas.

But they jumped on Norman and two relievers for five runs in the eighth, featuring doubles by Tommie Agee, Jim Fregosi and Duffy Dyer. Agee then singled home the tying run in the ninth and belted a game-winning two-run homer with two outs in the 10th following an error by shortstop Enos Cabell.

Ellis May Charge

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Charges may be filed against a Cincinnati stadium guard who sprayed Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher Dock Ellis with chemical mace Friday night, Ellis' lawyer says.

DOCK ELLIS

"I don't relish litigation unless it's a good motivation," said lawyer Tom Reich, "but there may be no alternative."

At a news conference called Sunday by Ellis, Reich said an investigation will be made into the incident. If evidence warrants he said, charges will be filed against guard David Hatter.

Ellis said he was in Pittsburgh with the permission of the ball club to have his eyes examined.

"It's the first time I ever called a press conference," Ellis said, "but I think the situation calls for it.

"This is what I call serious business—serious to me and my family and a lot of ways to the Pittsburgh ball club."

Ellis was charged with disorderly conduct and Saturday was granted a continuance of the case until July 19 by a Cincinnati municipal court judge.

Ellis said the incident occurred when he and team-mates Willie Stargell and Rennie Stennett went to the players' gate at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium about an hour after the rest of the team had arrived Friday night.

Trouble started when the guard demanded identification from the trio.

Oshawa Tourney Site

OSHAWA (CP) — Oshawa will play host to the annual Ontario senior soCball playoff championship June 30—July 2.

Sixteen teams, including the world champion Richmond Hill Dynes, will compete in the double knockout tournament. The winner will advance to the Canada championship to be played in Edmonton on Labor Day weekend.

Other entries in the series are from London, St. Catharines, Newmarket, Brockville, Windsor, Scarborough, Owen Sound, North York, Willowdale, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Welland, Burlington and two teams from Oshawa.

Game Called

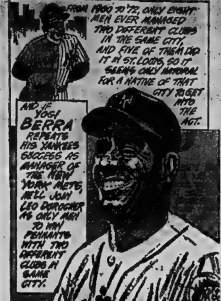
TORONTO (CP) — Intercounty baseball: Branford at Toronto cancelled, garbage.



Mountains of green plastic bags cover the playing surface of Toronto Maple Leafs' home ground at Christie Pits, one of the emergency dumpsites set up to cope with the strike of Metropolitan Toronto's civic outside workers.

The Leafs' home date with Branford Red Sox isn't due until Sunday but Leafs' manager Jack Dominico said there is no possibility that the park will be ready in time even if the strike ends today.

The game wil be played at Branford.

Indians Pitching Goose Eggs

Milwaukee's drought finally ended but MIL Wilcox is looking forward to many more shutouts tonight.

The Brewers, shutout victims in three straight games, crowned the goose egg barrier Sunday after 10 innings of baseball and scored a 2-1 victory over California Angels.

Wilcox, meanwhile, is in the enviable position of battling Gaylord Perry for honors as Cleveland hurler, top right-hander. MIK fired a three-hitter at Chicago White Sox for a 2-0 victory as the Indian pitching staff extended its own scoreless inning string to 38.

In Sunday's other games Mickey Lolich became the American League's first five-game winner as Detroit Tigers tipped Texas Rangers 7-4, Oakland Athletics suspended New York Yankees 7-5, Minnesota Twins belted Boston Red Sox 8-4 and Baltimore Orioles beat Kansas City Royals 8-4.

With a 10-7 record, the Indians are tied with Baltimore for second in the American League East, a scant half game back of the Tigers.

Wilcox and Perry are most responsible for Cleveland's success. Each has a 4-1 record. And Wilcox, with his third consecutive victory and second shutout, has a still unmarred ERA average.

"This kid is just too much," manager Ken Aspromonte said. "MIK has so much intestinal fortitude—just plain guts—it's amazing."

"He wanted this game so much and he wanted to go all the way. He just wouldn't quit."

Wilcox had a chance to bow out gracefully after spraining his ankle in the third inning, trying to twist away from a tag play, but he refused to quit and instead had his ankle heavily taped and returned to the mound.

He returned in the plate, too, and helped his own cause with a run-scoring double.

The Brewers, who had scored just 19 runs in their 13 previous games, had slumped to a team batting average of .159 before breaking out against California.

Billy Conigliaro came out of it with a bang, collecting a double and a two-run homer, the latter a life-breaking shot in the sixth.

Lolich struggled for his fifth victory and fifth complete game in six starts. He gave up 11 Texas hits, but none of them went for extra bases.

We make the extra ordinary.

Ever wonder why Toyotas are the top selling small car in Canada today? The reason simply stated is that when you buy a Toyota you get a lot more car. You get a lot of extras. Extras that don't cost you a nickel more. Unlike some cars we know.

Extras we consider ordinary. In fact they're so taken for granted on Toyotas we wonder why we call them "extras".

Things like power-assisted front disc brakes, fully reclining contoured bucket seats, rear window defrosters, heavy-duty heaters, carpeting, whitewalls, tinted glass and even tool kits.

Then there are the extras you don't see.

Like the paint under the paint. The fine engineering which results in cars that perform dependably and last a lot longer. And a dealer network which extends coast to coast with over 250 dealers and four factory parts depots in Canada.

It's an impressive list of extras, but, as we said, to us they're an ordinary fact of life. They're what you can take for granted in the fine cars Toyota builds. After all why should an extra be extraordinary?

Pointer Enjoys Perfect Night

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

It all began as the annual Major A and Quinte Classic five-pin bowling leagues banquet Saturday but it wound up as "Doll" Pointer Night.

Pointer, who November 11 rolled the fourth perfect 450 game in city bowling history, received plaques, pins, shoes, a shirt and assorted other gifts from provincial, and district five-pin associations, as well as from Bowl-O-Drome manager Bill Bateman.

"This is the happiest night of my life," said Pointer, 58, who has been bowling since he began setting up pins at the age of 12. Bay of Quinte Bowlers' Association representative Al Nicholls informed the banquet that Pointer's perfect game was one of only two verified 450 games rolled in the province this past 1971-72 season.

Pointer, whose legal name is Henry but has been known as "Doll" because, he says, "I was a pretty small baby," also picked up some prize money for his performance with Belle Cleaners and Tobe's entries in the city's major five-pin leagues. His 244.1 season's average ranked him sixth best in Belleville.

This year's top city average was maintained by Jack Canning (249.2), president of the Quinte Classic League who shared master of ceremony duties with Major A president Jim Nicholls.

Len Labelle's 248.3 average was second-best in the city, and tops in the Classic League.

Bill Lott, who captained his Black's Meat Market team of Glenn Hamilton, Joe Levick and Frances Bedding to the Classic League title, had the third-best city average — 240.1 and was chosen his league's most improved bowler.

The remaining list of the city's Big Seven averages included Leo St. Louis (237.5), Ron Elliott (245.9), Pointer (244.1), and Bob Sills (242.8).

Major A team honors went to the Pepsi-Cola crew of Cam McKenna, Cec. Hardwick, Ernie Green, John Hamilton, Glenn Hamilton, and Bill Bateman. Tobe's Pizzabarrels were second and Crystal Hotel third in league play.

Cam McKenna's 402 single and Leo St. Louis' 993 triple were tops in those Major A departments.

Cleaners finished behind Black's Meat Market in Classic League competition.

The league's high four-game was Ron Carter's 1,258.

Needless to say, nobody topped Doll Pointer's 450 single.

Leeds Takes FA Cup

LONDON (CP) — Leeds United squeezed by Arsenal 1-0 Saturday to win the English Football Association Cup while, to the north, Glasgow Celtic smashed Hibernian 6-1 to nail down the Scottish Football Association Cup in soccer action.

A capacity crowd of 100,000 in London's Wembley Stadium saw Alan Clarke head in Leeds' goal in the 53rd minute on a centre from fellow England international Mick Jones.

Clarke's goal gave Leeds the trophy for the first time and put them one leg up on the coveted league and Cup double. The team needs only to draw its final league match Monday against Wolverhampton Wanderers to win the First Division title and emulate Arsenal's Cup and league double of last season.

In Glasgow's Hampden Park, Celtic's 22nd Cup victory was never in doubt after Billy McNeill put the Glasgow club ahead after only two minutes.

The win means Celtic have again the Scottish double champions, having easily won the Scottish league title for a record seventh successive time.

Swedes Advance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sweden, helped by a marathon victory by Ove Bengtsson and a triumph by 15-year-old Bjoern Borg, the youngest player in Davis Cup tennis history, advanced along with four other countries Sunday into the second round of the European Zone competition.

Bengtsson outlasted Oasy Purun 6-4, 16-14, 13-11 in a 3½ hour match, while Borg whipped Jeff Simpson 9-7, 6-4, 8-7, 6-1 as the Swedes posted a 4-1 victory over New Zealand at Baastad, Sweden.

Joining the Swedes in moving through the first round were France, a 4-1 winner over Britain at Paris; Czechoslovakia, which defeated Belgium 3-2 at Brussels; Denmark, which edged Finland 3-2 at Helsinki and Poland, a 3-1 victor over Yugoslavia at Warsaw.

Meanwhile, Italy, West Germany, Romania, the Netherlands, Ireland and Spain, all clinched their first-round matches Saturday, completed 5-0 sweeps Sunday.

Derby Winner Scares Foes

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It's beginning to look as though the May 20 Preakness at Baltimore will be an intrasquad game among horses trained by Lucien Laurin.

Chick Lang, director of racing at Pimlico race course, said after Saturday's Kentucky Derby he expects three or four horses in that race to try Riva Ridge again in the second gem in the Triple Crown.

But only 24 hours later, it wasn't possible to find even one.

In fact, the only trainer at Churchill Downs talking about going in the Preakness was Laurin, trainer of the Meadow Stable's wire-to-wire Derby winner.

And he was talking about which of his horses he might run against the star.

"Sure, I plan to run Upper Case against him and I could put Roy Anderson's Spanish Riddle in the race, too," said former jockey from St. Paul de Joliette, Que.

Upper Case, also owned by the Chenery family's Meadow Stable, wasn't nominated for the Derby, where supplementals aren't accepted. Spanish Riddle wasn't quite ready for the 1¼-mile race.

But No Le Hace, J. R. Strauss' stretch runner who finished 3¼ lengths behind Riva Ridge on Saturday, will pass up the Preakness as will third finisher Hold Your Peace.

"That horse was just too much," Arnold Winick, trainer of Merebel Farm's Hold Your Peace, said.

"Right now, I'm just going to sit here a couple of days, then I'm going to take a 10-day vacation," Winick said. "And my horse is going to get a 10-day vacation, too."

No Le Hace's trainer, the affable Homer Parche, is headed for New York, where "I'd like to think about this thing for a few days before I decide exactly what I'll do.

"But I just don't think we'll try Riva Ridge again in the Preakness. We ran as good a race as we could against him Saturday and there was just no catching him," Parche said.

No Le Hace was outdistanced the rest of the field in the final 16th mile, but he wasn't gaining on Riva Ridge, who went under the wire under a hand ride by jockey Ron Turcotte from Grand Falls, N.B.

Riva Ridge, with the largest crowd in Kentucky Derby history backing him heavily, paid $5, $3.80 and $3. No Le Hace returned $4.40 and $3.40 and Hold Your Peace $3.60.

His time of 2:01 4/5 wasn't close to Northern Dancer's record of two minutes flat, but it didn't have to be.

The winner's purse of $140,300, second richest in the 98 runnings of America's favorite horse race, boosted Riva Ridge's earnings to $701,200 and put the million dollar mark within his grasp this summer.

As two-year-old champion last year, he was the second colt in history—Buckpasser was the other—to win more than $300,000.

Betting Record

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Churchill Downs claimed a world record for betting on horse racing Saturday, with $7,164,717 wagered on 10 races.

Betting on the Derby itself also reached a new high, as did attendance for the 98th running of the Kentucky Derby.

The 130,564 fans wagered $2,985,325 on the race won by Riva Ridge to narrowly eclipse last year's mark of $5,972,509, set on Belmont Day last June.

O'Brien Second

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Giuseppi Guzzinati of Italy won harness racing's annual world driving championship by steering Todoca Farm's High Ace to a neck victory at Liberty Bell Park Saturday night.

The 50 points collected in the 6th and final event of the championship series gave Guzzinati a total of 85 points. He took first over Joe O'Brien of the United States, who had 900 in the extravaganza staged over 11 North American harness tracks.

Herve Filion of Lachute, Que., winner of the inaugural tournament two years ago, was third with 674, followed by Vic Frost, Australia, 638; Gilbert Martens, Belgium, 598; Peter Wolfenden, New Zealand, 5876; Adolfo Rubis, Austria, the winner of the 1971 tournament, 4694, and Willie Rode, West Germany, 148.

O'Brien, Filion and Guzzinati won three races Saturday night.

Veteran guard Freddie Lewis paced a torrid second-half scoring drive by Indiana Pacers Saturday as they defeated New York Nets 124-103 in the first game of the American Basketball Association championship playoff.

Stilt Smiling

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With their first since 1964 when they made Minneapolis their home, the Lakers scored a record 33 points in a row and total of 69 during the 1971-72 regular season, there was no such criticism. And after the final, Happy Hairston declared:

"The big difference tonight and throughout the playoffs was Wilt Chamberlain. He showed how great he was in this final game. He was not up to par physically, but he dominated the play on the court."

The 25-year-old basketball millionaire was named the most valuable player in the series.

Professors Say Strike Possible

HAMILTON (CP) — Ontario's university professors have responded to accusations of militarism by threatening a strike if the provincial government implements the Wright report.

The Ontario Confederation of University Faculty Associations came under fire during a weekend conference from two of its members for what they said is a strident attitude toward the draft report of the Wright commission on post-secondary education.

The confederation's executive vice-chairman, Prof. Charles Hanly, said that if negotiations with the commission and the provincial government fail, "then we may have to resort to political action."

"Suggestions have been put forward to organize a province-wide strike at the universities."

The confederation, he said, "will pressure the provincial government at all opportunities" on the commission's report. While a proposed strike is the most dramatic action considered, it must be pointed out that we've come are trying the more traditional strategies to put forward our case."

The draft report argued that higher education be more easily accessible to everyone and outlined suggestions for reorganizing the present education system.

One of the recommendations to which the confederation objects is for a new co-ordinating board to formulate policy on post-secondary education.

The commission suggests a board of 13 members, six from business and six faculty members and students, as well as a full-time chairman responsible to the government.

Prof. Hanly was replying to criticism by David Slager, professor of the Institute for Policy Analysis at the University of Toronto, who earlier told about 100 delegates that the confederation is not protesting or even asking the proper questions about implementation of the report.

Dr. Phyllis Grosskurth, a former member of the Wright commission, also said she was alarmed at the passive manner in which faculty members accepted the report.

Tradeau Tells Provinces To Act on Investments

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau says provinces that consider inadequate the federal government's draft legislation on foreign takeovers of businesses are free to act on their own.

Interviewed on the CTV television network program W-5 Sunday, the prime minister said there is "no limitation on what provinces can do in getting rid of foreign influence on corporations, on credit unions and so on.

"But what we have done is taken a responsible step which can be applied to all of Canada, which deals with one of three sectors. One is takeover, the other is direct foreign investment of companies who are here and who want to grow in their area, and the third is new capital coming in for new ventures.

"We've dealt with one of the three. . . .

"Some provinces think there's too much foreign investment. Please let them make legislation of their own and not pass the buck to us."

The proposed legislation, tabled in the Commons last week, would screen the takeover of Canadian companies by foreigners to ensure such takeovers benefit the economy.

Mr. Trudeau said in some cases takeovers will be beneficial to all Canadians.

"If they are, why should we stop them?"

It was essential that those parts of Canada which needed foreign capital to create jobs should not be deprived of it.

Cost of Living Up

The government economic review of 1971, tabled in the Commons Tuesday by Finance Minister John Turner, said the consumer price index for all items except food rose 3.5 per cent during 1971, the smallest yearly increase since 1966. Food prices, however, rose 7.9 per cent. Graph shows rise in consumer price index from 1961 to March, 1972, when it stood at 137.4. (CP Newsmap)

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — On Sunday at Westminster United Church the junior choir contributed an anthem and an offertory selection with the Misses Pearl Johnston and Penny May playing the organ and the piano in unison.

Bayside Bible Study group met at the home of Mrs. Orval of Carrying Place on Wednesday with a good attendance of members.

Honor Rolls Checked

World War I veteran, Charles Fisher, Belleville, shows Miss Olevs Wilson Trenton, the name of his son Albert, on the Westminster United Church honor roll, following dedication services Sunday morning. Also a WWI veteran N-S Wilson's name appears on the plaque bearing the Quints area volunteers who served in both wars, many of whom were in the congregation Sunday. Belleville's veterans' organizations were well represented, with ANAF Vets Jack Lowberg and Padre Bruce Humphreys. Branch 99 Royal Canadian Legion assisting Rev. John Banner with the special service. That also commemorated the Battle of the North Atlantic.

Rock Fans Wreck Empire Stadium

VANCOUVER (CP) — Empire Stadium, home of British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League, was a shambles Saturday after part of an overnight crowd waiting to buy tickets to a rock concert ran wild inside the grounds.

The lineup for the June 3 concert is Pacific Coliseum by Mick Jagger's Rolling Stones' began late Friday afternoon and by midnight had grown to 2,000.

To allow the young people access to two washrooms and to keep them from spilling onto the street, Pacific National Exhibition officials opened the stadium and turned on the lights.

Then the trouble began.

Stadium manager Marv Cavasella said more than half of the stadium's storage and equipment rooms were broken into and that the locks were shattered on 30 doors.

The manager said all public address equipment in the stadium was stolen or destroyed.

"The place is a shambles."

He described the youths as "just a bunch of animals."

There was sporadic vandalism throughout the night as the crowd swelled. Grass was torn and beer and smoked marijuana.

By the time the tickets went on sale at 9 a.m. the crowd had grown to an estimated 5,000.

During the night, youths smashed bottles in the stands and on the track and pavement.

At one point a group set fire to a soccer net but the fire was extinguished by another group.

The Rolling Stones last played at the PNE in 1966. Police at that time, frightened by the control Mr. Jagger held over the crowd, asked city council to ban the group.

Council declined but said it would tighten regulation for rock concert licences.

Relevant Programs 'Up to Broadcasters'

HALIFAX (CP) — Canadian broadcasters have been told they must accept the challenge of making broadcasting vital and stop trying to find restrictive interpretations where restriction is not intended.

The call from Harry J. Boyle, vice-chairman of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, came Saturday at the annual dinner meeting here of the Atlantic Association of Broadcasters.

Mr. Boyle said the Broadcasting Act calls for a predominantly Canadian broadcasting system but "Parliament can't make it Canadian in character; the CRTC can make it better."

Regulations could not make the system more relevant to listeners and viewers. "Only the broadcasters themselves could.

What about justification, culturally or economically, he asked, "can there be for a Canadian broadcasting system relaying American programs wholesale—most of which will be available on cable?"

Mr. Boyle said there were those who say the CRTC is wrong in its determination to move broadcasting to produce more Canadian programs.

But he was convinced "that the export drive of the big business of American popular culture has made most thoughtful men, women and especially youth, of not only Canada but of many countries, determine that the world must not be shaped by American business principles."

Stanfield On Foreign Ownership

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield says that he isn't necessarily interested in decreasing the percentage of foreign ownership in the Canadian economy as a whole.

But he thinks that there are probably "key sectors" of the economy that are not currently regarded as such in which Canada should have tougher controls on foreign takeovers.

The Conservative leader discussed the government's policy on foreign investment—tabled in the Commons last Tuesday—in an interview taped for CBC's Sunday public affairs program, Encounter.

The government brought in legislation on Thursday that would subject all proposed foreign takeovers of Canadian firms with assets of $250,000 or gross annual sales of $3 million to the possibility of government veto.

Mr. Stanfield said the government proposal would not control foreign ownership or increase Canadian participation in the economy—it was only a device perhaps to give Canada a better deal on some foreign takeovers.

What he wants, he said, is the development of a system of industrial priorities that might reveal "that there are some sections of the economy that we do not yet regard as key, but which we should, and which would involve a considerably larger exercise of controls on . . . takeovers, as we do now with the banks, for example."

Nursing Home Fire Kills Ten

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The death toll from a fire that swept through a nursing home here climbed to 10 Sunday with the death of an elderly woman burned in the blaze.

State fire and public health officials scheduled a conference today to review the safety violation record of the nursing home.

The other 31 residents of the provincially certified Carver Convalescent Centre suffered either burns or smoke inhalation in the pre-dawn blaze Saturday.

Dr. Franklin Yoder, state public health director, said a March 30 inspection of the home showed "several deficiencies that constituted a fire hazard," among them personnel not trained in the use of the fire extinguishers, no evacuation plan for residents in case of fire and no emergency lights at exits.

A follow-up investigation last Thursday indicated "most major deficiencies had been corrected," he said.

Boy's Body Found

BRANTFORD (CP) — The body of a nine-year-old boy missing since March 7 was found Sunday by Brantford police. Eric Tans of Brantford apparently fell through the ice of the Grand River while playing hockey. The body was found at Cainsville, three miles down river from Brantford.
